Separation Between Church And State

What is Government's Role in Christmas

By Ron Rehfeldt

While many people of particular religious beliefs advocate a prominent place for religion in the workings of government, the United States Supreme Court is setting a different trend by striking down school-sponsored prayer and the use of religious images by municipal governments, such as large crosses on top of public water towers.

To my way of thinking there are two good reasons that there should be as complete a separation as possible of the government and religion. The first principle is that as much as possible the activities of government agencies should serve the general interest of all the people, and never the interests of the few with clout or even a majority, if, in doing so, the interests of others are unjustly deprived them.

Many actions of government result in benefits to only the few, but the principle from which those benefits result provides for those benefits to be accessible to all in the event that they are needed. One might live out his life, for example, without needing to use a fire department paramedic, but that would not be an argument against such a public service. One may never use services of a park district, but that, in itself, would not be an argument against the establishment of park districts for the public good.

When the government sponsors religious practices, however, or uses religious symbols or promotes religious views of any kind, it is operating in a manner that by the nature of the activity excludes some, that is inaccessible to some people because their belief system differs. More important, no one is harmed if a government body -- a village board, a park district, a public library or a school district -- omits the religious practice from its program.

No person should have to pay for unnecessary public services which violate the principles of his conscience. Needless to say governmental bodies will often spend money on operations they deem necessary and which may violate the principles of one or another citizen's conscience. But government sponsored religious practices and symbols are patently unnecessary and therefore the easiest for government agencies to cease sponsoring or promoting.

To put the matter another way: No taxpayer's money should be spent on anything that smacks of promoting one religious belief system over any other. Villages should not have religious statements for their mottoes. They should not erect creches on public grounds at taxpayer expense. Park districts and libraries should not sponsor visits by Santa Claus. Schools should not sponsor concerts or plays that are strictly religious in their intention. And teachers certainly should not lead their classes in prayer.

One function of government and of tax dollars is to protect the rights of individual persons, churches, businesses, or other organizations not subsidized by tax dollars to sponsor whatever religious practices or assemblies they choose, provided, of course, that they do not result in harm to others. It is churches and families who should perpetuate their religions. It is not for government to have that role in any way except to protect liberty.

The second reason for government and religion to be separate is so that government will not have an undue influence on anyone's religious beliefs or practices. If a governmental body puts its seal of approval on a certain religion symbol or the content of a creed, it acts as one interfering with free conscience. If a representative of a government body selects one particular representation of the Nativity scene, for example, that scene presents the government view, and it may be a view very much in error according to one's religious understanding. If a teacher leads a class in a certain prayer, that prayer becomes a religious interpretation of religious faith, but that interpretation may not be in line with the beliefs of many of the students in the classroom.

Religious belief and practice should never be subject to the official interpretations of any government agency or representative of government.

Are there any exceptions? Not really, but these principles do not preclude the studies of religion as matters of history, or the presentations of music religious in nature, but as music and as ideas and with some balance of differing religious views. Nor under any circumstances do these principles prevent public officials from participating in religious ceremonies in their capacities as persons.

I believe no public monies should be spent in activities that are patently religious, and when governmental bodies do such a thing, they subject themselves to litigation and penalty by the laws of the land.

What is Government's Role in Christmas

by Dolores Woods

Every Christmas Holiday, there are numerous challenges to our tradition of celebration. Most Americans are led to believe that somewhere in the Constitution the words "separation between church and state appear." Those words do not exist, yet I must have heard the phrase thousands of times by everyone from educators to attorneys. The Constitution merely states that the Federal Government will not establish a particular religion. Because the Anglican church was set up as a totalitarian authority in England, our forefathers made sure that the Federal Government never take part is establishing a particular denomination for our country. It is so simple to understand! Somehow, over the years, the separation issue was created to discourage even remote associations between government and a Deity. In fact, the so called 'separation' issue has gone so far as to downright include persecution of our religious beliefs. Case in point when my own niece, bowed her head in an attempt to give thanks over her lunch and was stopped by her misinformed teacher!

Why would our forefathers incorporate God into almost all governmental decisions and actions if they never wanted the association? In fact, the very first schools used Bibles as text books. Every family had one and it helped children to learn group participation. At the very time the constitution was being ratified, most of the 13 colonies had established religions. Had the individual states ever dreamt the Federal Government would have had the power it has today, it is certain they would never have signed the constitution. They were protective of individual state sovereignty.

Should the traditional Christmas plays be allowed? Should songs with words implying the birth of Christ be allowed? Of course, our forefathers indeed were not anti-Christ. The constitution was meant to safeguard the rights of those observing Christmas and other religious Holidays, as well as those who do not believe.

The late Federal Judge Parsons, in his wisdom, ruled that indeed it was perfectly proper for a nativity scene to adorn the Daley Plaza without injury to the intent of the Constitution. If one studies the background and beliefs of our forefathers, one will find a very spiritual group of leaders.

PUBLISHER'S PEN

ANNETTE DIXON

A Community newspaper is a viable vehicle for many people. Just ask all the publishers of approximately four newspapers and three advertisers in this area.

As a reader you may think why would someone start another newspaper.

About 19 years ago the late VINA O'MALLY, Oak Lawn resident, wanted to accomplish her ultimate goal and that was to have her own newspaper. Vina was the founder in 1974 of Village View Newspaper and started a monthly paper.

Vina's experience prior to the year of 1974 was that she worked as editor of the Oak Lawn News which was published by Ed Roche.

It was in 1974 when I met Vina and began working for her periodically until 1983 when I purchased the newspaper from her and became publisher and editor. The paper was a solely owned newspaper until 1989.

For the past 4 years Village View Newspaper was non-existant due to a legal problem involving partnership. It was during that time I worked at various part time positions.

My work history included institute teaching for school districts 124 and 126, a marketing director for a retirement home, a part time facilitor for the USO Midway and secretary for a real estate firm and foremost the owner of ADD Flyer Delivery Service.

I'm mentioning this because these jobs not only compensated for the legal expenses I was incurring but also the jobs were broadening my scope of education.

Self-employed people have the most difficult time becoming full time employees if their self employment had been their main source of income.

In the past, I have taken courses in HOW TO GET A JOB, sessions with Operation Able for professionals and executives and often have networked with various newspaper publishers within our area. To no avail there just wasn't a job.

So if you are currently looking for work, contact me if it's in the field of desktop publishing, sales, reporting or any aspect of journalism, I may be of help to you.

On October 25th, 1993 the revitalization of Village View Newspaper became a reality after four years. It has been through the help of many people including the ADVERTISERS, WRITERS, DESK TOP PUBLISHERS and also you, the reader. Yes we all need each other to develop business, and recruit for business.

It is my desire that you, the reader relax with a newspaper or just become better informed with Village View Newspaper.

"MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL" and a many thanks to all.

LIGHT OUR HOLIDAY TREES

Your love can light a tree this coming holiday season. Your donation to the Evergreen Park Unit of the American Cancer Society in memory of or to honor someone you hold dear, will place lights on the trees located across the street from the Evergreen Park Village Hall at 94th and Kedzie Avenue.

Your $5 donation will light a single bulb; $25 lights six bulbs; $50 lights a half strand; $100 will light a string of bulbs - your gift of a "Circle of Love" to your special person.

To make a donation mail your contributions directly to the Evergreen Park Unit/American Cancer Society, Box 42683, Evergreen Park, IL. 60642.

Mayor Anthony Vacco said, "This is a wonderful way to recognize a special person in your life while your gift of love does something positive in the battle against cancer.

TWAS THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS

The Looney Tuners Band is made up of 15 women, all of whom are wives, mothers and many are grandmothers. They have been together for 25 years. There are 10 original members and five newer members. They bring fun and laughter into the lives of many, young or not so young. The original members are: Mary Kay Blake, Annette Dixon, Maureen Fineron, Carolyn Greenfield, Maureen Kalebich, our pianist Lorraine Laird, Prudence Maresso, Mary O'Sullivan, Terry Singraber and Marge Walsh. Their newer members are Joan Alfich, Lynn Carey, Josephine Harris, Genevieve Lavin and Mary Ann McCann, daughter of Mary Kay Blake.

They have performed at many schools, clubs, nursing homes, benefit shows, hospitals, other parishes, restaurants, Ford City Shopping Center, Evergreen Plaza Shopping Center and many more.

They are affiliated with St. Bede's Parish located at 83rd Street and Kostner Avenue in Chicago.

A former member of the Looney Tuners, Ginny Schultz, once wrote, "What does it mean to be a Looney Tuner? It means to perform when you are sick, perform when you have ten things going on that day, perform while the stage backdrop is falling on top of us.

Getting dressed in coat rooms, furnace rooms, storage rooms, bathrooms, hallways, stairways, offices in restaurants, classrooms in schools and once in the back of a church. The show must go on."

Even though things have been frustrating a bit at times all of the performers in the group have shared countless laughs, and happy memories. They are there for each other in the good times and bad. They are friends and comrades forever. The motto of their group is "Once a Looney always a Looney."

Their special Christmas show, a take off of the Night Before Christmas is narrated by their very own Christmas elf, Mary Ann McCann. There are two mischievous children who hope Santa will forgive them for their prankish tricks. Of course, they cannot sleep so they tip toe into the living room and fall asleep in front of the Christmas tree dreaming of Christmas joys. As they sleep, the characters from fantasyland march in. While they are sleeping visions of sugarplums dance in their heads. Of course, the most famous reindeer of all makes an entrance, followed by Santa. Santa must have forgiven the children for being naughty because he brought many Christmas toys in his pack for them. All of the dolls come to life and sing and dance.

What is this we hear out in the show? Why it's Frosty the Snowman coming to visit. The children wake up to find all of the toys. They're so happy they want everyone to sing. Happy Christmas to all and to all a good night.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Busy Oak Lawn Professional Offers Holiday Menu Tips

By Anita Anderson

Grace K. Morris of Oak Lawn is one of the few professional women who have managed to combine marriage, motherhood, grandchildren and a rewarding career as a professional astrologst and psychotherapist and president of Company Profile.

For those of us who may not be as motivated as Morris, she is considered by many who have sampled her cooking, to be a gourmet cook. Grace has published several books including Working With Businesses, The School of Psychological Astrology and books on entertaining.

The recipes and menus suggestions she offers were derived from menus she served at a recent Stress Management Workshop. Attendees requested copies of the recipes so Morris is able to share them with Village View readers.

If her present activities weren't enough to keep even the most energized super woman busy Morris is planning the seventh annual World Conference of Astro Economics in Singapore set for March of next year.

CHICKEN TETRAZZINI

1 3-lb. chicken
2 c. hot water
1/2 lb. broad egg noodles or spaghetti
2 tsp. salt
2 Tbs. butter, melted
2 Tbs. grated Italian cheese
1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms
2 Tbs. butter
1/2 tsp. salt
pepper
several slivers garlic
salt, pepper and garlic

Steam chicken in hot water 40 to 50 minutes or until tender. Save stock for sauce. Remove meat from bone and cut in 3-in. pieces. Cook noodles and put in bowl after draining. Season with 1 tsp. salt, melted butter and 1 c. sauce. Saute mushrooms in butter. Season with salt, pepper and garlic; cook 5 minutes.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Pour and spread noodle mixture in flat, buttered baking dish. Add sauteed mushrooms. Pour a little sauce over chicken and sprinkle with 1/4 c. of grated cheese. Cook about 30 minutes or until golden brown.

Sauce for Chicken Tetrazzini

1/2 c. melted butter
3/4 c. flour
1 c. warm milk or cream
2 c. warm chicken stock
1 1/2 tsp. salt
2 Tbs. sauterne or dry vermouth

Blend flour into melted butter; gradually add milk, stirring constantly. Cook until thick and smooth; then simmer another 5 minutes. Stir in salt and sauterne. Let cool for 15 minutes before pouring on top of chicken. If the sauce is too thick, add more milk.

AMARETTO COFFEE CAKE

1 c. butter softened
1 c. sugar
3 eggs
5 Tbs. Amaretto liqueur, divided
1 c. half and half
3 c. sifted whole wheat flour
1 Tbs. baking powder
1/2 tsp. baking soda
3/4 c. amaretto cookies, finely crushed
1 Tbs. melted butter

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Cream butter and sugar until fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Stir in 2 Tbs. Amaretto, then half-and-half. Sift together flour, baking powder and baking soda. Stir into butter mixture to make a smooth batter. Spoon batter into a generously buttered, 13-by-9-inch baking pan. Mix together crushed cookies and melted butter; sprinkle over batter.

Bake for 25 to 30 minutes, until cake tests clean when a toothpick is inserted in the center.

While cake is still hot, pierce the top in several places with a toothpick and drizzle with 3 Tbs. Amaretto. Serve warm or cold. Makes 12 to 15 servings.

MOCK RAVIOLI

1 lb. shell macaroni
1 large onion, diced
1 clove garlic, chopped
3 Tbs. oil
1 1/2 lb. ground beef
1 3-oz. can tomato paste
1 8-oz. can tomato sauce
1 1/2 c. water
1 4-oz. can mushroom with liquid
1 tsp. oregano
2 Tbs. parsley, chopped
1/2 tsp. Accent
salt and pepper

Saute onion and garlic in oil. Add meat; stir until brown. Add remaining ingredients and simmer one to two hours.

Next cook macaroni in boiling water and prepare filling.

Filling:

1/2 c. oil
1 pkg. frozen chopped spinach, defrosted
1/2 c. parsley, chopped
1/2 c. Parmesan cheese, grated
1/2 c. breadcrumbs
1 clove garlic, minced
1 tsp. oregano
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
1/2 tsp. Accent
3 eggs, beaten

Mix together uncooked.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Layer ingredients in a greased 3-quart casserole. First macaroni, then spinach mixture, then cooked meat sauce and repeat. Finish with meat sauce on top. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Dot with melted butter or oil. Bake for 30 minutes.

RAINBOW JELLO

2 3-oz. pkg. raspberry jello
2 3-oz. pkg. lemon jello
2 3-oz. pkg. lime jello
2 3-oz. pkg. cherry jello
1 large can Carnation milk

Coat 9-by-12-in. pan with mayonnaise. Dissolve 1 pkg. of raspberry in 1 c. boiling water. Add 1/2 c. cold water. Pour into pan and refrigerate until firm. Dissolve the second pkg. in 1 c. water; add 1/2 c. milk. Cool and pour over first layer. Continue until last pkg. of cherry. Be sure each layer is firm before adding the next. Cut into small squares and serve.

CHOCOLATE GRAND MARINER CAKE

1 c. sugar
1/2 c. butter, softened
2 oz. baking chocolate
1 tsp. vanilla
2/3 c. sifted flour
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 c. chopped pecans (more, if desired)

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease an 8-in. spring form pan; dust with cocoa. Beat eggs until lemon colored. Add sugar and beat well. Stir in softened butter, baking chocolate and vanilla. Add flour and baking powder. Mix in pecans and spread in pan. Bake 30 minutes.

When baked, remove from pan and place on a decorative plate. Soak with Grand Marnier while still warm. Frost with fudge frosting.

FUDGE FROSTING

2 egg yolks
1/4 c. butter

GRACE MORRIS

2-oz. baking chocolate, melted
1 tsp. coffee or milk
1 tsp. vanilla
1 c. confectioner's sugar, sifted

Beat first four ingredients. Add sugar and beat until creamy.

APRICOT COFFEE CAKE

1/4 c. warm water
1 pkg. active dry yeast
2 c. flour
1/4 c. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
3/4 c. butter or margarine
1 egg
1 can of apricot, prune or poppy seed filling

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Measure warm water in cup; add the yeast and stir until dissolved. Let stand. Combine flour, sugar and salt in a large bowl. With pastry blender or fingers, cut in butter until mixture is crumbly. Add egg and yeast and blend. Shape into a ball and roll out. Spread the filling; then roll up the long end. Place in a circle on a greased cookie sheet. With a sharp knife, make 1/2' deep cuts in dough. Bake 25 to 30 minutes.

APRICOT ANGEL DESSERT

46-oz. can apricot nectar
7 Tbs. corn starch
1/2 c. sugar
one angel food cake
2 1/2 pints whipping cream
2 Tbs. sugar

Put apricot nectar in large saucepan. Add corn starch and sugar; cook until thick. Tear up angel food cake into pieces and put in 9-by-13-in. glass baking dish or fancy glass serving bowl. Pour thickened nectar, slightly cooled, over cake in dish. Refrigerate. Whip cream and sweeten with sugar. Or use Cool Whip to top cake before serving.

FIRE UP SUPER BOWL FANS WITH CHILI

Super Bowl parties call for casual fan fare that is easy to serve, eat and clean up after. A great-tasting chili -- served with all the help-yourself toppings that make it such a fun food to eat -- is a winning game plan. Chili scores points, too, for its make-ahead option, since it only gets better when prepared in advance and reheated.

This year, bowl 'em over at halftime with two crowd-pleasing new chili recipes created by the Pace® Picante Sauce test kitchens.

CHUNKY MUSHROOM SUPERCHILI

1 pound lean ground beef
2 cups coarsely chopped onions
1 green pepper, coarsely chopped
3 cloves garlic, minced
2 cans (16 ounces each) whole tomatoes, undrained, coarsely chopped
1 can (15 oz each) kidney beans, rinsed and drained
1 pound fresh mushrooms, quartered
1 cup picante sauce
2 tablespoons chili powder
2 teaspoons ground cumin
1 1/4 teaspoons salt
3/4 teaspoon dried oregano
Optional toppings: Cream, chopped avocado, shredded cheddar cheese, chopped onion

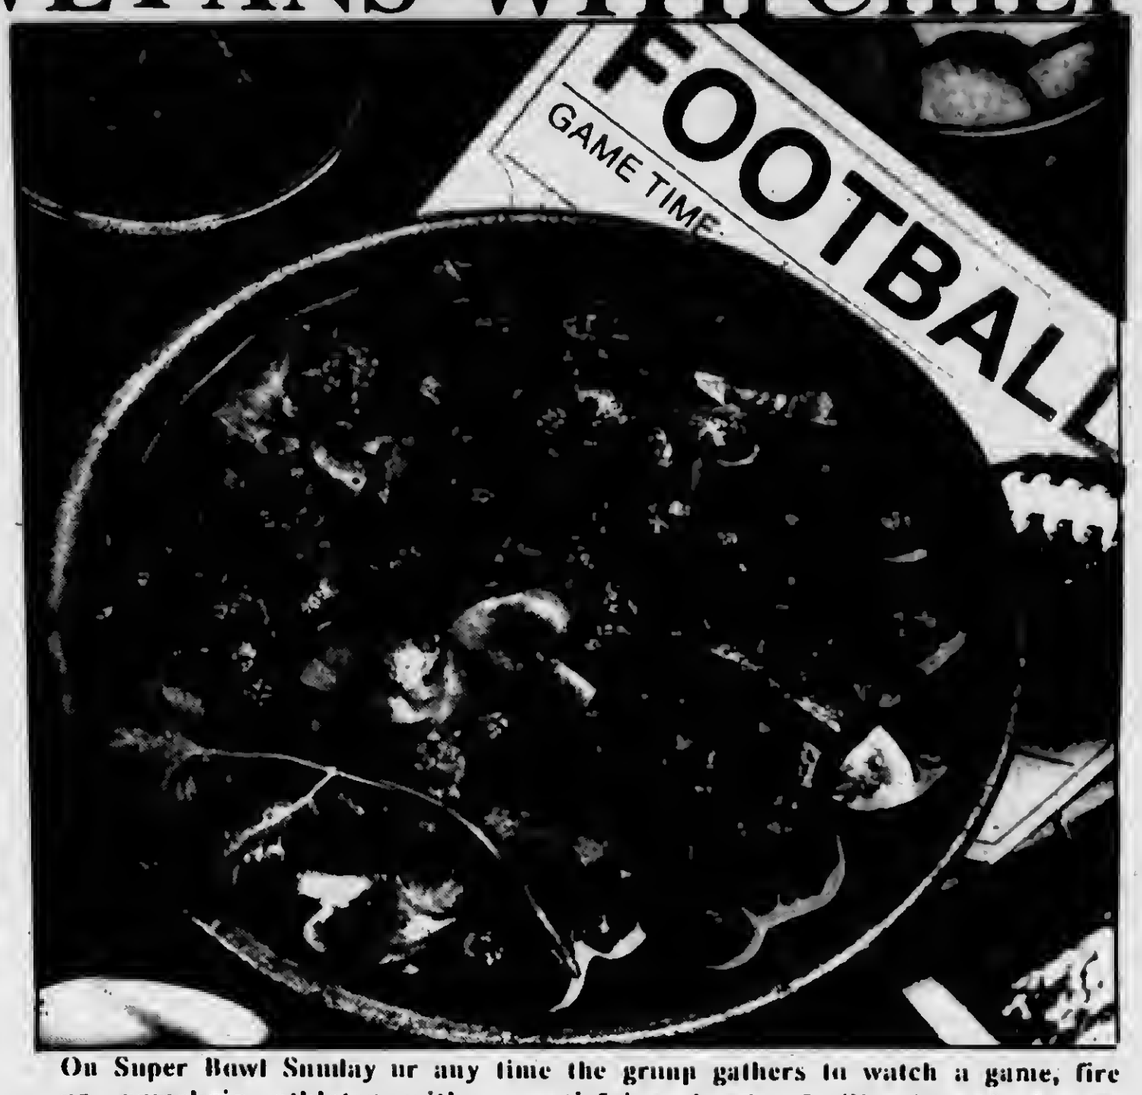
In large saucepan, brown ground beef with onion, green pepper and garlic; drain. Add remaining ingredients except optional toppings; mix well. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Ladle into bowls; top as desired and serve with additional picante sauce. Makes 8 servings, about 9 cups chili.

TWO-BEAN PICANTE CON QUESO CHILI

2 cups coarsely chopped onion
2 green peppers, chopped
1 tbs. vegetable oil
1 can (28 oz.) whole tomatoes, undrained
2 cans (15 oz. each) kidney beans, rinsed and drained
1 can (15 oz.) black beans, rinsed and drained
1 cup picante sauce
2 tsp ground cumin
1/2 pound process cheese spread, cubed
1/4 to 1/2 cup chopped cilantro, as desired
Optional toppings: Sour cream, chopped tomato, chopped green onions

In large saucepan, cook onion, green pepper and garlic in oil until onion is tender but not brown. Add remaining ingredients except cheese spread and optional toppings; mix well. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally and breaking up tomatoes. Remove from heat.* Add cheese spread, stirring until melted. Stir in cilantro. Ladle into bowls; top as desired and serve with additional picante sauce. Makes 8 servings, about 9 cups chili.

* At this point, chili maybe covered and refrigerated or frozen. To serve, reheat and continue as recipe directs.



On Super Bowl Sunday or any time the group gathers to watch a game, fire up armchair athletes with a satisfying bowl of Chunky Mushroom SuperChili. Just the ticket for fueling hungry fans, it teams ground beef, vegetables and beans with Texas-style seasonings and the one-of-a-kind, garden-fresh flavor of picante Sauce.

Italian Recipes Come From Family Estate In The Heart of Sicily

By Anita Anderson

Sometimes you come across a book that could grace the shelves of an art store. "The Heart of Sicily" is such a book with its breathtaking photography taken in the heart of Sicily and at Regaleali, the Tasca family's estate and winery.

I had the pleasure to meet the author of the cookbook, Anna Tasca Lanza recently at lunch at Scoozi, an Italian eatery in Chicago's outer Loop.

She was on a several-city tour touting the book and we sampled some of the recipes she has compiled for her latest endeavor, not to mention this is her first book.

Lanza is the eldest daughter of Count Giuseppe and Countess Franca Tasca d'Almerita. Most of the fine food she features in her book was prepared at the estate and the ingredients came from its gardens.

Lanza describes one New Year's Eve in Regaleali where she says it snows, but rarely stays. In 1981 it was an exception and the author, her husband, Paolo and her parents along with her sister, Costanza were together for three days because of being stranded with the snow.

Costanza made her famous Minestra Di Fagioli or Cranberry Bean Soup one night. Following is the recipe.

CRANBERRY BEAN SOUP

1 pound dried cranberry beans
1 large onion cut into chunks
1 stalk celery cut into chunks
2 carrots sliced
1/4 pound pancetta, chopped (Italian meat similar to bacon)
2 garlic cloves, minced
2 cups peeled, seeded and chopped tomatoes, fresh
1/2 cup chopped fresh parsley
1/4 pound spaghetti cooked al dente
salt to taste
black pepper to taste
1 garlic clove, minced, for garnish
olive oil for garnish

Soak the cranberries in cold water to cover overnight. Drain and place in large pan with onion, celery and carrots. Cover with water, bring to boil, lower heat and simmer until berries are almost done, about one hour. Sauté pancetta until it renders its fat. Add garlic cloves and sauté. Add tomatoes and parsley and cook 15 minutes.

Remove 2 cups of beans from pan and puree in blender or food processor. Stir puree back into soup. Add tomato mixture and the spaghetti to the soup. Season with salt and pepper. Cook soup to warm it through. Garnish with minced garlic and a stream of olive oil. Serves 8

SALSA PIC-PAC
Chunky Tomato Sauce

1 large red onion, coarsely chopped
2 garlic cloves, minced
1/4 cup olive oil
2 pounds ripe tomatoes, peeled and coarsely chopped
1/2 cup basil leaves, torn
1 teaspoon sugar
Salt
Black pepper

Sauté the onion and garlic in the olive oil in a saucepan for 2 to 3 minutes, until slightly golden. Add the tomatoes and cook, stirring, for 2 to 3 minutes. Reduce the heat and add half the basil, the sugar, and salt and pepper to taste. Partially cover the pan and continue to cook 10 to 15 minutes, stirring occasionally, until the sauce thickens. The time it takes the sauce to thicken will depend upon the variety and ripeness of your tomatoes. Taste and adjust the seasonings. Add the remaining basil. This makes about 3 1/2 cups of sauce.

While there are still plenty of fresh tomatoes, we make a chicken dish with them Galletto al Pomodoro.

The tomatoes cook down to a thick sauce that has all the flavor of summer in it. As with the pic-pac, you can use canned tomatoes in winter, but the sauce won't be quite as satisfying.

Like all vegetables, green cauliflower figures in a pasta dish, Pasta con i Broccoli Arriminati. The traditional combination of pine nuts and currants goes very well with green cauliflower, which has a somewhat stronger flavor than the white.

REGALEALI STEW
Meat with Vegetables in Broth

3 pound boneless stew meat, such as beef, lamb, or veal, well trimmed and cut into 2 to 3 inch pieces
2 large onions, roughly chopped
4 waxy potatoes, peeled and cut into chunks
1 carrot, cut into chunks
2 stalks celery, cut into chunks
1 cup chopped, peeled, and seeded tomatoes
1 large eggplant, peeled and cut into chunks
2 medium zucchini, cut into chunks
8 cups stemmed and roughly chopped greens, such as Swiss chard, escarole, kale, cabbage
Salt
Black pepper
2 beef bouillon cubes

Layer the ingredients in a large pot, starting with meat at the bottom and alternating vegetables and meat, ending with greens on top. Season each layer with salt and pepper to taste. Add the bouillon cubes and water to cover. Bring to a boil, reduce the heat, and cook, covered, until the meat is tender, about 1 1/2 to 2 hours. This serves 10 as a main course.

Expiration Dates Are Used In Credit Card Fraud

Credit card swindlers are using a new approach to commit fraud. All they need is the expiration date on your credit card.

For years, consumers have been warned about not giving out their credit card account numbers to unfamiliar individuals or companies. "Now, any information on credit cards can be used for fraud," said Brenda Cude, University of Illinois Extension consumer economics specialist.

"Swindlers who have already somehow obtained credit card account numbers simply need the expiration dates for final verification to use the card," said Cude.

People who find excessive charges on their credit card bill are often surprised to discover that the expiration date they willingly provided over the phone was the verification needed.

Consumers should be especially wary of notices that they have won a prize or are entered in a sweepstakes where money is involved.

Use caution whenever using a credit card or providing any credit information over the telephone, Cude urges.

POWERFUL PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You Who solves all problems, Who lights all roads so that I can attain my goal. You Who gives me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life You are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank You for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from You even and in spite of all material illusion. I wish to be with You in eternal glory. Thank You for Your mercy toward me and mine.

The person must say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. After 3 days: the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mentioning the favor, only your initials should appear at the bottom.

Gierach favors drug reform

by Frank Soczek

Oak Lawn attorney James Gierach is a candidate for governor in the Democratic primary. Unique to his campaign is a drug reform policy aimed at eliminating the profit motive which he perceives as the root cause of diverse social ills.

"Current drug policy worsens our crises with drugs; guns gangs, crime.prisons taxes, deficits, AIDS, healthcare, corruption. trade imbalance, and the underfunding of schools and job programs."

Gierach favors a program modeled after the British system where addicts only may obtain drugs by prescription while under the care of a physician.

"Our national drug policy must allow the medical community, rather than law-enforcement authorities. to address the medical problem of addiction. President Clinton's cabinet needs an "addiction dean" more than a "drug czar."

Gierach feels his drug reform policies will impact the proliferation of street gangs. "Drug profits are the lifeblood of gangs. Destroy the gangs by destroying the drug business through the controlled distribution of narcotics through medical authorities..."

Gierach asserts Medicaid will also benefit from the proposed reform. "With less crime. Illinois citizens will not have to continue to pay $300 million a month in medicaid bills, inflated by healthcare bills for 16,000 gunshot victims in Chicago each year."

Gierach does not advocate complete legalization of controlled substances. "Contrary to the common conception of drug legalization, criminal laws prohibiting drug possession, sale and delivery should not be repealed. Our criminal courts and law enforcement authorities must become our secondary post-crime strategy to identify drug addicts and users and to force them into educational and rehabilitation programs rather than jails."

THERE IS POWER IN MICRO BUSINESSES

by Cheri Pittman

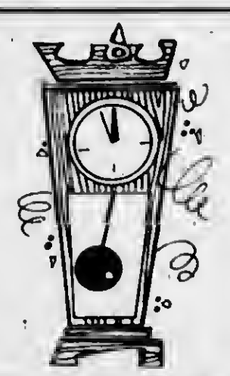
Micro businesses are booming. Women are taking their hobbies, talents, extra time, and turning them into dollars.

Micro businesses are too often grouped with small businesses that have been established for years. For a person just getting started in business that can be pretty scary. Once I mentioned going to a large networking meeting to someone that has been in business for years. I explained to them how nervous I felt, and not knowing what to do. I sat there for a while and then decided to leave. The response I received was I shouldn't want to be in a room full of people that are just getting started. There should be versatility in business to help guide you.

While I do feel there should be versatility, however, it is kind of frustrating being invited to a networking meeting as a new/potential member and not knowing what's going on. I feel there should be someone to welcome you and mentor you for that evening. Literature packs should be available explaining the network, its purpose, and various things offered to you as a new/potential member.

It is sometimes difficult for micro businesses to bid city and state contract, because of their requirements to obtain the contracts. Just because we are small in size doesn't mean we can't be productive.

Micro businesses are on the rise. We are fighting back, because we want to be recognized individually not grouped with businesses that have been in existence for ten years and up and considered a small business. We are not looking for sympathy just a little more respect for our size.



AL GRAJEK A MAN OF DREAMS

SOME PEOPLE DREAM, OTHERS MAKE THEIR DREAMS A REALITY

by Annette Dixon

Al Grajek born and raised at 74th & Cole Avenue in The South Shore area, learned "how to succeed by really trying." He delivered papers, worked with his uncle by sweeping hair off the floors and brushing hair off of shirts. After working with his uncle, a barber, Al decided to go to barber school.

In 1936 through 1938, Al attended barber school through the help of his uncle and father. After completing school Al began working as a barber with his uncle. Because of his newly accomplished hair cutting techniques, electric versus that of scissor cuts, Al was able to give more cuts in less time. The success of Al's new profession afforded him to borrow $300 from his father and become sole owner of his first barber shop at the age of 18-1/2. The location was 84th and Commercial, only three blocks from his uncle's business.

Al was happy his newly found success did not disturb his uncle's business, because their family had strong ties toward one another. His family was thrilled to know that at 18 1/2 years of age, Al was on the road to success as sole owner of his own business. After paying his debt to his father, Al bought a 1937 Pontiac in 1939. His love for cars was certainly there for in 1941, Al decided to buy a new 1941 red Plymouth with cash.

What Al was not expecting at this successful period of his life was to be drafted into the service. But in 1941, the government trained men in preparation for the military and Al's number was called for immediate draft. The years of 1941 through 1946 Al served in the Air Force in the China/ Burma Theatre. It was there when Al was wounded in service.

When Al got out of the service in 1946, he wanted to be a civilian radar controller at Midway Airport. He learned the skills in the Air Force and was sure he could secure a position with Chicago's largest airport. Unable to become employed, Al went to college at the University of Illinois in Chicago.

It was in 1948 when Al decided to work as a barber and bought a business in Roseland. Since 1948 Al continued with his profession.

In 1972, Al moved to Worth, IL and developed a barbering business built on special rates for veterans. He also gave special rates to active service men in the area. Presently, at $4.50 the rates are the same for all except seniors. Senior Citizen haircuts are on Tuesday and Wednesday for only $3.75.

Al Grajek's Veteran's Barbershop is located at 6435 West 111th Street, Worth, Il.

Editors note: Al agreed to do this story if I would mention the need for completion of the Eternal Flame Veterans War Memorial. It will take only $17,000 to pay the sculpture's final payments for the eternal flame's brilliant steel composite. The Veterans War Memorial is located at 111th & Harlem Avenue and serves as a history lesson for those who visit.

Every holiday season I see and hear the rumble of steel and the agony of accidents!

My experience is to be in and out of my automobile many times per day. In sales and publishing I need to be in direct contact with many people.

During holiday season, it would help to think before stepping on the accelerator.

Remember the cliche that "haste makes waste."

Too many people are rushing to get home from work, rushing to relax after work, rushing to go to work, rushing to go shopping and many are just rushing for the sake of rushing.

This article is being written because of the tragedies, that recently occurred.

Messrs. Alm and Lynch died needless and speeding was the cause. Remember accidents are occurring at a rate of 10 per second in Cook County. Please drive carefully and remember to slow down.

Separation Between Church And State

What Is Government's Role in Christmas?

by Len Kmiecek

Mr. Rehfeldt's article sounds logical. However, the very first statement is only half true.

Yes; the Supreme Court is, "setting a different trend by striking down school sponsored prayer and use of religious images by municipal governments," but in my 67 years I have not seen that, "many people of particular religious beliefs advocate a prominent place for religion in the workings of government."

Recognition of religion, yes; a prominent place, no.

A few religious leaders with vested interests, might like to see religious prominence in government, but overall, most Christians, Jews, Moslems and other religious people would prefer our government not to promote a particular religious preference or activity either in or out of government.

The same Federal Judge Parsons mentioned in Dolores Woods' article once told me that logic based on the wrong premise ceases to be logic.

To illustrate, he told me a story about a young boy passing a building on a warm day where three windows with air conditioners were dumping heat into the air as he passed each one.

The boy's conclusion was that if these people were smarter, they would shut off the air conditioners and then it wouldn't be so hot outside, thus they wouldn't need air conditioners.

Judge Parsons then said that such a miscarriage of logic can lead to a miscarriage of justice. Logic must be based on fact.

Let's compare Mr. Rehfeldt's opening statement with the following opening statement.

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right of the people to peaceably assemble and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances."

That is the opening statement of the Bill of Rights; the first amendment to our Constitution. It is a fact, not a half truth. I believe we should base our logic on a premise of fact, not of half truth.

Let's not be confused. We are dealing here with tradition and the taxpaying public, not religious promotion or support.

Our present Christmas season is not the result of Christians alone. People from nearly every other religion helped to make it what it is today, along with many atheists.

Governments, be they local, state or federal, have much to gain from the Christmas season sales taxes just as the businesses, churches and private individuals gain.

Like it or not, Christmas has become a part of our national economy. Remove Christmas from government and you upset our national tax base.

Mr. Rehfeldt, you could start by writing Hillary and Bill and ask them to remove the Christmas trees from all White House public property.

To say no one is harmed by complete separation of church and state is nonsense - everyone is harmed, even the atheist.

Whenever you denounce a symbol of morality, religious or otherwise, you open the door to holocaust. This nation needs religion, all religion, more now than at any other time in it's history.

After World War II we were afraid of nuclear attack. Today, we are afraid of our own drug-crazed gang bullets.

At the same time you wish to eliminate religious images, how do you feel about gang symbols and graffiti on public buildings? Which would you have us remove first?

Taxpayer's money need not be spent on nativity scenes, Menorahs, Hanukkha or Christmas trees and the like. But if government employees choose to buy these or erect them on their own time, even on public property, during breaks or off hours after work, they have the same right to religious freedom as any other taxpayer.

How far do we go?

Should we taxpayers stand the cost of repainting our water towers, redesigning our logos and government seals, reprinting our government stationery and money, replacing all of our police department's six pointed star badges and changing whatever traditional values we have to satisfy the interests of the very, very few who mistakenly feel offended? How have these symbols harmed them?

How far do we go?

A public school teacher on the taxpayer's payroll need not "lead" school children in prayer on "company time." But to deny the child his or her right to say grace before lunch, whatever the religion, is the child's first lesson in communistic, fascistic, Hitler-like "thought control."

How far do we go?

Do we sterilize our nation's religious recognition so that our future generations have no tradition or family values at all?

How far do we go, Mr. Rehfeldt? Paganize our Federal government?

No. your views about this, like those of thankfully very few others, is a case of miscarried logic.

Oh yes, have a Merry Christmas, no matter what your religious beliefs.

THE LEGALIZATION OF MARIJUANA

by Dolores Woods

There is a great deal of discussion concerning the legalization of marijuana. I certainly don't take the stance of a Carrie Nation, however, it must be accepted that marijuana creates behavior modification. Why would anyone bother using it unless it altered one's condition? The most common argument for legalization is that alcohol too, affects behavior. This is absolutely true. Alcohol is responsible for untold damage to the American family. It is responsible for broken homes, vehicular accidents, (resulting in death and dismemberment in many cases), and numerous other health related conditions. So why add marijuana to the list? Medical science has yet to determine that smoking is a danger to one's health. To my knowledge marijuana is a substance that folks are smoking.

I have heard the suggestion that heavy duty drugs like cocaine, heroine, crack, methamphetamines, LSD and angel dust, make marijuana seem insignificant. The most prevalent argument around addresses the question of court overload with simple marijuana cases. Proponents claim, legalization would ease the burden on the court system. So would legalization of burglary! With all the heavy duty murders, rapes, robberies and other violent crimes clogging up our courts, why not just legalize something simple as burglary? It is a grossly superficial argument. We are camouflaging our problems with the legalization argument.

I do feel that marijuana may possibly have medical application and I can agree with its use only in those cases where medical practitioners feel it is necessary.

It all boils down to an ethical crisis and the fact is that if we don't get our crime, alcohol and drugs problems under control, we will lose our nation. Legalizing another drug for convenience sake is just not contributing to resolving the moral atrophy over taking this country.

Smoking Marijuana Stinks Good

By Ron Rehfeldt

Smoking stinks. But the tobacco industry flourishes, receiving huge subsidies even from the government.

Tobacco is one of the most insidious, cruel and pervasive destroyers of human life, but people go on smoking it and chewing it.

It's deep-rooted tradition in our society. It's accepted. Mothers may smoke in their cars with their babies belted in their safety seats next to them. What stupidity.

Drinking alcoholic beverages stinks too. Alcoholism ruins human life and families. People who have been drinking too much alcohol get into their killer cars or trucks and drive off to murder other people. But our society puts its stamp of approval on people drinking alcoholic beverages. Government permits public houses to sell the bane of society, as long as government gets its cut of the monies. Oh, we have laws against excessive drinking and against driving drunk. And we have laws against drunks beating their wives and children.

But everybody knows the truth: Smoking tobacco and drinking alcohol have our society's stamp of approval.

Car exhaust fumes stink also. Automobiles-- all vehicles using the internal combustion engine-- are one of the most destructive inventions of our society. People mobilize themselves against waste-to-energy burners, but the same people do nothing about cigarettes and cars fuming their lethal emissions into the air of our children.

There are many other ingredients in our society that stink very bad, but we do not have laws against them, though perhaps we should. Sugar is very bad for us. So is animal fat. Television programs are very dangerous to human health. Gambling is a wasteful, harmful and addictive activity.

The list goes on. But what really stinks the most in our society is human stupidity. Most of us are not nearly as bright nor sagacious as we like to think we are.

In many respects, we humans stink, especially we Americans.

So, of course, we are bound to have laws against some practices that make no sense whatsoever--like the smoking of marijuana.

For some people--and I do emphasize SOME people-- smoking pot is beautiful. More significantly, it is special. I do not know any statistics on the matter, but I wager that most pot smokers do not smoke more than three times a day. Well, you respond, three times a day is three times too many. People should never smoke pot because it makes them high, reduces their abilities to function, destroys their brain cells, hurts their relationships with others.

I advocate that people have the legal access to and use of marijuana that is permitted to them to tobacco, alcohol, sugar, animal fats, internal combustion engine fumes, television and all the other destructive elements in our lives.

I advocate that it's smoking be restricted to private places--let people smoke pot in their homes or in other people's homes who permit it or in private mary jane rooms in taverns, restaurants, dance halls and the like.

There are no arguments against the use of marijuana by consenting adults. Domino theories about smoking pot leading to other drugs are red herrings.

When our society gets smart enough and wise enough to recognize that activities such as pot smoking are substantially less harmful and perhaps substantially more beneficial than these other elements, then we will have made a stride toward behaving intelligently.

Especially if we can reduce human stupidity and eliminate from our behavior some of these other things that really stink, stink much more to the nose of God than it is at all conceivable that smoking pot does.

CHILDREN'S ABILITY TO BELIEVE IN SANTA CREATES SENSE OF MAGIC AND WARMTH FOR FAMILY HOLIDAY

Magical thinking and belief in Santa Claus can help children--particularly younger ones--meet their own needs to see the world in a positive light, according to experts at Loyola University Medical Center.

Suspending rational thinking allows a mythical Santa to produce and deliver gifts and enables children to see their parents as loving adults and perfect role models, said Loyal child development specialist Carey Halsey.

"The pre-school years are predicated on magical thinking," Halsey said, adding that children too soon learn about violence, divorce and life's other harsh realities.

Even though families tend to perpetuate the Santa myth as the child develops and grows older, says Dr. Sidney Weissman, he sees no harm being done. Dr. Weissman is Director of Outpatient and Emergency Psychiatry at Loyola.

"If the myth of believing in Santa were dangerous, there would be a lot of damaged souls out there," Weissman said. "Most cultures have developed a way of acknowledging the specialness of children."

However, he and other experts advise parents that as children begin to question Santa's existence, each child's situation should be handled differently.

"If the child is asking the question of whether or not there is a Santa Claus, then most likely he or she is ready to handle the answer," said child psychiatrist Osama El-Shafie. Dr. El-Shafie is Director of Pediatric Consultation Liaison Program at Loyola.

He said to ask the child, "what do you think?" to gauge the stage that the child has reached with his or her belief in Santa.

"Each child's level of reasoning develops at different rates.

"Find out if the suspicion is concrete or not," El-Shafie said. "The child may be really asking for confirmation that Santa Claus is real."

Some people indicate that parents should not perpetuate the myth of Santa because, from the child's perspective, the child will feel the parents have lied. Halsey disagrees.

"They (informed children) want to be a part of the myth with the younger children in the family, and they are usually not angry," Halsey said. "They are just happy to find out because they were afraid to tell they did not believe anymore."

Children who say they feel betrayed by the Santa tale are most likely using the Santa complaint as a framework for expressing something larger.

"If a child has a problem with being misled, it usually indicates that something else is going on within the family," said Weissman.

Halsey said that children will eventually have to deal with tougher and harsher issues than learning Santa is only a story.

An approach in presenting Santa Claus to older children would treat him more as a fairy tale than as a myth, said El-Shafie.

"A myth is when Santa Claus becomes an actual part of a child's life," El-Shafie said. "As expectations rise, children write letters to Santa and wait for him to appear. They think he is real."

The fairy tale is an easier way for older children to relate to Santa, said El-Shafie. It acknowledges the tradition of Santa Claus, but explains that mom and dad give the gifts--not Santa.

At the same time, the fairy tale approach establishes that the Santa Claus figure remains a traditional figure during holiday festivities, even though the child is aware that Santa does not carry gifts down the chimney.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Chef's Food is the Star of His Show

By Anita Anderson

Feeding hungry diners who anticipate a great meal followed by equally great theater for not one, but two theaters could be intimidating for some chefs.

David Russell, of Oak Lawn, executive chef for the Bravo Restaurant, in conjunction with Forum Theater and the Candlelight Dinner Playhouse at 5600 South Harlem Avenue, in Summit, has risen to the challenge.

"Our aim is to create gourmet dining and offer patrons entrees, appetizers and desserts they would expect to find at a restaurant on Chicago's North Side," Russell said.

Glancing at the new Bravo menu, one notes Veal T-Bone Steak, Chicken Portofino or Tomato and Spinach Ravioli Bolognese as examples.

Appetizers included: Pan-fried Mozzarella, Chef's Pate or Spicy Crab Cake, for starters.

The restaurant can seat 80 diners who then go on to enjoy the production at the Forum Theater.

"We change both menus every four months. I try to adapt the menu to seasonal favorites and what is available," Russell said.

Russell estimates that as many as 4,500 diners are fed at Candlelight each week. As in the case of the Bravo menu, he has upscaled the dishes but has kept such favorites as the lasagna and fresh fish.

Russell heads a staff of about 40.

He develops all of the recipes and, on a day-to-day basis, tastes the sauces and stocks.

"We use about 3,000 pounds of fresh meat each week and 500 pounds of fresh fish," the young chef said.

He's also in charge of the food inventory, which includes ordering dishes, flatware and flowers.

As we spoke in the intimate Bravo Restaurant, a delivery person set up 24 vases with fresh, red carnations for each table.

"I'm here six days a week. It takes stamina because, like any job, there is stress. I try to get to the health club to work out whenever possible," Russell continued.

He graduated from the Culinary College at Joliet Junior College, rated one of the best in the United States.

He attended Penn State Business School and also has a degree in business.

A brother in Chicago encouraged him to come to Chicago where he enrolled at Joliet.

"I decided I preferred to be in the kitchen rather than in sales. Cooking is my first love and hobby," the chef added.

"I combine classical French cooking with Italian and Asian influence. At one time, I was the chef at two upscale restaurants in the south suburbs of Chicago, which included Eughie in Homewood."

I love to try other cooking and make it a point to eat out so I can see what other restaurants are doing."

To relax, Russell said he enjoys cooking for friends at this home and prefers grilling.

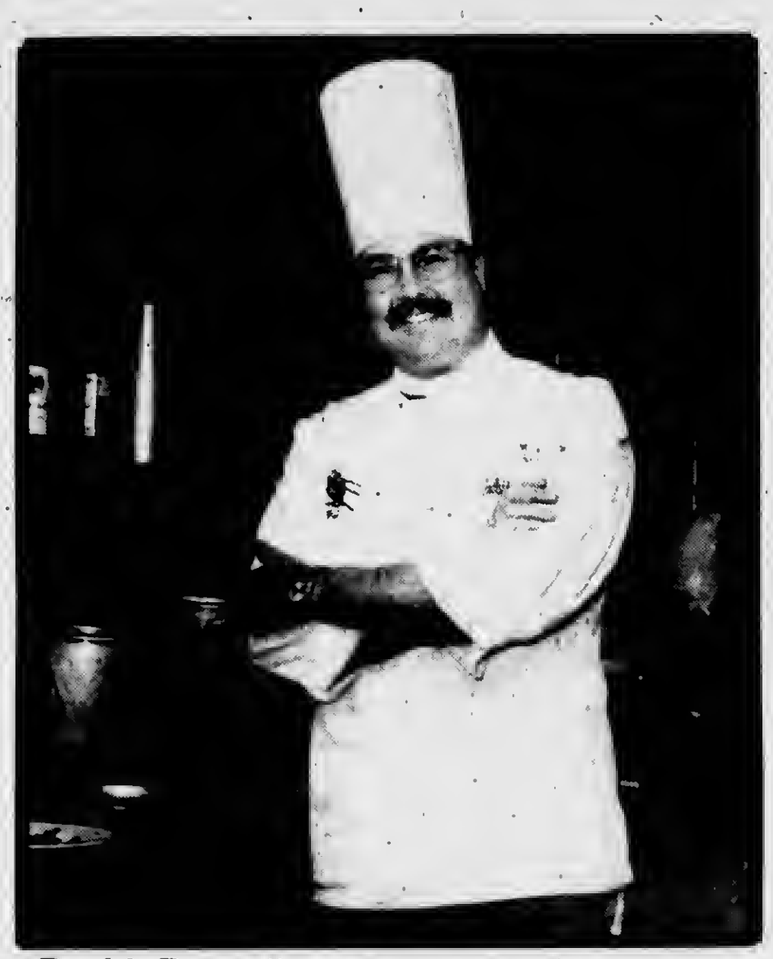
"Some people say they are intimidated when it comes to cooking for me.

Russell also belongs to the Chicago Chefs D'Cuisine Association, Inc., in Chicago.

The group is the oldest such organization for chefs in the country and was formed in 1929.

Reservations at Bravo are available by calling (708) 496-3000.

Following are two fish recipes Russell has created, which can be used for any special dinner party.



David Russell, executive chef for the Bravo Restaurant in conjunction with the Forum Theater and the Candlelight Dinner Playhouse in Summit, serves up to 4,500 people each week.

HALIBUT PUTTENESCA FOR 4

Four 6 to 8 ounce Halibut loin steaks
for sauce:
1/4 cup sliced green olives
1/4 cup sliced black olives
1 teaspoon chopped garlic
4 anchovy filets
1/8 cup capers
1 teaspoon fresh Basil, chopped
1 teaspoon crushed red pepper
4 cups diced tomatoes and juice
1 ounce sherry wine
salt and black pepper to taste
1/4 cup seasoned flour
4 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons olive oil

To make sauce:

Saute garlic, anchovy, capers and black and green olives in olive oil until garlic just starts turning brown. Deglaze pan with sherry wine, add tomatoes, Basil and Crushed red pepper and let simmer on stove at low heat for one hour, stirring regularly.

For Halibut:

Dredge fresh or thawed Halibut in seasoned flour. In a saute pan, add butter. When butter is hot, saute Halibut until golden brown on each side. Finish in oven for eight to ten minutes depending on thickness of the fish.

Top with sauce and garnish with fresh chopped Italian parsley.

MARINATED SWORDFISH WITH GREEN PEPPERCORN SAUCE FOR 4

Four 6 to 8 ounce swordfish steaks salt and fresh ground black pepper juice of two limes
1/2 cup pineapple juice
4 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons olive oil
1/4 cup seasoned flour
4 tablespoons green peppercorns in brine
2 tablespoons cognac
1/2 cup heavy cream

For fish:

Sprinkle with salt and pepper and marinate in lime and pineapple juice for at least 30 minutes. Heat 2 tablespoons butter and oil in saute pan. Flour swordfish steaks and saute 4 to 5 minutes on each side until brown. remove from pan and keep warm.

For sauce:

Using same pan, add remaining butter and saute drained peppercorns. Add cognac and flame. Stir in heavy cream and taste for seasoning. Cook for 4 to 5 minutes to reduce sauce, then pour over fish.

This is delicious with fresh steamed vegetables and rice.

MELANZANE A COTOLETTA
Breaded Eggplant Cutlets

2 pounds eggplant, trimmed and peeled
Salt
1 cup flour
Black pepper
3 eggs, beaten
1 1/2 cup fine breadcrumbs
Oil, for frying

Cut the eggplants lengthwise into 3/4 inch slices, salt them, stack them in a colander, and weight them. Allow the eggplant to drain for at least 30 minutes, but preferably for 1 hour.

Put the flour into a shallow bowl and season it with salt and pepper. Put the eggs into another bowl and the breadcrumbs into a third. Dip each slice of eggplant first in the flour, then the eggs, and finally the breadcrumbs. Set aside in a single layer until all the slices are coated.

Heat 1 inch of oil in a deep sauté pan until it sizzles when you test it with the edge of a slice of eggplant. Fry the eggplant in batches without crowding the pan, drain on paper towels, and serve hot. This serves 8 to 10 as a side dish.

Microwave Cookbook Focuses on Nutrition

By Anita Anderson

Before you say, oh, another recipe book on microwave cooking, take a look at Microwave to Your Heart's Content, by Norma Schonwetter, an Oak Park, Michigan resident and cooking instructor.

The book clears away the usual confusion about low-calorie, low-fat and low-cholesterol recipes and shows the reader how the microwave facilitates healthy eating by eliminating fat from cooking while retaining more nutrients.

All of the recipes follow the guidelines of the American Heart Association and USDA, and they actually taste good and are appealing to the eye!

If you want to use your microwave for more than just heating coffee or cooking a veggie, this book is for you.

The book includes symbols alongside each recipe indicating whether the recipe is extra-low fat, low calorie or extra-low cholesterol.

The recipes have been kitchen-tested, include all of the important nutritional analyses, and is packed with cooking tips and low-fat substitutions.

Each chapter is introduced by an easy-to-read information-packed chapter. For example, preceding the dessert section, Schonwetter gives microwave hints for desserts like pies, cakes and even cookies.

Did you know that to toast nuts, you place one cup in a microwave pie plate and microwave on high for five to seven minutes, stirring every two minutes. Then cool.

To order the Microwave to Your Heart's Content, call (800) 43-MICRO.

For only $12.95, you get a 20-page, soft cover book, containing 250 tested recipes.

FRENCHY FISH FILLETS

1 pound fish fillets
1/4 cup low-calorie French dressing
1/2 cup cornflake crumbs
Paprika

Divide fillets into four servings. Dip fish in dressing and coat with crumbs. Place in microproof 12x8 inch baking dish. Sprinkle with paprika. Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH for four minutes, or until fish flakes easily with a fork.

Yield: 4 servings.

CHUNKY BEEF CHILI

1/2 cup each chopped: onion, green pepper
1-2 cloves garlic, minced or crushed
1-1/4 pounds boneless trimmed beef round, cut in 1/2-inch cubes
1 14-1/2 to 16 ounce can no salt added stewed tomatoes
1/2 (of 6 ounce) can tomato paste
1 tablespoon chili powder
1/2 teaspoon dried leaf oregano
1/8 crushed red pepper flakes
5 flour tortillas
1 15 ounce can black or pinto beans, rinsed and drained

In a microproof two quart casserole combine onions, green pepper and garlic. Cover with lid or vented plastic wrap and microwave on HIGH three minutes or until soft.

Stir in beef and remaining ingredients except tortillas and beans; re-cover and microwave on HIGH ten minutes.

Stir; cover and microwave on MEDIUM (50 percent) 40 minutes or until meat is tender.

Let stand ten minutes, covered. Serve with tortillas topped with black beans.

Yield: 5 servings.

FRIED RICE

Stir-frying in the microwave reduces the fat content.

1/4 egg substitute or 1 egg
1-1/2 teaspoons water
1-1/2 teaspoons oil
1/8 cup thinly sliced green onion
3 cups cold cooked white rice
1-1/2 tablespoons reduced sodium soy sauce
1/4 cup diced cooked chicken

Combine egg substitute or egg and water in small microproof bowl, whisking to blend. Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH 45 seconds or until set, stirring once.

Break eggs into small pieces with fork; set aside. In a microproof two-quart casserole combine the oil and green onion. Microwave on HIGH, uncovered, one minute.

Add the rice to the green onion, stirring well to coat. Stir in soy sauce, diced chicken and egg pieces. Cover with lid or vented plastic wrap and microwave on HIGH two minutes; stir. Re-cover and microwave on HIGH three to five minutes, stirring each minute.

Yield: 4 servings.

STRAWBERRY RHUBARB COBBLER

Strawberries and rhubarb complement each other in texture and tartness.

2 cups strawberries, washed and hulled
2 cups sliced rhubarb, cut in 1/2-inch pieces
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup sugar and 2 tablespoons
1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 cup each: margarine, skim milk
1 egg, slighly beaten or 1/4 cup egg substitute
Cinnamon

Combine strawberries, rhubarb, cornstarch and one cup sugar in a microproof three-quart casserole. Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH about ten minutes or until fruit is thickened.

Combine flower, remaining two tablespoons sugar and baking powder in a mixing bowl. Cut in margarine with pastry blender. Add milk and egg. Mix lightly with fork until just blended.

Drop dough by tablespoons onto fruit. Sprinkle with cinnamon.

Microwave, uncovered, for 15 minutes on MEDIUM LOW (30 percent). Turn dish once during cooking.

Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

NEW ENGLAND CLAM CHOWDER

A creamy potato soup with clams and a slightly smoky flavor. To speed up the cooking, the potatoes are prebaked in the microwave.

2 small potatoes
1 tablespoon oil
1 small onion, finely chopped
3 tablespoons flour
1 6-1/2 ounce can minced clams, drained; reserve liquid
2 cups skim milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon each: liquid smoke, dried leaf thyme few grains freshly ground pepper

Wash and pierce potatoes. Partially bake on HIGH for four to five minutes or until just beginning to soften slightly; let stand to cool.

Place oil and onion in a microproof three-quart casserole. Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH two minutes or until soft. Stir in flour, clam liquid and milk.

Peel and dice potatoes; add to casserole with salt, liquid smoke, thyme and pepper.

Cover with lid or vented plastic wrap and microwave on HIGH three minutes; add clams and microwave at MEDIUM (50 percent) for five minutes or until potatoes are soft and soup thickens slightly.

Yield: 4 servings.

Alaskan Salmon is Tasty Catch

The benefits of fish in the diet come from its unsaturated fats and the beneficial effects of omega-3 fatty acids to lengthen blood clotting time, and helps prevent the abnormal blood clotting coagulation that often leads to the formation of a clot, blocking key blood vessels in the heart.

There are five species of Pacific salmon.

ROASTED SALMON WITH A MUSTARD PARSLEY CRUST

4 Alaska Salmon Steaks, 8 to 10 ounces each
3 ounces Dijon mustard
1 tablespoon chopped shallots or scallions
2 teaspoons chopped parsley
4 drops hot pepper sauce
1 cup coarse bread crumbs
salt and pepper

Preheat oven to 450 degrees.

Season the salmon fillets evenly with salt and pepper.

Mix together the mustard, shallot, parsley and pepper sauce.

Spread evenly over the top of the salmon fillets.

Pat on a coating of the bread crumbs.

Roast in a 450 degree oven for 10 to 12 minutes.

Serves 4.

SMOKED SALMON CHEESECAKE

1 1/2 pounds cream cheese
1/2 cup sugar
3 eggs
2 egg yolks
2 ounces Swiss cheese, grated
1 ounce Asiago cheese, grated
1 1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1/4 butter, melted, unsalted
1/2 red onion, sliced paper thin
20 ounces hot Alaska smoked salmon
1/2 cup olive oil
salt and pepper

In a food processor, puree the first six ingredients. Mix cracker crumbs with butter and press into spring form pan. Pour cheese mixture into spring form pan and bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Spread onions on top of cheesecake. Toss smoked salmon in olive oil and salt and pepper to taste. Layer salmon over onions on top of the cheesecake.

Makes one 9-inch cheesecake - 16 appetizer size portions.

YEAR END TAX PLANNING STRATEGIES

Miriam Wallace, CPA, MBA

The tax rules are complicated and are not getting any simpler as the recently enacted Revenue Reconciliation Act of 1993 has proven once again! The following suggestions are of a general nature. Before implementing any strategy, consult with your personal tax advisor to verify that there is not a conflict with your personal tax situation.

There are three basic rules of tax planning:

1. Realize income when your tax bracket is low.
2. Pay deductible expenses when your tax bracket is high.
3. Postpone tax whenever possible.

You should attempt to anticipate whether shifting income or expenses between 1993 and 1994 might give you a lower combined tax, a postponement of tax, or both.

The factors that might change your bracket:

1. Filing status: There are four schedules of tax rates that apply to individuals, two for single people, two for married people. Tax status determined at end of year, except for widowed individuals.
2. Income level: Big changes offer more opportunities. Marriage, divorce, job changes, retirement, illness, windfalls, one-time sales of major assets.
3. "Preference" deductions: Individuals subject to "preference" in one year, but not the next.
4. Law changes: Consider whether you are in a higher or lower bracket due to the tax law changes that were recently enacted.
5. Medicare tax: Next year the Medicare tax for 1994 will not stop at $135,000 of wages or self-employment, but will apply unlimited for the entire amount. If it is possible to receive the income in 1993, you will benefit by taking it this year.
6. Social Security recipients. Retirees in the higher brackets may want to accelerate income to be taxed at the 50% rate instead of the 85% rate.

SHIFTING INCOME is one of the most effective techniques. Cash basis taxpayers take income into account when it is received, and take expenses into account when paid. If you expect to be in the same or a lower bracket next year, you probably want to postpone income, if you expect to be in a higher bracket, you probably want to accelerate it.

Strategies for postponing income:

1. Delay collections. Postpone billing so payments will not be received until next year for self-employed.
2. Interest income. Interest on T-bills and short term bank certificates are not includible until maturity. Interest can be delayed by transferring funds to that type of account.
3. Annuities. Earnings on funds transferred to annuities are generally tax sheltered until withdrawn.
4. Dividends. Shareholders of small corporations who have control over the payment of dividends may be able to arrange payment until after end of year.
5. Capital gains. Delay the sale of assets in which you expect to recognize a capital gain until after the end of the year.
6. Installment sales. Selling property on the installment basis will enable you to prorate the recognition of the gain over the term of the installments.

Strategies for accelerating income:

1. Collect receivables. Bill early and collect!
2. IRA or retirement plan distributions. If you are over 59-1/2, make withdrawals.
3. Lawsuits, insurance claims, etc. If someone owes you taxable money, settle your dispute. You may take less, but you could make up for it in taxes.
4. Capital gains. Sell appreciated assets before end of year.
5. EE bonds. If you have deferred taxes on EE bond interest, cash in bonds and take accrued income.

DEDUCTIONS. Deductions may be reduced if adjusted gross income is too high - itemized deductions and personal exemptions are phased out above thresholds, others may be claimed only if they exceed certain percentages of AGI.

1. Bunching deductions. Allows you to adjust timing of expenses so they are high in one year, and low in next. (This is most effective if average deductions are approximately equal to standard deduction.)
   a. In odd years, prepay January interest in December.
   b. See dentist in January, June, and December in odd years, and in June in even years. Other nonemergency medical treatment can be adjusted in the same way.
   c. In odd years, prepay property taxes due the following year.
   d. Plan large charitable gifts for odd years. In 1994, separate charitable contributions in excess of $250 must be substantiated in writing from the charity.
2. Refinancing. If you have refinanced your home for the second time, you may be able to deduct any unamortized points from your first refinancing. CAUTION: Refinancing will lower the amount of interest deduction!
3. Payment by credit card. Paying an expense by credit card will make it deductible because a third party is involved.
4. Business assets. Ten thousand dollars of business assets placed in service during 1993 may be expensed, but the total cost that may be expensed for any tax year may not exceed the total amount of taxable income from the trade or business. Costs disallowed may be carried forward, however. For 1994, this amount has been increased to $17,500.
5. Bad debts. Make an effort to collect a bad debt before the end of the year. The effort should provide you with evidence that you need to prove the debt's worthlessness -- or you will collect it! Either way, you will come out ahead!
6. Prepayment of taxes. Advance payment of estimated state income tax payments will accelerate the tax deduction. Paying the final installment two weeks earlier provides the deduction one year earlier! Employees may want to have additional taxes withheld if estimates are not high enough to avoid tax penalties.
7. Shifting income to children. Annual gifts of $10,000 per year ($20,000 if you are married) can transfer a sizable portion of your estate to your children without gifts or estate tax liability. If children are over 14, the kiddie tax does not apply. Non-tax considerations often outweigh tax considerations when it comes to giving away assets to minors and relatives.

A Senior Expresses Written Fantasies

by Annette Dixon

Seniors who enjoy expressing themselves in writing are finding more time and meaning within their life. As one would think, writing is a necessity, but combined with creative thinking, imagination and an extensive vocabulary, it becomes an art.

Philip Basvic, a retired criminal defense attorney, writes under the pseudonym, Mike Phillips. His published credits include a prize-winning short story, The Locker (Talent World, Lynn, Mass.): a short story, The Debtor, which appeared in an anthology, Best Original Short Stories of 1955; a novel, The Payoff; and The Coat Holder.

For the past 15 years, Basvic has encompassed his territory of one room, 25 shelves of books, six feet of scripts, a rocker, typewriter, desk, chair and lamp. Writing seems enjoyable for Basvic since he spends approximately eight hours each day in his room writing novels, short stories, television scripts and plays.

Philip Basvic has been married to Carma for 52 years as of December 10, 1993. He has five children and ten grandchildren.

So take heart aspiring writers and brush up on your skills with a local literary group. In the words of the late Bill Strickfaden, "Workshops are the rudiment of what writing is all about! A lifetime experience is one of the best qualifications. It's never to late to learn and you're never to old to start writing."

8. Retirement plan contribution. Upper bracket taxpayers should consider making maximum contribution to 401(k) plan ($8,994). Self-employeds and small business owners should consider establishing a qualified retirement plan or making a contribution to an already existing one.
9. Club dues. Club dues for business use, which are 80% deductible this year, are not deductible at all next year. Cash basis taxpayers may want to prepay.
10. Business meals and entertainment. In 1994, only 50% of business meals are deductible. You may want to take clients out for dinner in 1993.
11. Home office deductions. Repairs to home office may be fully written off. General repairs to home may be partially deducted if you qualify under the IRS rules. However, any home office deductions are limited to the amount of income from your business.

AMENDED 1992 RETURNS:

1. Health insurance deduction. When returns were due, only 1/4 of health insurance premiums paid before June 30 of 1992 for self-employed individuals was deductible before adjusted gross income. The new law restored the premiums for the entire year. An amended return may bring a refund.
2. Employer paid education expenses. These amounts are no longer income. Employers should have given employees a new W-2 with instructions for filing an amended return.

Health Care As Facet of the General Welfare

By Ron Rehfeldt

The role of government regarding health care policy and programming is both simple and extraordinarily complicated.

It is easy to articulate the principles about the role of government in health care for people.

The development and implementation of those principles into humane and pragmatic policies and programs are, however, a very complicated matter. That development is made more difficult by the vacuous rhetoric of its self-proclaimed "free-market" opponents.

The first principle of a nation's public health care policy is that health care must not be subjected (as they have been in our country's history) to the whims of market-place economies or the greed of health-care distributors.

Quality health care should be available to everyone and it should be the concern of good government to see that it is provided.

I am not prepared here to address the merits of President Clinton's health care proposals, but I substantially agree with those proposals presented by former Representative Marty Russo - a single-payer plan of universal health care the (principal) weakness of which, in its general principles, was that it made sense. As matters are these days, we can expect that Congress will not adopt legislation that makes government policy reasonable.

I once had the privilege to hear former State Representative John J. McNamara articulate a fundamental principle of government as he saw it. He was speaking to an organization whose work was to help people better their lives in the face of health impairment.

McNamara said something like this as I remember: "It is one of the valid tasks of government to help people in need, especially when they lack the capabilities or resources to help themselves."

Both of these legislators had a solid foundation for their views. "Some day," declares the Old Testament prophet Isaiah, "Some day there will be national leaders who govern with justice. Each of them will be like a shelter from the wind and a place to hide from storms. They will be like streams flowing in a desert, like the shadow of a giant rock in a barren land. Their eyes and ears will be open to the needs of the people."

Isaiah speaks, of course, in the perspective and language of his time, but the fundamentals of his views still apply. Despite the contemptible capitalistic harangues that government welfare policies destroy incentive and family values, such policies are blessed by Isaiah, by Jesus and by God and his church. It is abominable that some people who proclaim themselves to be Christians decry as un-American the kinds of social welfare programs that are firmly rooted in Judeo-Christian values.

At least the Catholic Church, bless its sometimes wrong-headed hierarchical heart, is right on this issue.

"We have the capacity to design programs that are effective and provide necessary assistance to the needy in a way that respects their dignity," states the Pastoral Letter on Catholic Social Teaching and the U.S. Economy published in 1986. "It is evidence that not all social programs have been successful. Some have been ill-designed, ineffective and wasteful. But, we must summon a new creativity and commitment to guarantee all Americans their right to share in the blessings of our land."

In another place in the letter, the National Conference of Catholic Bishops declare, "Welfare programs should provide recipients with adequate levels of support. This support should cover basic needs in food, clothing, shelter, health care and other essentials." Amen to that!

There is no question that we have made many mistakes in our history with regard to the implementation of welfare programs. But, the general principles remain and government must strive to implement policies and programs to make quality health care available to all persons.

The Ecumenical Council of Vatican II enunciated similar principles: "The state should protect the right of children to receive an adequate schooling (and) it should look after the health of students."

It is a sad irony of our nation's history that government has not taken a primary interest in health care as public policy. In one respect, health care should be an extension of the public education philosophy. We spend billions upon billions of dollars to educate our children in public schools, one purpose of which is to empower our citizenry to be healthy, self-actualizing, contributing and participating persons in this society in which we live. We spend billions upon billions of dollars on recreational and physical enhancement programs in our park districts, we spend billions of dollars for libraries for "mental health," we spend millions of dollars on health research (I thank God for that!) and we have spent much public money on some health care programs such as Social Security and Medicare, BUT ...

As I said, the principles of the government's role in health care are simple enough.

What we need to get about doing is to develop sound policies, effective programs, appropriate criteria, standards for health education, and clear-cut procedures so that all people have available to them the quality of health care they need.

Quality health care belongs in the public sector as a matter of general welfare policy. It is heinous to subject the availability of health care for anyone to the greedy whims of capitalistic market-place standards.

What is Government's role in health care?

Dolores Woods

I saw a bumper which read: "If you think you pay a lot for health care now... just wait till it's free!" Humorous, but sadly true. Several recent polls have indicated that most Americans who feel that our health care system is not the best, also feel that Hillary's plan will tax them more and give them less. This observation is well founded. Did you know that 72 cents of welfare dollar paid out is going to some government bureaucrat to administer the program? Remember last year when our congressional heroes intervened on our behalf to save us from the cable villains. Congressmen gave flowery speeches about how we consumers were paying too much for cable and in a high profile vote passed cable regulation. My bill of $29.00 per month promptly increased to $32.75! Spare me these favors!

Unlike other countries, the cost of every Alka Seltzer, Pepto Bismol, and feminine hygiene commercial along with all over-the-counter drugs and extended nursing care are figured into our national health care costs. This certainly gives an inaccurate and skewed overview of our actual dollars spent on health care.

What can Hillary do for me? Let's see her #1 health care adviser is Ira Magaziner. He's the white House New-ager who openly confesses that he "sprinkles fairy dust" on his problems. What a dude! Washington is loaded with levitators, channelers and a first lady who discusses her troubles with Eleanor Roosevelt and they all want you to trust them with your money and your health!

Her plan is so super that civilian government workers are exempt from participation in the program until 1999 and congress may never join! Doesn't it strike you as unusual that the people pushing this program so hard are the ones allowed to avoid it? The administration also uses Canada and Great Britain as examples of success, yet both country's systems are facing a crisis in spite of the tremendous taxes on both income and consumer goods. A report several years ago indicated that the greatest number of food poisoning cases in Great Britain occurred in the public hospital! Why are so many Canadians entering the New York and Detroit areas to purchase goods and seek medical care if their system is so good? Another argument for national health care is 15% of Americans have no coverage at all. Why not address those 15% and leave the rest alone.

Why is all of the emphasis on the health care community. I don't see congress clamoring over the outrageous legal fees being charged by attorneys--but then, most of our congressmen are lawyers, not doctors. I just learned my recent visit to a car dealership was costing $69.00 an hour! My doctor charges less than that. The fact is the cost of everything has risen, yet those being targeted are members of the medical community.

For the love of God

by Annette Dixon

This issue is special to me only because I am privileged to write a story about a woman who wanted and prayed for my success with this paper.

The woman I wish to write about is a person who dedicated herself to God. The love and thanks I have in my heart for Sister Mary Ellen Dennehy I hope to express in the following story!

It was in June of 1992, while visiting Rathfarnem near Dublin, that I realized how loving Sister Mary Ellen is toward her friends and former students.

Prior to visiting Ireland, I called Sister Mary Ellen to discuss my trip. She insisted I visit the Loretto Convent in Rathfarnem.

As I was inquiring within for directions, a woman came up to me and said, "I overheard your conversation and that you are a former student of Sister Mary Ellen." I said yes. Her reply was "how lucky you are for she has a special love of all her former students.. I admire her for staying in touch with many of her students." I felt so honored that she knew Sister Mary Ellen when I was across the country.

It was first about a year ago, when Paul Andary and Roy Paquin met with Sister on her 80th birthday in Sault Ste. Marie. It will be 65 years Sister Mary Ellen has dedicated her life to the IBVM order. She still wears the habit of the traditional order I remember while attending Loretto Englewood at 65th and Stewart Streets in Chicago.

Sister Mary Ellen was my Algebra and Latin teacher during my Freshman and Sophomore years.

When various students would disrupt her class with complaints of lost articles, she would stop teaching and tend to the problem. But, before doing so, she would recite her prayer to St. Anthony in order that the person would find their lost item.

Sister comments, "I never met a kid I didn't love." Love them hard and spank them soft, was her motto. Of course, that was when she taught in grammar school and was Principal.

At Loretto, many Freshmen were frightened of her because she was very strict in the classroom.

If you saw Nunsense you could relate to her in a classroom. Sister not only scared all of the students, but received the most efforts from them. I was the only one in the classroom that would challenge her.

When she was seriously reprimanding someone, I would be hysterical at the humor she would express. I don't believe anyone in the class wanted to react the way I did for fear it meant that they would receive a detention.

Sister Mary Ellen would just look at me with a stern look. When it began to happen too many times, she called me into the hall and said, "If you think I am funny, please keep it to yourself. I have an image I have to protect."

She would also remind me as to when I was too busy day dreaming rather than listening in class. But what she didn't know is that I was studying her personality. I watched her movements, I listened for her speech pattern and waited for her humor to show through some of her teaching methods.

Sister Mary Ellen did not know what I thought of her, but I knew she was the first Public Relations person I had ever met.

In one breath, we were forbidden to dance to Elvis Presley records, and yet, she would accidently press the button and we would hear "You Ain't Nothin But A Hound Dog," as she would dance out of the recreation room.

I also remember that she wore open toed shoes when everyone else wore tied oxfords. When most sisters in the order wore regular street dress, she kept her traditional look. Yes, she showed her independence, and yet, her love for the community which she represents.

Most people who attended the Loretto Federation Teas, then Luncheons, know of her dedication for raising funds within the IBVM order and the Loretto Wheaton Infirmary. The Federation Luncheons are a sign of the past, due to a change for developing new methods of fund raising. But, just as change is inevitable, so do we look into the past.

It is within studying this woman that I too can emulate someone who I thought had a lot of independence and humor, and yet, expressed herself with complete confidence and strength to guide people with all the love she had within her.

God bless you and thank you for giving me the opportunity to enjoy school!

School Boards - An Asset Or A Detriment?

A school system operates with school buildings, teachers and equipment. Provisions for these various products are provided by actions of the school boards.

The school board members, who are elected, but unpaid, have the function of raising enough money to keep a school system working. One of their important decisions is to allocate this money to the various departments and needs of the system. Be it hiring a special education teacher, purchasing a new computer, repairing a leaking roof, new drapes for the prinicpal's office, a trampoline for the gym classes, or workbooks for a Spanish class. Where are priorities placed? Who gets the money first? Of course, if "Raindrops are Falling" on the heads of the kids in a music class, the music can go off key. The roof must take precedent.

If the basketball team needs new uniforms because the school colors were changed, does this item have priority over new flags for the classrooms? What about available typewriters and copiers for teachers to use when writing up tests and worksheets for their classes? The science teacher needs new expensive microscopes for her classes. Which have the priority? The uniforms; the typewriters or the microscopes? Often the money allocated to one purpose causes the other departments or users to suffer.

Do the members of the school board know, objectively, in all cases, where best to use their money? Not always. Although the administration has input into the board decisions, there is little or no teacher input. A more equitable and overall picture of needs should require the information presented by administration, faculty and the board. It seems to me, placing a teacher, not voting perhaps, on the board could provide this wider picture.

Thus, given all these views, a board can better present its needs for additional revenue from the residents of the community. The public should be assured that additional revenue is needed to maintain or improve high academic standards, which includes vocational training, not used for frills or non-academic priorities. Does golf fit into such a curriculum?

Little Company Announces Recipient of Humanitarian Award

Wally Phillips, WGN radio personality, is to be honored with the Mary Potter Humanitarian Award.

Evergreen Park, Illinois: The Mary Potter Humanitarian Award will be presented on Saturday, February 5, at the Sheraton Chicago Hotel and Towers where Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers is holding it's annual Crystal Heart Ball.

The Humanitarian Award honors an individual whose personal and professional accomplishments exemplify the ideals, vision and mission of Mary Potter, foundress of the Little Company of Mary Sisters, who sought to provide compassionate health care to the sick.

This year's Humanitarian Award recipient is Mr. Wally Phillips, WGN radio host and noted Chicago personality. Mr. Phillips receives the Mary Potter Humanitarian Award for his outstanding efforts on behalf of the youngest of our society's poor. He founded the Neediest Kids Christmas Fund for the children of underprivileged families who, without the Fund, would have no chance of experiencing the joys of the Christmas holidays.

In addition to founding the Fund, Mr. Phillips has been the driving force in raising the hundreds of thousands of dollars that have well served Chicago's children.

The award will be presented to Mr. Phillips by fellow entertainer, George Wendt, popularly known as Norm of the T.V. sitcom "Cheers." Wendt, who was born at Little Company, will return to Chicago to make the presentation.

Following cocktails, dinner and the award presentation, guests will enjoy dancing to the music of the Georgia Francis Orchestra.

Tickets are being offered at $175 per person. For further information, contact Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers at (708) 422-6200, Extension 5066.

Think twice before you say you'll love someone with every beat of your heart: Over a lifetime, the average person's heart will beat about 2.5 billion times.

The world population is currently growing by about 97 million people every year.

TO: EDITOR OF THE VILLAGE VIEW Letter to the Editor:

I was standing in line at the 7-11 the other day and noticed this guy in a white outfit next to the magazine rack humming "Love Me Tender," immersed in a copy of Village View. As I approached, he began mumbling about some writer named Rehfeldt talking with God.

I immediately put down my paper about Hillary and the Alien Space Baby and Checked it out for myself. Sure enough! This Rehfeldt guy was goin' on about how the Almighty preferred Marijuana smoke over alcohol, tobacco, TV etc.. "Some of these other things that really stink, stink much more to the nose of God than it is at all conceivable that smoking pot does...."

Looks like either a Pulitzer is in order or else someone should check the content of Mr. Rehfeldt's pipe.

Harry Haller

JUDGE LORETTA DOUGLAS TO ADDRESS KIWANIS CLUB OF OAK LAWN GOLDEN "K"

Circuit Court Judge Loretta C. Douglas will speak before the Kiwanis Club of Oak Lawn, Golden "K" on Wednesday, January 19, at 10:00 A.M., at the VFW Hall, located at 9520 South 52nd Avenue in Oak Lawn.

Kiwanis Club Coordinator, Ray Ristow, stated that Judge Douglas will share her expertise on the topic "The Court System".

Judge Loretta Douglas has served as a Judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County since 1984. She currently presides in a Felony Trial court of the Criminal Division. She received her J.D. in 1968 from Loyola University, and her Master of Laws in 1976 from George Washington University National Law Center.

EVERGREEN PARK PANTRY SERVES LESS FORTUNATE

SAM'S CLUB, a division of Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. is happy to announce that their associates-partners/employees of the local Evergreen Park store are proud to assist those less fortunate in the Community.

Pictured are Marge Sturm, Treasurer of the Pantry Coalition; Ann Dykstra, Director of Office of citizens Services; standing are David Redfield, Manager of Sam's and Gaines Wilson, President of the Pantry coalition. As Mr. Redfield presented a check for $500.00.

The Pantry serves a visible need in Evergreen Park assisting those less fortunate, and SAM's effort to support community projects places special emphasis on sharing and caring in the true spirit of Christmas giving.

Garden Center for the Handicapped is a small agency that provides a variety of services to people who are developmentally disabled. Located in Burbank, Garden Center draws from the surrounding areas of Burbank, Oak Lawn, Evergreen Park, Hickory Hills, Chicago Ridge, Worth and the southwest side of Chicago, and in very trying times, puts forth a very honest effort to assist the developmentally disabled individual in feeling secure and being a part of the community in which he resides.

Some four years ago, in an effort to assist people with disabilities and their families, Garden Center opened a residential component to their day program to meet the needs of the more severely limited developmentally disabled person. This, hopefully, would allow the 15 persons to reside in some security and protection while learning to meet many of their own individual needs and goals.

This program is licensed by the Illinois Department of Public Health and funded by the Illinois Department of Public Aid as an intermediate care facility for the developmentally disabled for 15 persons or less. This makes this program part of the infamous Medicaid system of the State of Illinois. This has become a fairly expensive program to operate in order to meet the regulations and requirements of both the Illinois Department of Public Health and the Illinois Department of Public Aid. But, the level of care provided and the goals reached by the individuals in the program fully exceed the cost of the program.

The Governor and the Department of Public Aid, using great vision and wisdom, have found a way to make it even more difficult and, in fact, at this point, quite impossible to continue to operate programs of this type with the impact and meaning that they have for people with disabilities, i.e., developmental disabilities, upon the community. They have decided to unequivocally, across the board, cut the rates which pay for this facility. Most facilities, currently, are not being funded at a level that pays all the bills and must do independent fund raising, etc., in order to meet these costs. This should not be. The types of cuts called for by the Governor and the Department of Public Aid may cause many small facilities that are community based to cease doing business. Where would the individuals living in the facilities go without family or friends and without another place to live if this happens? Apparently, the Governor and the Department of Public Aid have some grand plans they have yet to share with us, the providers of services to people with disabilities, i.e., developmental disabilities. The 10% cut in rate on intermediate care facilities for people with developmental disabilities would devastate our facility and would devastate the facilities of other agencies in the area who provide the same services.

To speak a little more about Garden Center, we have been in business for some 35 years, are a non-for-profit corporation, and are governed by a Board of Directors made up of the parents and guardians of the people with developmental disabilities who we serve. We provide day programs that include developmental training, vocational services, special recreation, and a number of adjunctive services that assist the developmentally disabled person and his family. We currently provide services to 60 individuals on a daily basis in our day and residential programs and to another 120 people in the area in our Special Recreation Department. The developmentally disabled would miss a great deal of opportunity to become productive persons within their community if Garden Center and agencies like it did not exist for the purpose of providing these drastically-needed residential services.

Please, take a look at the Governor and the Department of Public Aid and help us right a very wrongful doing that will dramatically affect the lives of people with disabilities. Remember, this is a governor who said kids, not concrete; this is a governor who said he wants to be fiscally responsible to the citizens of the State of Illinois. I would think that adequately funding facilities that provide services to people with developmental disabilities is a start in serving people, not concrete, and is being fiscally responsible to the agencies who, for many, many years, have provided these services to the State of Illinois at a cost much less than the state can do itself.

If you have any questions or concerns regarding this correspondence, please feel free to contact me at your earliest convenience.

Respectfully yours,
Joseph Wesbrook
Executive Director

THE FACTS AS WE NOW KNOW THEM

- The Illinois Department of Public Aid intends to cut Medicaid rates to hospitals, geriatric facilities, and facilities for the developmentally disabled.
- The rate cuts will result in Medicaid spending being reduced by $280 million.
- The State's budget deficit, which the cuts are supposed to be alleviating, will continue to be over $1 billion at the end of this fiscal year.
- General Assembly members in June 1993 put their votes on the line supporting what they believed was an equitable compromise for raising revenues and paying providers for services rendered.
- The cigarette tax increase and new tax on other tobacco products have generated revenues in line with what they were projected to do in the June discussions. In fact, if the estimates are off at all, it is because the taxes are generating higher revenues than projected.
- The Joint Committee on Administrative Rules in October suspended a rule filed by the Department of Public Aid to cut rates for facilities for the developmentally disabled. JCAR stated, as its reason for doing so, that the rules clearly violated legislative intent.
- The rules now being proposed by the Department of Public Aid clearly violate the same legislative intent as those filed in the fall and suspended by JCAR.
- The Association offered its assistance to the Department of Public Aid numerous times. The budget problem was recognized and Association members were willing to work together to find a solution. The offers were never accepted.
- Providers cannot sustain mid-year cuts nearing, and in some cases, surpassing 10%. Reductions in support operations must be made and, in some instances, services will be entirely eliminated as facilities close.
- The Joint Committee on Administrative Rules and the entire General Assembly are the only possible source of support for providers. The Governor is unwilling to consider provider concerns as evidenced by the total lack of provider input into his decision.

Headlights on

Effective January 1, 1994, motorists will have a new law to observe that was passed by the state legislature last summer.

Your headlights must be ON when you are using your windshield wipers.

You MUST have your headlights turned ON when you are using your windshield wipers in inclimate weather, such as, rain or snow.

This has proved to be effective in the prevention of accidents in other states, such as Florida, where it is already in effect.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Author makes every meal a celebration to good health

By Anita Anderson

Staying healthy and eating the right foods isn't as difficult as one might think.

Carl Jerome, an instructor at the Cooking and Hospitality Institute of Chicago, and a former director of the James Beard Cooking Class, said if people eat two slices of bread with every meal, two servings of cereal or grains and two fruits along with three or four different vegetables a day, they can be healthy and enjoy a way of eating that is now being proclaimed by food experts world-wide.

Not that people can't enjoy a burger or ice cream sundae once in a while.

It's just that people should bear in mind that the above-mentioned manner of eating is, in fact, a way of preventing possible diseases, including some cancers.

Jerome recommends modest amounts of animal protein and little or no fat or salt.

His new cookbook, "Cooking for a New Earth," guides the reader to different plateaus of cuisine using veggies, beans and grains.

He also includes tasty recipes for meat dishes and desserts to enjoy in moderation.

Jerome offers guidelines in his book - not to tell people what to eat or what not to eat - but to provide a map for healthy eating and a healthy life for your spiritual and physical well-being.

He advocates foods that have a minimum of or no chemical additives.

The author said the 15,000 non-nutritive chemicals added directly and indirectly to the foods we eat contaminate the environment, as well as, ourselves.

He does point out; however, some of the chemicals are necessary.

Jerome suggests we think seasonably when planning meals and buying food.

He first chooses the vegetables, breads, cereals and grains for a meal, distributing them among the entree, soup or appetizer.

Then he chooses the fruit for dessert—and finally, chooses the meat garnish to accompany the entree.

The major efforts in the kitchen are addressed to the vegetables, grains and bread, all of which will need to be flavored and balanced.

The balance in the new way of cooking comes from a distribution of color, texture, flavor and cooking technique.

Following are some recipes from "Cooking for a New Earth."

BLACKBERRY, PINEAPPLE AND PEACH SORBET

This is a thick, chewy sorbet with a flavor evenly balanced among the three fruits. It screams with the flavors of summer. Raspberries or blueberries (use only 1/4 cup) are good substitutes for the blackberries.

If you have a juice extractor, you can make a cup of your own peach nectar (juice) by extracting three large, lusciously ripe peaches. Otherwise, it can be purchased canned.

1/2 cup fresh washed ripe blackberries or frozen blackberries
1 small ripe pineapple, peeled, cored and cut into 1 to 2 inch chunks
1 cup peach nectar
about 3 to 4 tablespoons sugar

In two or three batches, puree the blackberries, pineapple and peach nectar in a blender. Strain, gently shaking or rapping the strainer against the bowl and discard any pulp that remains.

Taste the puree. It will usually need at least two, sometimes three or four tablespoons of sugar to bring out the flavors. The puree, though a little acidic, needs to be just slightly sweet, as freezing will dull the sweetness.

Freeze in an ice cream maker according to the manufacturer's directions. If not serving immediately, transfer to a microwave-safe freezer container and store in the freezer.

The sorbet will become very hard.

To soften before serving, microwave on high for one minute 15 seconds to one minute 30 seconds.

CHOCOLATE PUDDING

Here is a healthy, reduced-fat chocolate pudding that has a real chocolate flavor (unlike boxed chocolate puddings) and a thick, smooth texture. It is the ultimate chocolate comfort food. And it takes only about 15-minutes to make.

2 ounces (1/3 cup) semi-sweet chocolate, very coarsely chopped
1 ounce (one square) unsweetened chocolate, very coarsely chopped
3 tablespoons corn starch
1/3 cup sugar
3 cups skim milk
1-1/2 teaspoons vanilla extract

In a food processor, combine the semisweet chocolate, unsweetened chocolate, cornstarch and sugar. Process to form a finely granulated texture with no bits or chunks of chocolate. Add the milk and vanilla and process until well blended with only some fine specks of chocolate visible.

Pour into a heavy-bottomed saucepan and cook over medium heat until the mixture comes to a boil, stirring frequently to prevent scorching.

Reduce the heat and simmer for two minutes, stirring constantly. Whisk hard to ensure that there are no lumps, then pour into four individual custard cups or a bowl. cover tightly with plastic wrap and refrigerate until cold.

ROSEMARY LEMON CHICKEN

Elegant, light and lemony with a gentle scent of rosemary, this simple dish is excellent for outdoor grilling.

1 small onion, peeled and halved leaves from 5 large stems of rose-mary, or
1 heaping tablespoon dried rosemary
2 garlic cloves, peeled
Juice of 1 large lemon
1/3 cup chicken stock
1-1/4 pounds boneless skinless chicken breasts olive oil spray

In a food processor, puree the onion, rosemary, garlic, lemon juice and chicken stock to make a thick, somewhat sloshy marinade. Transfer to a nonreactive bowl, add the chicken and rub and toss so the chicken is evenly coated with the marinade. Marinate for two to four hours.

Preheat a grill or broiler.

Remove the chicken from the marinade and pat dry. Spray lightly with olive oil spray to prevent the chicken from sticking. Grill or broil until the chicken is cooked through, about 4 or 5 minutes on each side.

Cut into portions and serve immediately.

WILD MUSHROOM SOUP WITH BARLEY

Laden with strips of wild mushrooms and accented by barley, this soup has an unexpected gentleness. Serve at a small, special dinner, accompanied by warm sourdough bread, followed by small servings of a roasted chicken with two or three vegetables and a grain.

1 celery rib, washed and cut into small dice
1/2 medium size onion, trimmed, peeled and diced
1 large garlic clove, peeled and very finely chopped
2 tablespoons medium pearl barley
1 pound shiitake mush rooms, or a mixture of shiitake and chanterelle mushrooms, stems removed, washed and cut into 1/4-inch wide strips
3-1/2 cups beef broth
1/4 teaspoon crushed dried thyme
1/8 teaspoon crushed dried marjoram
1/8 teaspoon crushed dried savory a little salt freshly ground black pepper

Combine everything except the salt and pepper in a large soup pot. Bring to a boil over high heat, then reduce the heat and simmer for 45 minutes. Season with salt and pepper to taste.

Dessert Without Guilt

(NAPS)—Holiday eating has caused you to gain a few extra pounds and you've decided to banish desserts from the house! Wait!

Imagine a moist chocolate cake drizzled with a flavorful raspberry sauce that you can enjoy without guilt, containing less than 2/3 fat and just about 1/2 calories of traditional chocolate cake. When made with KARO corn syrup and ARGO or KINGSFORD'S corn starch, "Light 'n' Luscious Chocolate Cake" has only 5 grams of fat and 210 Calories per serving. Traditional chocolate cake has 16 g of fat and 390 Calories per serving.

For easy and delicious main dish and dessert recipes using KARO corn syrup and ARGO or KINGSFORD'S corn starch, write to: KARO & ARGO Recipes, P.O. Box 307, Department MAT194, Coventry, CT 06238.

LIGHT 'N' LUSCIOUS CHOCOLATE CAKE

Corn oil cooking spray
1 cup flour
3/4 cup sugar
1/3 cup unsweetened cocoa
1/4 cup ARGO or KINGSFORD'S corn starch
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon baking powder
2/3 cup water
1 whole egg
1 egg white
1/3 cup KARO light or dark corn syrup
3 tablespoons corn oil
Raspberry Sauce, below

Preheat oven to 350°F. Spray 9-inch round or square baking pan with cooking spray. In large bowl combine flour, sugar, cocoa, corn starch, salt, baking soda and baking powder. In medium bowl with wire whisk or fork stir water, egg, egg white, corn syrup and corn oil. Gradually stir into dry ingredients until smooth. Pour into pan.

Bake 30 to 35 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool on wire rack 10 minutes. Remove from pan and cool completely. Serve with Raspberry Sauce. Makes 12 servings.

Raspberry Sauce

1 package (10 to 12 oz.) frozen raspberries, thawed and drained
1/3 cup water
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon ARGO or KINGSFORD'S corn starch

Strain juice from raspberries into 1-quart saucepan; set raspberries aside. Stir in water, sugar and corn starch. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Gently stir in raspberries. Cool. Makes about 1 1/3 cups.

Each serving provides: 210 Calories, 2 g protein, 41 g carbohydrate, 5 g total fat, 2 g polyunsaturated fat, 1 g saturated fat, 20 mg cholesterol, 170 mg sodium.

The Leidecker Reports™: The Entrepreneur's Dream For The 90s By Mel Coe

"Even in retirement, I never seemed to find the time to get through all the newspapers, magazines, journals, reports and other publications that I knew I should be reading. That troubled me because I knew I was missing valuable information. And as a result, I was losing a vital edge in the day-to-day competition of life," says Art Leidecker, founder of The Leidecker Reports™, a new, information publication. "It's impossible for the average person to sift through all of the information available today," says Leidecker, "and find what they need."

Leidecker has turned the consumer's need for precise, useful information into a concise and very innovative information product. "We're taking a scientific approach to assembling the right information," states Leidecker.

This publication will revolutionize the distribution of information by keeping readers abreast of the latest, most significant developments effecting their money, lifestyle, and health, essentially their quality of life. Though many publications appear to cover this information, most of them have limitations. What makes The Leidecker Reports™ different is that it's compiled by a team of researchers and analysts who study newspapers, magazines, books, periodicals, and private publications. They monitor informational radio broadcasts; track computer bulletin boards; review educational TV programs and secure data from highly confidential sources.

"There's no other publication out there that's doing what we're doing," Leidecker explains. Most information publications force consumers to purchase several publications to meet their information needs because they are microtargeted and deal only with one industry—like financial, real estate, health, etc. Other publications focus on only one market segment—upscale for instance. The Leidecker Reports™ gathers information from all industries and market segments and combines it into one concise publication.

A self-made millionaire, Leidecker claims that having access to information has given him a strategic advantage over others. "My friends always asked me where to buy things or where to go on vacation because I always had information on the best deals." Famous author and speaker Anthony Robbins has identified a new class structure divided by those who have information and those who must function out of ignorance. This new class has power—not from money or land—but from knowledge. The Leidecker Reports™ allows the average consumer to become a member of this new "informed" class.

MLM Spells Success For Leidecker Associates

Long-time analyst of multi-level marketing (MLM) programs, Leidecker is a firm believer of distribution through MLM. Multi-level marketing is a grass roots sales and distribution system that provides entrepreneurs with an efficient but low cost distribution network. "It is the means by which people from all walks of life have attained wealth and success," says Leidecker, "without regard to their education, background, occupation, or circles of influence."

Leidecker says his program presents a win-win situation for both subscribers and associates: "We're providing subscribers with timely, relevant information at a reasonable cost while at the same time offering our associates an outstanding income opportunity." Associates are paid substantial commissions on all subscriptions sold by them and their personal organization (also known as "downline").

Even the corporate world has experienced much success with MLM. U.S. Sprint and MCI relied heavily on MLM sales forces that took 15 percent of AT&T's long distance market share. Coca-Cola sells a small soft drink dispensing machine through Amway. Colgate-Palmolive and Gillette own MLM subsidiaries. General Foods and Campbell Soup are also considering its benefits.

The Leidecker Reports™ provides maximum support for its associates. "The associates are the lifeblood of the company," says Marilyn Leidecker, vice president, associate relations. "We want them to know they are never alone. Our staff is working closely with them to help build their businesses." Comprehensive training programs and marketing seminars are available weekly. "We're available whenever they need us," says Leidecker.

The Leidecker Reports™ has already spurred much interest in the entrepreneurial community, particularly among executives who are victims of recent corporate layoffs. Leidecker believes everyone is in the right place at the right time several times in their life. He claims, however, that success is determined by the ability to recognize that time.

Leidecker says you might want to position yourself among the associates of this organization and experience being in the right place at the right time!

Today's Energy-Efficient Homes

By Roger Gatewood

In 1973, the oil crisis sent a message to Americans that they weren't using energy wisely, whether it was in their homes or their cars. Today, it's a different story.

Energy efficiency in homes has soared since the early 1970s. Three-quarters of new home buyers today rank energy efficiency as one of their most important considerations, according to a recent survey by the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB). Everything in the home now consumes substantially less power than 20 years ago because builders use high-performance windows, more insulation and higher efficiency furnaces, air conditioners and water heaters.

In fact, many components of the home today are twice as energy efficient as they were in the early 1970s, thanks to consumer demand, product improvement and regulatory requirements.

Next time you want to turn up the thermostat, think about these numbers: more than half of our residential energy, 55 percent, is used for heating and cooling. Heating water takes 15 percent, refrigerators and freezers use 10 percent, and the remaining 20 percent is used for lighting, cooking and operating other appliances.

Efficiency improvements have come in two arenas - insulation, windows and doors, heating and cooling systems and appliances.

Take insulation. It once was used sparingly and sometimes was not installed properly, decreasing its effectiveness. These days, builders put more and better insulation everywhere - under floors, in ceilings, in the attic, between walls and around windows, doors and electrical outlets. And they're careful to install it properly.

Greater gains have been made in window efficiency than in any other place in the home. It used to be that a window was just a hole in the wall that sucked out warm air in the winter and cool air in the summer. But not anymore. With dramatic advances in glass technology, windows are much more efficient.

In 1973, 60 percent of new homes had single-pane windows. By 1991, 89 percent of new homes were built with double or triple-pane windows. And low-emissivity glass (known as Low-E glass), coated with an almost invisible film that reflects heat but lets light in, is widely used by builders today.

New appliances, like furnaces, air-conditioning units, heat pumps, refrigerators, water heaters, washers and dishwashers all use much less energy than their predecessors. In fact, according to the Department of Energy, if all appliances that are ten years old or older were replaced with 1990 models, it would save nearly 700 trillion BTUs, or 7.3 percent of the total residential energy consumption per year in the United States.

Twenty years ago, gas furnaces had an efficiency of 60 to 65 percent, meaning that 40 to 45 percent of the fuel they used was wasted. Today, the average furnace installed in a new home is 83 percent efficient, with many units topping 90 percent. Much of this increased efficiency is due to replacement of the constant-burning pilot light with an electronic starter.

From 1972 to 1992, the efficiency of refrigerators increased by 129 percent, clothes washers by 59 percent and dishwashers by 58 percent.

Improvements in energy efficiency continue to be made by home builders and product manufacturers. Consumers will reap the benefits of living in houses that save even more energy and money, yet provide all the comforts a home should.

OVEREATERS ANONYMOUS MEETINGS

Overeaters Anonymous meets at EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center, 4440 West 95th Street., Oak Lawn, every Wednesday from 11:00 a.m. to noon in the Harbor Room. For more information, please call EHS Christ Hospital Health Adviser at (708) 346-5691.

Overeaters Anonymous is a support group for those who are compulsive eaters. The group began in 1960 in California through the efforts of three people who met to help one another with their eating problems. It is patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous. The only requirement for attendance is desire to stop eating compulsively.

VOLUNTEERS TO DELIVER MEALS

The social work services department of EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center, 4440 West 95th Street Oak Lawn, is seeking volunteers to help deliver meals for their Home Delivered Meals Program.

Meals prepared by EHS Christ Hospital's food and nutrition department are delivered to shut-ins in Oak Lawn, Evergreen Park, and part of Burbank.

If you have a car and free time between 10 a.m. and 12 p.m. any weekday, please call the social work services department at (708) 346-5258 or (708) 346-5255.

PASTA CON I BROCCOLI ARRIMINATI
Pasta with Green Cauliflower, Pine Nuts, and Currants

2 heads green cauliflower (about 2 pounds)
1 medium red onion, chopped
1/4 to 1/3 cup olive oil
3 anchovy fillets
1/2 cup Salsa di Pomodoro Passata
1 cup white wine
3 tablespoons pine nuts
3 tablespoons dried currants, soaked in water for 5 minutes if very dry
Salt
Black pepper
1 pound perciatelli

Cut the cauliflower into 1-in florets and cook in boiling salted water until al dente, about 5 minutes. Reserve 1 cup of the cooking water and drain. Set aside.

Sauté the onion in the olive oil for 2 to 3 minutes, until just golden. Add the anchovies and mash them, then add the cauliflower with the reserved cooking water and the salsa. Add the wine, cover, and simmer until the cauliflower is tender. Stir in the pine nuts and currants. Season to taste with salt and pepper and set aside.

Cook the perciatelli in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Gently toss with half of the cauliflower sauce. Put the remaining sauce on top. Let rest for 5 minutes before serving. This serves 4 to 6 as a pasta course.

GALLETTO AL POMODORO
Chicken with Tomatoes

One 2 to 3 pound chicken, quartered
3 to 4 tablespoons olive oil
1 stalk celery, blanched and chopped
1 large onion, chopped
2 pounds tomatoes, peeled, seeded, and chopped
1 teaspoon sugar
Salt
Black pepper

Remove and discard the chicken wing tips, backbone, breastbone, and ribs.

Pour the oil into a 10 or 12 inch skillet and sauté the chicken until golden brown. Remove the chicken from the pan and pour off the excess fat. Deglaze the pan with 1/4 cup of water, scraping up any bits stuck to the bottom.

Return the chicken to the pan and add the celery, onion, tomatoes, sugar, and salt and pepper to taste. Simmer, covered, for about 30 to 40 minutes, until the chicken is tender. Remove the chicken from the pan. Put it on a serving dish and keep it warm. Taste the sauce and adjust the seasonings. Pour the sauce over the chicken andserve warm. This serves 4 as a main course.

By Anita Anderson

The oldest and most traditional way of eating fresh tomatoes -- and the best way when they are just picked out of your garden -- is simply sprinkled with salt. This is called Pomodoro a Strica-Sale (Tomato Rubbed with Salt). Sometimes we make a little "salad" on the plate by drizzling them with olive oil as well.

When I used to stay with my grandfather at Regaleali, his maid Lorita would sometimes bring some of her tomato salad to share with me for breakfast in bed. I loved it and considered it a great treat. Now when I make my own tomato salad, I often add other ingredients, like arugula or purslane. But not for breakfast.

Tomato salad is usually dressed with oil and vinegar, dried oregano, salt, and pepper. I usually put in a few thin slices of red onion, but only if I have good ones, fresh and not too strong. I also like to add bits of fresh lemon. This salad, Insalata di Pomodoro e Cipolla (Tomato and Onion Salad), is a classic. You'll want to serve any tomato salad with some good bread for dipping.

We often serve this tomato salad together with Insalata di Patate e Capperi in summer. They are very good with Salsiccia allla Griglia (Grilled Sausage). The sausage, which is flavored with fennel seeds, is coiled tight with fresh bay leaves and slices of red onion stuck in between; then it is grilled over the coals.

EGGPLANT

As with tomatoes, Italy grows several different varieties of eggplant. Some are large, some small, some oval, others round, and each has a different purpose. Besides the common purple eggplant, sometimes called a Turkish eggplant. They have a white-skinned eggplant and the Tunisina, which is round with striped violet-and-white skin. It is not bitter at all, so you don't have to salt it before cooking.

You do have to salt the bitter Turkish eggplant, though, to draw off some of its juices. Salt the eggplant slices on just one side and stack them in a colander with a plate or pot lid on top, weighted down with a heavy stone or a large can.

The Tunisina is particularly good for Melanzane a Cotoletta, also called Milanese dei Poveri (Poor Man's Cutlet) because it looks like a breaded cutlet but isn't meat. The flesh of the Tunisina eggplant stays white, like chicken breast. Eggplant cutlets are usually served hot with potatoes and a salad.

SEVEN LAYER SALAD

1 head lettuce
1 c. chopped celery
1/2 c. chopped green pepper
1/2 c. sliced green onions
1 10-oz. package peas, still frozen
1 pint Hellman's mayonnaise
6 hard boiled eggs, chopped
4 oz. shredded cheddar cheese
1/2 lb. bacon, fried crisp and crumbled

Tear the lettuce into a large, deep bowl. Layer the other ingredients in the order listed. DO NOT TOSS! Cover tightly and refrigerate overnight.

Serves a crowd (halve the recipe for fewer servings).

GRACE'S CHICKEN SOUP

2 or 3 whole chickens
Lawry's seasoned salt
1 lb. carrots
1/2 c. celery
1/2 pkg. orzo (rice-shaped macaroni) head of escarole
fresh mushrooms, sliced (optional)
croutons

Cover the chickens with water and seasoned salt in large soup pot. Add the sliced carrots and celery. Cook until tender, about one hour. Cool and debone. Return chicken to broth in pot. Add orzo, cook ten minutes; and escarole and mushrooms, cook fifteen more minutes. Serve with croutons.

CHUNKY BEEF CHILI

1/2 cup each chopped: onion, green pepper
1-2 cloves garlic, minced or crushed
1-1/4 pounds boneless trimmed beef round, cut in 1/2-inch cubes
1 14-1/2 to 16 ounce can no salt added stewed tomatoes
1/2 (of 6 ounce) can tomato paste
1 tablespoon chili powder
1/2 teaspoon dried leaf oregano
1/8 crushed red pepper flakes
5 flour tortillas
1 15 ounce can black or pinto beans, rinsed and drained

In a microproof two quart casserole combine onions, green pepper and garlic. Cover with lid or vented plastic wrap and microwave on HIGH three minutes or until soft.

Stir in beef and remaining ingredients except tortillas and beans; re-cover and microwave on HIGH ten minutes.

Stir; cover and microwave on MEDIUM (50 percent) 40 minutes or until meat is tender.

Let stand ten minutes, covered. Serve with tortillas topped with black beans.

Yield: 5 servings.

Turkey Waldorf Sandwiches

A low-fat treat made from Thanksgiving leftovers, Turkey Waldorf Sandwiches can be a tasty lunch or snack for the calorie-conscious.

(NAPS)—What to do with those Thanksgiving leftovers? The tasty "gobbler"—the traditional Thanksgiving turkey—can make a terrific low-fat lunch or snack for those who fear they've gobbled too much over the holiday weekend.

Turkey Waldorf Sandwiches are easy to make and put that leftover Thanksgiving turkey to good use in a wonderfully delicious way. They're made with Ac'cent® Flavor Enhancer, which is naturally derived from corn, sugar beets, or molasses. It brings out the best flavor in many foods, including poultry, sauces, vegetables, soups, gravies and casseroles, even salad greens and dressings. It can make many low-fat meals more delicious.

Turkey Waldorf Sandwiches

1 1/2 cups cooked, cubed turkey
1 medium apple, cubed
1/2 cup whole berry cranberry sauce
1/3 cup pecan pieces
1/3 cup light mayonnaise or light salad dressing
1/2 teaspoon AC'CENT Flavor Enhancer
4 lettuce leaves
4 sandwich rolls

1. In medium bowl, combine all ingredients except rolls and lettuce.

2. Place one lettuce leaf and 1/2 cup turkey mixture on each sandwich roll.

Makes 4 servings.

Variation: Omit cranberry sauce from above recipe. Increase light mayonnaise to 1/2 cup and add 1 teaspoon lemon juice.

Medicare General Enrollment Period Begins

By: Rosalie Thompson
Social Security District Manager in Evergreen Park

Did you decide not to take Part B of Medicare when you were first eligible for it? Or did you have Part B once and then dropped the coverage? If you fit into either of these situations, you'll have a chance to sign up for Part B during the annual enrollment period that runs from January 1, 1994 through March 31, 1994. This three-month period offers a second chance to those who did not enroll when they were first eligible and those who dropped their coverage in the interim. If you enroll during the current sign-up period, your coverage will begin July 1, 1994.

If you did not enroll when you first were eligible, your Medicare Part B premium will be 10 percent higher than the basic monthly premium for each twelve-month period you were eligible but not enrolled. For 1994, the basic monthly Medicare Part B premium is $41.10. There are special premium rules and enrollment periods (generally with no penalty for delayed enrollment) for workers age 65 or older and for people under age 65 with disabilities who have group health coverage based on their own or their spouse's current employment. Part B coverage, also called "medical insurance," helps pay for 10 percent higher than the basic amount if you delayed your enrollment for 12 months or more after you were first eligible to enroll. In 1994, the basic monthly premium for Part A coverage will be $245. For individuals with 30 credits or more of work covered by Social Security, but not enough to qualify for benefits, the amount is reduced to $184. If your income is about $600 a month and you have limited assets, the state may pay some or all of your Medicare expenses, including buying Part A coverage under the Qualified Medicare Beneficiary (QMB) program. Under the QMB provisions, Medicare hospital doctor's services, outpatient hospital care, and other medical services.

If you're age 65 or older, and not eligible for Medicare's premium-free Hospital Insurance (Part A) coverage, you can buy this coverage along with Part B coverage during the annual enrollment period. (People entitled to Medicare Hospital Insurance through the Social Security or Railroad Retirement systems or through government employment do not pay this premium). Your monthly premium will be and medical premiums and the deductible and coinsurance amounts may be paid by the state government. If your income is slightly above the level to qualify for the QMB program (more than $600 a month, but less than $700), you may qualify for state help in paying your Part B (Medical insurance) premium under the specified Low-Income Medicare Beneficiary (SLMB) program. Only your state can decide if you qualify for help under either program.

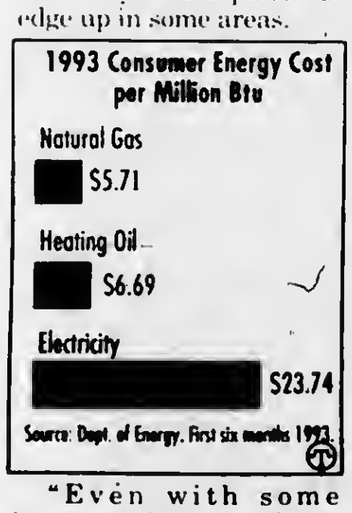
Contact your state or local medical assistance (Medicaid) agency, social services office, or welfare office if you think you qualify. Call the toll-free number, 1-800-638-6833, for the telephone number of your medical assistance office.

If you think you qualify, but you haven't filed for Medicare Part A, contact Social Security to find out if you need to file an application.

Further information about filing for Medicare is available from your local Social Security office or from Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213.

Natural Gas Prices Stable

(NAPS)—Natural gas will remain the consumer's best energy value in 1994, according to the American Gas Association, even though changes in federal regulations and other factors may cause prices to edge up in some areas.



"Even with some increases in natural gas prices, many residential customers across the country will be paying less for their natural gas service than they did ten years ago," says A.G.A. President Michael Baly. "Customers like natural gas for its convenience and cleanliness, but they especially like its economy."

The U.S. Department of Energy also rates natural gas as the residential customer's best buy. DOE estimates that the price of natural gas for residential customers during the first six months of 1993 was $5.71 per million Btu, compared with $6.69 for heating oil and $23.74 for electricity.

Recycling— Do Your Part!

(NAPS)—Across the nation, everyone is recycling to help preserve our natural resources and keep our environment clean. Car batteries are the most recycled product in our country. Nearly 97 percent of all lead car batteries are recycled every year.

The widespread recycling of lead batteries is encouraged by laws in forty-two states that make recycling mandatory. Retailers play an important role by recycling all used car batteries brought in by consumers to be replaced. If you replace your own car battery, make sure you drop it off at any service station or retailer that sells car batteries to guarantee your battery becomes part of the recycling stream.

Be sure to follow these safety tips when handling your old battery:

- Keep sparks and flames away from the battery and don't smoke nearby.
- Never place metal objects on top of the battery. Remove rings, chains and other metallic items before handling.
- Wear safety glasses or goggles when working with lead batteries.
- Keep the battery right-side-up and carry in a non-metallic, leak-proof container.
- Do not place excessive pressure on the ends of the battery. Use a battery carrier or lift the battery (or its case) carefully, with your hands placed on opposite corners.

When following these safety tips, recycling lead batteries couldn't be safer or easier.

There is no doubt that we are having problems with our health care system but it is not ready for Hillary's surgical coat hanger. Until we get control of the fraud, litigation, and malpractice costs, there are numerous Medicaid patients using the Emergency Rooms in place of primary care facilities, as well as unwed mothers giving birth 'on the house.' A Medicaid card is as good as American Express at any hospital. That translates into a great deal of unnecessary expense to the taxpayer. It is unfortunate to see Americans constantly being led to believe that the government will take care of them and meet all of their needs at little or no cost. Each of us should consider this: Any government big enough to give you everything you need-- is also big enough to take everything you have!

Miniature Rooms for Everyone

By Annette Dixon

The Art Institute of Chicago has a unique display of miniature rooms.

In the lower level of the Art Institute lies a room called The Thorne Miniature Rooms.

The sixty-eight miniature rooms in this gallery offer visitors to the Art Institute of Chicago an opportunity to see the development of historical styles in a wide range of architectural interiors and related decorative arts.

Mrs. Thorne's rooms offer us replicas, in miniature, of European and American decorative arts and architectural interiors. They are not period rooms, which group original objects together in context. Rather, they introduce the relationships based on illustrations or records of furnishings typical of a period or country. Each room, planned and designed by Mrs. Thorne, was executed by skilled craftspeople she brought together in her expansive workrooms. Working closely with her, they produced detailed rooms and furnishings at the scale of one inch to one foot.

Mrs. Thorne also dealt with the technical aspects of lighting to effectively convey the illusion of natural daylight coming through windows and adjacent halls.

In 1987, the Art Institute launched a major conservation program to repair the natural deterioration of fragile materials over the fifty years of the rooms' and visual characteristics of historical styles and objects. The Thorne Rooms enable one to glimpse the elements of European interiors from the late sixteenth to the twentieth century and those of American furnishings from the seventeenth century to the 1930s. Many of the rooms, such as the 1795 dining room from the Harrison Gray Otis House in Boston, are scale copies of specific rooms in the extant historical houses or were inspired by museum installations of period rooms. Some, like the sixteenth-century French bedroom, combine features copied from houses, palaces, and sites admired by Mrs. Thorne during her extensive travels; still others are adaptations existence. A new gallery was designed by the Chicago architectural firm of Skidmore, Owings and Merrill to display the refurbished rooms to best advantage. Many individuals and foundations contributed generously to the restoration and the future maintenance of the Thorne Rooms; their enlightened support is gratefully acknowledged by individual plaques placed next to the rooms.

Hours on bar closing still undecided in Oak Lawn

by Harry Halber

The Village of Oak Lawn Legal, License and Ordinance Committee voted Wednesday to postpone a decision on a proposal for extended bar hours. Following an often emotional appeal from local bar owners and opponents of the proposed "revision," it was determined additional statistical information was necessary from the police department to assure an equitable decision.

At issue was a request to modify the provisions of the present 2 o'clock bar closing ordinance, extending it on a trial basis to 3 o'clock on Fridays and Saturdays. The hours were modified following a "non binding" referendum which showed voters were nearly four to one in favor of earlier closing laws.

Roger Benson from B.J. McMahons opened the discussion with a carefully prepared presentation, noting the economic impact the new hours had on his business. Along with the prospect of facing unfair competition from neighboring village bars unhindered by a o'clock closing, Benson cited potential Village tax revenues lost as a result of the change.

At Benson's request, Trustee Stancik read aloud a letter from the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce supporting the bar owners' appeal, noting a "legitimate and legal form of entertainment" deserved consideration; John Paul, also representing the Chamber implored the committee to recognize Oak Lawn bar owners' need to remain on "even ground with competitors on community borders."

Representing the Oak Lawn Hilton Hotel, Bill Talerico addressed the problems faced by guests who "Get in an elevator and go to their room..." "We cannot send up a cocktail after hours..." Looking in retrospect at the issue, Talerico lamented "We took the biggest hit."

Numerous concerned citizens voiced their displeasure that the committee would continue to consider options when the referendum "clearly" reflected the wishes of the community. Mary Grana read from her list at least ten criminal offenses that had occurred during the 2 o'clock-4 o'clock interval prior to the cutback. Unlike the economic statistics noted by the bar owners, Ms. Grana noted one "Cannot calculate the human cost."

A police officer involved in the initial bar hour reduction referendum stated he had experienced a marked reduction in crimes committed on his beat subsequent the closing hour change.

One Oak Lawn businesswoman emotionally expressed her frustrations: "The citizens of Oak Lawn took action....We trusted you. Is this what we get? Why should we have to come back every two years?"

Although the committee members agreed to evaluate the actual crime statistics of the period one year before and after the 1992 2 o'clock closing law, the overwhelming power of the referendum appears to preclude any "real" dialog.

Trustee Stancik observed "Our town has been cleaned out...people have clearly told me what they want."

Trustee Streit echoed similar sentiments. "As a Trustee, I am not compelled to violate the referendum of the people." Trustee Cyril Holesha tried in vain to appease both sides."I must act on the best wishes of the community...perhaps we can have another referendum in October, 1994...."

Marjorie Joy let the numbers (8,420--2,243) speak for her--before quickly passing the ball to the State legislators for resolution.

Meanwhile people like Roger Benson, one of many "Chasing a dream of owning their own business" have at least a glimmer of hope. Trustees William Keane and Michael Walsh have demanded to "See the numbers." Keane noted redeeming value in the T.I.P.S. program suggested for bartender education. Walsh questioned a "Mistake in perception" when discussing "Criminal activity and no statistics."

Although Mayor Kolb reported "My reports have dramatically dropped," he also urged a more substantive evaluation. "The figures have to be looked at....Let's try to get some before and after numbers..."

There is no doubt the "statistics," when presented in a month or two will reveal a realistic picture of the true impact of the 2 o'clock bar closing law; At least two Trustees will have done their jobs; For the remaining four, the facts won't make any difference. They seem to have already made up their minds.

Nalepa Runs for Congress

James T. Nalepa will be the Republican candidate to challenge U.S. Republican Lipinski in the November election.

Nalepa, a small Business owner and former South Barrington trustee, has been an active Republican since 1984.

Pointing out that the largest position of the 3rd District lies in Chicago, Nalepa said the race can be won.

He has put together a finance committee of influential business people to raise one-half million dollars for the campaign.

Critical of President Bill Clinton's healthcare initiative is only one of many programs Nalepa has criticized.

Nalepa stated, "our Democratic President and Democratic Congress believe the solution to our economic difficulties lies in taxing middle America into bankruptcy."

Regarding President Clinton's healthcare initiative, Nalepa said he would work for a plan that would preserve the freedom to choose one's own doctors and hospitals, while assisting those who have difficulty obtaining healthcare coverage.

Nalepa also called for eliminating parole for violent criminals and expanding the use of the death penalty in murder cases.

Government can build roads, bridges and create jobs, but it fails to protect its people, then everything else government does is irrelevant," Nalepa stated.

Nalepa is a 1978 graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, and rose to the rank of Captain in the Army. He participated in the Grenada rescue mission in 1983. Nalepa, age 36, served three years of active duty in Germany where he was part of the tank command. From there, he became a member of the 82nd Auborne Division.

Jim Nalepa devoted more than half of his life to public service. He has earned a reputation of studying the issues, fighting for the rights of individual taxpayers and voicing his convictions.

As a public servant in South Barrington, Jim Nalepa controlled government spending and reduced tax rates.

Jim Nalepa is a small business owner, NALCOR Development Corp., founder of Corporate Placement Service for former Military Personnel. He is a combat veteran, commentator and analyst for T.V. and Radio in Military and Foreign Affairs and conservation politics.

As a member of VFW and American Legion, he also serves as a board member of the USO.

For more information and to volunteer, call (708) 352-1994, or write Nalepa for Congress, Post Office Box 57, LaGrange, IL 60525.

Before I hear from the staunch NRA members regarding my views on gun control, I would like to remind the members that I, too, believe handguns do not kill, it's the people behind the gun.

As a child, I saw two innocent victims slain because of careless use of a gun. Accidents do occur when handguns are carelessly placed in the dresser drawer, or hung on a hook in a closet, or stashed away in that so-called private place. Children are bringing them to school even in our neighborhoods. The idea of trading in a gun will rid our communities of gangland warfare, or eliminating guns within our homes will secure us with safer homes, is by far the most far fetched promotional scheme I've ever seen.

Just as warning signs on every block do not eliminate burglaries or rapes on that block, how will promotional schemes such as turn in a gun eliminate crime on our streets.

Vrdolyak stated on the radio recently that it only costs $35.00 for the purchase of a handgun on the streets and promotional companies are giving away $100 credit slips for shoes, etc. The streetwise person will surely know how and where to get another handgun, semi-automatic, etc.

Who is really turning in the guns? Is there a consumer, marketing research team from the Chicago Mayor's office really working in our behalf?

If we want a safer community, let's get our legislators to change the laws regarding publication of names, addresses, etc. of minors who are involved with the law. Maybe then we'll know who, within our own neighborhoods, are involved in gangs, etc.

The police can only apprehend a suspect when a crime is committed, who will be the deterent of a crime.

Citizens must be involved in all forms of deterents, even if it means forming citizen patrols.

This article is being written because of the dangerous aspects of crime within our communities. The money spent on the ridiculous safe neighborhood signs on posts on every block in every community, and the most recent turn in a gun and receive a reward gimmick, can be better used for more fuel for community police squads, revenue for hiring more police officers working with troubled youths, or forming citizen patrol groups.

Field Museum Celebrates Its 100th Birthday

The Field Museum is commemorating its 100th Anniversary with a ten month Centennial Celebration that began in September and culminates in a public Centennial Festival in June, 1994. The celebration includes the opening of two major permanent exhibits, Africa (November, 1993) and DNA to Dinosaurs (June, 1994), light and image shows on the Museum' facade, a scientific symposium, and an 8K Dinosaur Dash. The Field Museum was founded as the Columbian Museum of Chicago on September 16, 1893 to create a permanent home for the natural history collections gathered in Chicago for the World's Columbian Exposition. The Museum opened its doors on June 2, 1894, in the Palace of Fine Arts Building in Jackson Park. (That building was later reconstructed to house the Museum of Science and Industry). The name was changed to the Field Columbian Museum iin 1894 in recognition of its founder, Marshall Field I. On May 2, 1921, the Museum moved to its new building in Grant Park. For more information on the Museum's Centennial Celebration, call (312) 322-8859.

Oak Lawn Library

The Friends of the Library group has scheduled a trip to see the Hubbard Street Dance Company at the Paramount Theater in Aurora, Sunday, March 13th. The trip includes reserved seats and round trip coach transportation from the Oak Lawn Public Library, 9427 Raymond Avenue (5300 West 95th Street).

The bus will leave the Cook Avenue entrance at 1:30 p.m. for the 3 p.m. matinee. Cost of the trip is $32 for members of the Friends, $34 for others.

To make reservations, contact Bennie Cunningham at (708) 424-3781.

The Oak Lawn Public Library has added new gems to its important and popular reference collection by acquiring two sets of books on coin issues of the Roman Empire. The Roman Imperial Coinage and Coins of the Roman Empire in the British Museum cover the period from 31 B.C. to the fourth century in minute detail and with thousands of illustrations.

Dr. James Casey, library director, has collected Roman coinage for more than 30 years. He indicated that The Roman Imperial Coinage is the single most important and complete work of its kind for the period from Augustus Caesar to the fall of Rome. Coins of the Roman Empire in the British Museum covers Roman coinage in even greater detail for the period from 31 B.C. to 238 A.D. Casey noted that the Oak Lawn Public Library is the only public library in the suburban Chicago area that has reported ownership of these assets.

Changing NATO for The 21st Century

P.S./WASHINGTON

a weekly column by U.S. Senator Paul Simon of Illinois

Who joins the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) may not seem like an exciting issue that has much impact on your life, but it could have great impact.

What is at stake is stability in Europe. Ten years ago the great threat we faced internationally was a Soviet Communist government that had a huge nuclear arsenal. Today the threat to international security is instability.

If things get too unstable, our sons and daughters may go off to war.

The immediate question the Clinton Administration and the Western European nations face is whether Poland, Hungary and the Czech Republic should be admitted to NATO.

These three countries fear Russia. Whether those fears are justified or not, they are real. They seek the protecting umbrella of belonging to NATO.

The world has changed and NATO must change.

Others say that if Russia's neighbors are accepted into NATO, Russia will suddenly feel threatened and surrounded. There are those in Russia who express those fears, whether justified or not.

Is there a practical answer?

If NATO were to adopt a policy that a nation 1.) which is solidly democratic for at least five years, 2.) that shows strong signs of internal stability, 3.) that is willing to meet certain minimum requirements to contribute to a NATO military force, and 4.) that is next to a NATO nation, must be seriously considered for membership if it applies, such a policy could satisfy all parties and add to stability in Europe.

Under such a proposal, Austria, for example, could apply if that nation wished, though there are no indications the Austrians are interested. Poland and Hungary could soon apply. Depending on how the rules were created, the Czech and Slovak Republics could each apply in the not too distant future.

That would give security assurance to these countries, and by implication, to others. It would also diminish the likelihood of a Bosnia-type situation developing in the nations belonging to NATO.

And it would not threaten Russia. It would encourage the forces of democracy in Russia. If that country has democracy and stability for five years, Russia could become part of NATO.

To exclude the Eastern European countries from NATO ignores the changes that have rocked Europe, and permits a small group of people in Russia to dictate foreign policy to the present NATO nations, including the United States.

The world has changed and NATO must change.

That includes the probability of a lesser military role for the United States in Europe. To continue a policy that requires the head of the NATO military forces to be an American, for example, made sense in 1960, but not today. If the United States wants to play a diminished role in policing the world militarily, we must be willing to play a less visible role in military leadership.

Sound answers can be found, but sound answers require change.

Believe one who has proved it. Believe an expert.

Background and History Leading to Development of Viewpoints

Dolores Woods

I have always been interested in how mind sets are developed and what it is that creates individual perceptions of life. My basic views are mostly empirical. I was raised in the Englewood District of Chicago in an old but charming apartment building on West 63rd Street. I enjoyed hanging out in the bay window of our apartment and just watching people for hours on end. Our entire family lived within a three block radius. My mom was a very demonstrative person with smiles and plenty of hugs and kisses for each of us (for the most part that is). She was extremely magnanimous and was always doing something for others. She set an example. My dad was another story. He was nothing like mom. He was quite a gruff soul, aggressive in his demeanor and sometimes downright ridiculous. It was only as I grew older that I understood the reasons for his strict nature and his penny pinching ways.

Englewood was the best shopping area in the city. I can honestly say I don't remember anything as beautiful as Christmas on 63rd Street. The store windows were gloriously decorated. Santa's workshop, on the sixth floor of Wieboldt's, was a dreamland for all of us. We had two kind uncles and a disabled aunt who made sure we each had a gift or two.

We didn't have a phone or hot water and we heated the "flat," as my dad called it, with a coal burning stove. I thought everyone ate lots of potatoes, ox-tail and liver. We even went to bed a bit hungry at times. One of the first shocks of my young life came after I lost one of my text books and my mom sent me to school with a quarter and a note stating she would pay each week for the book. The well meaning teacher, whose name I still remember, returned the quarter to me stating that she would pay for the book because she knew we were "poor." As Sam Levinson wrote, "We weren't poor, we just didn't have any money."

Beginning in the late 50's, Englewood became a dangerous and uncomfortable area. Times grew tougher, not because of money but because of crime. The fun was over. We learned how to put bars on our windows, to travel in numbers, and be home before the street lights went on. Regardless of what the social apologists claim, there will never be an excuse for what happened to the wonderful community known as Englewood. We attempted to remain in the neighborhood; it meant so much to my parents. It just wasn't to be. Things got even worse, but thankfully, soon dad's health and work status improved and we were able to move to a nicer area where we even had a phone. My father's struggle over the years caused him to be one who respected a dollar and was able to stretch it beyond belief. I learned to duplicate his frugality and I became as cautious about spending and waste as he was. No manna from Washington - not in our home! I imagine that's what drew me to the anti-tax, watchdog stance I hold regarding government spending. Such waste is a crime.

It was from a leftist high school debate teacher that I learned that my views made me a "conservative." I always considered it logic. His first topic that year was "Poverty and Crime." I refuted his argument that poverty led to crime stating that if his premises were correct, at least one of my seven family members should have been a bank robber. It wasn't until we discussed things like gun control, capital punishment and politics that he determined that I was a "hopeless conservative." However, I have never been conservat-

By Ron Rehfeldt

When I was five years old, my mother bought me a brand new set of World Book Encyclopedias. We had only recently moved to Rockford, IL, from Freeport where we had lived for a couple of years while my father finished out his tour of duty in Italy. That fall, shortly after Japan's surrender to end World War II, I started first grade at Lincoln Park School on Rockford's tough west side. I walked to school almost every school day for the next eight years, graduated and went on with most of my hundred plus classmates to Rockford West High School which was destined to become state basketball champs two of my years there.

I was not an athletic child, though I played softball in the vacant lot across the street from my house. We also caught garter snakes in a milk can which we then emptied on the street pavement where the girls played hopscotch. I rode a bicycle much of the time, climbed trees, picked cherries and pears from neighborhood trees, played red light barefoot in the summer grass, mowed a neighbor's large lawn for a dollar and went on family rides in a new used car my father bought when he had a couple hundred dollars.

Much of the time, I read my encyclopedias.

At some point in my early childhood, my mother sent me and my sisters to Grade Methodist Church on state Street about three miles from where we lived. At some point, however, my father did not have enough money to buy his license plates, so we stopped being Methodist children. So, several of us started to go to the Baptist Church at the foot of the hill up which we lived about halfway. It was about three city blocks, a distance we readily walked, except for my oldest sister, Linda, who went the opposite direction to a Church of the Brethren. I was the oldest child in our family which would grow to 12 children sometime before my graduation from Northern Illinois University in 1962 with a Bachelor's Degree in education, majoring in English and minoring in History, Philosophy and numerous extra-curricular activities including literary magazine editor, president of the University Religious council and three honor society memberships: English, History and Journalism.

When I was in ninth grade, I sold papers at Winnebago and State, developed a route and enjoyed hawking in the bars between Winnebago and Rockton. There were about ten taverns on the block. I saw and heard many things a kid, even one in ninth grade, shouldn't hear and see. I was morally repelled, while at the same time, I felt sorry for the down and out drunks.

One time, a grizzled elderly man who was drunk waited for a bus on my newspaper corner and somehow he and a Negro acquaintance of mine a little younger, maybe about 12, got into a verbal altercation. My friend was berating the man for being drunk and abusive. The man finally put a halt to their dispute, as he was getting on his bus, by screaming at him viciously, "You ain't nothing but a worthless, shiftless nigger, boy." My young friend broke down into an angry sobbing. I wanted to comfort him, but I didn't know what to say. I thought it was horrible how people, when they are feeling miserable, go out of their way to make other people, who are already feeling bad, feel more miserable as well.

I continued to read my encyclopedias, but the Bible also became regular reading material for me, as well as Time magazine. The story of my affection for Time magazine in my early youth is too complicated to tell here, but suffice it to say, I found its satiric tone fun to read, though, it influenced me very deeply to become a satiric person as well.

I also had a great Sunday school teacher by the name of Bill Schroeder, a short, elderly, humble, scholarly person he seemed to me, one whom I esteemed and respected very much. His teaching was Bible-centered, and we didn't fool around. I think I learned much about poetry and writing and reading from Mr. Schroeder and the Bible studies he led in Sunday school.

From very early in childhood, I spent much time reflecting on all varieties of matters. I read much in the newspapers I sold. I read Time, Atlantic Monthly, Harper's Magazine and various other magazines in my early teens. I attended many movies throughout my youth, fell in love with Doris Day, honored Hopalong Cassidy, Johnny Mack Brown, Gene Autry and Roy Rogers.

When the streets were not bustling with people, I played poker and blackjack with other newsboys, nickel, dime.

I lived an idyllic childhood in most respects. my family was lower middle class, but it looked like somehow I would manage to go to college, which I did on scholarships and subsidies. I went to school and worked with people of different ethnic groups including blacks and Polish displaced.

I was a thoughtful kid. Once, I asked my fundamentalist Baptist pastor if the song, The Old Rugged Cross was not blasphemous. "Ronnie, why are you always so piccyaunish?" he answered me. I took his chiding as a compliment. In my heart, I was very religious, even devout as a youth. In my head, I was skeptical, critical, analytical, observant, questioning, wondering, reflecting. Ideas, language, stories, truth, justice, doing right, expressing myself became my values, became the things to work for.

In college, and since my college days, I have met many of those people I consider my intellectual and spiritual friends: Nicolas Berdyacv perhaps above all, Democratic socialist Michael Harrington, Catholics Gerard Manley Hopkins, Thomas Merton, Teilhard de Chardin; other existentialists: Camus, Buber, Tillich, Sartre; other philosophers: Plato, Immanuel Kant, Schopenhauer, Ludwig Wittgenstein, Bertrand Russel; Shakespeare, of course, and other writers and poets, many of whom I dearly love and in the reading of whose works I rejoice. A surprise to some, Billy Graham, Francis Schaeffer, Keith Miller and John R. Rice.

From my childhood, come my ways of thinking. One's reading in adulthood is principally a matter of developing cases, arguments, rationales, validations. We read with joy those writers who say the things we would like to have said, or would like to say because they resonate, their spirits with our spirit.

The desire to help people, rather than to hurt people or to use people results from being loved by one's mother. The philosophical and psychological subtleties develop, perhaps, even to the end of one's life, principally, as re-enforcements, as resonances of one's experiences as a child, in a family, of the sense of one's parents' love and commitment and the values they taught directly or inadvertently.

EDITOR'S NOTE:

This publisher was interested in how Dolores Woods and Ron Rehfeldt grew to become conservative and liberal thinkers. I hope the sharing of their life experiences will give you the same insight it gave to me. In the future, various topics will be quite controversial. I hope you will remember their life experiences and equate it with their thinking so that when criticizing them, you will be more constructive than critical.

LITTLE COMPANY WELCOMES NEW BOARD MEMBER

Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers is proud to announce the appointment of Albert C. Baldermann, of Palos Park, to its Board of Directors.

Mr. Baldermann is President and C.E.O. of Southwest Financial Bank and Trust Company of Orland Park, and a Director of Southwest Financial Bank and Trust Company of Chicago.

He is an instructor in commercial law, consumer law, trust law and negotiable instruments at Moraine Valley Community College. Currently, he is also a panel member on the Hearing Board of the Attorneys' Registration and Discipline Commission of the Illinois Supreme Court. In addition to his position at Little Company, Mr. Baldermann also serves on the Advisory Boards of Catholic Charities, St. Xavier University, and Misericordia Homes, and the Board of Directors of St. Rita High School.

Mr. Baldermann said, "I'm very honored that I was asked to serve on the board ... the Hospital is a very big part of the community and I'm happy to be a part of it. I want to contribute to Little Company's ability to move forward and participate in steering the Hospital into the future."

Mr. Baldermann, a former resident of Evergreen Park, now lives in Palos Park with his wife, Meg.

Albert C. Baldermann is the newest member of Little Company's Board of Directors.

WE ARE REACHING OUT TO YOU

The Veterans Memorial Foundation is composed of the Veterans Community, Group, and Organizations, together with the Chicago Cook County Building Trades Council and their Local Unions of the Chicago Metropolitan towns and Villages. We are pleased to thank you for the support and for your true and generous help contributing funds needed to complete and to finalize the construction of the "Eternal Flame" Monument at 111th Street and South Harlem Avenue.

Your on-going support and dedication to this project has earned for you a most honored position, that you have been named "God Parent" of this magnificent Veterans Memorial, Which was dedicated and unveiled at a very special public ceremony on Sunday, May 23, 1993. To further aid us in making this wonderful dream a reality, your help is still needed. We simply ask, that if you can please help and tell your dear relatives and friends of this great cause, this will help us to extend our close family of supporters and will enable us to share the joy we have worked so hard for to pay off the "Eternal Flame" Monument.

As "God Parent", you have helped to unveil the Monument in a very jubilant ceremony. The Veterans Memorial Park and the Veterans Memorial "Eternal Flame" was dedicated in loving memory to all men and women, your loved ones who served, fought, and died in all of the United States Wars.

Please visit and see the Veterans Memorial "Eternal Flame" reaching 24 feet and four inches high into the blue sky. You will view the five branches of highly polished steel that forged in the "Eternal Flame". Each one of the steel branches commemorates and represents the five branches of the Military Might, the US Army, the U.S. Air Force, the U.S. Navy, the U.S. Marines, and the US Coast Guard. Let this be one of your life's most powerful tributes. Please donate today....

The metal sculptor, Mr. Bruce A. Niemi, of Gurnee, Illinois, who designed the "Eternal Flame", needs to be paid $20,000 for his skill and labor. We humbly ask of you again, please open your hearts and help us pay off the sculptor and crafters of this "Eternal Flame" War Memorial Monument.

Any donor who will donate $1,000 or more will receive a 2 x 1 foot Granite with his, her, or a loved one's name engraved into the granite and will be embedded in the front walkways of the "Eternal Flame". Anyone can be memorialized, veteran father, brother, mother, sister, sons, daughters, and sweethearts. Living persons, or in memory of those who passed away, may be memorialized and paid tribute to.

Please make your check payable to VETERANS MEMORIAL FOUNDATION, and mail it to: Worth Bank and Trust, 6825 West 111th Street, Worth, Illinois, 60482.

Computer Service Steadily Grows

Bobbi's Computer Services, now in it's third year of operation, is growing rapidly. Bobbi Prim, founder and President of Bobbi's Computer Services, started out doing a few resumés for friends. Word spread fast about the work she did and she received calls daily for more resumés to be done. Then came requests for different documents, such as fliers, brochures, reports, legal transcription, term papers, as well as, computer repair, maintenance, etc. The more requests received, the more diversified Bobbi's Computer Services became.

Over the past two years, Bobbi's Computer Services has expanded into many computer facets. Their Desktop Publishing library now consists of over 13,000 graphics and has more than 500 fonts, enabling them to design a vast array of newsletters, business cards, letterheads, brochures, etc., while keeping the Clients' costs at a minimum. This means there is no end to what can be done with the design and creation of what the Client desires.

Bobbi's Computer Services has also branched out into computer consulting, including not only computer repair and maintenance, but training and technical support.

Business has grown so fast that it is a challenge to keep up with the requests. Bobbi's Computer Services now has a staff of four and Bobbi has recently hired a Secretary to help with the administrative work so she can devote more of her time to her Clients.

"Satisfying the customer is our main concern," says Bobbi Prim. She will do what it takes to get the job done. Bobbi turns no one away and is more than happy to do any job -none too big - none too small. She enjoys her work and takes pride in the demands required of her to get the job completed, often working into the wee hours of the morning. From individual requests to the needs of large corporations, Bobbi's Computer Services can help you, and most important, the Customer's satisfaction is always guaranteed.

Bobbi is a member of the Southland Chamber of Commerce, Alsip Chamber of Commerce, Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce, Crestwood Business Association, and a board member of the Kiwanis Club of Glenwood.

If Bobbi's Computer Services can help you in any way, be it Secretarial Support or Computer Consultation, call (708) 371-6943.

Library Service to the Homebound

The Evergreen Park Public Library is now offering home delivery service to shut-ins. Every two to three weeks, a volunteer will delivery library materials to those Evergreen Park residents who are unable to come in to the library because of a disability. The disability can be a permanent condition or a temporary one, such as a broken leg.

If you need this service and live in Evergreen Park, or would like to volunteer as a delivery person, please contact the Adult Services Librarian, Christine Raap, at (708) 422-8522.

Bereavement Training Sessions

An introduction to bereavement ministry training will be presented by Catholic Charities Parish Social Ministry Consultation Services in a six-session series on Thursday evenings from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. on February 10, 17, 24 and March 3, 10 and 17, 1994. The sessions will be held at Catholic Charities Southwest Suburban Office, 10661 South Roberts Road, Palos Hills.

The first four sessions are geared to professionals who serve grieving people, bereavement ministers and persons reaching out to bereaved family and friends. All six sessions are recommended for those who want to establish a bereavement ministry in their parish, church or organization or for those who might need to re-evaluate the structure and service components of their bereavement program. This training is not recommended for persons who have lost a loved one within the past two years, nor for those who are going through the experience of anticipating the death of a loved one.

Registration is limited to 20 participants in the order received. C.E.U.'s will be available depending on the number of sessions attended. The fees are $45.00 per person for six sessions; $35.00 for four sessions; plus $10.00 for C.E.U.'s. Send your registration request by February 1, with a check payable to Catholic Charities, Attention: Julie Barker, 721 North LaSalle, Chicago, IL 60610. For details, contact Ms. Barker at (312) 655-7405. Persons who need an accommodation for a disability for this training are requested to contact Ms. Barker by February 1.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Crabs Have to 'Face the Music'

By Anita Anderson

It's time for all crabs to crawl out of their "shell" and face the music. Oregon Dungeness Crabs that is. When it's crab season in Oregon, people get together for a crab feed.

Not that all of you menu planners out there are going to run out and buy buckets of Oregon crab, but perhaps since prices will be more consumer friendly, and Dungeness crabs are at their peak in freshness and flavor, you owe it to yourself.

Oregon has 400 miles of rugged coastline and the waters are cold and clean. Dungeness crab, which thrives in its waters, have a sweet flavor and flaky texture. They are a good source of protein, are low in fat and calories and contain less cholesterol than many other popular shellfish.

Following are four crab recipes you may care to clip or try out while Dungeness crab are available. Or, if you want to leave the cooking for someone else, Shaw's Crab House at 21 East Hubbard Street will sponsor a Crab Festival through February 22nd to bring Oregon crab eating to Chicago.

A typical crab feed includes a cup of chowder, one large chilled and cracked Dungeness crab, mustard mayonnaise, sourdough bread and coleslaw. The price is $25. Call (312) 527-2722.

Recipes follow.

HOT SPICY CRACKED CRAB
(Serves 2-4)

1 frozen Dungeness crab or Alaskan king crab legs in shell, thawed, cleaned and cracked
1/2 cup butter
3-4 cloves garlic, crushed
1 can (14 ounces) chicken broth
1 1/2 cups dry vermouth
Juice of 1 lemon
1 teaspoon cracked peppercorns
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

Combine butter, garlic, chicken broth and one cup Vermouth, lemon juice, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Simmer ten minutes. Add crab. Bring to a boil. Gently steam for 10-15 minutes. Add 1/2 cup Vermouth before serving.

MARY'S CRABMEAT CASSEROLE
(Serves 4)

1 pound crabmeat
1-1/3 cups mayonnaise
2 cups fresh bread crumbs
1 small onion, minced
1 can (8 1/2 ounces) water chestnuts
1/2 pound mushrooms
1 dash salad herbs
5 hard boiled eggs, sliced
Salt and pepper
Crushed cornflakes

Mix first nine ingredients gently. Pour into buttered casserole. Sprinkle with crushed cornflakes. Bake in 350° oven for one hour. May be served in individual shells.

CRAB LASAGNA
(Serves 6-8)

1 pkg. (8 ounces) Lasagna noodles
1 tablespoon oil
4 quarts water
2 cans cream of shrimp soup
14 ounces crab
2 cups cottage cheese
8 ounces cream cheese
1 egg
1 cup chopped onion
2 teaspoons basil
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup Cheddar cheese, shredded
4 medium tomatoes, peeled and sliced
2 teaspoons sugar
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese

Boil noodles in oil and water about 15 minutes. Drain. Combine soup and crab in medium saucepan and heat until bubbly. Combine next seven ingredients. In baking dish, layer 1/3 of the noodles, 1/3 of the cheese mixture, 1/3 of the Cheddar cheese, 1/3 of the noodles, all of the cream sauce, 1/3 Cheddar cheese, 1/3 noodles, 1/2 cheese mixture and Cheddar cheese. Top with tomatoes and sprinkle with sugar. Cook 20 minutes in 350° oven. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake for an additional 45 minutes. Let stand 15 minutes before serving. The flavor will have a chance to blend

Kolmar's Kitchens Cookbook Still Rings True

By Anita Anderson

The Kolmar PTA in Oak Lawn compiled its Kolmar's Kitchens Cookbook 18 years ago, and requests for the book still come in according to one of its planners, Diane Zurawski, who served as cookbook chairman when it was copyrighted in 1976.

"People tell me they still rely on the book for all its kitchen tested recipes," Zurawski said.

Following are a few recipes from the book. The book is no longer available, but the recipes will continue with the next edition of Village View Newspapers.

MOST DELICIOUS WILD RICE SOUP

3 oz. wild rice
1 tsp. salt
1/4 lb. bacon, diced
1/2 medium onion, diced
1 large stalk celery, diced
2 cans (10 3/4 oz. each) cream of mushroom soup
1 can (10 3/4 oz.) chicken broth
1-1/2 soup cans milk (or soup can milk and 1/2 soup can white wine)
1 can (4 oz.) mushrooms
Pepper to taste

Bring 1-3/4 cups of water to a boil; add rice and salt; cover tightly and cook over low heat until tender, about 35 to 45 minutes. Fry bacon until crisp; remove from pan. Saute onions and celery in bacon fat until onions are soft, but not brown; drain excess fat. Drain mushrooms, reserving liquid; dice mushrooms. Combine soups, broth, milk, mushrooms, sauteed vegetables, seasonings to taste and cooked wild rice and simmer about 20 minutes; longer simmering improves flavor. Can make ahead; reheating improves flavor. Serve in hot soup bowls, perhaps garnished with mushroom slices. Makes five or six servings.

MEAT BALL SOUP (Klupsy)

1 lb. ground beef
3 eggs
1/2 cup bread crumbs
Chopped celery (2 stalks)
1 medium onion, chopped
Parsley
1/4 cup milk (I use Carnation)
2 qt. water
2 bay leaves
10 whole allspice Celery leaves (tops)
3 medium potatoes
1 pt. sour cream
2 Tbsp. flour
Salt and pepper to taste

Combine ground beef, eggs, bread crumbs, celery, milk, onion and parsley. Form into 10 to 12 meat balls. Let stand one hour (for flavors to ripen). Bring water, 2 bay leaves, 10 allspice and celery leaves to boil. Gently drop in meat balls; while this is simmering, peel and quarter potatoes. Add to soup, continue simmering until potatoes are tender, about one hour. Combine sour cream, flour, salt and pepper in a bowl. Add a couple of ladles of soup; blend well. Add this to soup and stir, mix well. Serve with a roll and butter. This is a meal in itself. Delicious.

CROATION GARLIC POTATOES

5 lb. even sized red potatoes
5 cloves fresh garlic, chopped fine
1 stick margarine
4 to 5 sprigs freshly chopped parsley
Salt and pepper to taste

Boil potatoes in salted water for 15 minutes. Peel skins and cool. Oil bottom of a 9x13 inch pan, slice potatoes 1/3 inch thick and layer in pan with potatoes partially standing. Dot with margarine, sprinkle with salt, pepper, garlic and parsley. Place on a high rack in the oven and bake, uncovered, for 1/2 hour at 375°. Tips of potatoes will be brown when done.

CHEESE FINGER DUMPLINGS

1 lb. cottage cheese (small curd cream style)
3 eggs
1/2 stick butter
1 pinch of salt
2 cups flour

Mix in that order. Shape into finger dumplings; put dumplings in a pot of boiling water for five minutes. Drain; run cold water in pan to firm up the dumplings. Drain again, let cool on waxed paper. Reheat by frying in butter with bread crumbs and chopped onions or chives.

CHICKEN CACCIATORE

3 lb. frying chicken, cut up
3 Tbsp. olive oil
2 (8 oz.) cans tomato sauce
1 tsp. Italian seasoning or oregano
1/8 tsp. pepper
1 (6 oz.) can tomato paste
2 Tbsp. instant minced onion
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. garlic powder
1/2 cup red wine
1/3 cup grated Italian cheese

Brown chicken in oil in a large frying pan. Drain excess oil. Stir in remaining ingredients. Reduce heat; cover and simmer 45 to 50 minutes, until tender. Serve with sauce over spaghetti.

STEAK SUPPER IN A FOIL PACKAGE

1 1/2 lb. chuck steak (1 inch thick)
1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 envelope (about 1 1/2 oz.) onion soup mix
3 medium carrots, quartered
2 stalks celery, cut into 2 inch pieces
2 to 3 medium potatoes, pared and quartered
2 Tbsp. water

Heat the oven to 450°. Place a 24x18 inch piece of heavy duty aluminum foil in a baking pan; place meat on foil. Stir together mushroom soup and onion soup mix; spread over meat. Top with vegetables; sprinkle with water. Fold foil over; seal securely. Bake 1-1/2 hours. Makes four servings.

Free Admission To Oak Lawn Home Show

The Home Show at the Oak Lawn Pavilion, scheduled for February 18 through 20, will be free to the public.

The show will be highlighted with celebrity guests Justin "the Cajun Cook" Wilson of Louisiana Cookin', and Jim Wilson of The Victory Garden.

Justin Wilson will demonstrate his culinary abilities and flare for comic presentation on Saturday, February 19. He'll also be on hand to discuss recipes and autograph copies of his most recent cookbook, Homegrown.

Jim Wilson of The Victory Garden will appear Sunday, February 20, to offer homeowners tips on everything from potted plants to landscaping. Jim derives his expertise from more than 35 years in the agriculture business in South Carolina, and contacts through The Victory Garden PBS show, the longest-running gardening show on television.

The Home Show offers an array of exhibitors of home related products and services. The general public will be able to meet with experts to discuss their projects. The trades exhibiting will be very diverse, representing the latest in home remodeling, repair and improvements. Consumers planning their residential construction projects are invited to meet representatives of these firms and discuss their plans.

Admission and parking are free. Show hours are: Friday, February 18, from 5:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.; Saturday, February 19, from 10:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m.; and, Sunday, February 20, from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The Pavilion is located one block north of 95th Street on Oak Park Avenue in Oak Lawn. To exhibit in the show, call (708) 971-0102; for directions, call (708) 857-2420.

The automatic garage door opener was introduced in the late 1940's.

Seniors Get Free Tax Help

The American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) is, for the 26th year in a row, offering free income tax assistance to persons 60 years of age and over and other people with low-to-moderate income.

The AARP's Tax-Aide Program provides this service from February 1st through April 15th. Tax-Aide volunteers will prepare income tax returns at no charge or gratuity.

Seniors wishing to have their tax returns done should bring copies of their 1992 federal and state returns; tax forms for the 1993 tax year; W-2s, W-2Ps, SSA-1009s, and any other relevant data showing income for 1993.

To determine the Tax-Aide site nearest you, persons living in the Chicago metropolitan area should call the Internal Revenue Service at (312) 435-1040. Persons living outside the Chicago metropolitan area throughout northern Illinois should telephone the IRS at 1 (800) 829-1040.

Last year, more than 1.5 million persons were aided with their income tax returns by more than 31,150 Tax-Aide volunteers in the United States.

ive on all issues. I just know that when a family hangs together and children are taught right from wrong, it's much harder for things to go away. My belief about what is happening today is that the so called poverty/crime cycle breaks down to 20% poverty and 80% parental neglect. Society is doomed unless individual responsibility is resurrected and no more excuses are made for the criminal element creating such fear and anxiety in America today.

If I learned one thing in my life it's that poverty is a state of mind not a condition. Life's experiences, more so than textbooks, helped establish my views.

REPORT 93-1013: NEW RULES FOR "900" NUMBERS. On November 1, operators of "900" number services will become subject to new rules issued by the Federal Trade Commission and the Federal Communications Commission. Under the rules, a caller who dials up a 900 number must be advised at the beginning of the call of the name of the firm providing the service, as well as the cost of using the service. The caller must then be given three seconds after the sounding of a tone to hang up in order to avoid being charged. Importantly, if requested by a customer, a telephone company must block individual phone line access to 900 numbers.

If you would like more information about these new rules, write the FTC's Public Reference Branch, Room 130, Sixth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C. 20580, or call (202) 326-2222.

REPORT 93-1014: FREE FINANCIAL PLANNING SOFTWARE. Computer Associates is currently offering its new financial planning software, free of charge, to anyone who orders it. The software, which retails for $69.99, runs on an IBM-compatible personal computer equipped with Windows 3.1 software. It covers a wide range of financial subjects, including taxes, outstanding debts, investments and retirement planning.

To order the software, call (800) FREE-MONEY. A representative will take your name, address and a credit card number to cover a shipping and handling fee of $6.95.

REPORT 360: FORM YOUR OWN CORPORATION FOR LESS THAN $100.00. You can now instantly reserve a name and incorporate by telephone... while you hold on the line. In eight minutes or less, you will be the owner of a corporation, without red tape, large legal fees or hassles. Incorporation can often take weeks through law firms that charge from $500 to $2,500 or more. Through the Company Corporation, total costs are as low as $45 (not a misprint) plus filing fees of about $74. Corporate seals are available for a nominal charge.

The Company Corporation has been in business since 1972, and during the past 20 years has organized over 88,000 corporations. They have the ability to establish corporations in any state, including the well-known corporate haven, Delaware. Just decide on a corporate name (it won't hurt to have a second choice in mind), have your credit card ready, and call (800) 542-2677. Their address is 3 Christina Centre, 201 North Walnut Street, Wilmington, Delaware 19801.

REPORT 476: SETTING UP A NEW CORPORATION? If you are going to need money to get your new venture off the ground, don't make the mistake of putting it into the corporation as "paid-in capital." Instead, designate a small amount as paid-in capital (in most states, an amount as low as $100 is permissible), and put the rest in as a shareholder loan. By doing so, when the corporation begins to generate cash, you can take it out as repayment of your loan and not pay taxes on it. If you initially invest the money in the corporation as paid-in capital, the very first dollar you take out of the corporation will generally be subject to taxes.

Guns are the Method of Choice in Suicides by Older Americans

People over the age of 65 are the most likely to kill themselves, and the most likely to do so with a firearm - usually a handgun, say two University of Illinois professors.

Additionally, the rate of suicide by firearms among older Americans went up significantly during the 1980's - playing a part in the reversal of a 50-year downward trend in elderly suicide, the researchers said.

Mark Kaplan and Margaret Adamak, both professors of social work, examined national mortality data for the years 1979 to 1988, the most recent available, using a database developed by the Centers for Disease Control. What they and research assistant Scott Johnson found, and reported in the February issue of The Gerontologist, is that the rate of firearm-related suicide among older males increased significantly over that period, while the rate among almost all other age groups remained steady.

"The picture for older males, thus, looks rather bleak," the reseachers said. "They had the highest rate of suicide by firearms of any age category, and their rates of suicide by firearms rose, from 25.3 per 100,000 to a high of 32.0 over the ten year period."

That high was nearly twice the rate for men in the next highest age group, 55 to 64, and nearly three times the rate for males age 15 to 19.

"Of the more than 43,159 white and black men age 65 and over who committed suicide during the ten year period examined, nearly three out of four did so with a firearm," the researchers noted.

And while their work focused on suicides among older males, they also found that firearms, during the years studied, became the most prevalent method of suicide among older women as well. While the percentage of female suicides accomplished by firearms remained steady in all other age groups through those years, it rose steadily for women over 65 - to a high of about 35 percent.

"When compared with other industrialized nations, the United States ranks 16th in its overall suicide rate, but outranks the same countries in firearm-related suicides," the researchers noted. "The elderly account for a disproportionate share of these cases. For example, men age 65 and over represented 10.5 percent of the total U.S. population in 1990, and yet composed 22.1 percent of firearm suicides in 1988."

In attempting to explain these rates and increases, the researchers point to "a loss of dignity and personal control experienced by many elderly males" coupled with the increased availability of firearms and the lack of legislative restrictions. "A growing body of research suggests that the prevalence of firearms and their use as a method of suicide are inextricably linked."

Many Shades of Green

By Annette Dixon

Ireland, the land of many shades of green and without rain. On June, 22, 1992, while traveling to the Republic of Ireland, I decided to visit Northern Ireland.

Friends from Derry

Within the three and a half weeks, and visiting all the counties in the Republic, I also wanted to visit with friends from Claudy, a small town near Derry, Northern Ireland, Belfast, Carrickfergus. After visiting with friends, I saw the beautiful countryside of Northern Ireland, with the giant causeway, the unique basalt columns created by volcanic eruption some 55 million years ago.

Of course, the Glens of Antrim and its romantic scenery was also very beautiful. And being in Derry and walking the walls the trouble became evident in that city.

Actually; I felt very safe in both Belfast and Derry, but had a terrible incident in Dublin the first week of my journey in Ireland.

I was on Temple Street and the Garda was searching all the containers and all the people vacated the area.

Thank God I didn't see another incident like that again, but I did see British Soldiers with guns in the North and that, of course, was foreign to me.

Publisher's Pen

By Annette Dixon

I'm just trying a little Inc. journalism. I hope you like it.

Overseen walking the streets of Oak Lawn on Saturday, January 29th, were Democratic campaign workers wearing Lipinski, Aurelia and Houlihan buttons. John McNamara, where are you?

Maureen Murphy's campaign had the right idea to get rid of her opponent by using the residency act, but attorneys conveniently know how to get out of predicaments.

Who's Kean? Is he the same person who has the green, red or blue signs?

Bob Streit, could Jayne Powers stuff envelopes on her break or lunch hour at the Village Hall?

I like Dawn Clark Netsch's straight shooter commercial. I enjoy pool.

Turning lanes on 95th Street will be greatly appreciated, but I wonder how long it will take us to get accustomed to using it.

If you're wondering why I'm trying something different for a Publisher's Pen, it was because my horoscope indicates I should do something controversial, so I'll try this item first.

Master Cruise Counselor

Donna Sheridan never imagined, in her wildest dreams, that she would be rubbing elbows with Omar Shariff at the base of the pyramids and being treated as royalty throughout the castles of Europe.

But it seems fitting that Chicagoland's ONLY certified Master Cruise Counselor should experience the best there is in her industry ... because her passion in life is to provide a memorable experience for travelers who entrust their money and their hopes to her expertise. And she even makes house calls!

Donna's certification as a Master Cruise Counselor came as a result of a program conducted by the CLIA (Cruise Lines International Association). It places her in the elite ranks within her industry and gives her top flight professional training in helping her clients. She personally inspected 20 ships, cruised on a minimum of five ships, successfully completed three case studies, six classroom seminars and examinations, and attended a cruise conference before finally becoming certified as a Mastercruise Counselor.

Interesting Collaboration Creates Nostalgic Irish Memoirs

By Anita Anderson

The son of a working class Irish family who grew up in Beverly had a meeting of the minds with the son of a prominent member of the New York and Broadway theater community and the result is "Goin East On Ashland," an irreverent and funny look at the growing up years of Mike Houlihan.

Houlihan combined his wit and background with the talents of Chris Hart, son of Moss Hart and Kitty Carlisle. He is the product of upper crust schools and majored in English at Harvard University.

Houlihan showcased that collaboration "Goin East On Ashland" at the Beverly Art Center at 2153 West 111th Street, the one-man show he wrote and produced from his days at Mt. Carmel High School and Christ the King.

"I met Mike when I attended a producers seminar in New York that he was coordinating. We are like the odd couple, but we work well together. Mike asked me to look at his script and make a few suggestions and I did," Hart said.

Hart is currently in between scripts but will head back to Los Angeles next week, where he plans to develop his new play, "Teeing Off," a golf comedy which he plans to open in Los Angeles and hopefully, later in New York.

"Mother always wanted me to be a doctor. I entered Pre-Med, but dropped out. My sister is the doctor in the family so mother is happy. Dad died when I was 13," Hart explained.

He directed his father's latest version of "Light Up The Sky" and also produced 22 episodes of "You Can't Take It With You" for television.

"All the good writers work for television now. Audiences don't seem to appreciate straight dramatic plays as much. Unless you are really driven to make it in show business, this is one hard area to break into," Hart added.

He is married to actress Beth Taylor Hart.

As for Houlihan, although he may not have been born with a silver spoon in his mouth, he created his own destiny and success. He studied acting at the Goodman School of Drama and the University of Illinois, in Chicago, after an aborted try at being a Chicago police officer.

He was associated with the American Shakespeare Festival in Stratford, Connecticut, doing the classics, and appeared in several off-Broadway shows.

He lives in River Forest with his wife and five-year-old twin boys.

Houlihan is president of Mike Houlihan Creative.

"Growing up with six siblings in a small bungalow in Beverly proved to be a jewel of a story for "Goin East On Ashland" for southsiders," he noted.

The show returns to the Beverly Art Center on March 14, 15 and 16. Call (312) 455-3838 for tickets. They are $10 and $15.

What Are the Elements of Crime And What Needs to be Done About Crime?

By Dolores Woods

Americans have to know what they're dealing with before any discussion of resolving the criminal problem can even begin. I had my column written and ready to go, but after viewing "20/20" on Friday, February 4th, 1994, I scrapped it. Prior to that show, I really thought I had at least part of the answer. There's an entirely new factor in the mix. That factor is nutty jurors! Unfortunately, in the Menendez case, the nutty jurors were almost exclusively women. Women who felt the boys had a legitimate basis for splattering their parents all over the woodwork of their mansion. One juror who was treated to a feast at the home of the Menendez' defense attorney after the trial, had an opportunity to speak with one of the Menendez brothers from his jail cell as he called to thank them. "He was such a sweet boy, he was nothing like the prosecutor portrayed him" was the statement made by the nutty juror. A two minute conversation with Eric Menendez convinced her that her "not guilty" was right. When another female juror was asked about the especially violent way they murdered their mother, chasing her around while she hid under the coffee table begging for her life, the juror finally admitted that she was maybe willing to go for second degree on that one. She said she did have a little trouble with that murder! How generous!

Many cannot see the correlation between crime and the courts and juries, or crime and most liberal legal policies. "60 Minutes" recently ran a puff piece on the Police Chief of Rhode Island who sends "Get Well" cards to drug dealers and hands out $10.00 bills to drug users hanging out on corners. His faulty logic was that this was going to show the criminals that they were loved; hence, they would all run to hand in their guns and turn from their wicked ways, right? NOT! (Can you imagine how these criminals must have been laughing up their sleeves at the "60 Minutes" segment?)

We now know brutally murdering parents is okay if you felt threatened (even if all they were doing was watching T.V., at the time they were "greased"), or mutilating a spouse is fine if he wasn't really nice to you as with the "B" family. (I just can't bring myself to mention the name). Remember the outcome of the Reggie Denny trial? These strange outcomes were all due to no one but jurors - nutty jurors.

Several months ago, liberals and some members of the Chicago press gave a hero's welcome to poor rioting anarchist Kathryn Powers (SDS/Weathermen) who took part in a bank robbery that resulted in the murder of a cop. Gosh, that was 23 years ago, let bygones be bygones! After all, she said she was sorry. "60 Minutes" referred to her as a victim!

Another example of acceptance of the criminal mind is President Clinton's inviting gang banger, Wallace "Gator" Bradley to the White House to rap and maybe pray a little bit about how God should blind naysayers and snap their limbs from their bodies as he prayed here in Chicago at the gang summit. This from a President who, just a few months ago, could not bring himself to attend the Boy Scout Jamboree! Somehow those filthy law-abiding Boy Scouts just were not deserving of a Presidential visit. This is a national disgrace. His activities are a microcosm of the New-Age liberal American "kill 'em with kindness" strategies of reward evil and punish good.

It was also Mr. Clinton whose first appointment to the U. S. Court of Appeals was Florida Supreme Court Judge "Turn 'em loose, Rosemary" Barkett. It was she who could not bring herself to allow the death penalty to destroy the lives of three Black Liberation Army members who stabbed an 18 year old in the back, chest and stomach and then sent audio tapes to the young victim's parents and news stations describing the details of their vicious acts. In the tapes, the BLA expressed how delighted they were to see the blood dripping from the victim's eyes, along with many other horrifying statements to gratuitously terrorize the grieving family. Judge Barkett felt it was not an issue of murder, but an issue of social awareness!

Even Clinton's U. S. Supreme Court appointee Ruth Ginsberg said that laws prohibiting sex with children may be unconstitutional! Do you think these appointments don't play a role in promoting crime!

I am an advocate of prisons being used for restitution whenever possible. In other words, if you take my money, you must work to pay it back. If you harm someone rendering them unable to work, you must pay to support them or their families. Other "less civilized", less sophisticated cultures do exactly that. If there were a system set up in the prison setting, whereby inmates were obligated to work within the confines of the institution, and their earnings were diverted to the victims of their crimes, it would undoubtedly serve as a deterrent. No one wants to work and hand his money over to someone else (as the average American taxpayer can confirm).

How about the "three strikes" philosophy. It sounds good, doesn't it? It just won't happen. Most criminals who are eventually caught have committed hundreds of crimes prior to being incarcerated (if they are incarcerated at all). Remember, only 87% of those arrested are prosecuted and only 79% of those are convicted with a mere 25% of those actually going to prison. So, you see, three strikes, actually adds up to 300 - but, it sounds oh so good in front of the cameras.

If you thought I would say the answer is in more education, more money, more air conditioning in prisons, better ballfields, sensitivity sessions, free needles, free NIKE's, or free anything - dream on. The fact of the matter is that from the moment Lyndon B. Johnson declared "War on Poverty", the taxpayer has paid three and a half billion dollars and for what? His program was going to eliminate crime because lack of money was the problem. We are again rewarding indolence and punishing the working American.

The answer is so simple, I didn't need an entire column to discuss it. The fact is that the people in the U. S. need to re-establish a sense of morality and responsibility. Unfortunately, I don't see it happening, especially with the immoral nature of so many of our elected officials who are willing to sell out an entire nation just to get elected. But, who elects them? "We have met the enemy and he is us" - Walt Kelly.

What About Crime?

By Ron Rehfeldt

Crime has plagued peoplekind since the beginning of their existence. Throughout history and before history, children, women and men have been victimized by the covetousness, greed, cruelty, lusts, anger, frustrations and perverted ideals of people who deviate from the just morals, values, principles and laws of their society. Often values or principles of justice have not been incorporated into the body of laws of a society, and in some instances, the very laws of a society are criminal. Examples of such criminality are the reign of terror of the French Revolution, of the Third Reich under Hitler's Naziism, of the Soviet Union under the Czars, Cossaks and Stalin, of the institutions of slavery and segregation in the United States, of our country's policies with regard to aboriginal inhabitants of this land, and of the CIA's programs of terror in foreign countries.

Crime has many faces. Many crimes are obvious: murder, rape, robbery, burglary, fraud, slavery, deceptive practices, drunk driving, child neglect, lying, cheating, assault and battery, physical and mental abuse of persons, unsafe working conditions, child prostitution, sweat shops, overcharges for services or products, firing workers unjustly, avarice, greed, covetousness, putting one's own comforts, convenience and pleasures above compassion for the suffering of others, treating others as less than equal persons.

So, what is to be done to address all the crime that pervades our lives?

First, we have to eliminate the marketplace economic way of thinking we allow to dominate us. We do not have a right to every pleasure that comes into our view. There are other considerations, most especially the value of human persons, the right that people should have to live with dignity and respect, to have a job that pays a decent wage, one in which a person may have pride, fulfillment and self-respect. The right to happiness, which is not the same as

Much of the more obvious crimes committed at this time in our history is connected to the sale and consumption of various so-called controlled substances that are not controlled at all. They need to come under control, and one of the ways of doing that is to eliminate the drug black market by making drugs available to abusers. It is the illicitness of the drug trade that creates its abusive and society destroying profitability. We are in the midst of a Prohibition Era milieu, and no amount of so-called law enforcement, law and order or tough police work will make any difference.

We must understand that the most important place to address crime is before it happens. Most effort and most money should be spent on ways to prevent crime. It would be utter stupidity to contend that people who have good jobs, who have self-respect and are experiencing self-fulfillment, do not commit crimes. It is clear that many people who commit crimes are very prosperous, very much respected and, it would seem, finding fulfillment in their lives, though, the last comes principally from the love and friendship one experiences. Nonetheless, it is safe to say, I believe, that hope will do more to prevent a person from committing a crime than will despair, whereas despair will very likely influence a person to commit a crime.

"You will not eliminate crime by eliminating poverty, ignorance, poor health and ugly environments," contends Ramsey Clark in his book Crime in America, which he wrote more than 20 years ago. "But," he continues, "it is clear that such conditions are demonstrably responsible for most crime - for nearly all crime that is foreseeable and can be prevented."

At the same time, Clark asserts, "If we are to control crime, we must undertake a massive effort to rebuild our cities and ourselves, to improve the human condition, to educate, employ, house and make healthy. And with the vastness of our growth, and the immensity of change, we must move urgently."

We must demand more honesty of our public officials, more functioning on the basis of principles of justice. We must ask more of our churches and of their leadership, that they work for the establishment of human rights and human decency. We must demand more of parents, of teachers, of schools, of various social, recreational and cultural institutions, such as our park districts and libraries, to provide programs helpful to making our society more humane. And, finally, we need to have laws that are just to the owners of businesses and industries, while at the same time, serving the just interests of those who are employees.

Crime is a bane to our lives, and it has many faces, perhaps all of them resulting from the way people see themselves fulfilling their needs and wants. If we could educate our children to find fulfillment in their lives without committing crime, we would do much to diminish the power of evil over us.

By Ron Rehfeldt

As far as poetry is concerned, the initiator and coordinator of poetry reading events at the Oak Lawn Public Library began late in life.

While many poets can recall stories of their days of writing verse in their childhood, Vittorio Carli of Oak Lawn principally remembers from his childhood that he was a voracious reader or that he worked several summers on a farm in his mother's hometown in Asiano, Italy. "I used to speak Italian much better than I spoke English," he notes.

His life as a reader took a hiatus for most of his high school years, he recalls. "I stopped reading for a while then," he says. "I became more interested in my social life. I was almost a complete bookworm in elementary school. In high school, I wanted to make friends."

Also in high school, he wrote limericks and told jokes in class. "In my biology class, I would raise my hand and then tell a biology joke. That's the way I got attention. But, finally, my teacher told me I had to stop doing it, though he encouraged me to write the jokes in a book, which I did, and gave it to him. As far as I know, he still has it, but I didn't make a copy for myself I'm sorry to say."

In high school, Carli also began to keep a journal.

Carli started his college career at the University of Illinois at Chicago. "I didn't like it too much," he lamented. "It was a commuter school and I never got to know anybody. There were always long lines of people waiting to talk to teachers. I needed personal attention."

So, after a year, he transferred to Moraine Valley Community College in Palos Hills, and subsequently received his bachelor's degree with a major in English from St. Xavier College in Chicago in 1987.

He began to write poetry, publishing it in MVCC's newspaper under the pseudonym of Vicar Lee. Influenced by Camus and Kafka, he wrote mostly existential poems, he says.

After graduating from St. Xavier, he taught elementary school for two years, but literature, philosophy, movies and writing poetry remained his passions. "I wanted to teach literature, but you do not teach much literature to elementary students." So, he went to Illinois State University, where he got a master's degree in English, as a result of which he has taught at Moraine Valley and at Daley College and Chicago State University in Chicago, though so far, only on a part-time basis.

In graduate school, at ISU, Carli not only wrote poetry, but also participated in poetry reading events, an activity that he would con-

NEWS OF SAFETY

Safety, Styling—High On Buyer's List

(NAPS)—ON THE ROAD TO SAFETY—Though car buyers may list styling as their number one reason for buying a personal luxury coupe, safety is usually high on their list as well. Described as a distinctly American car of beautiful forms and muscular grace, this 1995 Buick Riviera, for example, has a complete range of safety features. The rigid body structure, which contributes to the solid feel and predictable handling of the car, also forms a strong safety cage around the occupants. Both the driver and front passengers are protected by standard air bags as well as three-point safety belts. Anti-lock four-wheel disc brakes are standard on all Rivieras as is the PASS-Key II theft-deterrent system, which permits the car to be started only if the proper key is used. Perhaps most important, the engine, suspension, steering and brakes of the Riviera have all been designed to give the driver a sense of confidence and control during everyday driving, and to respond predictably in emergency maneuvers.

New officers of the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce pose for a formal photo following the Installation Dinner Dance held recently at the Oak Lawn Hilton Hotel. Pictured are Brian Anderson, President, Klem Brzuskiewicz, First Vice President, Joann Buschbach, Second Vice President, Leslie Ohm, Secretary, and James Brady, Treasurer. An enthusiastic crowd of 300 people braved below-zero weather to attend the gala affair, always a highlight of the Chamber of Commerce year.

Officers serve a one-year term with a 25-member Board of Directors. More than 350 businesses and organizations which belong to the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce work to support the community by maintaining a strong business atmosphere and by participating in community endeavors.

Local Known Actor In A Chorus Line

Pheasant Run Theatre presents A Chorus Line like its never been seen before. "Traditionally, this production has been mounted and remounted using the original Broadway staging and choreography by the legendary choreographer, Michael Bennett. "We have chosen to revive and rejuvenate the original concepts and choreography into a more contemporary production," says Director Diana L. Martinez.

The technical and lighting aspects of the production will reflect a more "concert-like" light show. The addition of over 60 new lighting instruments for special effects will contribute to a very high-tech impact on the production. Caryn Burkhart, the sound technician, familiar to Oak Lawn residents, did an outstanding job.

Marvin Hamlisch's Tony Award winning score of A Chorus Line offers favorites such as One, I Can Do That, and What I Did For Love. Musical Director, Scott Stevenson will be using a series of keyboards and synthesizers for the large dance numbers to give the score less of a 70's sound and a more energized 90's feel.

A Chorus Line tells the story of actors auditioning for a Broadway production and shows the audience what goes on beyond the footlights. This legendary musical stands alone by its brilliant script. It truly reflects an accurate picture of the insecurities, excitement and challenges, which actors face during the audition process. The script also interweaves a personal conflict between the show's aggressive and dogmatic director, Zach and his estranged lover Cassie, who reappears for the first time in years to audition for his show.

Tony Calzaretto, who plays Al, recently was selected for Jesus in Oak Lawn's Jesus Christ Superstar, but had to turn down the part for A Chorus Line. Starting February 18th, 19th and 20th, Tony will be appearing at Show Case Theatre in Blue Island.

A Chorus Line opened January 21st, 1994 at Pheasant Run Dinner Theatre. Performances are Thursdays and Fridays at 7:30 p.m., Saturdays at 4:45 p.m. and 9:00 p.m., Sundays at 1:45 p.m. and 6:00 p.m. Overnight and dinner packages are available. Parking is free. FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

CHICKEN IS 'HOT SELLER' ON FOODSERVICE MENUS

BY ANITA ANDERSON

Chicken is a 'hot seller' on foodservice menus, according to Restaurant & Institutions' annual menu census. Of the three "top good sellers," two were chicken. Chicken breast fillets and chicken wings were topped only by French fries, which headed the list.

Other chicken products in the list of top 20 "good sellers" were grilled chicken salad and broiled/grilled chicken.

Even though only a small percentage of foodservice operations offer rotisserie chicken, more than half of the restaurants offering it say rotisserie chicken is a good seller. Sixty-six percent of fine-dining operators call rotisserie chicken a good seller and 33 percent of business/industry operators say it sells well.

While rotisserie chicken is making a strong debut in certain foodservice segments, chicken nuggets, bone-in chicken, breaded fillets and patties still get top billing across the broad foodservice menu. Except for fillets, all fried chicken items rate a higher good-seller response from institutional operators than commercial operators.

"Top items added to menus" featured a number of chicken dishes. Grilled chicken and chicken wings were the two favorites with breast fillets and fillet sandwiches among other popular new menu items.

In a listing of "20 top foods on menus," three were chicken - chicken breast fillets, chicken fillet sandwich and chicken soup. The "10 top poultry items" were chicken breast fillet, turkey breast, broiled/grilled chicken, fried chicken, baked chicken, barbecue chicken, chicken nuggets, chicken patties, whole roast turkey and chicken pot pie. Predicted to be "rising stars of the future" were rotisserie chicken and spicy chicken.

The National Broiler Council notes that of 22 billion pounds of chicken marketed this year, about 36 percent, will go to foodservice.

Chicken drumsticks and thighs are ideally suited for hearty cold weather meals and the National Broiler Council notes that chicken leg quarters are one of the best buys in the meat case. With the huge demand for chicken breasts, these thigh-leg-partial-back sections of the bird are in good supply and are, therefore, economically priced, replacing the whole bird as the economy chicken buy for consumers.

Chicken leg quarters lend themselves to a variety of cooking methods from roasting to poaching to frying to slow cooking. The National Broiler Council notes that they are especially suited to ethnic dishes with robust seasonings, such as Chicken Cacciatore and Chicken Curry. Leg quarters are also ideal for the grill when the weather is warm enough for outdoor cooking or for barbecuing in the oven.

Chicken now accounts for almost one-third of the nation's total meat consumption. In 1934, the first year broiler production figures were recorded by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, 34 million broilers were produced. According to the National Broiler Council, the industry now processes that number in less than one working day.

Broiler production in 1994 is expected to reach 23 billion pounds, about five percent above last year's output. The National Broiler Council said that chicken prices are expected to be about the same as in 1993 or slightly lower.

'Comfort Food' Has Southern Slant

By Anita Anderson

Southern Memories, the new cookbook by Nathalie Dupree of Atlanta, is one of those books that recipe collectors will want.

Not just a book to keep on the shelf and pull out once in a while, Southern Memories is sure to be part of special cooking and dishes to make especially for special gatherings.

Dupree is the host of three cooking series on national PBS stations and The Learning Channel.

"Many of the recipes in this book were developed for restaurants (she's had three). My mission is for people to eat homecooked food and not be obsessed with just how much butter or eggs is in a certain recipe. This is where moderation comes in," Dupree said.

Dupree tells the story of one of her relatives who used to work in the White House when President Franklin Delano Roosevelt ran the administration.

One of his favorite recipes was a casserole called Country Captain.

"General George Patton used to visit the President in Columbus, Georgia. He was somewhat of a ladies' man and women used to flock to the General when his train would arrive. They would be carrying dishes of Country Captain," Dupree continued.

The author is working on her fifth book for busy day cooks.

"The recipes can be put in a pot and forgotten about," Dupree said.

One of the dishes sampled at Bub City, when Dupree was in town, was Smoked Pork Chops in Mississippi Caviar, prepared by Chef Mark Kelly.

The "caviar" was in a natural brown pork gravy with a dash of Cajun seasoning, which the author says is a must-add ingredient for any brown gravy.

For dessert, Kelly prepared another one of Dupree's recipes for Coca-Cola Cake.

"One of our friends brought this cake to a church social in Columbus, Georgia. It is so Southern, I decided to add the recipe to Southern Memories," the author added.

Before Dupree parted company with the writers gathered at Bub City, the Lettuce Entertain You enterprise, to catch a plane for Dallas, she offered a hint for people who are nervous about entertaining.

"Cook everything in advance. Wash all the pots and put them away. Have the table set. I would even suggest serving the Country Captain dish. It's easy and delicious."

Dupree, who grew up in Chicago, said she recalls her grandmother baking homemade bread and eating her grandmother's homemade butter cookies.

"I think Southern Illinois is very Southern as far as cooking styles," she concluded.

Several recipes from Dupree's Southern Memories follow:

COCA-COLA CAKE

Makes 1 cake.

My friend Judy Walz brought this to a church covered-dish party we had in my home, and it was the hit of the evening. It has everything in it that children love - Coca-Cola, chocolate, nuts and miniature marshmallows! Let them make it themselves for the next family occasion.

2 cups all-purpose flour
2 cups sugar
1 cup (2 sticks) butter
1 cup Coca-Cola
3 tablespoons cocoa powder
½ cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1½ cups miniature marshmallows
FROSTING:
½ cup (1 stick) butter
3 tablespoons Coca-Cola
1 1-pound bag confectioners' sugar, sifted
1 cup chopped pecans
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Preheat the oven to 350°. Butter a 9 x 11-inch oblong pan.

Sift the flour and sugar together into a large mixing bowl. Combine the butter, Coke, cocoa and buttermilk in a saucepan and bring to a boil. Pour the Coke mixture over the flour mixture; add the baking soda, eggs, vanilla and marshmallows and mix well.

Pour the batter into the buttered pan and bake until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean, about 45 minutes. Let the cake cool for 10 minutes or so.

To make the frosting, combine the butter, cocoa and Coke in a saucepan and bring to a boil. Remove from the heat, and fold in the sugar, pecans and vanilla. Spread the frosting on the still-warm cake.

NOTE: For more servings, the cake can be baked in a 9 x 13-inch sheet cake pan, decreasing the baking time by 10 to 12 minutes. However, you will need to increase your frosting by at least half to compensate for the extra surface.

P.S./WASHINGTON

a weekly column by
U.S. Senator Paul Simon of Illinois

Public Interest, Public Passion, And The Shortage of Leadership

Perhaps it is my imagination, but I sense that the public is more negative, more cynical, toward government than at any other time I remember. This applies to both political parties and to all levels of government.

There have always been critics. If you read what people wrote about George Washington or Thomas Jefferson or Abraham Lincoln, you wonder how the critics could fail to see the superb qualities of these leaders.

But there is a difference in degree today.

"They're all a bunch of crooks," is a description I have heard of office-holders and candidates from my early years. Now there is no greater belief in that than decades ago, but a greater belief that those in office have "a good deal" for themselves and strive to hold the prize of public office much more than they strive to serve the public.

We find ourselves in the era of finger-to-the-wind politics.

One dramatic change has been the rise of opinion polls which too often guide candidates in forming their positions, and too often guide office-holders, such as senators, in how they vote.

The public senses that and then there is an inconsistency: The public wants us to do what they favor – according to the polls – and also wants us to face our problems and come up with difficult and sometimes unpopular decisions.

I always remember the man who approached me on the streets of Chicago during an election campaign and said, "I think I disagree with you on every issue, but I trust you. I'm going to vote for you."

The public yearns for candid leadership.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio is retiring. He is controversial and gutsy and has contributed immensely to the Senate and the nation. In his retirement remarks in the Senate last June, he said:

"I know that the members of this body (the Senate) have the wisdom, talent and experience to accomplish more than we now do. We seem somehow to fall short of our considerable potential and as a result have a less positive impact than might otherwise be possible. I have come to believe that this is because we regularly calculate every vote for its immediate political impact.

"We do not look beyond one day's news cycle, unless it is to envision the next election's negative ad. We, therefore, find ourselves ducking tough choices, postponing the inevitable, passing the buck and pointing fingers."

He is correct. And the public somehow senses this, even as the public knows that sometimes we are excessively partisan.

No public opinion poll will show us how to solve unemployment and poverty. No poll-taker will tell us how to solve the problems of crime and health and education.

Poll-takers may tell us how to make speeches that please the public – temporarily. I regret I have sometimes joined in that.

But the public yearns for real leadership that sometimes takes unpopular stands, leadership that studies the issues carefully and comes up with real answers, not public relations answers.

We owe that to our children and to generations to come.

NEWS OF SAFETY

On The Road To Automobile Security

In the war against car jacking, a recently developed security product can transmit a signal to a satellite and have it retransmitted to your car to disable it so it can't be driven.

(NAPS)—A car jacking deterrent using satellite technology has been developed. Aptly called The Posse, it works like this:

In a car jacking situation, the driver simply walks away from his or her car without showing any signs of resistance. Using the nearest touch-tone phone (pay or private), the driver places an 800 toll-free call to the Posse Communications Center. In seconds, the car horn sounds and the headlights flash. Once the car is stopped and the ignition is shut off, it cannot be started again.

Other features of this first-of-a-kind technology include standard automatic unlocking and remote starting which can be interfaced with your existing auto security system. This means you can't be locked out of your car and can always warm up your car via remote on those cold winter mornings.

Simply put, a first of a kind device is now available that delivers a new dimension in security along with convenience and peace of mind.

The Posse is made by Audiovax Corporation, sold under its Prestige brand name and is available at auto security and auto sound retailers and installers nationally.

Business Travel

- All my business traveling is starting to affect my kids. My son got a "C" on a test and asked the teacher for a free upgrade.
- You know you're traveling too much when you have to receive wake-up calls on your car phone.
- I've been on the road too long. I have to wear this name tag home so my family will know who I am.

The Library of Congress was established in 1800.

Remember. People are unreasonable, illogical and self-centered.

Love them anyway.

If you do good, people will accuse you of selfish ulterior motives.

Do good anyway.

If you're successful, you'll win false friends and make true enemies.

Try to succeed anyway.

Honesty and frankness will get you nowhere, they make you vulnerable.

Be honest and frank anyway.

People favor underdogs, but they follow the Top dogs.

Fight for some underdogs anyway.

What you spend years building, may be destroyed overnight.

Build anyway.

People really need help, but they attack you if you try to help them.

Try anyway.

Give the world the best you have, and you'll get kicked in the mouth.

Give the world the best you have anyway.

Parents of students living in District #109 should be notified that information has been received from the Bridgeview Police Department regarding the rape and beating of a thirteen year old District #109 student under the 79th Street railroad overpass.

The description of the suspect released by the Bridgeview Police Department refers to a white male in his late twenties, about 6 feet tall, and weighing 175-185 pounds. The suspect has red hair, a red mustache, and was wearing a black leather jacket, black shirt, and blue jeans.

Below is an artist conception of the individual. Any parent or resident that recognizes this individual, or has information regarding this crime, is encouraged to contact the Bridgeview Police Department.

West Point Graduate Seeks 3rd Congressional District

At a point in time when the climate in Washington is anti military and the President is embracing Vietnam along comes a West Point graduate and combat veteran in the 3rd Congressional District to Challenge the President's stance on many issues including the military.

Jim Nalepa, the 37 year old challenger to Congressman Lipinski, is a 10 year military officer, combat veteran and small business owner. He is a 1978 graduate of West Point and rose to the rank of captain in the Army. He is an astute foreign policy expert and appears occasionally on Calloway and other programs when an issue regarding intervention arises. He participated in the Grenada rescue mission in 1983.

Nalepa states he would like to see government run like a business. Nalepa, the son of Polish immigrants, (who advised that his name means "to stick to it") in Polish, was opposed to both the Bush and Clinton Administration's policy in Somalia. "We never should have gone to Somalia", he said. "No American troops should be put into a combat position where there is not a clear threat to our national security or a stated mission and timetable.

If we wanted to bring food to the people, we shouldn't have used our military as errand boys. What was billed as a humanitarian relief effort in Somalia has become another killing field for American soldiers" he said. On Bosnia he feels that the U.S. must lift the arms embargo to allow a level playing field.

During the Gulf war he reactivated himself to assist in the war effort and put his career on hold until the need for his services ended.

Nalepa feels strongly that we must have term limitations, "If the President of the U.S. is limited to two terms, why can't we limit other elected officials?

On crime, "Government can build roads, bridges and create jobs. But if it fails to protect its people, then everything else government does is irrelevant." Nalepa feels the death penalty should be expanded and there should be no parole for violent criminals.

The tax issue is one of his most fervent issues, "Our new President and our old congress believe that our economic difficulties lie in taxing middle Americans into bankruptcy".

Nalepa is not new to politics, he was a former South Barrington Alderman and worked for the elections of Phil Crane, Ronald Reagan and George Bush.

Assistant State's Attorney Christopher J. Donnelly was recently the recipient of the "Distinguished Service Award" from the Stevenson Elementary School, 8010 South Kostner. On hand to present the award are Principal Paul Ramirez, and Chairman of the Local School Council Rouhy Shalabi.

Award recipient Donnelly is a Democratic candidate for Judge in the 3rd Sub-Circuit. The district boundaries are Damen on the East, Harlem on the West, the Stevenson Expressway on the North and 135th Street on the South.

Marauders lst tournament game

On February 22, 1994 MVCC Marauders showed strength and vitality by powering Rock Valley College 86-58. There was no comeback in this game for they held the lead throughout this Regional 4 tournament.

Marauders scored 46 points in the first half, with Cory Huddleston #33, Guard, finishing with 26 points, and Brian Pote #20, Forward, finishing with 22 points and Marcus Pol #24, Guard, finishing with 20 points.

Saturday, February 26, they play Olivet Harvey College, and if they win, they will finish on the 27th with the tournament and go into Regional Finals.

This is the first year the MVCC Marauders won all their home games.

Congratulations to Coach Bill Finn, of 13 years, and his team of 1994. Good luck!!

Westside Bingo at Glendora

"Sports are expensive, but when you do it for the children, it's well worth it." These are the sentiments of Steve Loulousis, Jo Ann Volpe, Debbie Hardt, Flo Leone, Vickie Hoagland and Diane Jaral. They have volunteered for years by operating Westside Bingo.

It takes approximately $70,000 a year to run Westside Baseball by maintaining five baseball fields, purchasing uniforms, paying umpires, buying equipment, etc. This non-for-profit organization is self funded with a Board of Directors of 26, and a Constitution of By Laws, with governing rules for the organization. They receive no outside help for funding.

There are approximately 600 children and at a cost of $178 per child to operate a baseball organization, it surely is understood why Bingo was started in 1979.

A defrayed amount of $108 is supplemented through Westside Bingo and the concession stand; thereby, a fee of $70 is charged for each boy and girl to be on the team.

Mrs. Rose Battista was celebrating her 52nd wedding anniversary on February 14, 1994 by playing bingo with three of her children, Marlene Black, Valerie Casillo and Snookie Yount. The reason they have played bingo every week for the past 13 years is because the volunteers are "fair with the people." Donna DiMiele plays bingo weekly at Glendora on Monday nights because her daughter Jo Ann volunteers.

What makes Monday night bingo unique? There are many reasons: the callers are great; they have $10 books; chemistry is great between the volunteers and players; volunteers cater to players; there are huge parking facilities; there is handicap accessibility, it is accessible to surrounding areas and protected by the Chicago Ridge Police Department.

A $10 book consists of 15 cards. There are 2 special games. There is a $500 cover all and a $300 special game and a $250 special game. The regular games consist of $75, $100 and $125 games, with multiple payoffs.

Go to Westside Baseball Bingo on Monday evenings at 6:45 p.m. and meet the "happy group" and help the kids.

Remember, success is being there!

OL Library Meeting

The Oak Lawn Library Board reviewed and approved several library policies at its regular meeting, February 15. Included were Use of Meeting Rooms, Community Use of Bulletin Board and Display Cases, Library Credit Card, Delinquent Patrons and Youth Services Programming. Review of Bylaws of the Trustees was postponed until the next meeting. The board has established a monthly review schedule so that all policies are reviewed annually.

The trustees approved payment of $19,897 for library materials; $29,652 for operating expenses; and $146,183 for personnel. Liability insurance for 1994 from Payan, Alberts and Thompson in the amount of $29,397 was approved. Medical insurance for employees had been studied by a committee of board and staff representatives. Its recommendation which involved the same firm was accepted and approved.

The board meets regularly at 7:30 p.m. on the third Tuesday of the month. Meetings are open to the public in the Oak Lawn Rotary Room, lower level of the library, 9407 South Raymond Avenue.

Chamber cookbooks

Cooking Treasures, a cookbook of home tested recipes, is for sale by the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce with all proceeds dedicated to the Park Lawn Association. Recipes were submitted by members of the Chamber, their friends and relatives and residents of the community who love to cook and are willing to share their secrets.

Copies are available for $10 each at the Chamber office, 9526 Cook Ave; Park Lawn Association, 10833 South LaPort; and George Washington Savings Bank, 10240 South Cicero.

For additional information, contact the Chamber of Commerce, (708) 424-8300.

Bridgeview News

The Bridgeview Park District is happy to announce that the dates for the Hunters Safety Course have been set for March 12th and 13th, 1994. This course is given by the State of Illinois Department of Conservation. The 12-hour course will entail firearms safety, first aid, identifying game and State Laws. Everyone that successfully completes this two day course will receive certification from the State of Illinois. (Please note that both days are required for certification). Anyone 10* years of age and older may attend this course.

This is a Free course sponsored by the State of Illinois. Pre-registration is necessary. Please call the Park Office at (708) 594-1818 or stop in to register. The Hunters Safety Course will be held Saturday and Sunday, March 12th and 13th from 9:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. on both days. The course will be held at the Sports Complex, 8100 South Beloit, Bridgeview, Illinois.

*A parent or legal guardian must be present to sign waiver for persons under the age of 18.

The Bridgeview Park District is happy to announce that there are still openings available on some of the one day excursions planned to help cure your cabin fever. All trips depart from the Sports Complex, 8100 South Beloit.

Thursday March 10th an outing to Aurora Hollywood Casino gambling boat will bring luck from slots, blackjack, roulette, baccarat, to more slots. The Hollywood Casino will also offer the thrill of Las Vegas! Before your gaming session you will be treated to an "Epic" buffet (all you can eat)! The bus will depart at 10:30 a.m. and return at approximately 4:30 p.m. You must be 21 years old or older to attend this trip. The fee is $28 for District and $33 for Non-District.

On January 20 and 21, the Bridgeview Park District Preschool Program sponsored a Hop-A-Thon to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association and raised $2111.02. Sixty-four preschoolers ranging from three to five years old along with their four instructors took part in this special event which was held in the Park District's Sports Complex, 8100 South Beloit.

Cherry Festival Needs Recipes

The National Cherry Festival is currently accepting recipes to be featured at the Festival's Taste of Cherries event, scheduled for Saturday, July 9, 1994.

Sponsored by the Chicago Tribune, revenues from the event will provide scholarships for area students to attend Northern Michigan College's Culinary Arts and Resort Management Program. Gifts of appreciation will be awarded to the finalists.

The cherry recipe competition categories include appetizers, salads, main dishes, breads and desserts. All recipes must use cherries in some form. The contest is open to non-professional and non-commercial cooks.

New this year is a youth division open to young people ages 10 to 16 for the dessert division only. The finalists' ingredients will be provided by Gordon Food Service.

All entries must be postmarked by March 15, 1994 and mailed to:

Letter to the Editor

Dear Miss Dixon:

Your Publisher's Pen column that I read in my complimentary copy of the Village View is atrocious. I think you'd better get your facts straight before you start making innuendos about certain people. I am referring to your comments about Maureen Murphy's opponent, Dave Heilmann.

He "conveniently" got out of NO predicament because there was none to get out of. The residency challenge was dismissed almost immediately because the challenger's evidence was practically nonexistent while Mr. Heilmann's evidence was overwhelming.

I suggest you get your facts straight before you make personal insinuations in your newspaper.

Thank you.

Laura Page

Editor's Note
Murphy's campaign tried to implement a case against her opponent by owning a condo in the loop and living there.

Opponent lives with his parents in Oak Lawn.

Feb. 15 issue
Maureen Murphy's campaign had the right idea to get rid of her opponent by using the residency act, but attorneys conveniently know how to get out of predicaments.

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Tile With Style To Increase Home Value

(NAPS)—Adding value to your home can be as easy as using premium materials and doing the work yourself. When you do your own tiling, you can invest some of the money you're saving in top of the line tiles. With new advances in tile technology, luxurious looks such as stone, mineral, marble and hand-painted are available for about a third the price of the "real thing." Italian tiles and trims are among the most prestigious and can make a small bathroom look like that of a palace.

Select the tiles for the theme or look you want to achieve. Remember, if you're on a budget, you can achieve high impact results even in a small area. "Your best bet is to do some dry layouts first. Try different patterns and mix and match colors before affixing them," suggests Kerry Lane, homecare and tiling specialist at Red Devil, Inc., Union, N.J.

After making tile selections, head to the hardware store for the appropriate tools and chemical products to tile with style. These include: a thinset mortar compound for affixing tile to a wood subfloor or tile paste/adhesive for wallboard; premixed or water-based tile grout; tile and grout sealer; a scraper to remove old tile; a grout rake to remove old grout; a hydra sponge for dampening; a notched tile trowel for applying mortar; a gum rubber float for applying grout and tile spacers. If fixtures are already in place, a tile cutter, nipper, rod saw blade and tile sander (such as a rubbing stone) may also be required. There are ceramic tile kits available containing most of the necessary tools.

To determine how much tile is needed, measure the area in square feet (or meters). Purchase 10 percent more tiles than required, to allow for cutting and to ensure that replacement tiles for the future are within the same dye lot. Check the tiles for color variations or breakage before you begin.

Make sure the thickness of the tiles is uniform, particularly if you are mixing brands and/or types. This may be more of a factor with Italian tiles because of glazing variations. Generally, the more processes the tile goes through, the more uniform each will be within the lot. Hand-shaped tiles have visible differences from one to the other, which for some designs may be desirable.

Correct preparation of the floor or wall surface is an essential start to any tiling job. The surface should be smooth. Old tiles should be removed with a Slamscraper® impact tool that easily pops them out with a single movement. Use a grout rake or grout saw to scrape out old grout.

Remember that when you tile an area, it adds considerable weight to the floor. You may wish to consult a professional contractor, to determine if added support or floor joists will be needed.

Using the notched trowel, apply the mortar compound to the floor making sure it is clean and dry prior to application. On walls, a tile adhesive may also be used. Place tiles on the compound and press firmly into wet mixture. Use plastic spacers to assure even grouting lines. After the tiles set according to manufacturer's directions (usually 24 to 48 hours), the tiles are ready for grouting.

You may choose a powdered or pre-mixed tile grout. Usually, portland cement-based powdered grouts must be mixed with water and cured with a water mist for approximately 24 hours. "Premixed grouts and other water-based products are not recommended for areas where water ponding may occur," advises Lane.

Follow the instructions on the back of the grout

A New Outlook On Energy Savings

(NAPS)—Giving many homeowners a whole new outlook on energy savings are special windows that help hold down fuel bills year round and add to a home's comfort and resale value as well.

Let the sunshine in: These decorative glass windows also add to a home's energy efficiency–they feature a special insulating coating.

These windows feature a clear, nearly invisible insulating coating called low emissivity, or low-E for short. "Low emissivity" describes the coating's ability to keep much indoor heat from escaping, or being emitted. Also, in the winter, light and heat from the sun can enter a home through the windows and the coating acts to keep it inside. The coated glass also reflects heat generated internally by the furnace and appliances.

The low-E coating found on Sungate glass from PPG Industries works just as effectively as a summertime energy saver by keeping heat outside. It actually reflects long-wave energy from both sides, so summer heat that radiates from driveways and rooftops will be reflected away from the windows.

More than energy savers, windows made with Sungate low-E coated glass result in enhanced comfort helping to eliminate that drafty feeling near the window. They keep the roomside glass surface warmer than standard window units and reduce the formation of condensation on the glass. They also inhibit ultraviolet light transmission to reduce fabric fading. Some types may be used as independent add-on panels to improve the energy efficiency of a home's existing windows.

The Sungate family of low-E products includes Sungate 100 and 300 glass, and new Sungate 500 coated glass, which is among the best performing—and best looking—coated glasses on the market today.

NEWS OF SAFETY

Advice From The Experts At Your Furniture Store

Fighting Fire With...Furniture

(NAPS)—Here are a few facts to help keep you safe from the danger and damage of a household fire in your home.

One cause of home fires is lighted cigarettes left on upholstered furniture. To help protect you, the furniture industry has voluntarily worked for twenty years researching ways to construct furniture that is more cigarette-resistant.

Your furniture retailer has a wide choice of upholstered furniture that is beautiful, comfortable, durable and resists smouldering cigarettes. His sales staff will be happy to help you decide which upholstery fits your lifestyle needs.

Just remember that even if all of your furniture is cigarette-resistant, it is important to keep lighted cigarettes and other sources of heat away from it.

Other ways to stay safe:

• Install and maintain smoke detectors. Put one on each floor of your house and check the batteries every three months.

• Keep matches and lighters where children can't reach them.

• Never smoke if you are: Overtired, taking strong medication, drinking alcohol, reclining on a bed or sofa.

• Make sure all cigarettes are out before emptying ash trays into the trash.

• Get a fire extinguisher and, if your home has more than one floor, an escape ladder.

• Practice fire drills with your whole family. Make sure everyone knows at least two ways out of the house and set an outside gathering place.

UFAC is the Upholstered Furniture Action Council, a group of industry leaders who spearhead this voluntary product safety program. UFAC, Box 2436, High Point, NC 27261.

container. After grout is completely cured, a tile and grout sealer should be applied to one small area at a time. "One of the biggest mistakes a home tiler can make is to walk on the newly tiled floor before it fully cures," says Lane.

The effects of the completed tiling job can be dazzling. "Italian tiles can add incredible value to any room," says Christine Abbate, director of marketing, Italian Tile Center, NYC, who adds that tiling is not restricted to kitchens and bathrooms. "In Italy, tiles are used throughout the home, including foyers, recreational areas, and porches." So, when using tiles creatively, do as the Romans do, and let your imagination be your guide.

Your Roof: Damaged By Algae?

Those dirty streaks on your roof could actually be algae, which some say can cause roof damage.

(NAPS)—Just a dirty roof? What seems like streaks of dirt or smoke residue on the roof may actually be a particularly hardy variety of algae called Gloeocapsa. Algae streaks can be found on nearly all types of roofs—asphalt shingles, concrete or clay tiles as well as wood shakes or shingles.

The algae problem has grown significantly over the last decade, spreading gradually from the southeastern U.S., where heat and humidity make an ideal growth environment. Today's higher pitched roof design also means more shadow during the day. Consequently, less drying takes place and more moisture is retained in the roof shingles for the algae to grow.

The resulting algae discoloration is an eyesore and according to roofing experts, can lead to shortened roof life as well. The sooty black color can turn a reflective white roof into a dark, heat absorbing blanket.

Many solutions have been tried with little or no success. For instance, some people hire roof washers to clean away the algae. Unfortunately, the algae growth quickly returns and the washing must be done—at great cost—as often as once or twice a year.

There are ways to prevent algae from forming on roofs. For example, scientists at 3M have found that copper incorporated into Algae Resistant roofing granules is an effective inhibitor of algae growth.

This discovery will soon make it easier for homeowners to keep their roofs algae-free—and their home maintenance bills from going through the roof, experts agree.

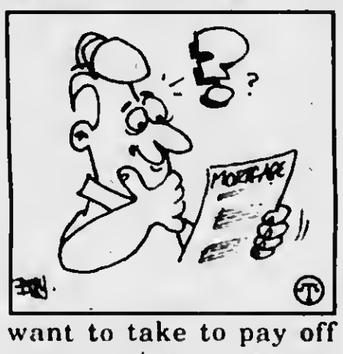
QUICK QUIZ

Test Your Mortgage Knowledge



(NAPS)—Take this little quiz and make sure you understand the facts when it comes to home mortgages.

1. Each monthly mortgage payment is divided into interest (on the mortgage loan itself) and principal, the amount by which your payment reduces that loan. If you have a nine percent, 30-year mortgage, in what year does the amount allocated to principal become larger than the amount allocated to interest?

2. If you take out a 30-year, $100,000 mortgage at nine percent, how much will you end up paying the bank over the life of the mortgage?

3. Most banks only offer 15, 20 and 30-year mortgages. Is it possible to obtain a seven year mortgage?

4. How many times would someone with a nine percent, 30-year $100,000 mortgage have to use The Mortgage Controller™ to save interest exceeding the cost of The Mortgage Controller?

5. Can't I just prepay my mortgage by sending the lender some extra money each month?

Answers

1. Year 23. That's payment #269 out of a total of 360 monthly payments. It would take you the first 23 years to pay off half of the total loan principal. 2. $289,667.92. You'll pay back the $100,000 loan and $189,667.92 in interest. 3. You probably cannot get a seven-year mortgage, but with The Mortgage Controller, you can decide how long you want to take to pay off your mortgage—so you could turn a 15-year mortgage into a seven-year one. 4. Once. 5. If you prepay the wrong way, you won't save yourself thousands of dollars in interest payments, because the lender will apply your prepayment at the end of the mortgage.

The Mortgage Controller allows you to apply it at the front of your loan, which is how you save interest. More and more Americans are trying to reduce the debt load they carry. For most families, the biggest debt they have is the mortgage on their home. According to mortgage industry experts, only ten out of 100 people paying off mortgages ever attempt to prepay their mortgages. Only one out of 100 people maximizes the interest-reducing power of prepayments by applying the federally-guaranteed "Borrower's Right of Prepayment" correctly.

SCHOOLS IN THE NEWS

Oak Lawn Community High School

Oak Lawn Community High School Chemistry teacher, Carol Colby, was awarded a minigrant by the Chemical Manufacturers Association to design and present cooperative science activities to elementary students. One hundred percent of the Honors Chemistry students voted to design cooperative science activities and to present them at Sward Elementary School in Oak Lawn. Third grade teachers, Debra Ofiara, Sandy Rizzo and Carol Whitemiller, enthusiastically agreed to have their students participate in the project. High school teams of two or three students have prepared lessons for small cooperative groups of seven to ten elementary students. These lessons involve the concepts of combustion, chemical reactions and density which are designed to develop skills in observation, analysis of data and synthesis of scientific relationships. According to Patricia Sokoloff, Manager, "It was difficult to choose grant applications that demonstrated not only innovative teaching techniques, but also concepts that students could take with them out of the classroom."

The OLCHS participating students include: Timothy Braun, Daniel Cerceo, Matthew Chap, Vicky Corbett, Mark Gronski, Scott Joseph, Erin Keating, Ken Krakowsky, Jill Levickas, Kevin McNeela, Steven McNeela, Kelly Melaniphy, Daniel Parisi, Rebecca Quinn, Jenny Redmond, Jennifer Schroeder, Brian Strelow, Michael Vahl, Adam Wende and Jeffrey Whiting.

Fifteen students from the Business Internship I and II classes at Oak Lawn Community High School participated in the Business Professionals of America, Illinois Association, Area VI competition on Wednesday, January 5, 1994. The competition included more than 100 students from seven high schools in Districts 218, 229 and 230, and was held at the Center for Contemporary Technology on the campus of Moraine Valley Community College. The winners were announced at an awards breakfast held at Silver Lakes Country Club in Orland Park, Tuesday, January 25, 1994.

Among the winners were 12 Oak Lawn students winning a total of 16 awards. Elizabeth Gonzales won first place in Verbal Communications, Prepared I; Sandra Green won first place in Payroll Accounting; Kim Housman won first place in both Information Processing Specialist and Computer-Aided Graphics; Lucy Housman won third place in Office Specialist; Doug Kowalewski won third place in Entrepreneur; Annette Mrowca won second place in Payroll Accounting; Linda Pacheco won first place in Data Assistant; Natalie Schull won second place in Information Processing Specialist and third place in Computer-Aided Graphics; Tom Walczyk won second place in Computerized Accounting; and Angela Zaker won fourth place in Economic Awareness. In addition to the individual accomplishments, the Small Business Management Team consisting of Sarah Funk, Sandra Green, Michelle McCue and Annette Mrowca won second place.

Elizabeth Gonzalez, Sandra Green, Kim Housman, Annette Mrowca, Linda Pacheco, Natalie Schull, and Tom Walczyk will represent Oak Lawn at the state Business Professionals of America Conference and Competition at the Hyatt Regency in Oak Brook on May 17-19, 1994. They will have the opportunity to qualify for the national conference, which will be held in San Francisco, California, May 6-9, 1994.

Oak Lawn Chamber's secretarial assistant, Kim Housman, is part of the Business Internship program at Oak Lawn Community High School and has entered two contests through "Business Professionals of America." She won first place for the area in "Information Processing Assistants", and first place in the contest "Computer Aided Graphics", which were held at Moraine Valley Community College on January 5, 1994.

Kim's entire class participated in the various contests. The state contest will be held in Oak Brook from March 17 to March 19, 1994, where Kim will again be competing with her abilities. The Chamber officers and Board of Directors applaud Kim and wish her luck. We are proud to have her as a part of our staff.

Richards High School

When you've been to the state finals for three straight years, you get a feel for when you've got a winner. Chuck Palia's got that feeling.

Next month, Palia will attempt to direct "Independence" to the state finals for contest. "This is probably the best of the four (plays)," says Palia, the director of contest play productions at Richards High School in Oak Lawn.

Palia and cast will rehearse regularly until the SICA Theater Festival at Thornton High School on March 12. Sectional competition will follow the next weekend at Shepard High School in Palos Heights. Qualifying schools will compete at the state finals the last weekend in March at Milliken.

Before the competitive season begins; however, Richards will present both its Contest Play and Group Interpretation performances on Thursday, March 17 at 7 p.m. in the school's little theater.

SAINT XAVIER UNIVERSITY

Chris Columbus, filmmaker and director of the newly released Mrs. Doubtfire will be honored at a Saint Xavier University gala evening on Friday, March 11, 1994. The Presidential Scholarship fundraising event will take place at Chicago Hilton and Towers.

For reservations, ticket or raffle information, call (312) 298-3300.

The Continuing Education Department of Saint Xavier University is offering a "Writers Workshop - For Women Only" from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. on Mondays, beginning March 7 through April 25, at the University's main campus located at 3700 West 103rd Street in Chicago.

Introduction to Personal Computing: This introductory computer course is offered from 6:30 - 9:30 p.m. on Fridays, March 18 and 25, and from 9:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon on Saturdays, March 26 and April 2 at the University's main campus, 3700 West 103rd Street, Chicago. Another session will take place from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Wednesdays, March 23 and 30 at the University's Orland Park Center located at 15255 South 94th Avenue in the MetLife Building of Orland Park.

Angel Workshop: This program consists of six sessions from 7:00 to 9:30 p.m., beginning Thursday, March 10 through April 14. The course will explore the historical and mythological significance of angels in western and other cultures. Participants will examine ranks and orders of angels, the spheres of angels, the "celestial top ten," and subjective views of what angels look like.

The Healing Luxury of Foot Massage: This new program meets from 1:00 - 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, March 13. Attendees will learn foot massage reflexology techniques for reducing stress and releasing muscular tension. Bring pillow and wear comfortable clothing. The fee for this course is $17.00. Dawn Curtis, a registered massage therapist with a practice in Evergreen Park, is the instructor.

Texas Line Dancing: This peppy workout takes place from 8:00 - 9:00 p.m. on Tuesday, March 15. The class fee is $10.00/couple or $6.00/single. The instructor is Kathy Novak from the Conservatory of Dance, 103rd and Pulaski, where the classes will be held.

AAA-CMC Offers Spring Car Care Tips

Whether you are a do-it-yourselfer or pay a certified mechanic to work on your car, spring is the time to prepare vehicles for warm weather driving vacations and daily commuting trips. Performing routine maintenance is one of the best ways to lengthen car life and avoid major automotive breakdowns, according to AAA-Chicago Motor Club.

Start in the glove compartment-Begin by consulting the owner's manual for recommended services, maintenance schedules, proper grades and amounts of fluids, and directions on how to check basic automotive systems.

Here's a salty solution-To avoid costly salt-corrosion damage, AAA-CMC recommends removing any remains of winter road salt by washing and waxing the auto's exterior. Don't forget to wash the underside of the car to remove any salt build-up. Inspect the exterior for rust, scratches, chipped paint and dents, and repair as needed. Check all lights for proper operation. Inspect the windshield wipers.

Under the hood-A tune-up helps an engine run smoothly and use less fuel. Other mechanical services include an oil and oil filter change every three months or 3,000 miles and a new air filter every 7,500 miles, according to AAA-CMC. Check the level of all fluids including the windshield washer reservoir, radiator, power steering, transmission and master brake cylinder. Examine drive belts for wear and proper performance. Lubricate the chassis as well as door, trunk and hood hinges. Inspect the exhaust system for leaks.

How's the ride-Inspect all suspension components including struts, shock absorbers and wheel alignment. Check tire inflation, look for signs of wear and rotate tires if necessary.

INCOME TAX PROGRAM

Are you confused by income tax laws? The Evergreen Park Public Library is hosting a program on income tax on Wednesday, March 9, 1994 at 10:00 a.m. Internal Revenue Agent, Dan Lauder, will explain new tax laws, earned income credit, and the non-filer program. If you have other questions about income tax, Agent Lauder will answer them. To register, or for more information, call the Evergreen Park Public Library at (708) 422-8522.

Gas Prices Shoot Up

February 17, 1994 - average self-serve gasoline prices in Illinois and Northern Indiana moved up - unusual for the month of February - in the largest one-month increase since June, 1992, according to the AAA-Chicago Motor Club's February Fuel Gauge survey.

In Chicago and Cook County, average self-serve prices jumped 6.0 cents per gallon, reversing a January decline of 4.5 cents per gallon. Currently, a gallon of self-serve unleaded regular averages $1.160 in Chicago and Cook County.

Consumers in Illinois outside of Cook County experienced an average increase of 4.1 cents per gallon for self-serve gasoline. For the most part, that hike erased the 5.1 cents per gallon drop during January. In June, 1992, prices jumped by 6.4 cents per gallon. A gallon of self-serve unleaded regular currently averages 1.063.

In Nothern Indiana, self-serve prices were up 5.5 cents per gallon in the past month. The increase cancelled the effect of January's decline of 5.2 cents per gallon. In June, 1992, average self-serve prices moved higher by 5.9 cents per gallon. Currently, a gallon of self-serve unleaded regular averages $0.980.

Computer Petroleum Corporation (CPC), which surveys local gas prices for AAA-CMC, blamed the price hikes on the extremely cold weather which hit the Midwest in January.

As of Feb. 7, 1994, the national average for self-serve unleaded regular was $1.055 per gallon, according to CPC.

Compared to a year ago, average self-serve prices are currently 2.6 cents lower in Chicago and Cook County, 2.3 cents lower in Illinois outside of Cook County, and 17 cents lower in Northern Indiana.

QUIZ

(NAPS)—Here are some commonly asked questions about anti-lock brake systems (ABS). That's a computerized system designed to keep a vehicle's wheels rotating when you apply the brakes to help you achieve a controlled stop.

Q. Is ABS always active?

A. ABS is always available, but not always activated. The system is activated only when the brake pedal is applied and the electronic control unit detects an impending wheel lock condition.

Q. What activates ABS?

A. When the driver applies the brakes, the electronic control unit monitors wheel speed sensor information. According to experts at General Motors, now nearing completion of a vigorous Anti-Lock Brake System phase-in program, if the electronic control unit determines a wheel is approaching lock-up, the computer signals the hydraulic modulator. It reduces, then re-applies, brake pressure several times a second as reqtired. This precision modulation continues as long as the driver maintains adequate pressure on the brake pedal.

Sweeney addresses OL Rotary

Attorney, Rhoda Davis Sweeney, will speak before the Oak Lawn Rotary Club on Monday, March 7, 1994, following lunch at 12:15 p.m. at the Oak Lawn Holiday Inn, 4140 West 95th Street, Oak Lawn.

Sweeney will share her expertise on the stalking laws, according to coordinator, George Vlasis.

Rhoda's practice focuses on criminal and family law. She is a former Assistant Cook County State's Attorney. A graduate of Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago-Kent College of Law, with a B.S. and M.A. in speech and language from Northwestern University, Sweeney worked as a speech and language pathologist in private practice and also as a speech therapist in the Chicago Public School System.

Rhoda Davis Sweeney is a Democratic candidate for Cook County Circuit Court Judge.

CONSUMER ALERT

by Attorney General Roland W. Burris

Q. I often see advertisements in newspapers and on store windows for Going Out of Business Sales and I was wondering if there are any laws that governs these sales. Is your office involved in enforcing such a law?

A. Yes, the Illinois Fraudulent Sales Act governs Going Out of Business sales and, as of January 1, the Attorney General's Office has been given the direct authority to enforce the Act.

Any retailer wishing to hold a Going Out of Business sale must first obtain a license from the local municipality in which the sale is to be conducted. The license is good for 60 days and is renewable for an additional 30 days. The license application, which is designed to prevent businesses from misleading consumers, requires detailed information about the nature of the sale and the merchandise offered for sale.

Consumers should also know that by law, a copy of the license must be posted on the front door of the store and a complete list of inventory be posted inside the store. Each license is assigned a number and that number must appear in all advertisements relating to the sale. In these ways, consumers can be assured that the sale is legitimate.

A judge of proven judicial ability

With a proven track record of excellence, Circuit Court Judge Loretta C. Douglas is taking her career to new heights, as she sets her sights on becoming an Appellate Court Judge for Cook County in the Democratic primaries on March 15, 1994.

Douglas self-assuredly speaks of her bid for Appellate Court Judge, as she reflects on her life long career as attorney and judge. "I have experience in both civil and criminal justice that is needed to become an Appellate Court Judge," explained Douglas. "I know how to interpret the law and understand the concerns of the citizens seeking justice."

Known as a fair-minded and dedicated individual, Douglas is committed to upholding a standard of excellence in the judicial system in which all sides if an issue are looked at unbiasedly before a final determination is made.

Douglas is also an advocate of efficiency in the courts--and if elected, plans to implement case load management system to ease the burden of the influx of cases of the appellate level. Douglas explains, "Justice delayed is justice denied, so the faster you get justice, the better justice you receive."

Douglas's judicial career first began in 1984 when she was appointed as Associate Judge in the 1st Municipal District in Illinois and then in the same year was appointed to the 6th (Markham) Municipal District until 1991, where she presided over civil and misdemeanor criminal cases. In 1991, Douglas was elected a Full Circuit Court Judge and was assigned to the Felony Trial Courtroom Division where she currently presides over major felony cases from arraignment through post trial and post-conviction motions.

Aside from her judicial responsibilities, Douglas has also been appointed to the U.S. District Court Admissions Committee since 1982 and the Selection Committee for the U.S. District Court Magistrate in 1982 and 1993.

An advocate of women's issues, Douglas also takes the time to enrich the lives of others by making monthly speaking appearances on such issues as domestic violence and sexual harassment. She has also appeared on "The Phil Donahue Show" to discuss a precedent setting dress code case she won for her client when she was practicing law and was recognized by the WAIT radio station as "Woman of the Day" and won the Star Publications (Sun-Times) Award for "One of South Suburbia's Most Outstanding Women."

Although she has a long list of achievements and career successes to her credit, Douglas does not rest on her past laurels but instead is always looking to further excel. "I can do anything I set my mind to," remarks Douglas. "Becoming an Appellate Court Judge is a logical progression for me. I see the Constitution alive every day in the courtroom and I have a deep respect for the importance it plays in the pursuit of one's goals."

Circuit Court Judge Loretta Carol Douglas is a Democratic Candidate for the Illinois Appellate Court in March of 1994. Punch #142.

BETH ANN LEMA seeks 47th Dist.

Republican Bid for State Representative

PUNCH 92

Beth Ann Lema, Republican Candidate for State Representative in the 47th District is looking for Victory on March 15th. Lema, a resident of Bridgeview is hopeful that the residents of her district will unite behind her, the one true republican in this race.

Lema, a former Bridgeview Trustee and now committeewoman of Lyons Township has the endorsement of many local officials across her district.

"Beth Ann Lema is a person who cares about our needs," says Brookfield President Thomas Sequens. "She understands the school funding crisis, the property tax issue, and the plight of our senior citizens. She has the will and courage to get the job done," said Sequens.

"Beth Ann Lema served with distinction as an elected Trustee on the Bridgeview Village Board, says Bridgeview Village President John A. Oremus.

"During her term in office Lema proved her ability by implementing several new programs, and laying the ground work for others that are in existence today." said Oremus.

"It is really gratifying and fortunate that Western Springs area citizens have Beth Ann Lema to represent them. She is qualified, experienced, independent and honest. She is loaded with talent, energy, vitality and determination. Beth is truly the winner for all of us," says Thomas Martin of Western Springs.

"Beth Ann Lema has the same gleam in her eye that I had when I first ran for State Representative twelve years ago," says Senator Judy Barr Topinka. "She will make an excellent State Representative. The 47th District will do well to elect her," said Topinka.

Beth Ann Lema is currently the Commiteewoman of Lyons Township. She is Charter President and Co-Founder of the Southwest Republican Women's Network. She is the Regional District Director of the Illinois Federation of Republican Women and a member of the National Federation of Republican Women. Lema is also a member of the Public Affairs committee of the American Cancer Society, member of the Bridgeview Chamber of Commerce and Co-Chairman of the Bridgeview Beautification Committee.

Citing her platform, Lema declared her drive to decrease the rampant spread of crime which has become a national as well as a local problem. In addition, Beth Ann Lema intends to make health care and economic opportunity the foundation on which she will represent the 47th District. "As a health care professional, I will take to Springfield the knowledge necessary to better evaluate the health care package that our legislatures will be dealing with in the near future. At present their are only four funeral directors and one dentist in the house", said Lema.

Lema is apposed by DuPage County Minority Leader, who is backing Hilen Lyons a non politico who calls herself "A born again Republican." It's war in the 47th.

Polls are open at 6:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. On March 15th punch 92 for Beth Ann Lema, the "Real" Republican Candidate for State Representative in the 47th Representative District.

While watching The Public Work's Department workers clearing the main streets recently, brought to mind March is here and hopefully the snow will be gone.

There are many people to compliment during our hard days of winter! First, I would like to thank the following Villages for their superb job of salting the streets and snow plowing Evergreen Park & Oak Lawn. I have a delivery service and I know these two suburbs deserve recognition.

Others to be recognized are the dedicated men and women on the fire and police department who did not take vacations or sick days during our winter inclement weather. Give yourself another Dunkin Donut!

Now I know I can go on and on by mentioning teachers, etc., but I wanted to mention the Village View Accommodation Award to the Aero Bus Drivers who were there each day picking up our special children.

Congratulations to all!

Editor's Note

Our apologies to Jim Nalepa if anyone miss identified you.

Village View wanted to inform the public that there are potential suspects out there and the public will be able to recognize them from Police Artists' sketches.

Our March 1, issue had a notification of two men wanted for rape!

Jim Nalepa is a Republican candidate for Congress and will be running against Honorable William Lipinski in November.

Judge Margaret O'Mara Frossard taking her career to new heights

From her 2nd floor suburban chambers, Associate Judge speaks of her bid for full Circuit Court Judge with equal parts enthusiasm and candor. "I believe qualifications are the bottom line to becoming a full Circuit Court Judge," explained Frossard. "I feel I am qualified for the position with my varied experiences in criminal, civil and appellate law, as well as, my trial experience."

As a states attorney, Frossard's accomplishments were numerous including representing victims in thousands of trials, supervising 200 appellate and trial attorneys, coordinating a rape prosecutions task force, proposing legislation to protect victims of violent crimes and child sexual assault, and supervising all capital litigation, parole and clemency hearings. During this time, Frossard also received notoriety as the prosecutor in the highly publicized Gary Dotson case in 1986.

Then in 1988, Frossard took her career to new heights when she was appointed Associate Judge in the (2nd District). Since that time Frossard has presided over hundreds of civil and criminal bench trials and has received the highest rating from the Chicago Bar Association on three different occasions.

With a long list of accomplishments to her credit, Frossard's successes are not limited to the courtroom. -- She is also a perfect example of well-rounded working mom who manages to do it all. And, as a successful career woman, wife, and mother of three young daughters, she has set her sights on yet another accomplishment in her life--becoming a Circuit Court Judge.

Judge Margaret O'Mara Frossard is a Democratic Candidate for Circuit Court Judge in Cook County in the March 1994 Primary.

U.S. Senator Paul Simon of Illinois

Prejudice: Feeding on Ignorance and Thriving on Silence

From time to time the contagious disease of racism and prejudice rears its ugly head in all nations and among all people. Whenever it occurs it should be dealt with, because prejudice in each century of recorded history has resulted in the senseless slaughter of millions.

Prejudice feeds on ignorance, and thrives only when those who know better are silent.

Recently a speech at a New Jersey college campus received attention because of its unbelievably mean spirit. A number of people spoke out condemning those remarks, and I was pleased to see that.

But the other day the Washington Post published a story written by Rene Sanchez about two other speakers at a different campus (whose names I am not mentioning in order to avoid giving them more publicity) and what they had to say:

"_____ accused Jews of controlling the Federal Reserve, the nation's entertainment industry and black performers and athletes and of spying on black leaders.

"Each time _____ noted one of these items, he paused to ask the crowd who controlled it and the crowd shouted back: 'Jews.' At one point, after what he thought was a tepid response, _____ asked the crowd, 'Are you afraid to say it?' The crowd then shouted louder: 'Jews, Jews.'

"Another speaker, _____, a local political activist, told the cheering crowd that the motto for black people no longer should be the spiritual 'We Shall Overcome,' but rather, 'We Shall Not Sell Out to the Jews.' "

This Hitler-like language and demagoguery is dangerous.

I happen to be a Lutheran by background and was active in the civil rights movement in its early days. The people in the white community who were most active in the cause of justice for African Americans were not Lutherans or Catholics or Presbyterians, but Jews.

HAPPY ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Dennehy's Corner

To each of the readers! Good Morning! See here has been dawning another new day. Think - will thou let it slip useless away? Out of eternity the new day is born. Into eternity at night to return.

To have the day a profitable one, here is a good beginning!

"My God I offer you this day. All I think and Do and Say, uniting it with what was done. By Jesus Christ, your only son."

As we continue our Lenten Journey toward a glorious Easter, let us rejoice in the good weather and the St. Patrick's Day Festivities.

The "Top of the mornin'" to each of you!

Because my last name is Simon, occasionally I will be on a call-in radio program where the caller assumes I am Jewish and a poisonous hate spills out. I fear that prejudice against Jews and African Americans and Hispanics and Asian Americans and others is rising in our nation.

Instead of pandering to people's fears and prejudices we should be striving for understanding across the barriers of race and religion and ethnic background and sex. Bosnia is a great example of the stupidity and danger of prejudice.

After I made a speech about the problems faced by the Armenians, I received a letter from a man who assured me that the Armenians have a strangle-hold on our nation and are running it. He gave me a long list of people and their positions to "prove" it.

I do not doubt that the two men quoted by the Washington Post believe what they said. I do not doubt that the man who wrote to me about the Armenians believes what he said. But all three are sick and we should not catch their disease.

Each of us can play a role in stamping out this disease. The rules are simple:

1) Develop a friendship with someone of a differing background from yours. You will find that person's hopes and fears and dreams are similar to your own. People are people.

2) If someone expresses prejudice, gently correct that person.

3) Don't tell jokes or laugh at jokes that make fun of African Americans or Poles or Gays or people with disabilities or anyone else because of their background. These "jokes" do great harm.

4) Read something about people of a different background from your own. Stretch your mind.

Those four rules are simple, and if we follow them we will find that the hate-mongers will have less and less of a following.

Bosnia is a great example of the stupidity and danger of prejudice.

Friends of OL Library

Marimba Magic, the second program in the 1994 Sunday With Friends series, is scheduled for 2:00 p.m. March 20 in the lower level meeting room of the Oak Lawn Public Library, 9227 Raymond Avenue. (5300 West 95th Street) The program is open to the public without charge on a first-come, first-seated basis.

Marimbist Lory Schrieber will present the concert of familiar and fun music. During interludes between some of her selections, she will include background on the origin of the marimba and interesting facts about the development and construction of the instrument. A demonstration will be given on the "African Bafalon" which closely resembles the early gourd marimba. Following the concert, she will be happy to answer any questions that people in the audience have.

Baby Matthew Fund

There is a very special baby named Matthew who is in need. Matthew has Down Syndrome and a number of other very serious medical problems that have kept him in the hospital most of his short life. Matthew is not quite 7 months old. The family was recently told of his severe heart and lung condition that is keeping Matthew's chances for recovery up in the air. As of February 18th, Matthew was transferred to a rehabilitation center to try to learn to hold his head up, to sit up and maybe even to crawl.

There is hope that Matthew will make it, but not without a lot of intensive therapy and constant care.

Without some outside help, the family won't be able to make it. This situation has been so overwhelming for the family they are finding it very hard to cope. The threat of these outstanding bills is more than anyone should have to bear alone.

Thank you for your consideration and any help you can give this family.

The Baby Matthew Fund has been set up at the First Colonial Bank Southwest, located at 5440 West 87th Street, Burbank, Illinois 60459 (708) 857-7510.

Noel's is selling raffle tickets for $1.00 each or 6 for $5.00. The prizes include $500.00 cash, a handmade quilt in the Wedding Ring pattern, valued at $500.00; porcelain girl on a swing valued at $150.00; a handmade tapestry jacket, Barbie tent, a beautiful floral swag, and many other handmade items. The drawing will be at 3:00 p.m. on Mother's Day, Sunday, May 8th.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Polish Dining Can Be Elegant

By Anita Anderson

Lutnia Restaurant at 5532 West Belmont is worth the drive. Presided over by Chef Zigmund Verda, the restaurant offers 22 dishes that you would find on menus if you flew to Poland and indulged yourself in gourmet Polish food.

"Our dishes are a combination of some of the ethnic influences that we have in Poland from the Ukraine or Hungary," said Mark Juszczak, Head Waiter. "All of our staff are from central Poland," he added.

Lutnia is owned by Chris and Ivana Ruban. Chris used to be a waiter at the Victoria International Hotel in Warsaw and served the likes of President Carter, and even Fidel Castro, although he let it be known serving his fellow Americans is more his cup of tea.

According to Mark, the restaurant has been open for about ten years and is within minutes of free indoor public community parking. Lutnia is closed on Monday, but open Tuesday through Friday from 5:00 to 11:00 p.m., and on Saturdays and Sundays from 1:00 to 11:00 p.m.

Specialties are tableside cooking with offerings like Steak A La Diane or Stroganoff Flambe. There are also flambe desserts prepared for two at the table, which are available from peach and hot banana flambe to Polish blintzes flambe.

Prices for the elegant eatery are fair, beginning at about $9.00. Lutnia is closed for lunch. For information, call (312) 282-5335.

Chef Verda offers some of his special recipes for local readers to try. They follow.

BEEF STROGANOFF FLAMBE

5 ozs. Beef Tenderloin - sliced into finger-sized pieces
1 oz. medium-size mushrooms (6-8)
1 oz. onion - diced (1/4 cup)
1 tsp. tomato paste
1/2 tsp. powdered mustard
2 tsps. sour cream
1 or 2 pinches pepper (1/8) tsp.)
1 or 2 pinches of salt (1/8 tsp.)
1 dash of Worcester shire Sauce
1 ounce Cognac
Olive Oil

Cover bottom of medium-sized pan with olive oil. Fry onion for 2 minutes on medium heat. Add mushrooms, continue to fry for 2 minutes longer. Place mushrooms and onion to one side of pan.

Wipe the pan with a paper towel, add more oil, and fry the strips of beef tenderloin for 2 minutes.

Pour Cognac on the beef and light with a match to flambe. Mix mushrooms and onions together with the beef, adding the tomato paste, mustard, Worcestershire, salt and pepper.

Add sour cream to mixture and serve with Polish dumplings and steamed vegetables.

Serves one person.

DUCK FLAMBE

1 breast of duck - 8-10 ozs.
1 tsp. marjoram
1 tsp. seasoned salt
Vegetable Oil
1 oz. butter (1/4 stick or 2 Tbs.)
1 sour apple
2 tsp. cranberries
2 potatoes
1 tsp. dill weed
Orange sauce (recipe follows)

1 oven-proof deep-sided frying pan

Marinate duck in marjoram and seasoned salt in refrigerator for 24 hours.

Peel and boil potatoes in salt water until tender. Drain and set aside to cool.

Cover bottom of pan with vegetable oil. Place duck in pan, fatty side down. Fry over medium-high heat for 8 minutes. Place pan with duck in oven and cook for 10 minutes.

While the duck cooks, prepare the baked apple. Wash apple and cranberries. Cut off the top of the apple and remove the seeds. Fill the apple with the cranberries and bake in microwave for 2 and 1/2 minutes or regular oven for 4 minutes at 400 degrees.

Slice potatoes and fry with a pinch of seasoned salt and a pinch of dill weed to taste in an oiled pan until golden brown. Remove from pan and keep warm.

Remove duck from oven and slice into thin strips. Melt butter in a pan and fry for 1 and 1/2 minutes. Pour Cognac over the duck and light with a match to flambe. While flaming, pour orange sauce over the duck slices. Stir well and serve with Polish Fried Potatoes and a baked apple on side.

ORANGE SAUCE

Juice from one fresh orange
Grated orange peel
Pre-heat oven to 400
1 tsp. brown sugar
1/2 cup chicken stock - very light
1 tsp. powdered mustard
1 tsp. flour
1/2 tsp. salt

Use chicken stock as the base. Warm up the stock adding the peels, juice and sugar. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly for 2 minutes. Add the mustard, flour and salt. Mix well.

Serve over duck slices

MICROWAVE APPLE CRISP
Total Time: 15 min.

1/4 cup (1/2 stick) margarine or butter
1/2 cup quick or old-fashioned oats
1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
1/4 cup chopped walnuts
1 can (21 oz.) THANK YOU BRAND More Fruit Apple Pie Filling
Ice Cream or whipped cream, if desired

Microwave margarine in medium-size bowl or 4-cup measure until melted. Stir in oats, brown sugar, flour and nuts. Microwave on HIGH (100%) 3 to 4 minutes, stirring frequently during last 2 minutes, until crisp and toasted. Pour filling into 9-inch microwave safe pie pan. Microwave on HIGH 3 to 4 minutes, until hot. Sprinkle oat mixture over filling. Serve immediately. Top with ice cream. Makes 6 servings.

VIETNAMESE TWIST TO CHICKEN

Vietnam frequently makes headlines but its native cuisine is a virtual unknown to most of this country's cooks or at best, it is identified with Chinese. Yet, it is a form of cookery that fits right in with today's quick-to-prepare, light meals.

As it is around the world, chicken is a favorite meat in the Vietnamese culture. And most of the basic ingredients of that cuisine are familiar to the American palate -- mushrooms, bamboo shoots, Chinese cabbage, water chestnuts, bean sprouts, coconut, pineapple -- but, they are cooked and seasoned with a distinctive, not-too-far-out flavor.

The most characteristic element of Vietnamese cookery is the use of fish sauce. Other seasonings include fresh mint leaves, Chinese parsley and lemon grass (or citronella root).

The National Broiler Council developed two recipes (below) which make it easy to adapt Vietnamese dishes to the ordinary U.S. kitchen and to expand the family's taste for Oriental foods.

Vietnamese Lemon Grass Baked Chicken combines chicken parts and fruit, seasoned with lemon grass and the inevitable fish sauce. A true Vietnamese would use a mortar and pestle to crush the garlic, but if one is not available, it may be minced, as this recipe suggests.

Vietnamese Chicken in Tomato Sauce is a colorful, satisfying dish that will add new interest to an anyday family meal. Crushed toasted sesame seeds enhance its flavor.

VIETNAMESE BAKED CHICKEN

1 cup-up chicken or favorite parts, skin removed
1 stalk lemon grass, bottom 6 inches only, sliced diagonally
1/2 cup low sodium soy sauce
2 Tbs. canola oil
1 Tbs. fish sauce
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 tsp. sugar
2 unripe green bananas, sliced in quarters
4 slices fresh pineapple, halved.

In small bowl, mix together lemon grass, soy sauce, oil, fish sauce, garlic and sugar. In another bowl, place chicken and pour mixture over all. Cover and refrigerate at least 3 hours or overnight. In baking dish, arrange chicken, undrained, in single layer. Add banana and pineapple slices; pour remaining marinade over all. Cover and bake in 350°F oven about 30 minutes. Remove cover and turn chicken. Return to oven and bake, uncovered, about 30 minutes more or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Serve over rice. Makes 4 servings.

VIETNAMESE CHICKEN

1-1/4 lbs. boneless, skinless chicken breast, cut into strips
2 green onions, white and green parts included, cut into 1-inch pieces
1/2 tsp. garlic salt
1/8 tsp. black pepper
2 Tbs. cooking oil
1/2 cup Spanish-style tomato sauce
1/2 cup water
1-1/2 Tbs. fish sauce
2 Tbs. toasted sesame seeds, crushed
1 can (8 oz.) bamboo shoots, drained, rinsed

In medium bowl, mix together chicken, green onion, bamboo shoots, garlic salt and pepper; cover and refrigerate about 15 minutes. In frypan, place oil and heat over medium temperature. Add chicken mixture and cook, stirring, about 10 minutes or until pink is gone from chicken. In small bowl, mix together tomato sauce, water and fish sauce; pour over chicken. Raise heat to medium high and bring to a boil. Cover, reduce heat to low and cook about 10 minutes more. Sprinkle with crushed sesame seeds and serve with rice or Chinese noodles. Makes 6 servings.

Beef Recipes Bring Cash to Chefs

By Anita Anderson

Lime Glazed Steaks, which had hints of the Caribbean and an Oriental Brisket took top honors at the Illinois Beef Cook-Off held at the Clock Tower Resort in Rockford.

Diana Woodland of Chicago won first place and a prize of $500 for her Lime Glazed Steak recipe and Patti Dietlin, also of Chicago, won second place and $300 for her Oriental Brisket recipe.

According to judges, the recipes illustrate what can happen when the cook looks to time constraints and the budget.

They noted an increased use of exotic ingredients in the recipes, such as rice vinegar and a variety of spices like fresh ginger and Chinese chili paste.

Contestants said meal sharing, whereby each dinner guests bring his or her specialty dish to a dinner party, will continue to be popular through the '90s.

The Chicago cook said she is a "from-scratch cook" and rarely uses convenience foods when preparing her meals.

Sponsors of the Illinois Beef Cook-Off were the Illinois Beef Council and the Illinois Cattle Women.

The first, second and third place beef recipes follow:

LIME GLAZED STEAKS
First Place
Diana Woodland

2 pounds New York strip steaks, 2 inches
Marinade
Juice of 1 lime
1 tsp. rice wine vinegar
2 garlic cloves, minced
1 Tbs. cilantro, minced
1 Tbs. olive oil
Salt and pepper to taste
Glaze
1/4 cup lime marmalade
1 tsp. rice wine vinegar
1 tsp. cilantro, minced
1 tsp. red onion, minced
1 garlic clove, minced
1 jalapeno pepper, seeded and minced

Prepare marinade by combining all ingredients. Place steak and marinade in plastic bag, turning to coat. Close bag securely and let stand 10 minutes.

Make glaze by heating the lime marmalade, rice wine vinegar, cilantro, red onion, garlic and jalapeno pepper in a small bowl. Heat in microwave for 1-1/2 minutes or on the stove in a small saucepan just until boiling.

Remove steaks and discard marinade.

Broil steaks 2 to 3 inches from heat on a preheated rack. Broil 5 to 6 minutes per side.

During final 2 minutes of broiling, brush steaks with glaze.

ORIENTAL BRISKET
Second Place
Patti Dietlin

5 lbs. beef brisket
2 cups beef broth
1/2 cup dry sherry
1/2 cup hoisin sauce
1/4 cup black bean sauce
1/4 cup sugar
3 Tbs. soy sauce
1/2 Tbs. sesame oil
1/2 Tbs. Chinese chili paste
4 cloves garlic, minced
2 tsp. fresh ginger, minced

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Mix all ingredients except beef in a roasting pan. Place brisket in sauce and roast, covered, two hours.

Remove roast from pan.

Carve meat diagonally across the grain into thin slices. Place back in sauce and roast, uncovered, about 1-1/2 hours until very tender.

Serve on toasted sesame seed buns with sauted green and red peppers.

Serves 16 3-ounce servings.

CORSICA STEAK
Third Place
Kerry Schmidt

1-1/2 lbs. New York strip steak, boned, trimmed and sliced diagonally 1/4-inch wide
4 Tbs. butter or margarine
3/4 cup scallions, chopped
7 oz. fresh oyster mushrooms, sliced lengthwise about 1/2-inch wide
1-1/2 tsp. peanut oil
3 Tbs. fresh parsley, finely chopped
Salt and pepper to taste

In a large 10-inch skillet or wok, melt butter over medium heat until sizzling. Add scallions and mushrooms. Saute until mushrooms are tender, about 5 minutes. Sprinkle with salt, if desired.

Remove mushroom mixture from skillet. Set aside.

In the same skillet, heat peanut oil over high heat. Add steak and stir fry for 1 to 1-1/2 minutes. Do not overcook.

Beef should be pink and juicy on the inside and browned on the outside. Add lemon juice, parsley, salt and pepper.

Add mushroom mixture, heat for 10 seconds. Serve immediately. Serves 4.

People Helping People Sums Up Local Business Network

By Anita Anderson

People helping people describes one of the goals of the Southside Business Network, which was organized in 1988 to exchange business leads and information between its 19 members.

"Our group was formed by Chuck Romero, who was an employee of AT&T," said Annette Dixon, a member for more than three years and the owner of Add Flyer Services in Oak Lawn.

"When Romero organized our group, network groups were something many business people didn't use," Dixon added.

"With today's economy, business people need all the help and support they can get. This network answers that need by positive feedback and leads to its members," Dixon continued.

Southside Business Network meets each Friday at 7:45 a.m. at the Royal Inn Restaurant in Oak Lawn. According to Dixon, each member gives a one minute capsule comment on his or her business.

Also, each week, one network member has the opportunity to present a ten minute dissertation on his/her business, which is followed by suggestions and leads from other members who are present.

Dixon said the network gets results and cites several examples.

In her case, several business leads led to sales for her Add Flyer business. Miriam Wallace, a CPA who resides in Palos Hills, now does the payroll for a local company as a result of a Southside Business Network lead.

Rick Warmen of Homewood, owner of Carpet Fair, secured carpet buyers as a result of network leads and Christine Moses of Chicago, a Watkins Products dealer, has seen her sales grow by selling to fellow network members and by following other leads.

Richard Dean, President of SBN, representing Continental Mortgage Banking Corporation in Maywood, has seen home buyers secure loans from solid leads secured at network meetings.

"People join our group to increase their business and to help themselves and other members. When you see members who have been active in this group for more than two years, you know they have to be getting results," said Dixon.

Dixon said members also receive a data record sheet with information about other vital information of network members.

Dues are $25.00 every six months. A social takes place in December for members and their spouses and two breakfast meetings geared toward member recruitment are held during the year.

"Our members make things happen. We are in a marketplace for business success and cost effective communication and interaction," Dixon noted.

Annual Smoker Las Vegas Night

The Marist High School Fathers' Club members are preparing for their biggest event of the year, the Annual Smoker/Las Vegas Night, to be held on Friday, March 18, 1994, from 6:00 p.m. until midnight.

The evening's activities feature a buffet dinner from 6:00 p.m. until 9:00 p.m., with over 100 door prizes, and numerous games of chance.

Admission tickets are $15.00 in advance and $20.00 at the door.

The members of the Fathers' Club once again invite both men and women to their special event.

Fashion show at hospital

Best Look Forward, a fashion and image fair for women experiencing cancer, will be held Saturday, March 26, from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Hilton Inn of Oak Lawn, 9333 South Cicero Avenue. The fair is sponsored by the oncology department at EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center, Oak Lawn. The cost is $20.

Jagdish Da Ve, Ph. D., a professor at Governor's State University, will present the keynote address on stress management and relaxation techniques. Following his remarks, participants can attend concurrent sessions on topics including health care reform, discrimination in the workplace, living wills, nutrition and make-up.

The day will conclude with a luncheon and raffle. of "Best Look Forward." Lunch will be followed by a fashion show by Anne Marie Casey of Annie's Ltd., which will feature women who have experienced cancer.

SSI For People With Addictions Setting The Record Straight

Some people have been misled into believing that a majority of the nation's drug addicts and alcoholics are collecting monthly Supplemental Security Income (SSI) checks from Social Security. As a result, many people have begun to speculate that a) it's easy for an addict to get SSI benefits; and b) their tax dollars are being used to support the addictions of these unfortunate citizens.

Here are the facts.

SSI is a federal program that pays monthly benefits to people with low income and few assets if they are 65 or older, or blind, or if they have a severe disability that is expected to keep them from doing substantial work for at least a year or or that is expected to result in death. The law does not differentiate between types of disabilities. Instead, the condition -- be it cancer, or HIV disease, or addiction to drugs or alcohol -- is evaluated using stringent medical criteria to determine its effect on the individual's ability to do any kind of work for which he or she is suited. A person qualifies for disability payments only after meeting these and other medical requirements ... and the non-medical requirements including low income and assets.

Here are some other facts that refute the notion that all drug addicts and alcoholics are supported by the SSI program.

1) Out of an estimated 23 million people in this country suffering from some form of drug addiction or alcoholism, only about one-third of one percent of them -- or about 70,000 individuals -- receive SSI payments.

2) As a condition of their eligibility, these recipients must undergo treatment, if such treatment is appropriate and available.

3) Their SSI payments must be made to a third party -- a "representative payee" -- who is responsible for ensuring that the benefits are used to meet the recipient's immediate needs for food, shelter, and clothing.

The goal is to provide successful rehabilitation services to all SSI recipients who are addicted to drugs and/or alcohol so they can return to work and become productive members of society.

SSI is administered by the Social Security Administration, but SSI payments are financed by general tax revenues, not Social Security tax dollars.

Auction of Dates with Singles Sold to Benefit Charity

Swinging in '94 is a single's auction and party held annually to benefit Park Lawn, an agency for individuals with developmental disabilities. This year's auction had over five hundred guests present to witness this truly unique evening of fun and charitable support.

The lights dimmed, the music rose and a spotlight beamed down upon this year's Swinging in '94 auctioneer Shane Ratliff and Master of Ceremonies, FM100's afternoon personality Ken Cocker. One by one, single men and women of all ages strutted down the cat walk as audience members bid to win exciting date packages with these eighteen bachelors and bachelorettes. Tuxedos, roses, hot dresses, theme music and personal background of each single only helped raise bids, some of which reached over $1400. Dates included such exciting packages as tickets to The Phantom of the Opera, a romantic hot air balloon ride, and ground floor seats to watch the Chicago bulls.

Park Lawn is grateful to all participants who helped in making this year's single auction a huge success. Over $20,000 was raised, all of which goes directly to the programs at Park Lawn.

Marist senior earns an award

Marist High School Senior, Eric LeCompte, son of Teresa and Terrence LeCompte of Oak Lawn, was presented with the WGN-TV Channel 9 "Extra Effort Award" by anchor Sonya Gantt.

The "Extra Effort Award" is sponsored by WGN, Lewis University, and Montgomery Ward, to honor those high school students who are exceptional in school and throughout their community. It was established to award those students who go above and beyond to make a difference in peoples lives.

Eric LeCompte is the President of the Mission Committee, and currently has the lead in Godspell. He is the captain of the Speech team which, this year, went on to compete at the state level. He is a daily volunteer at Little Company of Mary Hospital in Evergreen Park and is on the Editorial Board of the Sentinel school newspaper.

Upon graduation, Eric hopes to work in a shelter for the homeless.

Science In Our Lives

Coming Sooner: A Practical Electrical Car

Americans may be seeing electrical cars sooner thanks to an invention smaller than a postage stamp.

(NAPS)—A semiconductor, smaller and only slightly thicker than a postage stamp, has been developed that will help make electrical cars practical and might even lead to lower electric bills.

Experts call the invention, by Dr. Victor A. K. Temple, a scientist at Harris Corporation, one of the technology breakthroughs needed to make practical electric cars available in time to meet mandated deadlines.

In addition to cars, the Harris invention can benefit next-generation airliners, spacecraft and ocean vessels, say aerospace and naval experts. It can be used to create super-efficient industrial pumps and motors that can deliver full power at variable speeds. It may also help the nation's electric industry boost—in some cases double—the amount of power that can be transmitted along existing corridors without adding lines or power plants. It may even lead to lower electric bills.

The Harris power control device is an MCT, short for Metal Oxide Silicon-Controlled Thyristor, a big name for a tiny electronic circuit. Despite its small size, the MCT has a high current-handling capacity, fast switching speeds and low electrical losses—characteristics which electric power engineers have long wanted. Harris holds exclusive patents on the MCT and its closely guarded production and packaging processes. Harris is making prototypes now, and expects to have the device in production later this year.

Dr. Temple's invention was chosen by R&D Magazine and Electronic Products Magazine as one of the top new products of 1993. Corporations, government laboratories, private research institutes, and universities throughout the world vie for these prestigious awards.

The slot machine was invented by Charles Fey of San Francisco in 1895.

(NAPS)—The average American has an 86 percent chance of being in an auto accident involving injuries at some point in his or her lifetime. The AARP Auto and Homeowners Insurance Program, provided by ITT Hartford Insurance Group, offers these suggestions to help you stay out of such statistics:

Be aware that as people age, their risk of injury or death in an auto accident increases. That's because older bodies are less able to withstand the trauma of an accident. A 65-year-old crash victim is three times more likely to die than a 20-year-old who sustains injuries of the same severity.

When car shopping, consider this: air bags are the kind of inflation you can live with. Combined with safety belts, they provide the best possible protection in a crash. They inflate in about 1/20th of a second, faster than the blink of an eye and deflate immediately. They won't interfere with your hearing or vision.

Anti-lock brakes help you maintain control of your car. They automatically pump up to 15 times a second, far faster than what's humanly possible. All you do is keep firm pressure on the brake pedals. The system does the work for you, preventing the wheels of the car from locking in a panic stop, especially on wet or icy roads.

Good Scout Benefit Dinner

On the evening of Thursday, April 28th, the Oak Lawn Holiday Inn will pay host to the Good Scout Benefit Dinner, an annual event that honors local community leaders and raises funds in support of the Scouting program. Sponsored by the Forest district, our local chapter of the Boy Scouts, this year's dinner will honor Mayor Kolb of Oak Lawn and Mayor Vacco of Evergreen Park. The two are to be honored with the Good Scout Award, in recognition of their long standing service to the community.

"These two men have built a tradition of community service well beyond their expected duties," said John Faro is the volunteer chairman of the Forest district and also a member of the committee of local business and community leaders who annually plan the dinner. "Because we recognize the need for Scouting in our neighborhoods, we do what we can to ensure the future financial stability of our local Scouting program, but we also recognize and honor those who support our community in many other ways".

In addition to honoring the two mayors, the dinners will also feature Mr. Wayne Messmer, voice of the Chicago Blackhawks, as a guest speaker. Individual tickets for the benefit are available at $100 each and further information may be obtained by contacting Mr. Kevin Menzer, our Local District Executive of the Boy Scouts at (312) 559-0990, extension 263.

POW/MIA Postage Stamp Issue

Ron Eubank, a postal worker, had contacted the Citizens' Stamp Advisory Committee board recently but received a letter March 5, 1994, stating that the committee did not recommend it for a stamp.

For more than eleven years Americans have been sending petitions, letters and postcards to the U.S. Postal Service on behalf of this highly worthy stamp.

Mr. Eubank, POW/MIA Chairman of V.F.W. Post #5220, has lobbied for issuance of the stamp.

"The issuance of the stamp would demonstrate to Americans and the World that the U.S. has not broken faith with our POW's," Eubank said.

There are still estimated remains unaccounted from all wars.

The POW/MIA postage stamp proposal represents remains from WW I (4,500); WW II (78,750); Korea (8,160); Vietnam (2,238); and the Persian Gulf (14).

Let us unite together and write to: The Honorable Marvin T. Runyan, Postmaster General, Chief Executive Offices, U.S. P.S. Headquarters, 475 L'Enfont Plaza, S.W., Room 10027, Washington, D.C. 20260-0010.

There come's a time in everyone's life when they somehow have to admit "They made a mistake."

My mistake was giving away my Canon A-1 camera last December when my son wanted a camera for Christmas and couldn't afford to buy one. I had that camera about ten years.

I'm stating this in a very delicate way because I borrowed a Minolta and just wasn't as familiar with loading it and consequently destroyed the film!

That's right, none of my pictures turned out, in fact, not only did the reopening of Beverly Country Club pictures not turn out, but all my pictures from the Rally of '94 at Park Lawn - all gone.

What hurts is that when this paper was in hiatus I gave away about all my equipment and more importantly my cameras! I had a beautiful Nikon automatic and a 35MM Instamatic.

Now I'm looking at the prices and I believe if any of the readers can inform me of the next camera show, I'd appreciate it!

Onto another subject! A person from Oak Lawn contacted me regarding transportation within Oak Lawn. I was happy to inform her that at the present Worth Township Bus service can help her but in the future the Village of Oak Lawn will have its own bus.

A contribution of $10,000. was given to the Village Board by the Oak Lawn Senior Citizens Council for the purchase of a bus.

Recently an article was written regarding a legal and ordinance meeting debate on bar closings in Oak Lawn. As it now stands the trustees voted to keep the 2 A.M. closing hour.

Remember, when you read this, enjoy the Easter holidays and I hope you are able to begin the spring season with joy and happiness!

Justice TIF Passes-

School District 109 Concerned

Concern about further school funding for School District 109 schools was the heated topic at the Justice Village board meeting, Monday, March 28. "The School Districts opposition is not to the development of residential homes but rather to the TIF designation," said Charles Thier, Superintendent of School District 109. "Because of the Tax Increment Financing District, no tax dollars will be available to support those children from the TIF area, thereby most likely creating a future deficit spending circumstance for the School District," said Thier.

Upon full residential development the School District anticipates expending an added $300,000 to $400,000 per year on students from the TIF district area with no funding from that area to support the students. In addition, additional class room space will most likely be necessary-again with no funding or support from the TIF area. The surrounding communities living within District 109 boundaries could receive the backlash in the form of higher school taxes to offset this deficit.

At the Monday night Justice Village board meeting, Gary Lewis, president of the District 109 School Board appealed to the Justice Village Board to consider the following requests.

1. Utilize 100% of the taxes, both sales and real estate, generated from the TIF area to pay back the $1.3 million in developers' notes as soon as possible. The present agreement has a yearly hold out of 20% of the real estate tax revenue from the TIF to build a $300,000 maximum total reserve fund for contingencies. (When these additional funds are added to the $1.3 million it quickly becomes $1.7 million plus interest of 6.5% to 7.75% on at least $1,000,000 of the total.)

2. Hold no reserves or contingencies for the Village or possible assistance to taxing bodies. The present agreement calls for additional provisions to hold a $25,000 reserve to be held by the Village of Justice. It also calls for a $15,000 per year draw from the TIF revenue by the Village of Justice to pay administrative costs.

3. An agreement between the Village of Justice and the School District that there will be no future financial commitments that would extend the TIF indebtedness or attempts at quick payout.

The Village of Justice dully noted the concerns of School Board president Gary Lewis and Indian Springs School District 109 Superintendent Charles Thier. No changes in the nomenclature of the Justice TIF District have been made.

"While the TIF District is in force, the burden will be left to the remaining residents of District 109 to provide quality schooling for all its pupils," said Superintendent Their.

Club Renovation

The Beverly Country club renovation gathering took place on March 19, 1994. The purpose of this extravaganza was due to the men's governing board, who decided and voted on the renovation. New carpeting and wallpaper decorate every room and it appears to help you feel comfortable and relaxed.

Mr. Neil Rooney, Chairman of the House Committee, is greatly responsible for this fine elegance.

As our lenten journey gives way to a glorious Easter, may the season be a joyous and happy one for you and all whom you love.

The following poem was written some years ago by Edgar A. Guest. It contains much wisdom and practical suggestions for all of us. You may want to memorize some of the lines.

Myself

I have to live with myself, and so
I want to be fit for myself to know.
I want to be able, as days go by,
Always to look myself straight in the eye:
I don't want to stand, with the setting sun,
And hate myself for the things I've done.
I want to go out with my head erect,
I want to deserve all men's respect:
For here in the struggle for fame and self,
I want to be able to like myself.
I don't want to look at myself and know
That I'm bluster and bluff and empty show.
I never can hide myself from me;
I see what others may never see.
I know what others may never know.
I never can fool myself, and so,
Whatever happens I want to be
Self-respecting and conscience free.

If any of our readers are celebrating birthdays soon, may they be happy ones.

Each birthday is a stepping-stone to better things and an opportunity to improve the past and grow in wisdom.

"What the mind creates, the mind can cure"

Mention the word Hypnosis and one almost immediately evokes an image of a mysterious, sinister-looking figure performing acts of mesmerism on some hapless "volunteer."

Recently I had an opportunity to observe a demonstration in clinical hypnosis by Mr. Paul Christy, a registered hypnologist who regularly schedules sessions throughout the Midwest on common problems such as smoking and weight loss. The "negative" imagery proved to be refreshingly reversed. One would be hard pressed to find a more positive form of reinforcement for dealing with the latter dilemmas.

Admittedly, the science of hypnosis has been victim of considerable bad press and misconception. For many psychologists, the jury is "still out" when questions are raised its merits. Even Sigmund Freud discoursed on Hypnotism early in his career before pursuing psychoanalysis.

Many may recognize the name Paul Christy from his career as a professional wrestler with the World Wrestling Federation. He has since given up grappling with the likes of Moose Cholak and Randy "Macho Man" Savage to devote his efforts full time to hypnosis.

The seven o'clock group meeting at the Oak Lawn Holiday Inn was scheduled to focus on weight loss. A dozen or so participants arrived mostly in groups and couples. Many had heard stories from their friends of successes with Christy's program. One young lady mentioned she had previously attended a successful session on smoking cessation and was interested in dropping several pounds gained in the interim. Another stated that her best friend lost 55 pounds.

Christy began by explaining the basics of hypnosis and emphasized that his practice is in no way related to stage hypnosis where people are placed in a trance and "do funny things." "It's not like the movies and does not control mind, body and soul." Under hypnosis, people are very susceptible to suggestion and in the present session, focus would center on weight loss and subsequent lifestyle enhancement..."A willingness to make a commitment."

He discussed the failure rates of many of the popular or fad diets. "Diets end." What is needed is a lifestyle change, a quality of life with higher energy levels without pain and anxiety. "Life is fun....Most people live in denial."

During the course of the program Christy reiterated many contemporary dietary tenets and noted several that would not be terribly popular with the Dairy Council folks. Dairy products would be best avoided, along with dead bodies (otherwise translated to mean Meat!) Ample servings of fresh fruits (particularly in the morning) have a cleansing effect on the body. Mixing acid and alkaline foods (protein and starch) is taboo. Vitamin supplements, anti-oxidants and several of the lesser known trace elements were discussed prior to the actual hypnosis session.

While projecting the image of a spinning color wheel on a wall of the darkened room, Christy began the hypnosis by asking the participants to relax the various parts of their bodies until a trance-like state was reached. His voice ranged from a gentle, soothing monotone to a commanding, assertive timbre.The message was clear and unequivocal. A change was about to occur. And that change was good.

The group left the hotel in a lively, animated mood. Something indeed had occurred. One of the ladies jokingly talked about attracting more men when her ideal weight was reached...Only I think she was dead serious. Some of the others expressed similar, optimistic expectations. There was a feeling of vitality now that seemed to mirror that of their mentor, Mr. Christy.

His slogan What the Mind Creates, the Mind Can Cure was beginning to take effect. It would only be a matter of time (along with a bit of perseverance) before it would reach ultimate fruition.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

'Five Fruit Days' Ensure Healthy Living

By Anita Anderson

Today's health experts say to keep fit and healthy and to help ward off those cancer bugs, one way is to eat five fresh fruits a day, not to mention a fare share of fresh veggies.

We have all heard that broccoli and other greens are REALLY good for you. And we know that all of us must try to keep stress to a minimum since findings show that stress can actually make you sick.

Spring heralds in a bounty of fresh fruit and vegetables. Chili has always been one of the countries of the world who ship a staggering array of fresh fruits to the United States.

All of the local fresh produce stores, including Quality Discount Produce and Deli, the new business at 95th and Mansfield next to Saxon Paint and Wallpaper Company, have mountains of plums, seedless red and green grapes of exotic varieties, strawberries and mounds of kiwi fruit, which are rich in potassium, just to name a few.

For dessert a recipe for Strawberry and Lemon Meringue Torte follows, as well as, a recipe for Orange Sunshine Cake, Molded Grapefruit Slaw and Revolutionary Baked Beans using fresh orange juice and other.

And then, there is always your imagination. So Here's to health and good fruits.

STRAWBERRY AND MERINGUE TORTE

2/3 cup sugar
2 tsps cornstarch
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
1/3 cup water
1/3 cup fresh lemon juice
1 egg beaten
5 cups fresh strawberry halves
Meringue Torte
Fresh mint spigs (optional)

Combine first 3 ingredients in a small, heavy non-aluminum sauce pan.

Gradually stir in water and lemon juice; place over medium heat. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Cook I minute. Gradually stir about one-fourth of hot mixture into egg; add to remaining hot mixture, stirring constantly. Cook 4 minutes or until thickened, stirring constantly. Pour mixture into a small non-aluminum bowl; cover and chill.

Combine strawberries and lemon mixture into Meringue Torte. Garnish with fresh mint sprigs, if desired. Yield: 10 servings (about 127 calories per serving).

MERINGUE TORTE

2 eggs whites
1/2 tsp. vinegar
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup sugar

Combine eggs whites (at room temperature), vinegar, and salt in a bowl; beat until soft peaks form. Add sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating until stiff peaks form (do not underbeat).

Cut a sheet of parchment paper to fit a baking sheet (do not use recycled paper); draw an 8-inch circle on paper. Spoon egg white mixture onto center of pattern. Using the back of a spoon, shape mixture into a circle, mounding sides at least 1-3/4 inches higher than center.

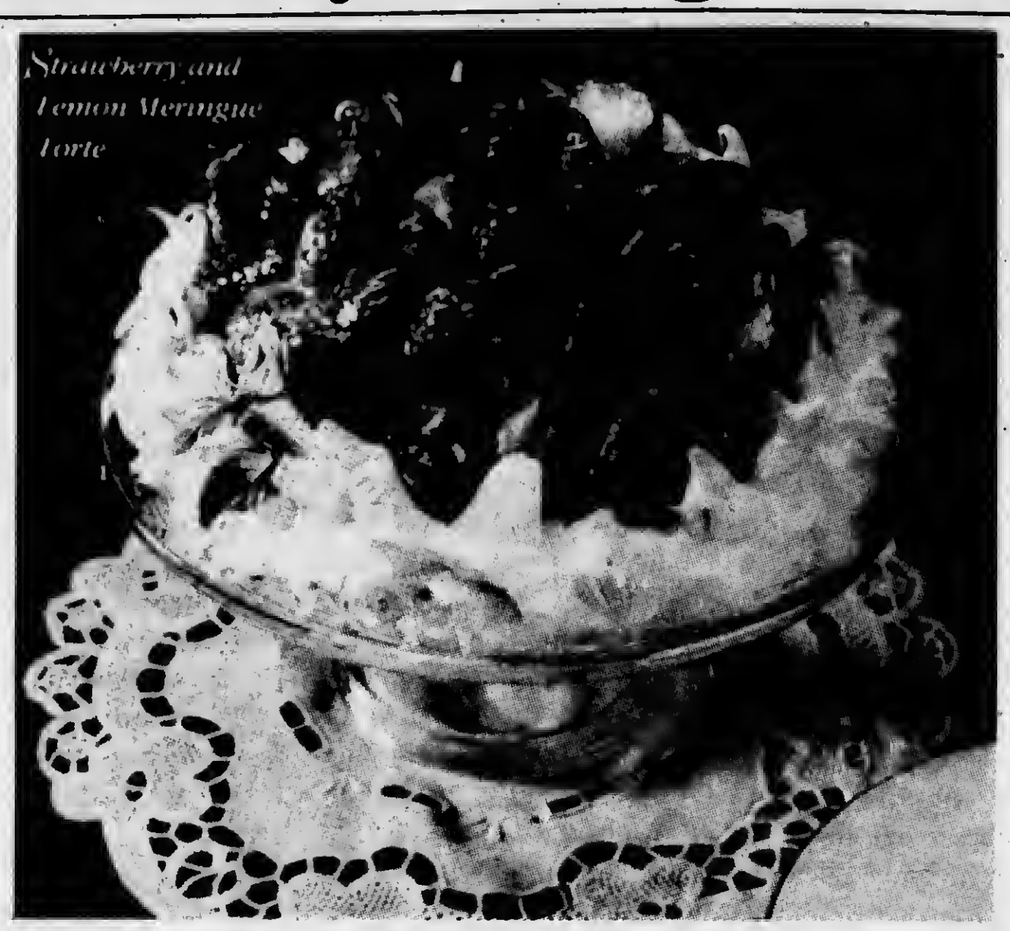
Bake at 275 for 1 hour. Turn oven off and let meringue cool about 2 hours before opening oven door. Carefully remove meringue from parchment paper, and let cool completely on a wire rack. Use immediately, or store in an airtight container.

MOLDED GRAPEFRUIT SLAW

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup water
2 cups grapefruit juice
1/4 cup cider vinegar
1 1/2 cup shredded red cabbage
1 cup finel celery
1/4 green pepper, chopped

In medium saucepan, combine gelatine, sugar and salt. Stir in water; let stand 1 minute. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatine in dissolved. Stir in grapefruit juice and vinegar.

Chill until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg white. Stir in cabbage, celery and green pepper. Spoon into a 1-quart mold. Chill until firm.



Strawberry and Lemon Meringue Torte

REVOLUTIONARY BAKED BEANS

Colonial wives often kept a pot of beans simmering gently on the back of the stove. This dish is perhaps the most universally popular of the great rib-sticking dishes contrived by early New Englanders.

1 pound dry white beans
2 cups orange juice
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
3/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup molasses
2 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/4 pound salt pork, cut in 3/4-inch cubes

Soak beans overnight or according to package directions. Bring beans to boiling; simmer 30 minutes. Drain; reserve liquid, adding water if necessary to measure 2 cups. Transfer beans to a 3-quart casserole or bean pot.

Preheat oven to 300°F. Add 2 cups bean liquid, orange juice, Tomato sauce, onion, molasses, Worcestershire and salt pork; mix well. Cover. Bake in a 300°F oven 4 to 5 hours; stir at least once every hour, Bake uncovered during last hour to thicken sauce.

Research by Disease

At present, Alzheimer's disease afflicts an estimated four million persons over age 65. It costs the nation $90 billion a year.

Among fractures related to osteoporosis, a disease characterized by loss of bone density, hip fracture is the most serious. More than 90 percent of such fractures occur in persons over 70, and more than 90 percent of these fractures result from falls.

It is especially important to continue research that re-examines, with an open mind, old assumptions about aging. Many conditions long believed to be the inevitable and irreversible by-products of old age have turned out to be not so inevitable, after all. One example is a form of high blood pressure called isolated systolic hypertension, or ISH. A nationwide clinical trial showed it can be treated successfully, cheaply, and without side effects. Researchers believe that treating ISH prevents up to 84,000 annual admissions to hospitals and nursing homes

Young Chef-Instructor Offers Spring Entrees

By Anita Anderson

Mike Riley is a young, cooking instructor at the Cooking and Hospitality Institute of Chicago.

Riley said as a teen he was always overweight and had low self esteem until he figured out a way, through trial and error, how he could keep his weight down and still eat healthy and well.

This change of heart about his appearance and the willingness to do something about it opened up a whole new career. He worked for a few years at a major hotel in Cleveland before accepting his position at the Cooking Institute, a job he loves.

"I teach about six classes and it's rewarding to see others go on to success in food related fields," Riley said.

Here are two of his recipes, a Mango Marinade and Pork Kebobs since barbecue season is here.

The recipes for the marinade and the kebobs follow:

PORK MARINADE WITH MANGO PICO DE GALLO

1/2 cup vegetable oil
1/3 cup dry sherry
2 Tbsp. soy sauce
2 Tbsp. honey
2 Tbsp. fresh lemon juice
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 Tbsp. minced sage or 1 tsp. dried
1 1/2 tsp. thyme leaves or 1/2 tsp. dried
1/2 tsp. salt
3 lbs. boneless pork shoulder cut into 2" cubes
Sage/basil leaves for threading on the skewers
Red pepper and onion pieces for skewers

Soak wooden skewers in water for one half hour and drain.

Make the marinade (recipe below). Combine the ingredients well. Add the pork to the marinade, cover and chill for 2 hours, turning pork frequently. Drain the pork, reserve the marinade.

Thread the pork, sage, basil, peppers and onions on the skewers, alternating the meat and the herbs.

Brush the kebobs with the reserve marinade and grill them, turning frequently until the meat is done or juices run clear when pierced.

MANGO PICO DE GALLO

2 ripe mangos, peeled and cut into 1/2" dice
1 tomato peeled and seeded, cut into 1/2" dice
1/2 small red onion peeled, cut into 1/2" dice
1 clove garlic, minced
2 small serrano chilies, seeded and minced
1 Tbsp. chopped cilantro
1/2 tsp. ground chili powder
1/4 cup fresh lime juice
Salt to taste.

Serves 6

ORANGE SUNSHINE CAKE

3 cups unsifted all purpose flour
3 tsps. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup plus 2 Tb butter
2 1/3 cups sugar,
5 large eggs
1 cup orange juice, divided
2 tsps. grated peel

Preheat oven to 350°F.

Grease three 9-inch round cake pans and line bottoms with wax paper cut to fit bottom of pan. In a medium bowl, mix flour, baking powder and salt. In the large bowl of an electric mixer, beat 1 cup butter and 2 cups sugar at medium speed until creamy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition.

Beat in flour mixture alternately with 3/4 cup orange juice, beating well after each addition. Beat in orange peel. Pour batter evenly into prepared pans. Bake in a 350°F oven 25 to 30 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center of cakes comes out clean.

Remove pans from oven and loosen cakes around edges with a small metal spatula. Turn cakes out onto wire racks; peel off and discard wax paper.

Turn cakes, right-side-up, and prick all over with a wooden pick.

In a small sauce pan, melt remaining 2 tablespoons butter, 1/3 cup sugar and 1/4 cup orange juice. Cook, stirring until sugar dissolves. Spoon slowly over warm cakes, letting syrup oak in. Let cakes cool completely.

Complete cake with a pudding pie Filling* and frost with your favorite recipe.

Pick Pasta Pronto Suppers

For great-tasting, summer-easy suppers, think pasta -- but with a seasonal switch in strategy. Sidestep the long-simmered sauces of winter and go for light, fresh and fast pasta toppers starring the season's finest vegetables.

Brightly colored, boldly seasoned and easy to make, just as mellow or spicy as you wish, it takes a garden-fresh flavor and lively jalapeño heat from mild, medium or hot Pace® Picante Sauce. Pairing perfectly with pasta and a wide range of savory seasonings, the versatile sauce makes a super starting point for pasta suppers. And, at only 5 fat-free calories per flavor-packed tablespoon, you can pour on all you wish.

Raid the garden or the produce department for Picante Four Pepper Pasta.

Inspired by popular Mediterranean flavors, it combines onion, garlic and seasonings with red, green and yellow bell peppers -- enhanced by the Picante sauce's tongue-tingling jalapeños. A splash of balsamic or red wine vinegar and a sprinkling of Parmesan cheese completes the dish.

Pronto Pasta Picante takes its flavor cue from deep in the heart of Texas. Teaming the cook's choice of pasta with tomatoes, onion, ripe olives, garlic, Picante sauce and seasonings, it takes a last-minute sprinkling of monterey jack cheese and cilantro for added Tex-Mex appeal.

Serve either recipe with crusty bread or bread sticks and a tossed salad for a delicious dinner in nearly no time.

Picante Four Pepper Pasta makes a super-easy, summer-perfect supper. A colorful and quick-to-fix mix of pasta with Mediterranean seasonings, it boasts bright red, yellow and green bell peppers.

Picante Four-Pepper Pasta

8 oz. mostaccoli, rotini or other favorite pasta
1 large onion, quartered lengthwise and thinly sliced crosswise
1 large green pepper cut into short, thin strips
1 large red pepper, cut into short, thin strips
1 large yellow pepper, cut into thin strips
1 Tbsp. minced garlic
2 Tbsp. olive oil
1 tsp. dried basil leaves
1/2 tsp. dried oregano leaves
2/3 cup Pace® Picante Sauce
2 Tbsp. balsamic vinegar*
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Cook pasta according to package directions; drain. While pasta cooks, cook onion, peppers and garlic in oil in large skillet over medium-high heat, stirring frequently, 5 minutes. Sprinkle basil and oregano over vegetables; continue cooking, stirring frequently, until vegetables are tender, 6 to 7 minutes. Add Picante sauce and vinegar; cook and stir 2 minutes. Spoon pepper mixture over pasta; sprinkle with cheese. Toss. Serve with additional cheese, if desired, and additional Picante sauce.

*One tablespoon red wine vinegar plus 1/2 teaspoon sugar may be substituted.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

CITRUS STIR-FRY

The Chinese were the first to make an art of cooking. Their cuisine still exemplifies how to cook quickly but gently so that the food retains its natural flavor.

1/3 cup grapefruit juice
3 Tbsps. soy sauce
3 Tbsps. vegetable oil, divided
1/2 tsp. ground ginger
1 lb boneless pork loin, cut into very thin strips
1 Tsp. cornstarch
3/4 lb sea scallops, cut in 1-inch pieces
2 grapefruit, peeled and sectioned Hot, cooked rice
Green pepper julienned (optional)

In small bowl, combine grapefruit, soy sauce, 1 tablespoon oil and ginger. Add pork strips; cover and let marinate 1 hour at room temperature. Drain pork. Reserve marinade. Combine marinade and cornstarch; set aside.

In large skillet or wok, heat remaining 2 tablespoons oil over high heat. Add pork and stir-fry 2 to 3 minutes until browned. Add scallops and continue stir-frying another 2 minutes.

Add reserved marinade mixture and green onions, continue stirring until sauce boils and thickens. Gently stir in grapefruit sections. Serve over hot rice.

Garnish with green pepper, if desired.

Summary of Meeting of March 15, 1994

Robert Gast, Oak Lawn, was appointed Network Manager by the Oak Lawn Library board at its regular meeting of March 15. He will assume his duties on April 1. Last fall, the library established a Local Area Network (LAN). This upgrading of the library's technology enabled the personal computers on every librarian's desk to link with every other personal computer in the building. Gast will be in charge of the LAN and of the training of staff in developing full implementation of its capabilities.

Dr. James Casey, library director, reported that an outside drop box for videotapes will be installed within a few weeks. He indicated that this will constitute a major service improvement for patrons who check out videos. He added that this service was one of the first priorities outlined in the board's long range plan for 1994.

Library statistics for circulation were down in January and February reflecting the effect of the bitter cold weather and snow storms. However, Oak Lawn library circulation still ranks third highest out of the 75 libraries in the system.

In regular board business, the board approved payment of $61,597 from the library materials fund; $17,397 from the general operating fund; and $149,788 from the personal fund. The board did an annual review of the board bylaws and approved them without change.

Board meetings are open to the public and are held at 7:30 p.m. on the third Tuesday of each month in the lower level Oak Lawn Rotary Room, 9427 Raymond Avenue. Board members are Robert Honkisz, President; Lois Gasteyer, Vice president; Nancy Czerweic, Secretary; Shirley Barrett, Treasurer; and Joann Buschbach, Marian Sullivan and Robert Thompson, Trustees.

Friends Series

Arianna, a quartet which features harp and flute accompanied by violin and string bass, will appear in concert at the Oak Lawn Public Library, 9427 West 95th Street (5300 West 95th Street) at 2:00 p.m. Sunday, April 10. This is the third offering in the 1994 Sunday with Friends series, an annual program sponsored by Friends of the Library.

What First-Time Home Buyers Want

By Jim Berg, President, Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago

The most common reason for renters to buy a home is that they want to own their own property. According to "What First Time Home Buyers Want," a survey produced by the National Association of Home Builders, 95 percent of respondents cited ownership as a key motivating factor. Other key reasons for buying a home were more space (55 percent), location (35 percent) and a better neighborhood (28 percent). In choosing a home to buy, most people are looking for energy efficiency (96 percent), a bigger lot (74 percent), less crime (71 percent), a better neighborhood (69 percent) and less noise (67 percent).

Potential first-time home buyers want significantly more space in their next home. Renters who intend to buy want a median size of 1,900 square feet - a definite increase over the average 1,300 square feet in single-family rental homes and the average 875 square feet in apartments. However, when asked to choose, first-time buyers strongly preferred keeping bedroom space over group activity space or larger bathrooms. More than half of the potential first-time buyers preferred a larger family room instead of a living room and a larger living room over a dining room.

The most desired household amenity was a washer/dryer followed by a linen closet, an additional bathroom, central air conditioning, walk-in closets, a microwave oven, dishwasher, pantry, security system and a fireplace. They also expressed a preference for high ceilings. One in four prefer to have an 8-foot ceiling, but most (75 percent) prefer ceilings that are 9 feet high or higher. Of those, 27 percent prefer 9-foot ceilings, 35 percent prefer 10-foot ceilings and 10 percent prefer 11-foot ceilings.

Kitchens and bathrooms are key selling points for any home. The strongest preference in kitchen features was a large countertop (78 percent) followed by a walk-in pantry (75 percent), special use storage (53 percent) and a bay window (50 percent). Nearly three-quarters of the respondents would rather have more wall cabinets than windows. In bathrooms, renters who plan to buy prefer two bathrooms (46 percent), but nearly as many (40 percent) prefer more. For the master bath, a vanity with one bowl was the renters' top choice. Two-bowl vanities followed at 46 percent. This group want the toilet separated from the bath but, do not prefer bidets and will not accept a sink without a base.

Renters who plan to buy a home prefer wall-to-wall carpeting in the living room, family room/den/recreation room, bedrooms and hallways. Other floor materials and covers vary with the room and usage. For example, ceramic or finished hardwood is preferred in the entry foyer while vinyl sheet, vinyl tiles and ceramic tiles were the choices for the kitchen floors, and ceramic floors and vinyl sheeting was chosen for the bathrooms.

One of the problems in evaluating consumer preferences in surveys is that people always want more rather than less. When faced with what they want versus what they can afford, those potential buyers chose to live farther away from work (55 percent), have a smaller lot (50 percent), buy an expandable home (48 percent) and have fewer amenities (47 percent).

Marist

The Marist High School drama club will present the musical GODSPELL on April 7th, 8th, and 9th in the school theater.

GODSPELL is under the direction of Peg Mooney, with Joe Clair, a 1988 graduate of Marist, conducting the choreography. Performances begin at 8:00 p.m. each night. Tickets many be obtained at the door, with students and senior citizens paying $5.00 and adults $6.00.

Wheelchair Tennis

Wheelchair tennis is played by over ten thousand people worldwide, and is the fastest growing wheelchair sport today. In the United States, over sixty wheelchair tennis tournaments are held each year.

On July 6 through July 10, 1994, the Oak Lawn Park district, in conjunction with the Midwest Wheelchair Tennis Association, will be hosting a National Championship for Masters and Juniors, followed by a Sectional level tournament, drawing from 80 to 120 players, respectively.

Without the support of the local business community, an event of this magnitude would never be possible. The tournament will benefit not only the players, who will be coming from throughout the United States and several foreign countries, but the entire community.

As a major contributor, you will have your name or logo printed on the T-shirts that go to all the players and are worn for several years, along with other benefits. Some of the community businesses that have already jointed us in their support are Oak Lawn Hilton, Oak Lawn Park District, Sara Lee, Checkers, Wheatfields, and Palermo Pizza. Please consider joining these businesses to make this community event possible.

Call Marcia Carr (708) 798-3554 or Jim Reed (708) 485-8227 for the personal contact and for more information.

CRISIS CENTER

The Crisis Center, based in Tinley Park, provides a 24-hour hotline, shelter, individual and group counseling for women and children, court and hospital advocacy for victims and counseling programs for men who batter. It also assists in obtaining medical and financial aid for clients and provides internship training and community education.

The Crisis Center operates the only residential shelter in the south suburbs for battered women and children. It serves the 10 townships of Bloom, Bremen, Calumet, Lemont, Orland, Palos, Rich, Stickney, Thornton and Worth. In 1993 it served over 4,000 clients.

All services are provided free of charge. Johnson Phelps VFW Ladies Auxiliary, Post #5220, helped by contributing in fundraising.

Gas Price Roller Coaster Ride Continues, AAA-CMC Says

March 17, 1994 - Self-serve gasoline prices fell during the past month, but the declines may be short-lived, according to the AAA-Chicago Motor Club's March Fuel Gauge survey. Consumers are on the brink of the annual changeover to summer-blended fuels which traditionally means steadily higher pump prices from April to June.

In Chicago and Cook County, average self-serve prices were down 2.2 cents per gallon since February, partly erasing a 6.0 cent gain one month ago. Currently, a gallon of self-serve unleaded regular averages $1.139 in Chicago and Cook County.

In addition to the usual changeover to the summer-blended gasoline, another reason prices increase in the spring and summer is because of heightened demand for gasoline, which is expected to be greater in 1994 due to a projected 3 percent hike in auto travel, according to AAA-CMC.

Between April and June of 1993, self-serve prices rose an average of 8.1 cents per gallon in Chicago and Cook County, 7.7 cents per gallon in Illinois outside of Cook County, and 11.2 cents per gallon in Northern Indiana.

Compared to a year ago, average self-serve prices are currently 3.4 cents lower in Chicago and Cook County, 3.2 cents lower in Illinois outside of Cook County, and 1.7 cents lower in Northern Indiana.

Saint Xavier University President Announces Resignation

Chicago-- Dr. Ronald Champagne, President of Saint Xavier University, has requested that the Board of Trustees accept his resignation as University President, effective April 15, 1994. The Board of Trustees, at its Board Meeting on March 29th, accepted Dr. Champagne's resignation with regret and with appreciation for his twelve years of dedicated service to the University.

In accepting Dr. Champagne's resignation, the Board of Trustees in turn requested Dr. Champagne to become President-Emeritus in order that the University might continue to avail itself of Dr. Champagne's advice and counsel. Dr. Champagne agreed to accept the Board's request.

The Board of Trustees, at their meeting on March 29th, also announced the appointment, effective April 15, 1994, of Dr. Colette Mahoney, RSHM, former President of Marymount Manhattan College, New York, as interim President. The board will soon appoint a committee to search for a new President.

During his service as President of Saint Xavier University, Dr. Champagne has led the 147-year-old institution to levels of unparalleled growth. Under his direction, Saint Xavier was given the special distinction of University status, undergraduate and graduate programs increased from its original 36 to 65 programs, and off-site locations were expanded to include Field Based Masters throughout Cook County, an international focus in France and Italy, as well as, a local campus in Orland Park. These accomplishments alone helped create the strongest higher education growth record in the State of Illinois for the past ten years.

In keeping with the University's mission, Saint Xavier has also made significant gains by enhancing the multi-cultural milieu of the campus community through strong outreach programs for minorities and international students. Minority enrollment alone at SXU has experienced significant increases throughout his tenure.

In addition to Dr. Champagne's work in enhancing the academic curriculum and student support programs, he substantially increased the University's total operating revenues during the past twelve years; he established a development program and successfully completed a major capital campaign; and he established a three-year compensation program, bringing all faculty salaries to national averages and above for Universities of similar stature.

"I have spent the last twelve years laying a strong foundation for even greater progress at Saint Xavier University," said Champagne. "I believe now is a good time for me to pursue my other interests and hand over the leadership of this University to those who will continue to build upon our strengths, and lead Saint Xavier to the 21st century."

Richards Spring Play

Richards High School, 10601 South Central Avenue, Oak Lawn, Illinois, will be having their Spring Play, The King and I, at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, April 28; Friday, April 29; Saturday, April 30.

Seniors will be admitted free with discount card available at the school. For more information, call (708) 499-2550, Extension 174.

He joined the Navy in February 1975.

Life After A Nursing Home

By F. Soczek

Residents of Concord Nursing Home enjoyed a "Day at the Races" recently at Sportsman's Park. Distinctive in their bright red T-shirts, donated by Angies Pizzeria in Burbank, the group viewed the action from high in the clubhouse, wagering on races specially named for the various Concord facilities - Edgewater Care's "Out for a Trot," Wheaton Care Center's "1st Hurrah," Fairmount's "First Annual Day at the Races" and Concord Extended Care's "Going for Perfect A."

Angie Cooper, events coordinator for Concord, notes monthly "Outside" activities, such as, baseball games, the zoo, museums and the Shedd Aquarium are on the agenda for this summer. Bed-ridden residents are not forgotten, as special theme festivities (Hawaiian Luau, Country Days) are frequently celebrated, along with each individual's birthday!

Publisher's Pen

By Annette Dixon

This column is going to be about the topic of opening a business and where to open a business.

Years ago, there wouldn't be a question as to where to open a business. The top suburbs were Palos, Orland, Oak Forest and of course Chicago Ridge Mall! Now we have BRIDGEVIEW! Yes, Bridgeview is the ideal suburb to conduct business.

Bridgeview has a population of 14,200 with many shopping malls and still considering more malls. Which suburbs are the shoppers coming from? Could it possibly be Oak Lawn with our 60,000+ population?

Oak Lawn businesses are producing more activity especially Quality Discount Deli & Produce which brings more customers into Oak Lawn. The problem is that 95th St. real estate shows a vacancy rate higher then the past years.

A turning lane will be implemented this July, will that mean more businesses will be leaving 95th St. in Oak Lawn? There has to be a reason why businesses are not clamoring to get into Oak Lawn. Some will say the high cost of rent, some will say the Chicago Ridge Shopping Mall has all the necessary stores one would need. Some could say there is a little or no parking on 95th St. "Some will say people are not willing to shop at independent stores and that wholesale and discount stores are the answer.

I say it was because our Village Fathers have never prepared for Oak Lawn to be a merchandise retail community. That remark would not help the situation we are now into but what can help is our Oak Lawn Business Development Committee.

Between the Chamber of Commerce, our Business Development Committee and Oak Lawn Village Manager, we will surely have 95th St. stores filled once again. Give them your support and more importantly, SHOP OAK LAWN!

Dedicated Bus Driver for 1994

by Annette Dixon

Wendy Strama has been a part-time employee for 7 years and is a driver for special children who attend Aero Co Op and Columbus Manor schools. Her recent accomplishment with Richlee Vans in Chicago Ridge was to receive a mileage award. That means an accident free record for 115,000 miles. "If I had to do it all over again," says Wendy Strama, "I would drive a bus."

Wendy, mother of two, at age 29 chose to drive special children rather than work in her father's businesses. She works 5-6 hours per day for five-days a week. Wendy and husband get the children ready for grandmother to care for them while Wendy goes off to work.

"I enjoy my job because it allows me time to visit with my children between the hours of 9:30 A.M. and 1:00 P.M., and again after 4:30 P.M.," says Wendy.

It takes an extraordinary person to be able to arrive on time and have the ability to think in case of emergencies. Wendy has children with physical, mental and speech disabilities on the bus and is a transporter. Drivers need to be trained for a C license, be able to lower the ramp automatically and help the children onto the ramp.

Helen DuBose (Bunny) is Wendy's aide who helps the children in the wheelchair onto the bus and clamps their wheelchair onto the brackets on the floor and wall of the van. She also checks the harnesses and straps used for the regular walk ons.

"Wendy and Bunny have been picking up Nick for 3 1/2 years," says Pat Zientek of Oak Lawn, "and they have to be very special people for the job that they do, I feel that they love and treat these children as if they were their own."

THE WONDERFUL WORLD
William Brighty Rands

Great, wide, beautiful, wonderful World,
With the wonderful water round you curled,
And the wonderful grass upon your breast,
World, you are beautifully dressed.

The wonderful air is over me,
And the wonderful wind is shaking the tree -
It walks on the water, and whirls the mills,
And talks to itself on the top of the hills.

You friendly Earth, how far do you go,
With the wheat fields that nod and the rivers that flow,
With cities and gardens and cliffs and isles,
And the people upon you for thousands of miles?

Ah! you are so great, and I am so small,
I hardly can think of you, World, at all;
And yet, when I said my prayers today,
My mother kissed me, and said, quite gay,
"If the wonderful World is great to you,
And great to Father and Mother, too,
You are more than the Earth, though you are such a dot.
You can love and think, and the Earth cannot!"

Encounter Of A "Duck Kind"

By Anita Anderson

Two mallard ducks have taken residence in our pool for the past few years. At first, the worry of the ducks drinking the chemically processed pool water and its chlorine presented a worry. But then, like a mother sending her daughter or son on their first trip to the loop in the family car, you know you can't stop them, so you hope for the best.

Perhaps this is not the best comparison, but I did have a certain bonding with the ducks. A beautifully purple splashed male with its touches of blue, beige, black and white, and the little brown female, somehow sweeter and more vulnerable and not as cocky as her male counterpart with his royal plumage was all beauty I have in the yard!

One recent morning, I looked out the window to see "if the ducks had arrived." Usually you could see the large circular ring in the pool, which meant the ducks touched down, wings spread-eagled as they descended into the azure pool.

Today was different. I counted three ducks. Two female and the brightly colored male swimming around in the water.

A few minutes later, one female duck disappeared and only the male remained.

Then I noticed a tiny brown, furry parade on the far side of the pool near the green foliage, next to the chain fencing.

The mother duck was proudly parading toward the pool followed by seven tiny squawking ducklings. Mama duck jumped into the cold water at the deep end, followed by her seven babies.

This must have been their first encounter with water and mom probably felt it was time for a swimming lesson.

How was she to know that as easy as it was for her ducklings to splash down into the pool, there was no way for them to get out? They could not fly.

The steps in the shallow end of the pool and the tiered steps in the deep end were fine for mama duck, as she rested after a brisk swim with her babies. But not for the wee ones. The mother was getting frustrated with later attempts to remove her babies.

Then there was the question of food and the effects of the chlorine on the delicate skin of the baby ducklings, not to mention my two dogs.

With this in mind, I called the Animal Welfare League at 103rd and Southwest Highway. Joyce Beutler, the shelter's director, listened to my tale of eight ducks and within one hour, two young people carrying transport cages and nets were in my back yard.

"Yes," they said, "we get calls like yours." The important thing was to ensnare mother duck. The babies

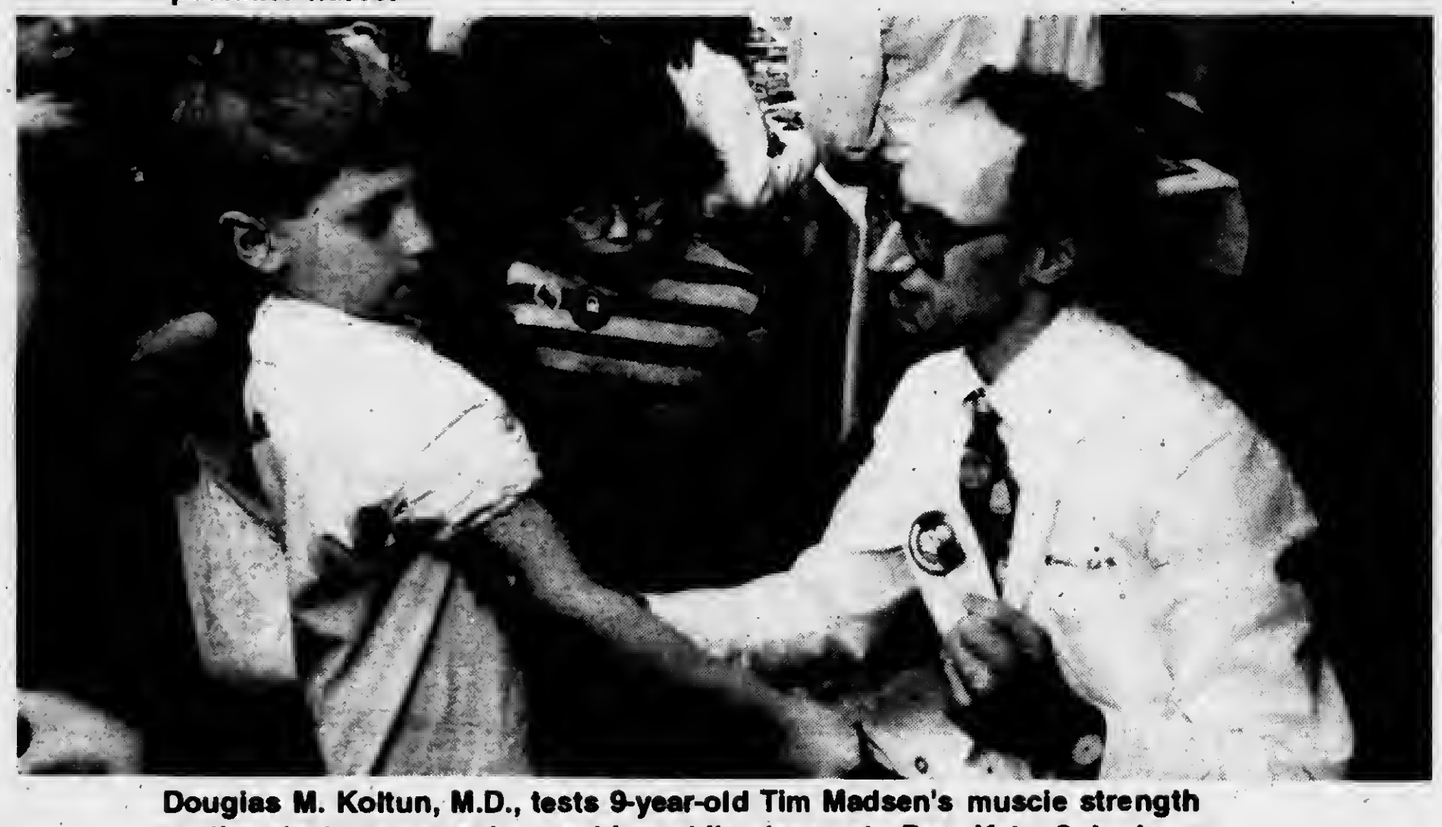
Center Hosts Medical Playday

More than 200 elementary school children from five area schools recently clamored into the Percy Hopkins Auditorium at EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center, Oak Lawn, where they wrapped wounds, listened to heart beats and administered shots to those posing as patients at the hospital's sixth annual Medical Playday. The event was held during Children and Hospitals Week, a public awareness campaign sponsored by the Association for the Care of Children's Health in Washington, D.C.

"The goal for medical playday is to allow children to actively participate in learning about the hospital environmental and to get to know the people who make up the health care team," said Clare Winer, EHS Christ Hospital's child life therapist. She also explained that by allowing children to pretend they are treating the doctors and nurses who participate in the activities, children learn to master difficult experiences while the medical professionals learn what a child might be feeling when being treated.

Timmy Lindeman, 9, a student at James M. Hannum Elementary School in Oak Lawn, takes the temperature of June Kirk, an EHS Christ Hospital pediatric nurse.



Douglas M. Koltun, M.D., tests 9-year-old Tim Madsen's muscle strength on the electromyography machine while classmate Pam Katz, 9, looks on. Both are students at James M. Hannum Elementary School in Oak Lawn.

Asha Mehta, a registered dietician at EHS Christ Hospital, weighs Michael Dragosvich, 9, who is a student at James M. Hannum Elementary School in Oak Lawn.

Magician Entertains

Children At EHS Christ

Randy, the wild and wacky magician, played by Randy Bernstein of Chicago, recently entertained several children at a party for pediatric patients of EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center, Oak Lawn.

The party, which was hosted by the Starlight Foundation, was one of several events held at the hospital during Children and Hospitals Week. Starlight Foundation is an international, non-profit organization that grants special wishes to critically, chronically or terminally ill children who are between the ages of 4 and 18 years.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Author Likes Uncomplicated Food

The author of "Down Home" is everything you'd think a cookbook author should be- certainly not thin of stature and most likely possessing a good sense of humor and a love of food.

John Hadamuscin is all of the above.

Hadamusin was holding court in the Mity Nice Grill, the Lettuce Entertain You Eatery in Chicago's Water Tower Place.

He was talking about his new book which he said makes cooking and entertaining easy.

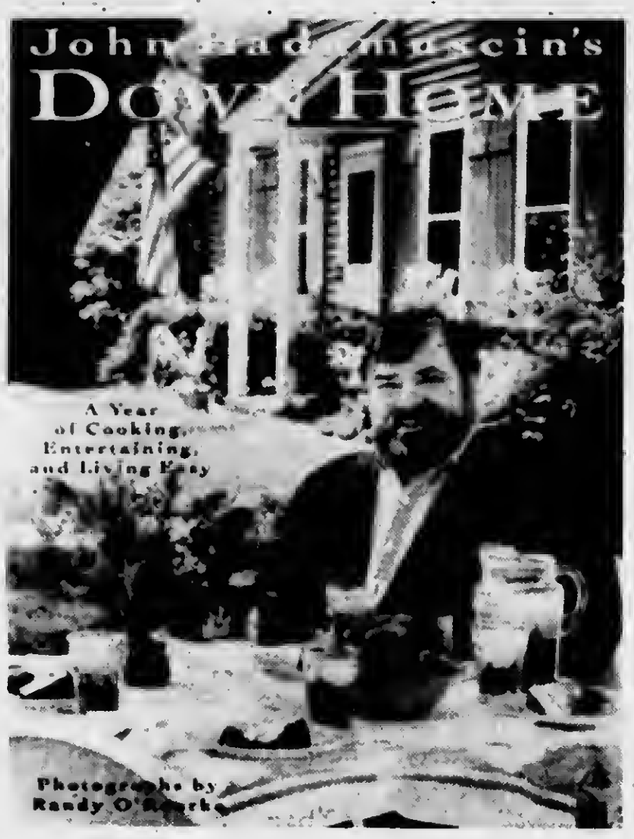
The author had just come from a television taping where Earl Blackwell, famous for his worst-dressed fashion awards, also appeared.

That night he would leave for his farmhouse home in Chatham, N.J.

"This turkey is the best I have ever tasted," said one the guests invited to meet Hadamuscin.

The turkey was served with mashed potatoes and gravy and savory sweet potato and apple dressing

Several recipes follow.



PICKLED SHRIMP

DRESSING:

3/4 cup olive oil
3/4 cup vegetable oil
1 cup red wine vinegar
2 tsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt
1/4 cup tomato paste
1 tsp. dry mustard
1/2 tsp. hot pepper sauce
1/2 tsp. red pepper flakes
1 Tbsp. black pepper corns
2 Tbsp celery seeds
3 large garlic cloves, crushed
4 lbs large shrimp, cooked and peeled
6 bay leaves
1 large onion, thinly sliced and separated
1 small head lettuce bamboo skewers

1. In a jar, combine all the dressing ingredients, cover and shake well. Set aside.

2. Place the shrimp, bay leaves and onion rings in a large bowl. Add the dressing and toss well to combine the ingredients and coat them with the dressing. Cover tightly and chill for 24 hours, tossing 3 or 4 times.

3. To serve, line a shallow bowl with lettuce leaves. Drain the shrimp mixture and arrange on the lettuce. Serve with toothpicks or bamboo skewers for skewing.

WILD RICE AND MUSHROOM SOUP

Serves 8

This is easy to make as long as you have some well-seasoned chicken stock on hand (it's OK to use good-quality canned stock). The only thing that takes a bit of time is cooking the wild rice, but it needs little tending.

2 Tbsp. butter
4 scallions, white and green parts, chopped
4 ounces morels, shiitake or other "wild" mushrooms, thinly sliced
10 ounces button mushrooms, thinly sliced
3/4 cup wild rice, rinsed well and drained
6 cups chicken stock
2 cups half-and-half
2 Tbsp. dry sherry or Marsala
salt and freshly ground black pepper
4 scallions, green part only, shredded

1. In a large, heavy saucepan or Dutch oven, melt the butter over medium heat. Add the scallions and mushrooms and saute until golden brown, about 7 minutes. Add the wild rice and 2 1/2 cups chicken stock to the pan, cover and bring to a simmer. Reduce the heat to low and cook, barely simmering, until the stock is absorbed and the rice is tender, about 45 minutes.

2. Meanwhile, in another saucepan, bring the remaining stock to a simmer over medium low heat . Gradually whisk in the half-and-half and continue to cook until the mixture thickens slightly, about 5 minutes.

3. Pour the liquid mixture into the pan with the rice mixture, stir well and place over the heat. Stir in the sherry and bring the mixture just to simmering. Season to taste with salt and pepper and serve immediately, garnished with shredded scallions.

SOUR CHERRY UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE

Makes one 9-inch round cake

3 Tbsp. butter, melted
1/4 tsp. almond extract
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 tsp ground cinnamon
1/2 cup slivered almonds
1 1/2 cups pitted sour cherries
1/4 cup vegetable shortening
3/4 cup sugar
1 large egg
1 tsp. vanilla extract
1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
1/4 tsp. salt
3/4 tsp baking soda
1/2 cup butter cup

1. Preheat the oven to 350 degrees.

2. Combine the butter and almond extract in a small measuring cup and pour the mixture into a 9-inch round cake pan. Tilt the pan to coat with the butter mixture. Arrange the cherries in a single layer in the pan. Set aside.

3. In a mixing bowl, cream together the shortening and sugar, then beat in the egg and vanilla. In a separate bowl, combine the flour, salt and baking soda. In thirds beat this mixture into the wet mixture, alternating with the buttermilk.

4. Pour the batter evenly over the cherries. Bake until the top of the cake is golden brown and a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean. Place the pan on a wire rack and cool 15 minutes, then invert the cake onto a serving plate. Serve warm, or at room temperature.

Grapefruit Plays Important Weight Management Role

Experts agree that grapefruit juice can play an important role in weight management. "Citrus products, such as grapefruit and grapefruit juice, are smart choices when dieting," says Dr. Lawrence Cheskin, director of the Johns Hopkins Weight Management Center in Baltimore, Maryland. "They are sodium-, cholesterol- and fat- free, low in calories, and high in vitamins and minerals."

As part of the national 5-a-Day program, several government agencies, including the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and Department of Health and Human Services, recommend that Americans eat five daily servings of fresh fruit and vegetables for better health. "Few people get their 5-a-Day requirement of fruit and vegetables," notes Dr. Cheskin. "But, by including citrus juices in your diet, which can be conveniently eaten throughout the day, people are more likely to meet these requirements." Research shows that regular exercise and a balanced diet, high in fruit and vegetables and low in fat, helps to maintain an ideal weight.

Including grapefruit or grapefruit juice as part of a balanced breakfast also may contribute to weight loss. According to Dr. Cheskin, eating a healthy breakfast can curb appetite throughout the day and prevent overeating. "Eating a healthy breakfast is a much more natural way to diet," he says. "It's not a good idea to skip breakfast and deprive your body of food until later in the day. This may cause people to eat more at the end of the day, when their body doesn't need as many calories."

Eating light, heathy treats throughout the day, such as fresh grapefruit, can help provide a steady supply of energy, and may lessen the urge to eat excessively during the day.* Grapefruit also are a very portable snack. In fact, a whole grapefruit, can fit easily in a briefcase, and fresh grapefruit segments can be conveniently brought to work in a plastic

It also is possible that fruit juices, such as grapefruit juice, may have filling effect, and cause people to eat less. A recent study conducted by Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, found that drinking a glass of natural fruit juice 40 minutes before eating a help reduce caloric intake by 30 percent. "The concept of drinking fruit juice before a meal to reduce calorie intake is similar to the concept of drinking several glasses of water before a meal," comments Dr. Cheskin. "The more full you feel, the less you will eat."

Cookies Hint of Fresh Oranges, Tangerines

FLORIDA T-FRUIT SNOW CLOUD COOKIES

FLORIDA T-FRUIT SNOW CLOUD COOKIES
(Makes about 3 dozen)

- 1/4 cup softened shortening
- 4 Tbsp. light brown sugar
- 3 Tbsp. granulated sugar
- 1 large egg, beaten lightly
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 2 Tbsp. grated orange rind
- 1 cup finely diced orange
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. baking soda
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/3 cup flaked coconut
- Sifted confectioners sugar for garnish

Preheat the oven to 350°F. In a bowl, cream the shortening with the sugars until light and fluffy. Add the egg, a little at a time, and beat until well combined. Beat in the vanilla and the orange rind. Stir in the diced orange.

In a bowl, sift the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Add the flour mixture to the orange mixture and stir until combined well. Fold in the coconut.

With a tablespoon, drop the batter onto lightly greased baking sheets spacing them 1-1/2 inches apart and bake the cookies in the oven for 12 minutes, or until pale golden. Cool on racks to room temperature and sprinkle with the confectioners sugar.

FLORIDA TANGERINE CUPCAKES
(Makes 1 dozen)

- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 tsp. baking powder
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 cup low-fat yogurt
- 4 Tbsp. unsalted margarine, melted
- 1 large egg
- 1 Tbsp. grated tangerine rind
- 1 cup finely diced tangerine

Preheat the oven to 400°F. Into a bowl, sift the flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and sugar. In another bowl whisk together the yogurt, margarine, egg and grated rind. Stir in the tangerine. Add the liquid ingredients to the flour mixture and stir just to combine. Spoon the batter into 12 buttered muffin tins filling them two-thirds full and bake for 18-20 minutes, or until pale golden. Let cool in the pan for 5 minutes and transfer to a rack to cool completely.

Southwestern Flavors Finish First

Santa Fe Stack-Up Salad is a runaway favorite in salad categories. A colorful layering of bright vegetables, chicken and salami, it boasts a boldly flavored dressing that takes its garden-fresh flavor and just the desired degree of fiery jalapeño heat from the salad-maker's choice of mild, medium or hot Pace® Picante Sauce

Black Bean Salsa Ranchero Dip is a simple combination of beans, vegetables, Pace® Thick & Chunky Salsa and seasonings, the delicious, light and healthy dip for chips is a creative variation of popular "Texas Caviar."

Southwestern Calzones, a hearty snack can double as a light lunch or dinner. To streamline preparation, refrigerated pie crusts encase the well-seasoned chicken and vegetable filling.

SANTA FE STACK-UP SALAD

- 1 head iceberg lettuce, shredded
- 1 medium red onion, chopped
- 1 cup diced fresh jicama
- 2 cups cubed cooked chicken breast
- 1 pkg. (3 ozs.) sliced salami, diced
- 2 large ripe avocados, cubed
- 3/4 cup Pace® Picante Sauce
- 3/4 cup light or regular mayonnaise
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 2 Tbsp. lime juice
- 3/4 tsp. ground cumin
- 1/2 tsp. dry mustard
- 1/4 tsp. garlic powder
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 2 cups shredded cheddar or monterey jack cheese
- 1 medium red bell pepper, chopped
- 1 can (2-1/4 ozs. drained weight) sliced olives, well-drained
- 2 cups tortilla chips

In 3-quart clear glass salad bowl, layer, in order given, lettuce, onion, jicama, chicken, salami and avocado. In small bowl, combine picante sauce, mayonnaise, sour cream, lime juice and seasonings; mix well. Pour picante sauce mixture evenly over avocado layer; top with cheese, red pepper and olives. Cover bowl with plastic wrap; chill at least 4 hours or overnight, as desired. To serve, garnish salad with tortilla chips.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

CALZONES

- 1 pkg. (15 ozs.) refrigerated unbaked pie crusts (2 crusts)
- 1-1/2 cups chopped cooked chicken or turkey
- 1 cup Pace® Picante Sauce
- 1 can (8 ozs.) whole kernel corn, drained
- 1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained
- 1/4 cup sliced ripe olives
- 2 Tbsp. tomato paste
- 1-1/2 tsp. ground cumin
- 1 tsp. chili powder
- 1/2 tsp. garlic powder
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/2 cup (2 ozs.) shredded cheddar cheese

Allow pie crusts to stand at room temperature according to package directions. In medium skillet, combine chicken, picante sauce, corn, mushrooms, olives, tomato paste, cumin, chili powder and garlic powder. Cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until mixture is thickened, about 5 minutes. Cool. On lightly floured surface, unfold pie crusts; cut each in half. Spoon 1/4 of the filling onto one half of each pie crust half; moisten edges with egg. Carefully fold each pie crust half in half over filling. Press edges with tines of fork to seal. Place calzones on lightly greased baking sheet. Brush tops with egg; cut slits in top to allow steam to escape. Bake in preheated oven at 375°F, 25 minutes or until golden brown. Sprinkle with cheese. Let stand 5 minutes on baking sheet; serve with additional picante sauce.

Makes 4 servings.

All life on earth, scientists say, depends on natural radiation from the sun.

WOMEN STUDY SELF DEFENSE

by F. Soczek

Amidst the excited shouts of "Kick!", "Knock-Knock!" and "Home Run!" (names for the various defense tactics), each of the participants took their turn "escaping" from the husky, imposing, black-clad figure of Martial Arts instructor Norman Nall. The free, four week Women's Self Defense course held at the Oak Lawn Self Defense School (708-499-0800) is intended as an introduction to the concept of "hit and run" survival tactics. Nall, a 6th Degree Black Belt instructor with 44 years of Martial Arts Experience, stresses the defensive nature of the maneuvers. He strongly discourages "continuing" any confrontation. Among the concepts taught is an creased awareness of potentially dangerous situations and to be "Calm, precise and devastating" in defensive strikes.

Discussion is encouraged regarding self-defense scenarios in various situations - supported by a statistical analysis of recorded rape cases.

Amy O'Reilly, Evergreen Park

"Of 100 rapes, 57 victims failed to fight back; all 57 succumbed to their attacker. Of the 43 who fought back, 20% ultimately became rape victims."

One of the participants lamented she had, "no one to practice on... my husband wouldn't cooperate..." Nall was sympathetic to her plight. In order to be effective "You have to hurt someone..." Most husbands and boyfriends do not find this particularly enjoyable.

Although only into the second week of the program, Nall's observation that "Confidence soars" in his students is evident in the resounding kicks and quenches to his protected (and unprotected!)anatomy. Several women continue delivering "Defensive" blows to their downed "Attacker" as advanced students cooking on wince in sympathetic understanding.

Nall jokingly measures the success of his group sessions by "Counting the bruises" on his body. "Nine bruises this week - fifteen to twenty is normal." Displaying a yellowing contusion on his chest the size of a saucer, the seriousness of his endeavor to confront statistical odds becomes painfully apparent.

PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM

by Dolores Woods

Have you ever heard the expression "It's going to hell in a handbasket?" Well, I've never used the term myself but if I were looking for an example of what to use it on, public education would fit to a "T".

Now before you get all upset and try to explain what a lovely school your child attends, think about the bigger picture. The Chicago Public Schools, have the dubious honor of being the worst in the nation. The largest school systems in the country soak up the bulk of our tax dollars. Big city schools are a disgrace and so are some suburban school systems. Sure, maybe your particular suburban public school is okay, and I'm happy for you but it doesn't tip the scales enough to make anyone say that public education is or has been a success. National statistics which are the topics of so many news reports and talk shows, indicate that public education is failing miserably.

In some Chicago schools when a child is asked to add 38 and 22, some get confused as to whether the teacher is referring to a Colt or Smith & Wesson!

Educators once felt that children didn't learn because they were hungry--so school systems implemented a "free lunch" program. The next reason was that children weren't getting breakfast, so many schools implemented a free breakfast plan. So now we have free breakfast, free lunch, and a bus that picks the kids up, but somehow it's still not working. It wasn't enough so the next step was to put social workers and psychologists in all school districts. One of those wonderful unfunded mandates that made our taxes soar like a bird.

Believe it or not, the 'silly squad' has taken it several steps further in some districts by actually paying the kids to go to school! The schools have become mother and father, it can't work. We can't blame this one on President Clinton--just people who think like him. But he's not off the hook because he and many members of congress are pushing a plan called "outcome based education". It's in a program known as "Goals 2000". This is a program devised to spare the feelings of our little ones by not making them accountable for having learned a thing. It gets the teachers off the hook for sure. We remove competition and grades, the perfect formula for creating little empty headed blobs who will know how to use condoms. But think about it--no one's feelings will be injured. No one will pass, no one will fail, kind of an educational purgatory. It should be so simple to understand yet the "educators" keep missing the mark. Japan and various Asian countries have some of the most brilliant students because of the competition and their demand for accountability.

This must delight those of you who pay to send your children to private schools. Not only are you being taxed doubly, but you are being made a fool of while they pick your pocket. How humiliating!

Would you believe there are people in the U.S. who think it would be a sin to allow parents of children to pick who will teach their children and the schools they want their children to attend? Some of them are union members just attempting to protect their bucks, and others are arrogant government 'thought police' who think they know what's best for both you and your child. They don't trust parents like you and me. After all, we might make a mistake and they know oh, so much more than we.

I know there are good public educators out there, but so many of them are impeded by the bureaucracy and various other elements that serve to destroy a good educational environment. Let's stop talking about bailing out the schools and look to putting our money to better use by allowing parents to use their hard earned money to pick exactly where they want their child to learn, public or private!

Village board approved move to public safety building

by Ron Rehfeldt

Residents and trustees shouted some, but the Oaklawn Village Board last Tuesday gave Oaklawn Park District its parking variation for its proposed new ice arena and authorized itself to issue $1.15 million in bonds to move the village hall to the Public Safety Building.

In a reasoned if somewhat abstract speech on the bond issue, Trustee Robert Streit indicated he thought that moving village services to the Public Safety Building was wrong for several reasons, not the least of which the village did not have the money to do it.

"We're $20 million in debt!" rued Streit, adding he thought the village could ill afford to add another bond issue to its indebtedness.

Streit also suggested that the moving, refurbishing and bond issue project was the mayor's party's way of repaying political debts. When Trustee William Keane asked Streit to explain what he meant and Streit began to point out the monies that went to lawyers, bankers, and insurance agents, Keane tried to shout him down, and the board meeting became a shameless shouting match featuring Keane, Streit, Mayor Ernie Kolb and other unidentified trustees.

"He's just mad he's not getting a rooting contract," chimed in one trustee. Trustee Streit owns a rooting company.

"It's pin stripe patronage!" shouted Streit. "Cheif Gilbert (former Oaklawn cheif of police) said he thought it was a bad idea," said Streit.

"In all honesty I heard Gilbert's statement," said Trustee Ron Stancik, "and I think he was making the statement as a very upset employee and it was a gross misstatement.

When Streit suggested that the Public Safety Building was not appropriate for the village hall for safety reasons, Trustee Michael Walsh retorted, "The Public Safety Building is not dangerous. The dangerous places are Jewel and Venture."

In remarks he made before shouting erupted, Trustee Stancik presented some of the rationale for moving the village hall to public safety.

"Our downtown area is dying," he observed. "This is a project for the common good."

Added to the funds from the bond issue will be $750,000 in Community Development Block Grant Funds. The total of $1.9 million will be used to refurbish the Public Safety Building, to move everything from the place to the other, and to raze the village hall.

After the building is torn down, the village will honor a 12-year-old promise to the park district to use the land for a park.

According to Village Manager Joe Faber the area will have its new look probably by the summer of 1995. Then the Oaklawn Public Library will face a parking lot on the east, a landscaped park north, the "new" village hall and public safety building northwest and Vali's Koffee Kup across 95th Street.

Besides taking a step in establishing a new park in the village, trustees also approved the park district's request for a parking variation at the site of the proposed new ice arena, but not without a shuffle.

At the last two village meeting residents protested the effects of traffic and their home values of the new ice arena complex and its resultant crowds of people and vehicles.

Their concerns were meet somewhat by making egress from the parking lot at 94th Street and Kenton Avenue a no-left turn. Revised plans also provided for access to the parking lot from Cicero Avenue on 94th Street.

This did not please Marian Strasser, who spoke to trustees on behalf of the trustees of St. Paul Lutheran Church. She said trustees had not been notified of the pending parking variation request and that they were very concerned about making 94th Street a through Street. "That is going to cause great problems," she contended, "especially when the pool is opened. We were there first. I wish you would talk with the church. Could you close that off on a Sunday morning?"

Strasser was assured that efforts would be made to address the church Trustees concerns.

Cy Holesha, 1st District Trustee drew the name of lucky winner Tony Pope and Colleen Dansart on opening day at Westside Baseball.

Westside Baseball's Annual Opening day

Sandra Bawadi, OakLawn and Donna Sifling, OakLawn help with serving in the kitchen on opening day. Volunteers are from east OakLawn and west OakLawn, Bridgeview and Darien. They are all participants and volunteers of the Pony Baseball Organization West Side Baseball.

Randy Skendzel, Bridgeview, board member and concession manager says the Organization gives free hot dogs, soda, ice cream and chips to over 500 children in uniform on opening day.

Many people have commented on my article in January regarding think before you start speeding.

I didn't think I would be writing a column on think and look in your rear view mirror when stopped at a light or stop sign! I cannot believe it possible to avoid someone driving their car into the rear of yours while waiting for a stop light!

It is possible to be prepared, example, by wearing a seat belt, keeping your body limber, checking the rear view mirror and trying to avoid the car in front of you while skidding or being pushed into the car in front of yours.

Too many people recently told me of such accidents and I was one of the lucky ones not affected by careless drivers until now.

Doing Time for ACS

First Jail & Bail for Bridgeview Chapter a BIG Success!

By Sal Lema

Would you be arrested for charity? Many of our local business and Village leaders did just that during a two day pledge drive for the Bridgeview Chapter of the American Cancer Society. On April 20th and 21st the Bridgeview Chapter of ACS held their very first Jail & Bail Benefit. This fund raiser which literally arrests unsuspecting participants and stands them before a kangaroo court, earned over $7,000 for the American Cancer Society on the first of their two day event. The offenders are given bail sentences which they must cover by calling friends and associates and obtaining pledges to retire their bail. The offenders are released when pledges are of sufficient denomination to cover the required bail.

Many of the arrested live within our community. Village Clerk Anne Cusack was one of the first arrested. She was arrested for operating a copy machine without a license. Prairie Bank President and Chamber Vice-President Bradley Stevens, was jailed for providing unpolished coins. His sentence was commuted to a bail of $800, or 48 days at the Federal Reserve bank polishing coins. He choose to collect the bail required. Patt Higginson, the Mayors secretary was sentenced because she keeps too many elephants on her desk. She pleaded for mercy, but hanging judge Beth Ann Lema, accepted a promissory note before allowing her to return to work. A charge of Concrete evidence of Holey bricks brought Jack Oremus, president of Prairie Materials Sales Inc., away from his busy day. With a telephone in hand Jack handily delivered his required sentence. And so it went all day long. "This is a great way to show support for our community," said Mayor John Oremus. His donation was received from the heart-without an arrest or bail sentence. Bob Greenwald from R & B Liquors, Gerhard Haigis, Gerhard Tool & Die, Dr. Phil Painter, MacNeal Hospital, Village Trustees Chester Haraf, Joseph Kaput and Mike Pticek and many many more were working the phones, acting as bailiff, prosecutor, judge and or support personnel to keep the money rolling in during the two-day event. "This chapter has consistently moved forward," said Chamber President Pete Pasdach. "I commend them for what they have accomplished," he said.

In two short days, over 35 people were arrested. Their total bail of almost $12,000 is more than twice their estimated goal. "During the first day, when I saw that the participation was there, I was very pleased," said ACS Bridgeview Chapter President Bill Talerico. Bill, single-handedly brought in over $2,000 in pledges.

This is just another example of the Bridgeview business community and Village leaders working together with the hope of providing a better future for its residents. ■

"I'm innocent!" says Patt Higginson, secretary to the mayor.

Trustee Joseph Kaput can't believe that after fabricating this jail, hanging judge Beth Ann Lema, would put him behind bars.

"But I'm the Village Clerk," protested Anne Cusack. "I don't need a license to use the copy machine!" Anne Cusack, you too shall join the fight!

We all strive to become Saints - it is not an easy task. Even though the Saints seem to be extraordinary people, they are made from average persons like you and me. I came across the following that I thought I would share with you: SAINTS A LA MODE Recipe - INGREDIENTS: 1 Human Being, 1 pound of Joy, 1 tablespoon of Charity, 1 cup of Patience, 2 pounds of Faith, 2 cups of Humility, 1/2 teaspoon of Suffering, 1 dash of Kindness, 1 tablespoon of Hope, 2 tablespoons of Justice. Add the Faith, Hope, and Charity to the Human Being, stirring constantly. Mix in Suffering slowly to prevent spoiling. To sweeten the taste, add the Joys. Stir until smooth. Sift the Patience with Justice gradually beat into batter. Carefully fold in the Humility to prevent the escape of the Virtues that have already been introduced into the mixture. Add the dash of Kindness and Justice and sprinkle the Prayers on top. If the directions are followed carefully, no heating will be necessary!

Belated birthday greetings to my grand niece Emily Fitzgerald who was 11 on April 17th.

Also, my nephew James Dennehy's birthday was April 29th.

Happy Birthday to the following: Rose Stella, Florence Michaels on May 1st. Dorthea Thoma, Ryan Minor, May 4th. Richard Dixon, James Holland, May 6th. Barbara Rabon, May 7th, William Smith, May 9th and Phyllis Onsted, May 13th.

Happy Anniversary to Richard and Annette Dixon, May 13th.

Best wishes to Beth McElroy who became Mrs. recently.

Marital bliss to Darin Macey, son of Joyce and Don Macey. Darin will be marrying Lisa Stebestl in St. Charles, April 30th.

Our condolences to Mary Kay and Peter Ellis on the recent death of Mrs. Marion Di Giacomo, Mary Kay's, loving Mother.

Benefit For Longtime Bridgeview Resident

A candlelight bowl at El Mar Bowl, 8435 S. Harlem, Bridgeview will be held Saturday, May 14, 1994 starting at 930pm to benefit Bernadette "Bernie" Curry, long time resident of Bridgeview who was recently diagnosed with leukemia.

Sponsored by the Bridgeview Booster Club and friends of Mrs. Curry's, the Candlelight Bowl will include three games of scotch doubles and a buffet dinner. Tickets for this event are $20 per person and are available immediately. Dinner only tickets may also be purchased at a cost of $10 each.

All interested persons should contact the Bridgeview Park District at (708) 594-1818 for more information on obtaining tickets.

Raffle tickets for a wide variety of donated prizes including autographed sports memorabilia and dinners at area restaurants will be sold the evening of the Candlelight Bowl. Tickets for cash raffle prizes are currently for sale.

Mrs. Curry, who likes to be called Bernie by all who know her, has always been an active person in the village of Bridgeview. Over the years, she has worked with many local organizations, including the Bridgeview Little League, the Bridgeview Booster Club and the Bridgeview Youth Commission. Mrs. Curry is probably best known, however, forher hard work and diligence at the Bridgeview Park District. She has been an employee there for over eight years.

Bernie was diagnosed with leukemia several months ago, and is in need for a bone marrow transplant. She has already been accepted at the University of Iowa Hospital and Medical Center, which is equipped to perform this delicate procedure. Finding a compatable donor, however, is a very costly procedure and not one covered by medical insurance.

In an effort to help Bernie and her family cope with the financial strain for her illness, the Bridgeview Booster Club and her friends are organizing these fundraising activities.

Award For Financial Excellence

The Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago recently received the Certificate for Excellence in Financial Reporting from the Government Finance Officers Association. Nancy Drew Sheehan, Chairman of the Committee on Finance said, "This is the eighteenth consecutive year that the District has received the award. We are proud of our consistently high performance in financial reporting. This award represents our commitment to the taxpayers to give them the most service for their money in protecting the water environment."

Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers is looking for interested high school students to act as Volunteers throughout the Hospital this summer. The program is open to all high school students looking for an interesting and educational way to spend a part of their summer helping others.

Volunteers will be asked to spend time helping out in assorted departments of the Hospital. Hours available for volunteering are Monday through Friday, 9:00 am to 1:00 p.m.

Space is limited, so all interested students should attend the registration meeting to be held May 14 at 11:00 a.m. in the Third Floor North Pavilion Meeting Room at the Hospital. All late registrants will be placed on a waiting list.

For more information, call the Volunteer Department, (708) 422-6200, ext. 5281, and ask for Mrs. Vincent.

Oaklawn Public Library News

Three Major mystery writers will present a special program at the Oaklawn Public Library beginning at 7 p.m. Monday, May 2. This presentation by the Southwest Mystery Book Guild will bring together Patricia Moyes, Dorothy Cannell and Joan Hess who will discuss their characters, their inspiration and some of the details required for their writing.

Patricia Moyes writes the Cheif Inspector Henry Tibbett of Scotland Yard series, a charming, old fashioned gentleman who is often assisted by his wife Emmy. Moyes was born in Ireland, lived in England and resides in the British Virgin Islands.

Dorothy Cannell was born in London and now resides in Peoria. In her novels the reader meets Ellie Haskell as well as Hyacinth and Primrose Tramwell of the Flowers Detective Agency. The mysteries are set in England and the United States.

Joan Hess is a native of Arkansas where she still lives. She has two series to her credit. One of the is the Maggody Mysteries. The other features Claire Molloy, the mild mannered book seller.

Books by these authors will be available for purchase and for signing. The meeting will be held in the lower level meeting room of the library, 9427 S Raymond Ave (5300 W. 95th St) For additional information, contact Susan Baird at the library, 708-422-4990.

A trip to the unusual land of Turkey will be the next travelog program at the Oak Lawn Public Library, 7 p.m. Wednesday, April 27. Robert and Alice Ihrig, who made the trip in 1993, will present their slides and commentary.

The program is open to the public on a first-come, first-seated basis. The showing will be in the lower level meeting room of the library, 9427 Raymond Ave. (5300 W. 95th St.) For additional information, contact Mary Nelson, 708/422-4990.

Celebrate Sesame Street's 25th Birthday With Sesame Street

Fill the balloons, hire the band and light the candles-SESAME STREET LIVE celebrates the 25th Birthday of Sesame Street and the Muppets. It's sure to be the funniest, furriest birthday ever! Sesame Street, the popular PBS television show, kicked off its 25th season last November. SESAME STREET LIVE will celebrate the occasion when "Sleeping Birdie" comes to the Rosemont Horizon May 4-8.

The adventure begins on the Planet Crayon where the Yellow Queen reigns as the "yellowest of them all." When her claim to the universal title is challenged by an eight-foot yellow bird from Planet Earth, she's off to Sesame Street to try and eliminate the competition.

SESAME STREET LIVE'S musical production of "Sleeping Birdie" is about friends, fun and learning. In this modern-day fairy tale, Bert, Ernie, Cookie Monster, Grover and the rest of their delightful pals ask the audience to help save Big Bird from the Yellow Queen and her nasty spell. The residents of Sesame Street live happily ever after when the audience reverses the magic spell by dancing, singing and blowing kisses to Big Bird.

The classic fairy tale comes to the Rosemont Horizon On Wednesday, May 4 at 7:30 p.m.; Thursday, May 5 at 7:30 p.m.; Friday, May 6 at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.; Saturday, May 7 at 10:30 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. and Sunday, May 8 at 1:00 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. Tickets for "Sleeping Birdie" are priced at $9.50 and $10.50 with youth and group rates available. A limited number of premium seats are also available. Tickets can be purchased at Rosemont Horizon box offices, all Ticketmaster outlets or charge by phone (312) 559-1212. SESAME STREET LIVE is produced by Minneapolis-based VEE Corporation in cooperation with Childrens Television Workshop. Since 1980, these highly successful stage shows have built a tradition of responsible, dependable and imaginative entertainment, playing to over 26 million adults and children in North America and the United Kingdom.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Chicken just keeps 'movin' on

By Anita Anderson

The term "chicken power" certainly will have its place in the next century if forecasts by Joe Sanderson Jr., chairman of the National Broiler Council and George Watts, president of the council are any indication.

The two men were part of a wide and varied panel of speakers who addressed the "Chicken Goes Caribbean:" seminar held in Montego Bay, Jamaica recently.

With all of the outcry due to television news coverage on a recent nightly news show about salmonella cells left on raw poultry after chicken leaves the processing plant Watts counteracted with several facts.

He contended that such reports were isolated incidents and if statistics on how many Americans get ill from eating tainted chicken, the number would be miniscule.

"Chicken is still the best and most clean food you can buy," Watts said. "Some of the problems with handling chicken will be dealt with after July 6 when, by FDA law, all poultry sold will have handling instructions."

"By proper heat and freezing methods, any cell left on poultry would dissipate," Watts added. He noted that by freezing poultry at 25 degrees and cooking at high heats followed by keeping the food at 140 degrees until ready to serve, stops bacterial growth. Another important factor is to soak chicken in ice water before preparation. By observing all of the above bacteria can be eliminated.

Sanderson looked into his crystal ball as to the destiny of chicken. He feels that Americans will eat more than 73 pounds of chicken this year and will consume 75 pounds in 1995.

He said more than seven billion chickens will be raised in the U.S. this year.

Bone-in-chicken breasts are more affordable because of the greatly expanded exports of chicken leg quarters to countries like Hong Kong, who also utilize the chicken feet, not allowed for sale in the U.S., Japan, and Mexico.

Another chicken trend is the popular rotisserie roasted type which took off in sales this year.

Sanderson made a few predictions for the next century which included the familiar beef burger turning into a 50/50 blend with ground chicken and, some of us will cook them on a microwave appliance on the dashboard of our car.

He sees other groundmeat products being made predominantly from chicken but not until the year 2,010.

Sanderson also peered into his crystal ball and said that by the time today's first graders are in elementary school and in their early 20s few of these households will actually be cooking food for the regular evening meal.

Instead, household members responsible for the evening meal will think in terms of assembling food; preparation and cooking will be done for recreational and creative reasons, not unlike other hobbies. And by the year 2000 whole chicken will become obsolete in the market and only available cut-up.

With the continued popularity of chicken considering attractive pricing and eating chicken for health reasons the National Broiler Council also announced its 41st National Chicken Cooking Contest to be held in Atlanta, GA. April 27, 28, 29 and 30 of 1995.

Prizes are $25,000, $5,000 $3,000, $2,000, and $1,00(for the first five winners having the best recipes deemed by judging experts.

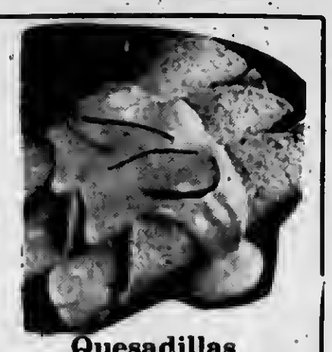
Deadline for entries is Oct. 15, 1994. Mail chicken recipes to Chicken Contest: Box 28158 Central Station, Washington D. C. 20005. Each of the 51 Finalists, one from each state,receives an expense-paid trip to Atlanta to participate in the National Cookoff.

A variety of chicken recipes follow.

CARIBBEAN CHICKEN DRUMS

8 broiler-fryer chicken drumsticks
2 tbsp. oil
1 can (14-1/2 oz.) whole peeled tomatoes, cut into chunks
1 can (4 oz.) diced green chilies
1 tbsp. brown sugar
1/4 tsp. ground allspice
1/4 cup mango chutney, chopped
1 tbsp. fresh lemon juice
1/4 cup dark seedless raisins
1 large banana, sliced
1 ripe mango, sliced

In frypan, place oil and heat to medium temperature. Add chicken and cook, turning, about 10 minutes, or until brown on all sides. Add tomatoes, chilies, brown sugar and allspice. Bring to a boil, cover, reduce heat to low temperature and cook 20 minutes. Add mango chutney, lemon juice and raisins. Cover and cook about 15 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Remove chicken to serving platter. Skim off fat from sauce. Add banana to mixture in frypan; heat thoroughly. Spoon fruit and a little sauce over chicken. Garnish with mango slices. Place remaining sauce in separate dish and pass. Makes 4 servings.



Quesadillas
1 can (7 ounces) green chilies
1 pound Jiffy Jack
2 flour or corn tortillas
2 cup vegetable oil (optional)

Place a portion of green chilies and a thick slice (2- X 2- X 1/2-inch) of Jiffy Jack in the center of a tortilla. Fold tortilla over, pin shut with a wooden tooth pick. Fry in shallow vegetable oil until crisp and Jiffy Jack has melted, turning occasionally. Drain

Jerk Chicken Transferred To Barbecue

The popularity of Jerk Chicken, Jamaica's best-known chicken dish, has spread beyond the island, spicing up the chicken served in restaurants and cooked on grills across the country.

Nobody seems to know where the name "jerk" comes from but some say it refers to pulling (or "jerking") the cooked meat from the bone when it's served. Essentially it is chicken bathed in a spicy-hot marinade and slowly grilled and smoked over the aromatic wood of the Jamaican pimento (allspice) tree.

The jerk tradition dates back to the island's colonial days when a band of runaway slaves, known as Maroons, pit-roasted wild boar which they preserved with salt and seasoned with herbs and chili peppers. Today there are jerk stands throughout Jamaica. Natives have come to prefer jerk chicken over pork and restaurant chefs are now expanding jerk further to rock lobster and fish.

Like backyard barbecue cooks everywhere, many Jamaicans have their own special blend of "secret" ingredients. Basically, the jerk marinade is a mixture of the exotic scent of allspice, onions, scallion thyme, garlic, nutmeg, cinnamon and salt, plus scorching red and yellow peppers called Scotch bonnet. the Jamaican pimento (allspice) added coals is what sets this apart

Talented Teens Take Honors In Young Cooks Recipe Contest

Three creative high school students with winning ways in the kitchen have walked away with the top cash prizes in the sixth annual Pace® Picante Sauce Young Cooks Recipe Contest. The teenagers-only round-up of original recipes prepared with Pace® Picante Sauce attracted entries from high school and junior high school students nationwide.

Picante Super Skillet Nachos, a hearty snack that can double a meal, was the judges' unanimous choice for the $1,000 Grand Prize. Richly flavored, quick to fix and conveniently served from the skillet in which it cooks, the recipe combines ground beef with traditional "nacho supreme" toppings-beans, onions, avocados, olives, tomatoes and San Antonio's own Pace® Picante Sauce in the cook's choice of mild, medium, or hot.

To serve, the mixture is topped with cheddar cheese and sour cream, and ringed with tortilla chips. For buenos burritos that make a super supper, spoon the spicy meat mixture onto warmed flour tortillas then fold, roll and enjoy.

PICANTE SUPER SKILLET NACHOS

- 1 Pound Ground Beef
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 2 cups Pace Picante Sauce
- 1 can(15 oz.) pinto or black beans, rinsed and drained
- 1 tsp. chili powder
- 1 large tomato, chopped
- 1 large or 2 small ripe avocados, seeded and diced
- 1/2 cup sliced ripe olives
- 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
- 1/2 to 1 cup sour cream, as desired
- Tortilla chips and warmed flour Tortillas

In 12-inch skillet, brown meat with onion; drain. Add picante sauce, beans and chili powder; bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer uncovered 5 minutes. Stir in tomato, avocado and olives; remove from heat. Sprinkle with cheese; spoon sour cream onto center of meat mixture. Place a row of tortilla chips around the edge of skillet; serve immediately with additional tortilla chips, flour tortillas and additional picante sauce. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Congratulations go to Michael Koelsch, a high school junior from Idaho Falls, Idaho, for his winning recipe. Three-Bean Smoked Turkey Stew won top honors—and a check for $500--in the Soups and Stews category. Chock-full of colorful vegetables and bursting with bold Tex-Mex flavors.

THREE-BEAN SMOKED TURKEY STEW

- 2 cans (14-1/2 ozs. each) stewed tomatoes
- 2 cups Pace Picante Sauce
- 1 can (15 ozs.) kidney beans, rinsed and drained
- 1 can(15 ozs.) black beans, rinsed and drained
- 3/4 pound smoked turkey breast, cubed
- 1 cup frozen corn
- 1 cup frozen sliced carrots
- 2 tsp. chili powder
- 1/4 cup chopped cilantro
- Juice of one lime
- Garnishes: Sour cream, chopped cilantro

In large saucepan or Dutch oven, combine all ingredients except cilantro, lime juice and garnishes; mix well. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes or until carrots are tender, stirring occasionally. Stir in cilantro and lime juice. Ladle into bowls; garnish as desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings, about 10 cups stew.

BLACK BEAN SALSA RANCHERO DIP

- 1 can (15 ozs.) black beans, rinsed and drained
- 1/4 cup thinly sliced green onions with tops
- 1/4 cup chopped red bell peppers
- 2 Tbsp. chopped fresh cilantro
- 1 cup Pace® Thick & Chunky Salsa
- 1-1/2 tsp. lime juice
- 1/4 tsp. minced garlic
- 1/4 tsp. ground cumin
- 1 small ripe avocado

Combine beans, onions, bell pepper and cilantro in medium bowl. Combine salsa, lime juice, garlic and cumin in screw-top jar or small bowl; shake or mix well. Pour salsa mixture over vegetables; mix gently. Chill at least 2 hours or overnight, as desired, mixing gently several times. To serve, peel, seed and chop avocado. Add to bean mixture; mix gently. Serve with tortilla chips. Makes about 2-1/2 cups dip.

Jerk Chicken from p. 6

Here is the Jerk Chicken recipe of Hans Schenk, owner/chef of Sugar Mill Restaurant in Montego Bay

JAMAICAN JERK CHICKEN

- 2 cut-up chickens
- 1-1/2 cups Jerk Marinade

Rub the chicken with Jerk Marinade and place in refrigerator for at least 4 hours. Arrange chicken on prepared grill*, skin side down. Baste frequently and turn chicken about every 10 minutes. Over a slow fire (which is preferred), the chicken will cook in approximately 1-1/2 hours. Over a hotter grill, it will take about 40 minutes. Chicken is done when the flesh feels firm and juices run clear when pricked with a fork. Makes 6 generous servings.

For authentic Jamaican flavor, allspice (pimento) wood is added to the coals. Apple wood or hickory may be substituted. Coals should be white when chicken is placed on grill.

MARINADE

- 1 onion, finely chopped
- 1/2 cup finely chopped scallions
- 2 tsp. fresh thyme leaves
- 1 tsp. salt
- 2 tsp. sugar
- 1 tsp. ground Jamaican pimento (allspice)
- 1/2 tsp. ground nutmeg
- 1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 1 hot pepper, finely ground
- 1 tsp. ground black pepper
- 3 tbsp. soy sauce
- 1 tbsp. cooking oil
- 1 tbsp. cider or white vinegar

Mix together all ingredients in blender of food processor, processing to combine well. Makes about 1-1/2 cups.

Employer-Assisted Housing: A New Approach To An Old Problem

As job opportunities increase in suburban areas that have little affordable housing, more and more employees are forced to travel excessively long distances to work. This situation has often led to problems for employers as well as employees, such as high absenteeism and loss of force stability.

In recent years many employers have adopted programs to address the housing needs of non-management employees, where previously this type of benefit was only extended to management employees. Employer-assisted housing programs have been effective in alleviating work force problems, and they have also been used to serve other employer objectives such as enhancing the corporate image or meeting employee commute option goals.

To provide information to employers on the many types of employer-assisted housing and their advantages, the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) has prepared an extensive information package that is available to employers upon request. In addition, speakers are available to describe details of this program to meetings of employer groups.

The Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission is the comprehensive planning agency for the six county metropolitan area. In addition to planning, the agency provides technical and research assistance and reviews grant requests for local governments.

Helmets for children under 16 can become law

As Spring and warmer weather finally reach us, more and more children are out on the streets riding bicycles. As pediatricians, we are too often called to the emergemcy room to care for a child who has fallen from a bicycle and sustained a head injury. Nationwide, 400,000 children each year visit emergency rooms for treatment of bicycle-related injuries of which one-third are head injuries. These injuries may be devastating and in 1991 there were 15 deaths in Ilinois caused by bicycle accidents, usually with a motor vehicle.

We know that 90% of these serious head injuries would have been prevented by use of an approved bicycle helmet. The lifetime medical payments for these injuries sustained in 1991 will approach $200 million dollars. In the event of a severe head injury with permanent disability, The rehabilition cost may exceed one million dollars per child, not to mention the devastation to a child and his/her family. Frequently, the costs involved are borne by the State as insurance coverage is exhausted.

Bicycle helmets are effective in the prevention of serious injury, yet only 10% of children wear them. Education campaigns alone have not been effective in generating parental awareness and defeating the strong influence of peer pressure among young children. While there is evidence that young children may be more compliant with helmet usage, the most effective means to assure use of helmets is the combination of education campaigns plus legislation requiring helmet use.

Legislation is currently pending in the Illinois House of Representatives. HB3520, sponsored by Rep. Jeff Schoenberg, would require children under 16 years of age to wear an approved helmet when riding or as a passenger on a bicycle. Any fine from non-compliance would be waived upon evidence of purchase of an approved helmet. Those fines collected would be deposited in a fund for helmet purchases by low income families and administered by the office of the Secretary of State.

Illinois would become the 8th state to pass such legislation. In New Jersey, the effect of a bicycle helmet requirement was the reduction in deaths related to bicycle injuries from ten to two and helmet usage increased from approximately 5% to 60%. We feel that adoption of bicycle helmet legislation will result in a progressive increase in compliance analogous to what has happened in the past decade with seat belt use.

Help us to let children have fun and avoid needless preventable injury.

Village seeks escape from feds

No municipality likes being under the fist of a federal court order, and with only the dissent of Trustee Bob Streit, Oak Lawn village trustees Tuesday voted to unclench the federal hand.

The village has been under the duress of a federal consent decree since 1986 for an alleged unfair labor practices.

Along with 14 other suburbs, Oak Lawn was hit with a court order to eliminate hiring practices alleged to be racially biased.

At the time the village had an ordinance regulating employees to live in the town. Under the decree the village is required to take special steps to recruit minorities for municipal jobs. One of them is to advertizejob vacancies in newspapers serving ethnic minority communities.

Last December the village acceded to an extension of the decree as a result of violations committed by then village manager Michael Feeley's administration. Between June 1992 and April 1993, it hired three secretaries and a grant administrator in violation of the order's requirements.

The decree called for an extension of two years from the time the village implemented the hiring requirements.

Despite a hiring freeze, enacted in November, the village board Tuesday voted 5-1 to hire two new employees, one in the finance department and the other in police records.

Trustee Streit voted against the hirings contending that the village should fight the decree in court. He also emphasized that the board should adhere to its hiring freeze.

"This is very burdensome," lamented Mayor Ernie Kolb. "It requires excessive costs in advertizing."

Trustees wrangled briefly over who was most at fault for the supplememtal decree. When one trustee pointed out that the decree was extended as a result of actions, of Feeley's administration, Streit objected, noting the orginial decree came under village manager Richard O'Neil's adminstration when Mayor Kolb was in firm control of village goverment.

"Turn on the clock!" Mayor Kolb directed as trustees turned away Street's logic to approve the hirings.

In two years we'll be out from under this one trustee remarked optimistically.

Police investigate Oak Lawn man's death

By Ron Rehfeldt

Chicago police are investigating the shooting death of an Oak Lawn man whose body was recovered Monday, May 9, from the Chicago Sanitary and Ship Canal near a bridge at Laramie Avenue and 40th Street.

Richard Mares, 29, died from a bullet entering the left side of his head, police said.

Mr. Mares was reported missing Tuesday, May 3, when he failed to show up for work at his family's truck towing business at 4611 W. 34th St. in Cicero.

Mr. Mares, morning shift manager at the towing service, usually arrived at his job at about 4:15 a.m.

Mr. Mares usually left for work at about 3 a.m. One of the persons who last saw him alive was a service station attendant in Oak Lawn between 3 and 6 a.m.

Mr. Mares' car, a red Nissan was found Saturday outside a trucking depot at 4321 S. Knox Ave, a couple blocks southwest of the place where Mr. Mares' body was discovered.

Metropolitian Water Reclamation District workers cleaning debris from the canal about 8 a.m. spotted the body. Frank Mares, father of Mr. Mares, was present when police removed the body from the canal, but said that he was not able to view the body at , that time.

Frank Mares expressed the view that his son was the victim of foul play, but police declined to comment on Thursday regarding whether Mr. Mares's death could have been a suicide or a homicide.

"We haven't ruled anything out," commented an investigator with the Chicago Area 1 Violent Crimes Unit.

Mr. Mares' wife Lisa, whom he married last September, said she had last seen her husband the night before his disappearance. The couple lived in Oak Lawn with her two sons.

Mr. Mares attended Richards High School in OakLawn and subsequently graduated from Sandburg High School in Orland Park.

Assault substitute

by Harry Haller

Recent assault weapon ban gotcha down, Bunky? Despair Not! Ole Uncle Harry has the answer to the rapists, home invaders and gang bangers in the 'hood. And it's legal too!

Got your doubts, you say? Good! It proves you're normal! No, I'm not promising to clear your (ahem) credit by simply calling an 800 number (I'll discuss that topic at a later time!) What we're talkin' here is survival. Your survival!

As usual, in an emotionally charged atmosphere void of statistical data, the Government passed a half-fast bill to "eliminate" a group of nasties perceived as a threat to our collective safety....But the old cliche "Were there's a will, there's a way" rings as clear and true as the Liberty Bell did before someone broke the thing.

I've picked a trio of "alternatives" quite capable of addressing the subject at hand. Please keep in mind this is a subjective list. Perhaps we could have a competition to choose the the most popular "equalizers." Anyway...

Back in the days of the "Revolutionary" Sixties (Nineteen, not Eighteen) the darling of the subversive set was the lowly, government issue M-1 carbine, in an exotic "customized" configuration. Add a telescoping metal "paratrooper" stock, ventilated hand guard, flash hider, perhaps a low powered 'scope and several large capacity "bananna" clips wed by duct tape and you will become a force to be reckoned with! Put on a pair of Ray Bans as you raise your clenched fist in defiance and most home invaders will think you're nuts and pursue their trade elsewhere....even though you forgot to load the magazine!

For my second pick, we'll travel further back in history and purchase a semi-automatic "replica" of the infamous Thompson Submachine gun. While not as "effective" as the "real thing," we're talking image here. In a darkened room, only your gunsmith will know for sure. Besides, you can always cradle this puppy in your arms as you watch Sgt. Saunders liberate some Nazi bunker during COMBAT reruns...or if you purchase the optional drum magazine, ride along with Al Capone or Eliot Ness during the Jurassic period of Chicago gang wars.

My last choice is a true classic from a bygone era...A 12 gauge side-by-side double with 18 inch barrels and EXTERNAL HAMMERS. Imagine sitting in your home and some "intruder" appears. Odds are he's not there to convince you of your need for aluminum siding. One click of these dog-eared appurtenances leaves little doubt you mean business; two clicks and you will have someone in need of a change in undergarments.

The choice, of course, is up to you. Remember, there is always 911. You can certainly try discussing Clinton's health care views with a rapist or attacker while awaiting the police. And you might even find yourself requiring the latter....if you're fortunate enough to survive.

THE FLAG GOES BY

Henry Holcomb Bennett

Hats off!
Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums,
A flash of color beneath the sky:
Hats off!
The flag is passing by!

Blue and crimson and white it shines,
Over the steel-tipped, ordered lines.
Hats off!
The colors before us fly;
But more than the flag is passing by:
Sea-fights and land-fights, grim andgreat,
Fought to make and to save the State;
Weary marches and sinking ships;
Cheers of victory on dying lips;

Days of plenty and years of peace;
March of a strong land's swift increase;
Equal justice, right and law,
Stately honor and reverend awe;

Sign of a nation great and strong
To ward her people from foreign wrong;
Pride and glory and honor — all
Live in the colors to stand or fall.

Hats off!
Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums;
And loyal hearts are beating high;
Hats off!
The flag is passing by!

Evergreen to improve streets

by Ron Rehfeldt

Streets in Evergreen Park will be getting even better than they already are as a result of action taken by the village board Monday, May 2.

With Marquette National Bank vice president Laura Shallow sitting in the audience, the board approved a $2 million general obligation bond issue to repair and resurface streets in the village.

Shallow, herself an Evergreen Park resident, is a good buddy of Mayor Anthony Vacco and for that matter of state Rep. Maureen Murphy as a result of her many years of work in the Evergreen Park Chamber of Commerce.

She was pleased as punch that her new employer had submitted the low bid of three at an interest rate of 4.95 percent. For many years she worked at Heritage Standard Bank. Marquette recently established a branch in the village.

Streets slated for repaving to be completed by fall next year are those running from 95th to 99th Street from Central Park to the village's western limit, all just north of the campuses of Brother Rice and Mother MacAuley high schools and Evergreen's Park Southwest Elementary School.

The streets were last resurfaced in 1961 and are in very much need of repair, said Mayor Vacco.

Ninety-ninth Street will also be a little smoother as a result of an agreement the village has reached with the Grand Trunk Railroad to rubberize its crossing at the eastern edge of Evergreen Park High School's campus.

By the agreement the village will pay for 30 percent of the cost of the project while the railroad company will pay 70 percent of the total of between $140,000 and $180,000.

Riverboat gambling a plus or minus

by Dolores Woods

Gambling is fun to some, an addiction to others and even considered to be a sin by devout Christians. Whatever it is to each individual, we must all ask ourselves what impact local riverboat gambling will have on the general area as a whole.

Frankly, I believe it's both dangerous and disastrous for any government to consider gambling as a form of economic development. Some politicians view it as a quick fix and easy money that will help solve immediate budgetary difficulties. It will momentarily satisfy the voracious appetites of big spenders and cover the sins of the wasteful politicians, but it cannot replace stable and well thought out economic planning.

Even if we dispense with the issue of morality — what we know about gambling is that it does create anything. It doesn't create new dollars, it merely transfers existing dollars, and surely we cannot deny it facilitates addictive behavior.

I have recently read of a mayor who is attempting to use gambling as a form of blackmail/extortion over the heads of residents claiming that if gambling isn't approved for his community, he will have to raise taxes. Has anyone thought that cutting back on expenditures might just do the trick? It's called "belt tightening" and all average Americans do it more and more.

If you are one of those who has been sold on the quick fix of gambling, think again, most of the money from the existing riverboats goes to private investors and taxes, not the local community. Don't you ever wonder who's hands are into the gambling racket?

While gambling is a moral issue to me, the most troubling aspect of it is the societal confusion and hypocrisy that is created when government forms its own monopoly. Government says, it's okay to gamble through the lottery, the race track, certain off track betting, and numerous riverboats, but don't dare have an illegal poker game at uncle Joe's! Last week the TV news spoke of a gambling ring that was 'busted' and how the government went into a West side gambling parlor and arrested lots of folks.

Why, they were participating in the 'bad' gambling! In order for government to function best, our leaders must take the moral high ground and set good examples for the rest of us.

Were a school child to ask, "Is gambling bad?" what do we say? "Well that depends... some gambling is good and some gambling is bad according to the Fed-Gov." The gambling that the government sanctions, is okay but all the rest is illegal. Is there to be even semblance of morality? The American people have seemed to take the unfortunate lead of a mislead government. What about those poor souls who just can't stop chasing their losses and lose the family paycheck? It can really be a horrifying addiction. As gambling becomes more and more prevalent and accessible, we will see a proliferation of gambling related family tragedies. A recent T.V. program on gambling showed how gambling hot lines had increased from 1 to 22 after riverboats were launched in one state alone.

We all understand very well how the American family has been under attack and in many cases is disintegrating before our eyes, yet we are so willing to take it another faltering step down the road of expediency, using gambling as just another quick fix. It seems true that common sense is not common at all.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Local chef highlights Middle Eastern cuisine

By Anita Anderson

A touch of the exotic has come to Bridgeview at 9052 S. Harlem Ave since Cairo House opened its doors under the expert guidance of chef, Adal Zoor.

"I've been cooking since I was a young man," he said. "I've never done anything else. Once I worked on an oil rig in the North Sea for two years and never left the boat. I did all of the baking and cooking for the workers."

Originally from Lebanon, Zoor combines the foods of his own country, Egypt and other Mideast countries.

Interesting sounding dishes like Baba Ghanouj, an appetizer of mashed smoky roasted eggplant, sesame sauce, lemon garlic herbs and olive oil priced at $3.25 is on the menu. It's served with warm pita bread and almost a meal in itself.

We sampled the Cairo Magnificent Plate, char-broiled marinated filet mignon, shish kabob, chicken, lamb chops, Kufta Kabob, ground meat and parsley and onions, all served with grilled veggies and your choice of white or dill rice. The plate is enough for five people and is $19.95. Other delicious entrees are priced from $5.95 for a Kufta Kabob to others for $7.95 and up.

Hours mean nothing for the dedicated Zoor. "I make sure that everything is fresh and I have at least two specials each day," he said.

There is also a soup of the day and homemade desserts made by the chef. You may be in the mood for a Cairo Rice pudding or the traditional Baklava the sweet confection stuffed with nuts, sugar and syrup.

"Cooking is my life. I don't know anything else," Zoor said.

Cairo House is definitely worth a visit and most patrons come back for a return engagement.

Call 708-233-1700 or 708-233-1717. Delivery is offered at $2 or take out. Cairo House is open for breakfast, lunch and dinner and is open seven days a week.

Prices for appetizers, breakfast and vegetarian dishes begin at $1.50 to $5.45. Sandwiches are available. All dinners are served with appetizers and soup.

Americans claim their diets are healthier, but perception exceeds reality

Shoppers think healthy eating is important and that it is becoming easier to do. They are reading labels, and many are acting on what they read. A majority have made at least one major diet change for health reasons, and most who change are noticing a healthy benefit. Only a few, however, have a very healthy diet.

That assessment of American's dietary behavior comes from the third annual Shopping for Health study by Food Marketing Institute(FMI) in cooperation with Prevention magazine.

The findings in the 1994 report, Eating for Health: Perception and Reality, were released here May 1 at a workshop during FMI's International Supermarket Industry Convention and Educational Exposition, May 1 - 4, at Chicago's McCormick Place.

Six in 10 shoppers claim they've made a major change in eating habits in the past 10 years for health reasons, and most (81 percent) did so within the past five years. Weight is the number one health concern driving changes.

About half of shoppers say they almost always read nutrition labels (56 percent) and ingredient labels (47 percent) when they are buying food for the first time. Early returns on the new "Nutrition Facts" label are positive; of the 38 percent who say they've seen this label, 67 percent say it's more clear and understandable that the old labels. The new label must appear on products in the manufacturing process by May 8 if regulated by the Food and Drug Administration; July 6 if regulated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Summer-Perfect Meals One-of-a-Kind Appeal

Mediterranean Garden Chicken teams chicken with eggplant, mushrooms, zucchini, onions and peppers—all the ingredients in ratatouille, the popular vegetable stew. — and enhances the mix with extra mild picante sauce and savory seasonings. Serve it over pasta or rice for a light yet satisfying meal that cooks in less than half an hour.

Summer Garden Chunky Chili is an extra mild and meatless chili that boasts beans and a garden's worth of fresh vegetables. Unlike most chili recipes, this one needs only a 10 minute-simmer to bring it to its peak of flavor perfection.

Serve either recipe with a loaf of hearty whole-grain or other favorite bread and dinner's as easy as summer cooking should be.

GARDEN CHICKEN

1 pound boneless, skinless chicken breast
2 tbsp. flour
3 cloves garlic, minced.
1 tbsp. olive or vegetable oil
2 cups peeled and diced eggplant (3/4-inch pieces)
1-1/2 cups sliced mushrooms
1 small zucchini, cut into 1/4-inch slices
1 small onion, sliced separated into rings
1 small red bell pepper, cut into 1 - inch pieces
1 jar (16 ounces) Extra Mild Pace Picante Sauce
1-1/2 tsp. dried basil, crushed
1/4 tsp. salt
1 large tomato, seeded and coarsely chopped
Hot cooked angel hair or other pasta or rice

Cut chicken into 1-inch pieces; toss in flour to coat evenly. In large skillet, cook chicken and garlic in oil over medium-high heat until chicken loses its pink color, about 3 minutes. Add remaining ingredients except tomato and pasta; mix well. Bring to a boil; cover and simmer 10 to 12 minutes or until eggplant is tender and chicken is cooked through. Stir in tomato and continue cooking uncovered 1 minute, stirring occasionally. Serve over pasta or rice. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Florida Cooking More than A Regional Cuisine

The main ingredients of Florida cuisine are simple—they are foods indigenous to Florida. These include subtropical fruits like oranges and grapefruit or the more exotic mango and papaya. Florida cuisine also incorporates local seafood such as yellowtail snapper and stone crabs, regional spices like Scotch bonnet chili peppers, and even roots such as the yucca and boniato.

The ethnic background of Florida cooking is not as simple. The cuisine is influenced by the diverse cultures found throughout Florida, Particularly in the Southern part of Florida. It combines flavor originally found in the Caribbean, Latin America, North America, and most recently, China, Indonesia, Thailand, and Vietnam.

Some of the hottest new American chefs from outside of Florida are using components of Florida cuisine. Chef Mike Fennelly of Mike's on the Avenue in New Orleans recently visited Miami to study the cross-culture style of Florida cooking. "It's no longer just Creole and Cajun cooking in New Orleans," he says. "Like Florida, our cooking now has more of a Cuban and Asian influence"

SPICED ORANGES AND

This relish may be prepared in advance and it adds a special color to your presentation. A tasty relish that goes well with poultry, veal and pork.

3 oranges
1 1/4 cups sugar
1 cup water
2/3 cup cider vinegar
10 whole cloves
2 cinnamon sticks,
1 Tbsp. thinly sliced fresh ginger,
1 large firm pear, cored and thinly sliced (unpared).

Place whole, unpeeled oranges in medium saucepan; cover with water; bring to a boil. Boil 20 minutes or until skins are easily pierced with a fork. Drain. Cut each orange into wedges.

In same saucepan, combine sugar, water, vinegar, cloves, cinnamon and ginger; stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Bring to a boil; add orange wedges; reduce heat, simmer 15 minutes.

Add pear slices; cook 5 to 8 minutes or until tender. Cool. Cover. Chill. Relish will last several weeks if stored in a covered container in the refrigerator.

GRATIN OF TROPICAL FRUIT

1 large mango, peeled
2 bananas, peeled and sliced
4 papaya slices
2 oranges, peeled and sliced
2 large eggs
5 tbsp. brown sugar
4 fl. oz. orange liqueur

Slice mango lengthwise Arrange slices, together with other fruit slices on buttered serving plates Beat eggs and yolks with brown sugar and liqueur. Heat gently in a double boiler or bain-marie, beating constantly, until thick, foamy and warm to the touch. Spoon this over fruit and glaze briefly under a hot grill to lightly brown

SARASOTA RIBS

4 to 5 lbs spareribs, cut in serving pieces
1 can (6 ounces) frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed, undiluted
3/4 cup catsup
2 Tbsps. molasses
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 tsp. hot pepper sauce
1 tsp. salt
4 tsps. grated onion
1 orange, sliced

Place spareribs in large kettle; cover with water and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, for 30 minutes. Drain and refrigerate until ready to grill.

Mix undiluted orange juice concentrate with remaining ingredients.

Place spareribs on grill set 6 to 8 inches from heat. Cook 15 minutes; turn and brush with orange sauce. Cook 15 to 30 minutes longer, turning and brushing frequently with sauce.

Garnish with orange slices.

On Local Stages Everywhere

by Ron Rehfeldt

The Southwest Symphony Orchestra will perform a pops concert at 8 p.m. Saturday, May 21, at Moraine Valley Community College's new Fine and Performing Arts Center in Palos Hills.

Under the baton of David Crane, who has been with the orchestra two years, the Southwest Symphony performed an exquisite concert in April at Mother MacAuley High School's auditorium.

Oak Lawn resident Daniel Seyman has been the orchestra's concertmaster since its birth 30 years ago. Other local residents in the orchestra include Phyllis Karge of Burbank, Robert Greensley of Evergreen Park and Dr. Robert Heck, his wife Julie Heck, Renette Makowski, Norma Stuart and Seraphine Samson, all of Oak Lawn.

Susan Pagels has taken her better Entertainment Enterprises and Bethel Performing Arts Center lock, stock and barrel out of Evergreen Park and created a new theater company and facility, Struggles Dinner Playhouse, at 11445 S Kedzie Ave in Merrionette Park.

At Struggles next weekend Pagels' troupe continues its production of "Fiddler on the Roof," with members of the cast including Natlie Finn, Pat Henaghan, Denise Mallon and Scott Sowinski of Oak Lawn and Millard Lechter and Bob Collins of Evergreen Park.

Dinner at Struggles are catered by Papa Joe's Restaurant of Oak Lawn. Many other productions are in the works at Struggles. Call Pagels at 385-1445.

Two great performances who deserve a larger audience are Harry Harrison and Pamela Rich who can be seen and heard from 9 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays at the Royal Palace Restaurant on 111th Street just east of Ridgeland in Chicago Ridge. They run the gamut from pop and soft rock to blues and a little bit country, and Rich really jiggles delightfully when she sings We really recommend this duo for a fun night of listening and dancing.

Stingray in Oak Lawn has lost its sting and Flaherty's in Evergreen Park has lost its flair, but post pubescence can still boogie at Reilly's Daughter at 111th Street and Pulaski Road at a bar that gets jam packed with hard bodies and hard noise on weekends. If you dig it, it's a place to go.

Local high schools, including Oak Lawn Community, Richards, Evergreen Park, Marist, Brother Rice, Mother MacAuley, Queen of Peace, St. Laurence, Reavis and Argo are closing out their school years, some musically with concerts. Give you local high school a call to find out what they're doing musically for a pleasant night out.

St. Fabian Fest

St Fabian Church has announced its 12th Annual Family Fest and Carnival is scheduled for Wednesday, June 1st through Sunday June 5th and will be set up on the Parish Grounds at 83rd St. & Oketo in Bridgeview. This year's Fest includes carnival rides and games, live entertainment, a Beer Garden, food, Bingo, puppets and a "Silly Cycle Parade".

"Special Attractions" this year will be a gigantic Ferris Wheel ride, the Melikin Puppets and for the first time, the Family Fest will open at 1:00 p.m. on Saturday, June 4th.

Opening day, at 6:00 p.m. on Wednesday, will feature unlimited carnival rides for one ticket price, and music will be performed by Eddie Blazonczyk's Versatones, starting at 7:00 p.m.

Band performances will continue every day starting at 7 p.m. in the Beer Garden. This year's roster of entertainment includes Stars Bulanda's Average Polka Band on Thursday, Holidaze (50's & 60's) on Friday, with two bands performing on Saturday and Sunday. On Saturday, from 2:00 p.m. until 6 p.m.

Crossfire (Country Music) will perform while the Dancing Noodles will perform from 7:00 p.m. until 10:00 p.m. On Sunday, the final day of the fest, Music by the Ampol-Aires will begin with a live radio Broadcast over WCEV 1450 AM starting at 1:00 p.m. until 5:00 p.m.

Giant flea market to be held at the Bridgeview Park District

Space is still available at the Bridgeview Park District's annual Giant Flea Market to be held on Saturday, June 4 (raindate June 11) from 8:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. at Wierzba Park, 78th & Oketo.

Interested persons should register for their space at the Park Districts's Sports Complex, 8100 S. Beloit Ave. The fee for Bridgeview residents is $2 per 12 section of frontage space; $5 per 12 foot of frontage space for non-residents. Proof of residence in the form of a drivers license and utility bill are required at the time of registration.

Set up the morning of the flea market, for participants will begin at 8 a.m. on a first come, first served basis. Participants must provide their own tables. The sale of food is prohibited.

This is the perfect time to clear out the attic, basement, and closets! That valuable stuff you no longer have any use for may be just what someone else is looking for. Gather it all together and bring it over to the Park for this annual flea market extravaganza.

Exciting Memorial Day Weekend

Chicago's Navy Pier will unveil its new 1,500 - seat Skyline Stage with a spectacular opening on Memorial Day weekend, May 26-29, 1994, featuring a headline performance by the rock band Chicago and a myriad of public events for the whole family. The weekend launches the Skyline Stage's first summer season, with more than 60 performances scheduled between May 26 and Sept. 10. The variety will range from ballet performances to children's theater, elaborate stage shows to musical concerts of every kind.

Gallery 37, the city's special program to showcase young artists, will host an invitation-only benefit on May 26.

Public festivities will begin the following evening, Friday, May 27, with a concert marking the hometown return of Reprise recording artist, Chicago. The band, formed here in 1967 as the Chicago Transit Authority, hit upon a unique formula: a rock band with horns, not as mere ornamentation, but as an integral part of the band's sound. With for its beautiful pop songs, well-recorded and well-performed, Chicago has earned seven Top 10 singles from its last three studio albums, in addition to classics such as "Does Anybody Really Know What Time It Is," "25 or 6 to 4," "Feeling Stronger Every Day," and "Saturday In The Park."

The opening weekend continues Saturday and Sunday, May 28 and 29, with family-oriented programs by the illusionists Penn & Teller, two daytime children's matinees featuring The Chipmunks and Parachute Express, and a gospel concert on Sunday evening, headlining the Staple Singers, with Five Blind Boys of Alabama and Albertina Walker.

A musically-choreographed fireworks show will provide a colorful finale after the evening performances on Friday and Saturday. WXRT-FM will host its Fourth Annual Memorial Day fireworks extravaganza on Sunday evening, May 29, at 9:15 p.m.

Thoughout the summer, performances at Skyline Stage will also include: the international Theater Festival's presentation of the Dutch Dogtroep performance art troupe, commissioned to create an original production "custom - made" for Chicago, June 1-19; WNUA-FM's presentation of "Smooth Jazz on the Pier," June 24 and Sept. 9; WJMK-FM's celebration of its 10th anniversary with a day-long family celebration and concert event, June 25; "Grant Park Goes Country" featuring Marc O'Connor, July 9; America Fest, featuring children's choirs from around the world, July 18; "Dance for Life," Aug. 13; the Ballet Chicago, Sept. 2 and 3.

Among the schedule of performances, Chicago-based JAM Productions, Ltd. will present 20 musical concerts, WXRT-FM will present three progressive rock concerts, and WGCI-FM will present a series of live performances ranging from rhythm and blues to comedy.

Tickets for all Memorial Day weekend opening concerts are on sale through Chicago-area TicketMaster outlets or charge - by - phone at (312) 559-1212.

For more information on the Skyline Stage, please call (312) 791-PIER (7437).

Low income medicare beneficiaries may qualify for help with payments

"Recently announced changes in the national povertyguidelines could result in more low-income Medicare beneficiaries receiving help to pay for Medicare expenses, such as the Medicare premiums, deductibles, and co-insurance payments," said Ms Rosalie Thompson, Social Security Manager in Evergreen Park. The rules vary from state to state, but in general, an individual can qualify if his or her income is near the national poverty level of $7,600 annually (the equivalent of $633 per month). A family of two qualifies if their income is near $10,080 annually ($840 per month).

"People whose income is slightly above these limits may qualify for limited help," Ms. Thompson said.

Ms. Thompson also said that "resources" such as bank accounts and stocks are another qualifying factor. They cannot exceed $4000 for one person or $6000 for a family of two. "Generally, resources are the things you own," Ms Thompson explained. "But not everything is counted. For example, we don't count the value of the house you live in and we usually don't count the value of your car."

"Only your state can decide if your eligible for this kind of help," said Ms. Thompson. So, if you're a Medicare beneficiary with a low income and very limited assets, contact your state or local welfare or social service agency to apply.

Ms. Thompson explained another way this progam helps. "If your 65 or older with low income and very limited assets," Ms. Thompson said, "and you don't qualify for premium-free Part A Medicare because you're not eligible for Social Security, Illinois may be able to pay you Part A premiums."

Trustee Stancik takes exception to village's agreement with state

By Ron Rehfeldt

An oral agreement ain't worth the paper it's written on, opined Hollywood producer and coiner of illustrious malaprops, Sam Goldwyn, and when it comes to contracts with the state of Illinois, Oak Lawn village trustee Ron Stancik seconds the motion.

He was outvoted Tuesday, May 24, however, 5-1, as the village board approved three ordinances to enter into an agreement with the Illinois Department of Transportation to improve 95th Street, to fund a portion of the project and to ban parking along the street.

IDOT let a contract for the project May 20 and the construction mess should soup up in early July.

Mayor Ernie Kolb and other village officials have been negotiating with IDOT officials for months to keep the state from eliminating 62 parking spaces on 95th Street in its plans to create left-turn lanes at Keeler, 52nd, cook,and 54th avenues.

When the IDOT proposal surfaced, some businessmen along the shopping strip objected vehemently to the impending loss of parking spaces near their stores. The Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce and village officials met with IDOT to clear the air on the matter. Subsequently village officials reached the agreement with IDOT which the village board approved.

Stancik asked his colleagues to consider holding off approving the parking ban until the village had a written agreement with the state on its pledge to fund replacement parking.

"I would hope that we could approve the first phase tonight and hold off on the other until we see the color of the state's eyes," Stancik declared.

Other trustees and village engineer Lynn Krauss expressed the view that there was no reason to believe IDOT would renege on its oral pledge.

The village will fund the project to the tune of $52,000 and will ban parking on the north side of 95th Street between 54th and Keeler avenues and on the south side of the street between 54th Court and Minnick avenue.

Village officials are looking at property on the site of the old Oak Lawn Post Office as a possiblity for parking, a prospect that must make businessmen jump with glee for its uselessness to them down the street.

Mayor Kolb expressed appreciation to state Rep. Maureen Murphy, R-36, and state Sen. Patrick O'Malley, R-18, for their assistance on reaching an agreement with IDOT. Both legislators attended a recent ceremony at which village and state officials signed the agreement.

Thank You

Noel's Crafty Connections, Inc. at 7255 W. 87th Street, Bridgeview, IL. in the Westfield Plaza, wants to say "Thank You" to all who donated to the Baby Matthew Fund.

The winner of the $500.00 was Nancy Wilson who so graciously donated the money back to Baby Matthew. The winner of the quilt was Linda Pes. All of the winners of the other prizes were delighted. The fund collected about $3,600.00 which will go to help defray the many doctor and hospital bills that have accumulated during Matthew's illness.

Stamping Out Crime

By Annette Dixon

Crime is becoming quite a problem in Oak Lawn, Evergreen Park, Burbank, Bridgeview and all major affluent suburbs.

The gangs are blamed for many of the problems but what is occurring is that the individual is supplementing his habit by committing crimes of greed and need.

Many people are trying to out smart one another. White collar crimes are prevailing, bank employees are embezzling money from their institution, partners are trying to outsmart one another by playing the take over game. Many people are just not living up to the basic rule of our American tradition to honor, to have loyalty and to have respect for our neighbor, which includes his property.

Recently in a well established condominium on Komensky in Oak Lawn, a theft took place. A garage door leading to approximately 20 or more dwellings was entered by burglars. There were no signs of entry and no broken doors. It occurred at approximately 3:00 a.m. and one would suspect a burglar or two may have hid while the garage door was opened by a tenant entering the garage.

A cabinet containing tools was carried off in a cadillac stolen from the garage. Tires and wheels were missing from other autos parked in the garage. The missing car was found about a mile and a half from the Komensky address.

The disturbing fact to tenants is that no one reported hearing sounds and the tenants were concerned about the potential dangers that could have been involved.

Taking all precautionary measures will not prevent crime but can deter the criminal act. Maybe if more people will be alert enough to cooperate by calling 911, they would feel secure with our community police departments and not feel intimidated if a false alarm occur.

Churches, businesses and local government should cooperate together and form an alleglance to combat crime in our communities.

Many solutions are available but it will take the cooperation of many individuals; first by using our resources for jobs such as associates and friends. We must get back to basics and formulate that perfect union within our own families, which includes our communities.

Together solutions can take place but it will take initiative, cooperation and discipline from our leaders and members within our communities

Dennehy's Corner

My ministry now is in listening! Call 653-4745 and you'll hear, "I'm here!".

Mary Ellen, IBVM

EDITOR'S NOTE

Mary Ellen Dennehy entered the community of the Institute of the Blessed Virgin Mary or Loretto Nuns on August, 1929. She will be celebrating her 65th anniversary with Mass and reception on August 14.

As a teacher, Mary Ellen was Sister Mary Ellen at St. Bernard, St. Cyril, and St. Brides in Chicago. In 1956, she taught at Loretto Englewood, and then at LorettoWoodlawn Later in the 70's, she taught at St. Francis in Wheaton and Benet Academy in Lisle. Sr. Mary Ellen's forte is Mathematics and Latin and French. Her math classes included Calculus, Algebra, and Geometry. As a retired sister she tutored students at the Loretto Convert in Wheaton.

Currently she is writing Dennehy's corner.

Quilting is fun for some

Carma Basvic

Admitting to defeat is not what Carma selected therefore she worked 7 to 9 hours a day, seven days a week, for eight weeks. Carma Basvic, a resident of Oak Lawn intends to give away a crib quilt as a gift.

Carma has made quilts before and has given them to relatives, church members, and friends but it was this particular one that her husband was most proud.

It is a cross stitch with colors of yellow and pink and green leaves. It borders the nursery rhyme. "now I lay me down to sleep, I pray the Lord my soul to keep."

Mr. Basvic stated his wife enjoyed the most difficult time with this particular pattern, and she thrived on the challenge of its intricacy.

Sympathy is extended to the family of the late Ellen T. Heilbronner and especially to Eileen Kopale of Crestwood.

"Goin' East on Ashland" is another humorous play written by Mike Houlihan. I was surprised at the marvelous one man theatrical performance. I believe Mike's views could be true and therefore entertaining.

You've done it.

Congratulations, Class of '94.
You've reached an important milestone in your life.

Of course, what you've also done is set yourself up for the next major question in life, that being, "So, now what?"

For some, the answer means earning an occupational certificate. For others, an associate's degree. Others may want to earn a bachelor's degree or more.

Either way, Moraine Valley Community College can help you reach your next milestone.

Best wishes on your future education and career plans.

Library Foundation Accepts Special Contribution

The Oak Lawn Community Library Foundation recently received a special contribution from the new Business Banking Center of Evergreen Bank located at 4900 W. 95th St., Oak Lawn. David J. Veurink, vice president and facility manager, presented the check to the new foundation in recognition of the library's quality service to the business community. He indicated that the library's comprehensive business reference collection has been a valuable resource for the Business Banking Center.

Accepting on behalf of the library foundation, Dr. James Casey, foundation president and Lois Gasteyer, foundation vice president, expressed their thanks and indicated that the foundation plans to use its funds in support of special library projects outside the scope of the library budget.

Tae Kwon Do Champions from Bridgeview Circle of Light Academy

Nine competitors from the Circle of Light Martial Arts Academy in Bridgeview participated in the State Tae Kwon Do Championships on May 15 and all came home winners. The biggest winner of the day was Bill Masterson with gold medals in both forms and sparring. Alexis Cameron, the instructor's daughter, earned a gold medal in sparring and a bronze in forms. The remaining six competitors only competed in sparring and earned a total of five gold and one silver medal.

The only reason that it wasn't a clean sweep was that two of the school's competitors fought each other in one of the division finals. The winners were Mike Damaschke and Keith Sinks of Justice, Jennifer Milkrut of Worth, Nick Zebio of Oak Lawn, Brian Simon of Bridgeview, and the silver medalist Dawn Sullivan of Country Club Hills.

is the site of Loretto Convent's

Loretto Convent, a retirement and education center for the sisters of the Institute of the Blessed Virgin Mary, cordially invite the public to attend its first annual LORETTO COUNTRY GARDEN GALA at their century-old, multi-acre site in Wheaton, 1600 Somerset Lane. It will be held Saturday, June 25 at 3:30 p.m. Tickets are $35 each and $300 for a table of ten. They must be purchased in advance by contacting the Office of Development at 708/682-9097.

Music, dining al fresco, live and silent auctions will take place beneath brightly-colored tents on the sprawling lawn of the historic Wetmore estate which is now home to this Catholic order.

The Wetmore mansion, called the "House of Seven Gables", was originally built in 1890 by the President of the Joliet and Elgin Railroad. It was later purchased in 1928 by a wealthy Chicago banker, Frank O. Wetmore, for himself and his family. The sprawling grounds boast one of the oldest Golden Maple trees in Wheaton, manicured lawns and sunken gardens.

In 1946 it was purchased by the Sisters of the Institute of the Blessed Virgin Mary (I.B.V.M.)

Since coming to the United States from Canada in 1880, the sisters have been actively involved in education. They have served on the faculty of St. Francis high school in Wheaton and the now closed Loretto High Schools in the Englewood and Woodlawn districts of Chicago. The convent operates the only correspondence school in the United States serving Catholic high schools, called the Loretto Extension Service. It also has a on-site Early Childhood Program for area pre-schoolers.

The Loretto Country Garden Gala will Benefit the education and missionary work of the order and contribute to their retirement fund.

Wheaton, Il — Gothic-style Chapel on the grounds of the Loretto Convent in Wheaton is open to the public for mass every Sunday at 10:00 am

Wheaton, IL — Expansive south lawn of the Loretto Convent in Wheaton is the site of the first annual Country Garden Gala Auction and Dinner to be held on Saturday, June 25.

Chamber Golf Outing

The OakLawn Chamber of Commerce Annual Golf Outing is set for Wednesday, July 6, at the Palos Country Club., 131st and Southwest Highway. The full day of activities includes 18 holes of golf, cocktails, dinner and show. Golf cost is $40. Dinner is $40 also. A birdie package is available for $625. It includes four rounds of golf, golf cart, hole sponsorship, a sleeve of golf balls and ten dinners.

According to LeRoy Corradino, golf outing chair, tee times aleady are being requested, so those who are planning to play are urged to get theit reservations in as soon as possible.

Theme for this year's after dinner show is "Sentimental Journey." Gerry Malloy and Marie Napolillo are in charge of putting together another great production. As in the past, local Chamber members provide the talent for the musical presentation which includes singing and dancing. Previous shows proved to be a gala climax to a fun-filled festive day.

For any additional information about the golf outing, contact the Chamber of Commerce office, 5661 W. 95th St., OakLawn; phone, 708/424-8300.

When things aren't going well for you
And times aren't what they should be,
Just focus on the positive
And think about what could be.

Acknowledge what has happened —
Don't lose sight of lessons past —
But don't allow the negative
Distracting thoughts to last.

Take what you've learned and start from there;
Draw strength from your frustration;
And let this added sense of purpose
Be your new foundation.

It's hard to follow any plan
Precisely to the letter,
Though life right now is difficult,
Things will in time get better.

ANCIENT ART
AT THE ART INSTITUTE OF CHICAGO
Galleries of Egyptian, Greek, Etruscan, and Roman Art

A Trip to the past has something for everyone

By Robert P. Workman

Few things can lift the spirit like a warm, Spring day in Chicago. It's a magical time inspiring a sense of wonder as life begins anew around us, in long dormant trees and soil. As people return to the great outdoors after months of cabin fever, colds, flu, etc., and windows are opened to fresh air once again. The warm weather enables the individual to sample the variety of programs and events offered by the City and it's institutions.

In April of this year the Art Institute of Chicago organized an opening of the Galleries of Ancient Art. Works spanning more than 4,000 years. These 5,000 plus objects reflect more than just a vast time span (3200 B.C. to A.D. 650) and wide geographic area, they emphasize that these works made by human beings for human beings were created with a care and feeling that is timeless and that is seemingly unaffected by natural forces. These ancient masterpieces seem to inspire a sense of pure wonder and inspiration for moral excellance.

The Art Institute of Chicago has taken great care to include something for everyone with programs / events in conjunction with the Ancient Art Exhibit. Call the Department of Museum Education at 312/443-3680 for more information.

Homosexuality needs a government study

by Dolores Woods

In the middle of a church service in San Francisco, a homosexual organization raided the building breaking down the door and terrorizing the congregation and children. The reason for this outrage- the church was sponsoring a speaker the homosexual group didn't like! In New York violent leftists gays splattered blood all over the sanctuary of a Catholic Church because the Cardinal opposed homosexuality. These people would like you to believe that the religious right is the dangerous group! When two lesbians move into a Southern state to build a compound of sorts for their lesbian sisters and homosexual brothers, Attorney General, Janet Reno sent in mediators! David Koresh should have be so lucky. If he had only claimed he were a homosexual he would have been given government protection.

The homosexual lobby is additionally promoting homosexuality as a subject to be taught in school along with math, science, and English. We were never taught heterosexual sex in school, yet the educational 'thought police' want to make sure each child has a 'healthy' understanding of the homosexual life cycle. The worse part of it all is that all is that those promoting the homosexual education, don't attempt to give the entire picture. They refuse to discuss studies and research regarding the dark aspects of the life style. One study showed that 3 of 10 homosexuals had as many as 1,000 random sexual partners. Statistics show that the homosexual population has a far shorter life span than that of the heterosexual population. It's 41 for men and 52 for women. Why? Can't say AIDS because the average life span has always been far less. Aside from AIDS there is suicide and numerous other life style related diseases such as Hepatitis B, STD's and Parasites. In our politically correct little world, discussion of the reasons are considered bigoted and homophobic. I'm one of those who still buy into the man and woman thing and I find it interesting to observe the constant attempts to discredit even respected professionals who have alternative views and research to back up their stances.

Could it possibly be that many homosexuals are actually just going through a confusing stage and struggling to deal with unresolved internal conflicts? Could it be a state of confusion, insecurity and uncertainty that drew them to the life style or perhaps a way of dealing with undue stress? This is also typical of the married man who escapes life's difficulties in extramarital affairs. His confusion or character weakness causes him to stray. It's usually only a temporary escape and the reality strikes again. It's too bad that in today's ultra liberal governmental environment, that even the thought of attempting to study why people of the same sex are attracted to one another, is not being considered. Forget the parades and let's have the studies.

Sunset House to open in Burbank

Mid-June is the anticipated opening date for Sunset House, a new long term care AIDS facility, at 5701 West 79th Street in Burbank. Parent company, Concern Care Inc., whose office at 36th and Harlem in Berwyn is handling the planning and implementation, indicates that its newest acquisition has been met with enthusiasm by the state. This facility will provide high tech transitional care between hospital and home, long term and hospice options. The urgent need for this type of focused care for AIDS patients is increasing daily. However, when Administrator Shay Jacobson and newly hired Director of Nursing, Nora Boyer were asked if the surrounding community was canvassed for their opinions regarding the specialized population of this nursing home, it was expressed that legal counsel advised it was not necessary based of the issue of privacy. Ms. Jacobson added that now all the building permit the fact that the patients will all have a primary diagnosis of AIDS will become general knowledge to the mayor and community at the next Burbank Council meeting.

The renovation of the former Parkside Nursing Home includes creation of a 55 bed facility with most of its services contracted from outside sources. Special attention has been given to the issue of medical, as well as regular, waste management. Also, an agreement for emergency care has been reached with Christ Hospital and Medical Center. The search for a medical director is currently underway, with potential candidates from the infectious disease department at Rush being considered. The entire nursing and ancillary staff is also in the process of being interviewed. The creation and maintenance of an atmosphere where these patients can feel safe, secure and unconditionally accepted is of prime importance, stated Ms. Jacobson. The mission statement of the Sunset House includes providing physical, emotional, psychological and spiritual support to those individuals and their families living with AIDS.

GETTING IT TOGETHER

Who is Pene?

Pene is a Southsider, and a die hard Cub fan, active in both church and community functions. I am a Certified Substance Abuse Counselor, and worked with the Gateway Drug program at the Cook County Dept. of Corrections, and as a Deputy Sheriff, I've been in law enforcement for 27 yrs.

I have been listed twice in "who's Who Among American University and College Students." In 1981 and 1993. A quest speaker on Sally Jessiel and WLS Radio. Has appeared as a guest speaker for various local organizations, speaking on domestic violence, and drug awareness and prevention. I hold over 22 certificates and 6 letters of commendation and recognitation received during my career in law enforcement.

I am at my best when I am helping others, sharing what I've learned both the hard way and educationally. I realize we were not promised a rose garden, for the thorns can hurt, learning and realizing how to deal with life's many challenges gives us a better understanding of life, and our purpose. I am not so egotistic to think I am an authority on everything, but I have walked in some very ruff shoes.

Write your questions to me today, lets see what help is available to you, or if a better understanding can be achieved.

My first question received from a young lady: I am 14 yrs old, and my boyfriend keeps insisting that we go all the way, he says IF I love him, I will. I don't want to be a geek, but yet I don't want sex till I get married. I can't tell my friends we haven't had sex, as everyone says they have and its great. Answer: Let's get it together my young friend, you say your boyfriend says if you love him you would go against your belief. Well answer him back... if you love me you wouldn't ask me to give in, you would respect my desire to remain a virgin, till I get married.... Honey, don't ever feel different or in the out crowd because you have strong desires to remain a virgin, and the other girls say they aren't. They could be just saying that so they can be accepted by the peer group. I realize also that you say, I am older and just don't understand, well yes, us older generation do understand, we were there once also. There is love with sex, and there is sex without love. Street love is another word for sex without love. A good relationship can be had without sex, and a relationship at your age, will most likely only go bad. Think of the problems having sex at your early age, pregnancy, you are just a baby yourself. So if he is willing to wait till you feel right about having sex, naturally once married, then my dear he loves you. If he insists, then he will move on to the next girl, till he finds one that will say yes, but I can almost guarantee you he won't stay with that girl very long. He will be moving on so to test other waters. Stay a virgin and feel right inside your heart.

Palumbo's in Oak Lawn offers tasty Italian treats

By Anita Anderson

People who fancy Italian food in the Oak Lawn area don't have to venture too far to get the taste of Sicily (especially the Italian potatoes drenched in olive oil and spice). Just get yourself to Palumbo's at 9600 S. Pulaski Road in Oak-Lawn.

A variety of Italian foods await you from a full slab of barbecue ribs priced at $10.95 to a pepper and egg sandwich priced at $2.75 which comes with Palumbo's special potatoes and of course, pasta meals.

The Palumbo family (Chuck owns the eatery) began in the restaurant business at 97th and Western Avenue in the 60's.

The OakLawn establishment is compact but you definately get an air of eating in a little Italian trattoria in the boot-shaped country.

Palumbo's is convenient because it offers take out foods for people in a hurry or a pasta meal served at a leisurely pace.

Hours are Monday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. and the restaurant is closed on Sunday.

One speciality of the house worth a hearty mention is the 10-inch breaded steak for $4.95.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

New "buzzword" is antioxidants

As most of you know — and have probably already written about — today's nutritional "buzzword" is antioxidants. Some of the most familiar antioxidants include vitamins A. C. E, and Beta Carotene. The main reason antioxidants are "in the news" so often is because of their disease-fighting properties.

At the cellular level, antioxidants seem to deactivate harmful, highly reactive molecules in our bodies called free radicals, which are caused by oxidation. "Anti" oxidants have been shown to help guard against such cellular and genetic disorders as heart disease, strokes, cancer, birth defects and aging.

There's no denying that this is terrific news. But, scientists (including myself) are now finding that a class of B vitamins called folate, or folic acid, may be just as — if not more — beneficial than antioxidants.

I'd like to take some time today to tell you about folate and explain why nutritional researchers are so excited. Let me start by defining what folate is. Folate is a generic term for the many different chemical forms of this water-soluble B vitamin, including folic acid. Folic acid is the form present in supplements and used in food fortification

Dr. Lucy Wills discovered, in the 1930s, that there was a food factor that could prevent a very common form of anemia in pregnant women consuming restricted diets. The diets of the pregnant women were lacking green leafy vegetable and citrus fruit which we now know are concentrated sources of folate. The missing nutrient was isolated, chemically characterized and them became available commercially as folic acid.

Today, more than 50 years later, folate and folic acid are poised to become our next nutritional buzzwords for the 1990s. The excitement over folate is justified by a number of recent research findings. Here are some of the highlights of what we know about folate to date, what this research means to your readers, and some nutritional recommendations to ensure people get adequate levels of folate in their diet.

Perhaps the most conclusive research on the health benefits of folet is in the area of neural tube birth defects. As some of you may know from the recent Food and Drug Administration announcement, neural tube defects, including Spina Bifida and Anencephaly, affect about 2,500 infants each year. This figure does not include fetuses that are elective aborted after prenatal screenings reveal these defects.

Along with Down's Syndrome and Fetal Alcohol Syndrome, neural tube defects are among the top three birth defects in the United States. Their symptoms are devastating. Spina Bifida occurs when the vertebrae fail to grow closed, leaving part of the spine exposed. Symptoms vary in severity but can include paralysis and incontinence. Babies with Anencephaly are born without most of the brain and cannot survive. The sad truth is that a large percentage of these cases are preventable and may be directly related to the mother's diet and to folate consumption in particular. How can folate help? Recent studies show that the risk of a woman having an infant with birth defects of the spine and brain, such as Spina Bifida and Anencephaly, can be drastically reduced with a diet rich in folic acid. In fact, if women consume adequate amounts of folic acid in the first weeks of pregnancy, the risk of neural tube defects can be reduced by about 50 percent.

But, there is an interesting dichotomy or "twist" at work. While research shows that neural tube defects occur in the first weeks after conception, most women don't even know they are pregnant at this point. That's why it's imperative that women consume adequate amounts of folate before they become pregnant and throughout the first trimester.

As I mentioned, the FDA is now in full support of educating Americans abouth the health benefits of folate in preventing neural tube defects.

In fact, FDA commissioner, David Kessler, said about folate and neural tube defects (and I quote), "There are few times when an individual can take a relatively simple action to reduce the risk of a very serious health problem....but this is one of those times." There are few areas of scientific research in which such a strong consensus of opinion exists. The consensus is that folic acid has conclusively been shown to significantly reduce the risk of neural tube defects.

In addition to helping to prevent neural tube defects, folate has other health benefits, specifically , in the areas of cancer, and potentially, heart disease. According to a study conducted at Harvard University Medical School, folate may be one of the key nutrients in fruits and vegetables that reduce the risk of colon cancer. Researchers have found that folate appears to prevent the process that activates cancer genes.

In addition, researchers at the USDA'a Human Nutrition Research Center on Gaining discovered that low levels of three B vitamins, especially folate, are associated with high blood concentrations of amino acid that is associated with Coronary Heart Disease. This new area of research suggests that increased folic acid consumption may reduce an important risk factor for heart disease.

As you can see, folate is a nutrient that holds great promise in helping us to fight a number of devastating diseases. Now that we've discussed the benefits, let's turn our attention to dietary sources of folate and how much of it we need to consume.

The current recommended dietary allowances (RDA) for for women and 200 micrograms for men. These amounts are approximately 50 percent less that the 400 micrograms per day previously recommended for both men and women,

I believe, and many of my colleagues in the scientific community agree, that the current RDAs for folate do not provide an adequate safety allowance for specific population groups at risk and should be reevaluated. Indeed, recent data indicate that the RDA needs to be reestablished at 400 micrograms and possibly higher for pregnant women. In fact, the U.S. Public Health Service recommended in 1992 that all women of childbearing age consume 500 micrograms of folate per day.

As a result of the recent findings on the health benefits of folate, FDA has proposed that folic acid be added to flour, bread, rice, noodles and grain products to help implement the Public Health Service recommendation. A separate proposal would allow manufacturers to label foods that are "good sources" of folate with a health claim relating folate to neural tube defects.

In addition to fortified foolds, there are a number of excellent natural sources of folate, including green leafy vegetable, citrus fruit and legumes. This table shows how Americans are currently getting their daily folic acid intake. As you can see, the Second National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey notes that orange juice is the most popular source of folic acid in the American diet. In fact, one 8-ounce glass of Florida orange juice contains between 102 and 127 micrograms of folate, depending on whether the juice is from concentrate or fresh-squeezed. That's more than 25 percent of the Public Health Service's recommendation of 400 micrograms of folate per day. Drinking just two glasses of orange juice is an easy way to get half of the 400 microgram goal.

Besides containing folate, orange juice is also naturally high in vitamin C. As you know, vitamin C is vital for maintaining healthly skin, bones and burns and helps the body absorb iron. There is a growing bocy of evidence suggesting that vitamin C (a powerful antioxidant) may also reduce the risk of chronic diseases.

Orange juice is also an excellent source of potassium, which is important in regulating heart rhythm and muscle contraction.

One question I'm frequently asked is whether people can simply take a supplement as a convenient way to get folate. Let me answer by saying new "buzzword"

the FDA Folic Acid Committee supported dietary sources over supplements as the most appropriatc means to increase folate intake and meet the Public Health Service recommendation. The proposed level of fortification will not provide the recommended 400 micrograms. The committee stressed the importance of increasing consumption of folatc dense foods including orange juice and green leafy vegetable.

Scientists (including myself) generally believe that it is better to consume nutrients from dietary sources. There are a number of reasons for this. First and foremost, foods havc many morc uscful substances in them besides vitamins. For example, the American Cancer Society's nutritional guidelines do not include the recommendation to take vitamin supplements.

They note that it's not just the benefits of certain vitamins in food that are important, it's the combination of vitamins and other food compunds that can help reduce the risk of cancer and other diseases. Another reasom most scientists don't encourage a reliance on supplements is because it can give a false sense of security. It may lead people to think they have a healthy diet when they reallly don't. My personal feeling is that supplements are just that — supplemnts to a healthy diet, not a replacement for a healthy diet.

Another word of caution you might want to pass along to your readers. They should be aware that there is one risk associated with consuming too much folate.

Folate over consumption can mask pernicious anemia, however, this is associated with very high levels of folate consumption, above 1000 micrograms per day.

It is difficult to exceed this level when folate is consumed through dietary sources, so this is another reason to guard against over-supplementation.

In closing, let me give you my dietary recommendations. As a scientist and researcher who has studied folic acid for the past 15 years, my recommendation for folate consumption is 400 micrograms per day from natural sources such as orange juice, leafy green vegetable and legumes.

Your readers would be very interested to know that they don't have to radically alter their diets to get this recommended amount of folate every day.

They need only be more aware of the foods rich in folate and the need for higher levels of folate at different points in their lives.

Turkey Stuffed Peppers

4 large bell peppers (red, yellow or green)
1 cup chopped onion
3 cloves garlic, minced
1 tbsp. olive oil or vegetable oil
2 cups diced cooked turkey
1 cup instant rice
1 can (8 oz.) whole tomatoes, undrained, chopped
1 can (8 oz.) kidney beans, rinsed, drained
1 cup Pace Picante Sauce
1/4 cup thinly sliced ripe olives
1 tsp. dried oregano,crushed
1/2 tsp. dried basil, crushed
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded mozzarella cheese

Cut peppers in half lengthwise; remove seeds. Cook peppers in large pot of boiling water 4 minutes.; drain and place in shallow baking dish. In 10-inch skillet, cook onion and garlic in oil until onion is tender but not brown.

Stir in remaining ingredients except peppers and cheese; bring to a boil. Cover and simmer for 5 minutes or until most of the liquid is absorbed. Spoon turkey mixture

Try turkey stuffed peppers

This year, turn leftover turkey into family-pleasing, fuss-free meals with two great -tasting new recipes from the Pace Picante Sauce Test Kitchens. Each teams turkey with bright vegetables and savory seasonings, and each takes its bold, garden-fresh flavor and tongue-tingling jalapeno "heat" from Pace Picante Sauce in the cook's choice of mild, medium or hot. A chip-dipping staple for 45 years, the versatile sauce adds fiesta flavor to leftover turkey and a remarkable range of favorite foods.

Turkey Stuffed Peppers feature red, yellow or green bell pepper halves filled with a lively mix of turkey, rice, tomatoes, beans and olives, richly seasoned with picante sauce, garlic and herbs. A last-minute sprinkling of cheese completes the dish.

Turkey Pasta Sauce Ole! simmers leftover turkey in a full-flavored garlic, herb and picante-seasoned tomato mixture that's chock-full of zucchini, onions and olives. Serve it over any favorite pasta, add a simple salad and dinner is complete. This super sauce freezes well and even improves with age, so why not make a double batch?

Turkey Pasta Sauce OLE

1 large onion, chopped
4 cloves garlic, minced
1 tbsp. olive or vegetable oil
1 can (16 ozs.) whole tomatoes, drained, coarsely chopped
1 can (15 ozs.) tomato sauce
1/2 cup Pace Picante Sauce
2 cups chopped cooked turkey
1-1/2 cups thin zucchini slices, halved or quartered
1 can(2-1/4 ozs. drained weight) sliced ripe olives
1/4 cup grated parmesan cheese
2 tsp. Italian seasoning
Hot cooked pasta
Grated parmesan cheese(optional)

Cook onion and garlic in oil in large saucepan until onion is tender but not brown, about 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Add tomatoes, tomato sauce and picante sauce. Stir in remaining ingredients except pasta and optional cheese; mix well. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 30 minutes, stiriing occasionally. Uncover; simmer 5 minutes or until desired consistency. Spoon over pasta; serve with cheese, if desired, and additional picante sauce. makes 4 to 6 servings, about 5 cups sauce.

EHS Family Care Network Toll Free Number

A new toll-free telephone number has been established by the EHS Family Care Network to allow easier access to the network's many counseling programs and locations throughout the Chicago area.

The new number, 1-800-216-1110, connects directly to the EHS Family Care Network's main office. From there, a call is transferred to the appropriate counseling program and location.

"Before, a caller would have to determine which counseling program was appropriate for their needs, find the closest location and then call there," explained John F. Smith, corporate director of the EHS Family Care Network. "Now, as long as the caller is looking for counseling services, all they have to do is call this one number, and we will put them in touch with the program and location they need."

This new procedure is aimed at reducing confusion and getting people the help they need more quickly, Smith said.

The EHS Family Care Network, based at EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center, Oak Lawn, provides outpatient mental health services to the Chicago area through five programs.

Finally, the network offers an employee assistance program to the 11,300 employees of EHS Health Care.

The EHS Family Care Network is part of EHS.

The network's Childhood Trauma Treatment Program (CTTP) treats victims of childhood sexual abuse, their families and offenders. It is the largest program of its kind in Illinois and serves clients at locations in Bolingbrook, St. Charles and Chicago.

A marriage and family therapy counseling program is also part of the EHS Family Care Network. Staff members at the network's nine sites, located at EHS hospitals and United Church of Christ churches, also work with area schools, churches and civic organizations.

The Center for Family Living provides family counseling by graduate students to uninsured or economically disadvantaged families.

The network's Family Life Education program provides education programs through more than 100 United Church of Christ congregation programs through EHS' "Church as a Place of Healing" program. Trained professionals present education programs on a number of family, parenting and stress related issues in a community and religious context.

Church of Christ. EHS has five owned hospitals and one affiliated hospital, the largest home health care service in the area, extended care facilities, outpatient centers, physicians office buildings and retirement complexes.

Colette Mahoney, RSHM, Begins Interim Presidency At Saint Xavier University

Colette Mahoney, RSHM, will assume office as Interim President of Saint Xavier University today and will be in attendance at her first Saint Xavier University Board of Trustees meeting. Sister Mahoney, a member of the Religious Sisters of the Sacred Heart of Mary, joins the Saint Xavier community with over 47 years of experience in education.

Sister Mahoney will serve as Interim President for six months until a nationwide search for a new president is completed. She succeeds President Emeritus, Dr. Ronald Champagne, who served the University for over 12 years until his resignation.

Sister Mahoney's responsibilities will include oversight and administration of all internal and external affairs of the University. She will work with and report directly to the institution's Board of Trustees.

For the past six years, Sister Mahoney served as a Trustee and Member of numerous civic, educational and social organizations. She is recent Chair of Lynn University, and former President and Board Member of Middle States Association of Schools and Colleges. She has served on five college boards and is also a Higher Education Consultant for the Commission of Higher Education where she conducted an evaluation of six study abroad programs in England.

Before joining the Saint Xavier community, Sister Mahoney served in a similar capacity at Presentation College in South Dakota where she developed long range strategic plans for the college's future growth. Mahoney's most extensive experience in higher education, however, comes from her 21 year term as President of Marymount Manhattan College in New York. There she led the 58 year old institution to new levels of distinction by enhancing programs, improving the College's financial status and significantly increasing enrollment.

Sister Colette was also Principal and teacher at the Academy of Sacred Heart of Mary in New York, Associate Professor of biology at Marymount College in Tarrytown, New York, and Chairperson of the Science department at Marymount College of Virginia, where she also taught biology.

In addition to her service as a teacher and leader within educational institutions, Dr. Mahoney provided leadership for numerous civic organizations. Currently she chairs Educational Consulting Associates for Mediation and Conflict Resolution.

In honor of her extensive service to local and national organizations, Sister Mahoney received special recognition through numerous awards. She has been awarded a Doctor of Laws degree from the following New York collegiate institutions: Fordham University, Pace University, Manhattan College and Marymount College; as well as a Doctor of Humanities from St. Frances de Sales, Allentown College in Pennsylvania. She also earned six fellowships ranging from work on Jewish community relations to humanistic studies and the advancement of women.

Other awards include the OTTY award in recognition of her outstanding role in making New York a better place to live and work; a "Women helping Women" recognition from the Soroptimist International Of New York; a President's Medal from Hunter College; and the Hoey Award for Interracial Justice from the Catholic Interracial Council, to name a few.

Colette Mahoney has a doctor of philosophy and a master of arts in Latin from Marymount College in Tarrytown, New York. In addition, she earned certification in a variety of executive fields to include data processing and effective professional management.

"The accomplishments of Sister Colette are impressive, to say the least," said Jim McDonough, Chairman of the Board of Trustees for Saint Xavier University. "We're very fortunate to have her expertise during this period of change; Sister Colette's experience will be in we search for a new president who will lead Saint Xavier University into the 21st century."

The search for a permanent President for the University is currently underway, involving the University's Board of Trustees along with a variety of representatives from the school's faculty, administration, staff, students and alumni organizations.

Saint Xavier University, 3700 West 103rd St., Chicago, was founded in 1846 by the Sisters of Mercy. Chartered by the state of Illinois in 1847 with the power to grant academic degrees, it ranks among the first of Illinois' colleges and universities. Today, the University is a coeducational, multi-ethnic, and international institution serving over 4,100 students in 37 majors and 27 graduate options.

In addition to its main Chicago campus on the city's southwest side, the University operates an Orland Park Center; and two campuses in Europe —Paris, France and Milan, Italy.

Remodelers Association has a members list for home repairs

In this age of environmental concern, it's only appropriate that in addition to recycling old bottles, newspapers and cans, many people are seeing the benefits of recycling old or deteriorated houses.

Although it's not a new concept to buy a run down "fixer-upper" with the intention of restoring it to an attractive and comfortable home, many buyers are taking a renewed interest and some banks are taking a closer look at this market.

What differentiates fixer-upper buyers from other homebuyers is that when looking for a fixer-upper, the buyer is looking specifically for a house in which he would not want to live in house's present condition. The challenge comes later in the steps it takes to remodel the fixer-upper house into a home.

An initial attraction of these houses is their cost, usually significantly below potential market value. In some areas, cities may even offer these houses for $1 to anybody willing to make the necessary repairs. Of course, bargains are rarely what they seem, and fixer-uppers are called such for a reason.

A buyer who purchases one of these houses must be prepared to invest substantial material and labor resources to make the house comfortable, or in some instances, even inhabitable. For years, this presented a dilemma for buyers, because they would use up most of their savings for the down payment and have nothing left with which to remodel. They could not borrow against the equity in their home because there was none.

Some banks have loan programs designed specifically for home improvements in home with little or no equity. This program is designed around the Federal Housing Administration Title I Home Improvement Loan program. Interest paid on these loans may be tax deductible.

It's always a good idea for buyers to have a professional home inspector examine any home they're planning to buy, but in the case of a fixer-upper, it it essential. While chipped paint and other cosmetic drawbacks are easy to spot and relatively easy to fix, structural damage can be more difficult to see, not to mention much more difficult and expensive to repair. To the layman, two rundown houses may look alike. But one can be brought up to snuff with new wallpaper, carpeting, and thorough scrubbing, while the other may need extensive and expensive rewiring, new plumbing, etc. An expert will be able to tell whether the wall just needs a fresh coat of paint, or if it's the structural wall that is about to fall down and take the ceiling with it.

Even if it's determined that major repairs and renovations must be made, a buyer may still be interested in accepting the challenge and buying the house. In addition to the potential cost savings, renovating a fixer-upper gives buyers customization options that would otherwise be available only to people building a new home.

Once a buyer decides to buy a house requiring professional remodeling, the big question is how to select a remodeler to do the work. With all kinds of people calling themselves remodelers, it's not difficult to find somebody willing to take your money.

Of course, depending on the customer's budget and timetable, he may decide to buy the house and prioritize the repairs, fixing only the essential main systems first.

Like any home improvement, many variables will affect the return an owner will receive on his investment. A rule of thumb is that any repairs which brings a house up to the level of the other houses in the neighborhood is worthy one. Eventually, the homeowner will face the principle of diminishing returns where the home's value will not increase in proportion with the cost of the improvements.

One thing that is not variable is that shoddy workmanship will not increase a home's value. The time and resources necessary to restore a fixer-upper may not be acceptable to everybody. But those who decide to accept the challenge and make the commitment to invest in quality improvements will be richly rewarded.

As with any professional, the best idea is for a buyer to ask around and solicit advise from friends who have had good experiences with a specific remodeler. That way the customer can have an opportunity to find out what it was like working with that particular remodeler and see his work. If the customer is satisfied, then he can arrange to meet with the remodeler to see if the remodeler's style and ideas make the customer comfortable.

Another way to find a professional remodeler is to call a trade association and ask for their member list The professional Remodelers Association makes their member list available and homeowners can obtain a free copy by calling (708)627-7577.

Bridgeview Senior receives Senior Medal of Honor

By Sal Lema

"Her life is for other people, she has given more than any other individual I have ever known." "Even though she is very busy she has always found the time when someone needs help." These statements and more exemplify the pride that Bridgeview residents share when the name Stephanie Cichowski is spoken.

On April 26, 1994 Stephanie Cichowski, was awarded the Senior Medal of Honor by Cook County Sheriff Michael Sheahan. Stephanie was one of 82 recipients, all from various municipalities within Cook County. She received a plaque and medal for her outstanding volunteerism within the Bridgeview community.

Stephanie has volunteered for over 35 year's, in various organizations. She was a charter member of Bridgeview Moose Lodge #1030. She has served for 15 year's holding several offices in the Bridgeview Golden Agers. She was responsible for establishing at the Bridgeview Oremus Community Center a Senior movie as part of their monthly activities. She has served for 20 year's on the Bridgeview Senior Commission. Stephanie Cichowski has served 35 year's in various capacities in the Polish Culture Club, The Polish Falcons, Polish Women, and the Polish Sea League. Elected to the Bridgeview Library Board of Trustees, Stephanie has served faithfully for over 28 year's. She is also a member of the American and Illinois Library Associations.

Congratulations to super senior Stephanie Cichowski for her commitment to volunteering. She's the kind of senior citizen we all hope to be like; thoughtful, caring humble- inspirational!

The U.S. Congressional Medal of Honor was authorized on July 12, 1862.

SUCCESS IN BUSINESS

You: A Home Business Candidate?

(NAPS)—With job security and financial security a thing of the past, millions of Americans (estimates range from 24 to 40 million) are generating income from a variety of home-based business activities.

According to Barbara Brabec, author of Homemade Money (Betterway Books, $19.95), before you launch a business at home, you need a clear understanding of yourself, your capabilities and your limitations.

Take the following test to find out if you're a good home-business candidate. There are no right or wrong answers; the test is designed to get you thinking. After you have answered the questions, ask a family member or a close friend to answer them with you in mind.

Simply say yes or no to the following questions: Am I afraid to make decisions even though they may be wrong? Can I take criticism and rejection? Do I enjoy taking charge of things and seeing them through to the end? Am I an organized worker? Am I an independent, self-confident person? Do I get along well with most people? Do I like to work, and am I willing to work hard for something I want, even if financial rewards are slow in coming? Am I willing to do a lot of self-studying, research, and planning to make my home business dream a reality?

Of course, the more "yes" answers you have, the more likely a home-business candidate you are. However, a couple of "no" answers doesn't mean you have to give up your business dream. If you consider yourself a candidate for self-employment, consult Homemade Money for specific how-to information on every topic related to the start-up, management, and successful marketing of a home-based business. Available at bookstores or by calling toll-free 1-800-289-0963.

Bullet proof glass important for police in local suburb

by Harry Haller .

Fillmore. Cabrini-Green. Englewood. Oak Lawn. Three of these areas are infamous for their reputation of having some of the most violent crimes in the country committed on a regular basis.

One has taken the precaution of installing a bullet-proof enclosure to protect the desk sergeant on duty from the inherent forces of evil prevalent in the surrounding community.

See if you can guess which one.

Recently I visited one of the above to inquire about a police matter (hint: it was a suburban location.) After literally shouting my business so the officer (and everyone else in the vicinity) could hear, I received a curt, snippy "That's a civil matter" response that was hardly civil in terms of professionalism or courtesy.

The smug answer and contrived isolation left me feeling like a chagrined Dorothy after disturbing the wise and powerful wizard .

Pehaps he was busy. Or maybe he had a bad day. In any case he could have conducted the conversation in a private and confidential manner in less public surroundings. Seems even prisoners are spared the indignity of loudly voicing their affairs to visitors by utilizing a bit of technology called the telephone.

I'm sure the officer could have called someone capable of taking the time and effort to explain the policy and procedure involving the subject in question.

I guess what disturbed me most was the bullet-proof partition protecting an armed officer inside a police station! This was not a currency exchange or filling station in one of the above mentioned areas.

Just a short distance to the west there was what appeared to be an administrative area (I couldn't tell for sure; no one was around!) lacking the heavy-duty protection afforded the sergeant. Someone didn't quite rate in terms of security-- Perhaps they were affiliated with the ill-fated Village Reform Party.

I'm sure there is a logical reason to account for such disparate treatment. Someone has to protect the garage-sale permit receipts from would be criminals.

Oak Lawn Farmer's Market

The Oak Lawn Farmer's Market opened on Wednesday, June 29th to a grand array of fine fruits, vegetables, herbs, spices, cider, homemade bakery goods, fresh honey and much much more! The Oak Lawn Business Community and Park District will be there to greet the shoppers and showcase a different business each week. If you come early and shop long, you can enjoy a hot dog with all the trimmings and cold drink before you go home to prepare all the great produce purchased.

The market is located on Yourell Drive between Cook and 52nd Avenues and will be open every Wednesday from June 30th thru October, 7:00 a. m. to 2:00 p.m.

Veterans of Gulf War may need government aid

Statement by Troy Albuck

I enlisted in the Army at age 17. At age 19 I was commissioned a Second Lieutenant. By age 24, I was an Airborne Ranger Infantry Officer with a Combat Infantryman's Badge from Panama and Iraq.

As an officer in the United States Army, I was lucky. I had actually become what I wanted to be when I grew up. Not many people get to say that. I believed in what I was doing, and I took my oath to defend the Constitution seriously. I still feel that way about it.

Unfortunately, our country's money problems meant that after Operation Desert Storm, we had to cut back our forces. My military career came to an end in that cutback, but I have no complaints about that. That is the way it goes sometimes.

Unknown to me at the time I got out, I was carrying around a wound from the Gulf War that had yet to surface. Gradually, that wound began to take its toll bit only on me, but on my family as well.

It's important to point out that I volunteered. Nobody made me join the Army, and nobody made me fight overseas. I did those things because they were right, and if I had to do it over, I would gladly do it again. I came by my wound in conflict, for which I freely volunteered. I accept that.

This wound, however, has caused identical wounds in my wife Kelli, and my son, Alex. They did not volunteer. They did not take the oath, they were not trained to fight, they were not prepared to fight. Yet they are causalities just the same. That is why I speak out today.

My family and I have been to Washington. We have testified before congress, and we have spoken before the National Academy of Sciences. Our government has begun to look into this illness, but I must say that meaningful action has been a long time coming.

And the action which has been taken thus far, in my view and in the view of the dozens of others in this same situation who have contacted me for help, is not nearly enough.

By Annette Dixon

June 1st issue was dedicated to the future generation of Americans who graduated from grammar school, high school and college

Very little was mentioned regarding the 50th anniversary of D-day As a person most involved with the military, I shocked myself by not dedicating a page to our 50th anniversary of D-day and to the men and women serving the military at that time.

So after reading Sneed's Column, I too decided to do a father story about WW II and D-day.

For many years as I was growing into adulthood, WW II was never a topic of conversation in our home. Growing up in Chicago in a league of nations until age 13, I was confronted by children from various countries, telling me of their plight into America. Many of my friends experienced concentration camp, for the were born in 1940 and thereafter. My friends were Peter Perrie from Germany, who left that country in 1948, Katherine Miller from Yugoslavia who was in a concentration camp until 1946 and who immigrated here with her father and mother in 1951 Joseph Zymonis from Lithuania who immigrated in 1949, and the Count and Countess, Mr. and Mrs. Zichie who were custodians at St. Martin School in 1948.

When I spoke of the atrocities my friends told me happened to them in their country - my father would just listen and nod. I remember asking, "did you kill anyone in their homeland?" I cannot even remember hearing an answer.

My father's war stories were never told at home. I didn't find out until the 60's that I should be very proud of my father. He was lucky that he survived the war.

I knew of fox hole Mary and Dirty Nellie and the story of sitting on a dead cow somewhere in Germany in a field eating rattlesnake meat but somehow I never heard an actual war story.

Well now John P. Stella is 82 and has a dedicated brick in front of Worth Memorial honoring him and his dedication to our country.

The following is a brief history of his war record which includes: April 2 until November 12, 1941, John was in Company M 132nd Infantry. His only inactive status was from Nov. 14, 1941 to Feb. 1, 1942, he then was drafted into the Army in the HQ Co. 2nd BN 385 Inf. He served from Feb. 2, 1942 until Aug. 6, 1945. His duties were that of a cannoneer and infantry. He served in combat in Normandy, Northern France, Ardennes, Rhineland, and Central Europe. He also served in Africa prior to WW II. He held the rank of Corporal and received the following citations: Purple Heart, which he refused at discharge because he was injured in the states and not during combat. He received a good conduct medal, American defense service ribbon, American Theatre Ribbon, European African Middle Eastern Theatre Ribbon, W/I Silver Battle Star, 5 Overseas Service Bars and 1 service stripe.

When he was discharged from the army he received a lapel button..

I can relate now to Russell Kerlin when he said "Annette, your father was the 2nd wave that landed in Normandy on D-day. The first wave was wiped out and there were only 35 men left in his BN. and he was one of them."

Maybe that is why he refused the purple heart, maybe that is why he never mentions the killings of innocent civilians, including men, women and children in every small town they invaded. Maybe that is why he thinks he is still the toughest, roughest, strongest guy around and attested to that fact recently was his physician.

As John P. Stella would say, "we just did what we were told to do and we tried to stay alive the best way we knew how even if it meant killing innocent people. It was them or us. Also, those who said they weren't coming back, didn't. On the boat coming over from England on D-day many of my buddies would tell me they didn't think they would make it back, and they died next to me, in front of me, behind me. There were bodies scattered in all directions. I still can't remember the end of the shelling."

Fourth of July Ode

James Russell Lowell

I

Our fathers fought for Liberty,
They struggled long and well,
History of their deeds can tell—
But did they leave us free?

II

Are we free from vanity,
Free from pride, and free from self,
Free from love of power and pelf,
Form everything that's beggarly?

III

Are we free from stubborn will,
From low hate and malice small,
From opinion's tyrant thrall?
Are none of us our slaves still?

IV

Are we free to speak our thought,
To be happy, and be poor,
Free to enter Heaven's door,
To live and labor as we ought?

V

Are we then made free at last
From the fear of what men say,
Free to reverence Today,
Free from the slavery of the Past?

VI

Our fathers fought for liberty,
They struggled loud and well,
History of their deeds can tell
But ourselves must set us free.

My sympathy is extended to Helen Maxwell on the recent death of her husband Arthur. He was a St.. Bride Graduate and friend of Loretto Convent.

Happy Birthday to the following: Betty Lou Taylor and Ann Wilson on July 1, Helen Mulvey and Mary Lou Ring on July 2, Rick Casey on July 3, Rita Struven on July 4, Julia Crotty, Geraldine Baskerville, Barbara Sevenich and Carol Houlihan on July 6, Laverne McKinley and Bernardo DeSimone on July 7, James Petzinger on July 8, George Bernasek on July 9, Joseph Scalon on July 10, Courtney Fitzgerald on July 11, Helen Houlihan and Pat Zanetta on July 13, Kevin Kollpainter on July 14, Mary Ann Heenan on July 15.

Please pray for my deceased friend Ann Hull who passed away June 25th. She will be missed by many people.

Policies reviewed by library board

A complete review of Oak Lawn Public Library personnel policies was undertaken by the library board at its regular meeting, June 21. A staff committee had worked on the policy and suggested some changes prior to its submission to the board. The board approved the document.

A new policy was adopted regarding the legal use of licensed and copyright computer software. Copies will be posted in the library for patron information. Also approved after review was the library's Freedom of Information Act.

A new plan for library copy machines and printers was approved. I.M.S.G. Systems Inc., a vending company, will install, maintain, service and supply coin/card operated copy machines, color copier and reader printers at no cost to the library. A service technician will visit the library daily to keep the equipment in good running order and stocked with paper and supplies. The equipment will be fitted with coin boxes that accept coins, bills, cards and serve as a fully functioanl dollar bill changer. The use of a copier card will be new to the library. The company has agreed to have representatives at the library to assist patrons with the new system once the equipment is ready to use.

In regular business, the board approved payment of $32,322 for library materials; $32,260 for operating expenses; and $155,649 for personnel.

Perez-Sanz Lectures in Italy

Noted Oak Lawn orthopedic surgeon, Jose Perez-Sanz, M.D., lectured before a regional orthopedic conference in Riccone, Italy on May 13. Dr. Perez-Sanz spoke on "Shoulder Replacement in the Treatment of Severe Fracture" and performed a rotator cuff surgery while on his visit. SERTOT (Societa-Emiliana-Romagna-Triveneta Di Orthopedic E Traumatologia), is one of the largest regional orthopedic conferences in Italy.

Dr. Perez-Sanz, received his shoulder training under Dr. Charles Neer, the world's foremost shoulder surgeon and the developer of the Neer shoulder replacement prosthesis. Dr. Neer first discovered and described what is known as "impingement" which is a forerunner to bursitis and rotator cuff tears. His discovery has allowed for early preventive treatment of such shoulder disorders.

GETTING IT TOGETHER

Who is Pene?

Pene is a Southsider, and a die hard Cub fan, active in both church and community functions. I am a Certified Substance Abuse Counselor, and worked with the Gateway Drug program at the Cook County Dept. of Corrections, and as a Deputy Sheriff, I've been in law enforcement for 27 yrs.

I have been listed twice in "who's Who Among American University and College Students." In 1981 and 1993. A quest speaker on Sally Jessiel and WLS Radio. Has appeared as a guest speaker for various local organizations, speaking on domestic violence, and drug awareness and prevention. I hold over 22 certificates and 6 letters of commendation and recognitation received during my career in law enforcement.

I am at my best when I am helping others, sharing what I've learned both the hard way and educationally. I realize we were not promised a rose garden, for the thorns can hurt, learning and realizing how to deal with life's many challenges gives us a better understanding of life, and our purpose. I am not so egotistic to think I am an authority on everything, but I have walked in some very ruff shoes.

Write your questions to me today, lets see what help is available to you, or if a better understanding can be achieved.

My son is getting married and inquired at the Court House regarding getting a marriage license, and was told all he needed was $30 and a birth certificate. He also was told no blood test was necessary. I was shocked, do you think this is safe for our children today?

Answer: I called the Court, and spoke to a clerk in the Vital Statistic Department, she advised: an individual needs only a valid drivers license, a birth certificate(if no-license) and $30.00 in cash. It takes about 15 minutes to get a license, then the couple can come back the next day. Also, the couple must live in the 5th District Circuit Court area. No blood test, she mentioned it was stopped being required approx. 8 years ago. The main purpose for the blood test was to check for venereal disease. I would think that would still be a necessary step prior to marriage, but was advised, if the couple wanted they can get their self checked by their own doctor. Yes, I think it is very unsafe for this generation. It sure seems that all the courses we once took to protect ones self are no longer required. Also, if the couple decided to be tested for venereal disease or AIDS, it is very expensive today. But can we argue with City Hall?

Mexican seasonings add new spice to chicken

America's regional ethnic cuisine's are being universally adapted into the nation's eating habits and one of the current favorites spreading across the country from south-of-the-border is Mexican-inspired dishes.

Chicken takes well to these spicy, peppery seasonings just as it does to the cookery of almost every culture on earth.

The National Broiler Council developed two recipes (below) that give chicken a Mexican flavor. Neither is a truly authentic Mexican dish but both translate those appealing seasonings to American tastes and cooking techniques.

Grilled Chicken Breasts with Spicy Salsa will add new interest to the backyard barbecue or the same recipe can easily be prepared by cooking the chicken breasts in the broiler. Make the salsa and let the flavors meld while the chicken is marinating and the grill is being prepared.

Tex-Mex Chicken Summer Chowder is a hearty, colorful, one-dish meal that combines chunks of tender chicken breast with summer vegetables. The flavor is superb.

Tex-Mex Chicken Summer Chowder

2 pounds boneless, skinless chicken breast, cut into cubes
1 tbsp. canola oil
1 clove garlic,minced
1 small onoin, sliced
1/2 cup chopped sweet green pepper
3 tomatillos, cut into wedges
1 can(14-1/2oz.) low sodium chicken broth
1-1/2 cups fresh corn, cut from the cob
1 can (14-1/2oz) tomato wedges, drained, juice reserved
3 summer squash, sliced thin
1 tsp. ground cumin
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 cup iiced jicama
1 tbsp. chopped cilantro

In large Dutch oven, place oil and heat over medium temperature. Add chicken and garlic, turning chicken to brown on all sides, about 3 minutes. Add onion and green pepper; cook about 5 minutes, stirring. Add tomatillos and chicken broth; bring to a boil and simmer about 10 minutes. Add squash, cumin, salt, pepper and tomato wedges. Cover and cook on low about 5 minutes. Add jicama and cilantro and cook 5 minutes more. Serve with tortilla chips, if desired. makes 6 servings.

Chicken Breasts With Spicy Salsa

Grilled

6 chicken breasts
4 tbsp. fresh lime juice
1/4 cup olive oil
1/2 tsp. chili powder
1/4 tsp. pepper
Spicy Salsa: recipe follows
1 avocado, peeled, pitted, sliced into wedges
1 tbsp. finely chopped cilantro

In shallow glass dish, mix together lime juice, olive oil, chili powder and pepper. Add chicken, turning to coat. Cover and marinate in refrigerator at least 1 hour. Place chicken on prepared grill*, skin side down, at least 8 inches from heat. Grill about 8 minutes, turn chicken and grill about 8 minutes more or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease and juices run clear, not pink. Remove chicken to serving platter. Spoon Spicy Salasa over each piece and garnish with avocado wedges. Sprinkle with cilantro. Makes 6 servings.

Spicy Salsa: In medium bowl, mix together 3 medium red or yellow tomatoes(seeded and chopped), 1/4 cup finely chopped red onoin, 1 tbsp. fresh lime juice, 1 large clove garlic (minced), 2 tsp. seeded and minced jalapeno pepper, 2 tbsp. finely chopped cilantro, 1/4 tsp. ground cumin and 1/2 tsp. salt. Let sit at room temperature about 1 hour.

*Chicken may be broiled instead of grilled. Place on broiler pan, skin side down; broil about 10 minutes, turn and broil about 10 minutes more or until fork tender.

Linguine nets $5,000 prize in contest

Two-cheese Seafood Linguine, a richly flavored, fuss-free-to-fix pasta main dish, has reeled in the $5,000 Grand Prize in the Louis Kemp "Easy Seafood Delights" recipe contest. The judges fell hook, line and sinker for its fabulous flavor, creative combination of eadily available ingredients nd super-simple preparation.

Ready to serve in about 20 minutes, the prize-winning pasta boasts a rich and savory sauce which teams Louis Kemp Crab Delights surimi seafood with tomato, scallions and the cook's choice of blue or Swiss cheese and Parmesan or Romano cheese. The convenient, fat-free seafood, which looks and tastes like crab and lobster, is made from Steam Baked Alaskan fish, so it sidesteps the hassles of shellfish, simplifies preparation and streamlines the way to great eating. And because it's refrigerated, not frozen, the seafood has superior texture and an always-fresh flavor. Serve this best-of-Contest recipe with a crisp green salad or steamed broccoli and crusty bread or bread sticks to complete a memorable meal in minutes.

April Hartig, a registered nurse from Miramar, Florida, who has never before entered a recipe contest is the proud creator of the winning dish.

Entries in the contest, which sought original recipes starring Louis Kemp Crab Delights and Lobster Delights, showcased the versatile seafood with America's current favorite foods and flavors. Pasta was a popular entry, and was just as often tossed with a creamy sause as it was with a tomato-based sause. Mexican flavors were the most highly flavored across all categories, followed by Italian and Oriental, including a generous sprinkling of Thai-inspired dishes. Reflecting today's busy lifestyles, convenience was key for many contest entrants, who creatively combined canned, frozen and packaged foods to shortcut preparation.

TWO-CHEESE SEAFOOD LINGUINE

6 to 8 ounches linguine or other pasta,as desired
2 large cloves garlic minced
1 teaspoon dried oregano, crushed
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 medium tomato, chopped
1/2 cup whipping cream
1 pkg. Louis Kemp Crab Delights or Lobster Delights flakes or chunks
1/2 cup sliced green onions with tops
1/4 cup crumbled blue cheese or shredded Swiss cheese
1/4 cup grated Parmesan or Romano cheese

Cook pasta according to package directions; drain. While pasta is cooking, cook garlic and oregano in butter in saucepan, stirring frequently, 1 minute. Add tomato; continue cooking, stirring occasionally, 3 minutes or until tomato is cooked through. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until blue cheese is melted and sause is hot. Place hot cooked pasta on serving plate with rim; top with sause. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Bloody Marys

1 (46oz) can tomato juice
3/4 cup lemon juice
12 dashes Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. black pepper
1 1/2 cup Vodka (optional)
1/3 cup prepared horseradish

Combine ingredients in large pitcher, stirring well.

Grill shredded potatoes (try frozen hash browns, thawed) with finely chopped onion and horseradish, salt and pepper on lightly oiled griddle.

Weekend Brunch for the Bold

There's nothing like hearty breakfast to usher in the day. But, if there's a long night behind you or before you, extra measures are almost always in order. R. Paul Miller, former foodservice manager for The New York Racing Association, knows what it takes to rev up appetites at the starting gate. It was his responsibility to do just that while overseeing more than 200 kitchens of several thoroughbred race tracks. Here's his recipe guaranteed to clear the head, steady the hand and give your weekend spirits that much needed wake-up call.

1/2 lb. sausage meat
1 large tomato, chopped (approximately 1 cup)
3 tbsp. prepared horseradish
18 eggs, medium
1/4 cup milk
2 tbsp. margarine
Garnish:
6 celery stalks
2 medium toma toes, sliced in wedges
3 tbsp. Prepared horseradish

Saute and crumble sausage, remove from heat and drain well. Add tomatoes and horseradish and set aside. Beat together the eggs and milk. Melt the margarine in a large saute pan and add the egg mixture and the sausage. Scramble until eggs are firm. Place in six, 8-oz. rarebit dishes and garnish each with celery, tomatoes and a dollop of horseradish. Serve with old-fashioned Bloody Marys.

Mix applesauce, lemon juice, minced walnuts with prepared horseradish and yogurt. Serve with pita wedges or bagels chips.

Dress tomato aspic or sliced tomatoes with 1 cup plain lowfat yogurt, 2 tea spoons horseradish and 1/8 teaspoon white pepper.

Vietnam Veterans Memorial Moving wall

The Vietnam Veterans Memorial Moving Wall, a replica of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D. C. will be on the campus of Moraine Valley Community College from Monday, July 11, through Sunday, July 17.

Scheduled activities for the week are as follows: Monday, July 11-opening ceremonies: 4:30 to 6p.m. Private viewing of Wall for Gold Star families. 6:15 p.m. Invocation, Posting of Colors. 6:30 to 7 p.m. Presentation by Sergeant Allen J. Lynch, United States Army. 7 to 7:30 p.m. Great Lakes Naval Band presentation. Wednesday, July 13 - 5:45 to 6.15 p.m. Band, Invocation, Posting of Colors. 6:30 to 7 p.m. Presentation by Admiral Mack C. Gaston, commander of Great Lakes Naval Training Center. 7 p.m. to dawn. Killed in Action Candle Vigil. Sunday, July 17 - Closing Ceremonies. 5:30 to 6p.m. Band, Invocation, Posting of Colors. 6 to 6:30 p.m. Musical Performance. 6:30 to 7 p.m. Presentation by Carol Walker, the widow of a soldier killed in action.

The portable monument is more than 250 feet long — approximately half the size of the Washington wall — and contains the names of nearly 58,000 American soldiers who were killed in Vietnam.

The idea of the Moving Wall was conceived by John Devitt, Gerry Haver and Norris Shears, Vietnam veterans from California, concerned with what they might do to somehow "keep alive" and share the power and good that Devitt had experienced while attending the dedication of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D. C.

The Moving Wall will be located on the campus, on the north side of Building B, which is located at 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills.

Sponsored by the college's Student Senate, the visit is open to all members of the community.

For more information, call the College Activities Office at (708) 974-5717.

The Defense Department has begun a program to test some veterans who are still on active duty. There is also legislation pending in Congress that will establish an outreach program to inform members of the armed forces who served in the Gulf War. It should be pointed out that these steps do little for the majority of Gulf War veterans-those who are out of the service. And they do nothing at all for family members who may have been stricken.

That is part of the problem we face. It will take time, a long time, to complete the studies which have only just begun. And the true numbers of wounded and dying are unknown, in part because those still on active duty are hiding their wounds, and in part because those who have worked within the system simply aren't getting anywhere.

Since I've done a lot of work pointing out the problem, it's only fair that I try to address a solution. That solution must include family members who carry out the problem, it's only fair that I try to address a solution. That solution must include family members who carry these wounds, and it also must make it easier for those who must assist those too wounded to provide for their families while research is ongoing.

The wounded American families do not need a generous overload of goodwill. What we need is someone who will listen, which is the reason I sought out Jim Nalepa, A fellow veteran who knows and understands what we've been through.

And we need action now. If these studies take 10 years, that will leave us with a large number of well-researched corpses. And it will be an open question whether some veterans, who are too wounded to work, die of starvation before they die of their wounds.

Suburb Recognize Disabled Vets

By Rick Techman

During this golden anniversary of D-day, veterans display the successes of their lives but disabled vets can't share in the fullness of the lives they too fought for.

The two greatest enemies of an American soldier today, other than his adversaries, are chemical weapons from both sides and disease. Battle injuries alone are just a fraction of all the ailments a combatant will suffer during his tour of duty. Disease and chemical infections can be more disabling than a bullet wound. U.S. chemical weapons destroyed more healthy American lives in the Desert Storm Campaign to defeat Saddam Hussein than friendly fire. This includes men, women and children.

Agent Orange became popular as a chemical weapon during the Vietnam War. During this time Agent Orange was officially used to destroy North Vietnamese crops thereby destroying the food lines to the North Vietnamese Army, the Viet Cong underground and the citizens of North Vietnam. The chain reaction should have caused mass starvation and the collapse of the N.V.A. as a fighting force.

Research shows poor training and supervision of American troops handling Agent Orange and other chemical weapons, led to American casualties as well. Soldiers who handled it became infected and untold American boys were sent home with permanent disabilities.

Agent Orange was again used as a defoliant in Desert Storm and, while supervision and training of troops handling chemical weapons had improved, American soldiers again were infected by U.S. weapons of war.

Desert Storm veteran Troy Albuck, a U.S. Army infantry officer, said, "We need action now. If these studies take 10 years, that will leave us with a large number of well-researched corpses. "And it will be an open question," he added, "whether some veterans, who are too wounded to work, die of starvation before they die of their wounds."

A Department of Veteran's Affairs report, based on a voluntary registry of former Desert Storm troops treated at V.A. hospitals for various disorders found, "370 veterans reported having children with birth defects."

While the statistics show that about half of these children were conceived before Persian Gulf Service and the remainder conceived after the war, the report said, "The nature of the birth defects are

Albuck said, "The true number of wounded and dying are unknown, in part because those still on active duty are hiding their wounds, and in part because those who have worked within the system simply aren't getting anywhere."

Albuck said the long term wounds he suffered in Desert Storm equally affect his wife and son. He said, "The wounded American families do not need a generous overload of goodwill. What we need," he concluded, "is someone who will listen."

USO MIDWAY

By Rick Techman

Thousands of American servicemen, retirees, cadets, trainees and families pass through Midway Airport throughout the year and now the United Services Organization, (U.S.O) stands by ready to serve them at the terminal.

Coffee, soft drinks, sandwiches, cookies, television, lounge chairs and directions mirror the services available at every U.S.O. stop including Midway. A volunteer force of community residents staff the center.

DirectorMarcia Warda, said the purpose of the U.S.O. is to "improve the morale and ensure the well-being of our country's servicemen and women."

She also said, "A major goal of the center will be to provide a 'home away from home' for passing military as well as an information hub for transportation to Great Lakes Naval Station and Chicago area attractions."

The U.S.O. is located across from KIWI Baggage, Mid terminal. Here staffers take a personal interest in seving the military.

Rosemary, a regular U.S.O. staffer said, "The U.S.O. couldn't run without its volunteers. They are the U.S.O. as far as I am concerned."

"Everything," she continued, "is donated. Whatever the servicemen ask for has been donated."

Rosemary recently found that the U.S.O. needed her help. But before volunteering at Midway, she said she has volunteered with the POWs and MIAs and considered working with the military because most volunteers choose to go with other causes.

Opened in 1991, The Midway U.S.O. was ushered into service on the 50th anniversary of U.S.O. services to American soldiers, both women and men.

The U.S.O. is the only not-for-profit, civilian organization which solely supports servicemen and women receiving funding strictly from private enterprises and individuals but not from the federal government according to the U.S.O. board of directors.

Dorothy Krysiak, a Midway station director, said about 125 people passed through the Midway station each month of 1993. She said during the summer months she sees more military families and children.

The highest number of servicemen typically using Midway are from the Navy seeking the Great Naval Training Center.

More U.S.O. directional signs throughout the terminal would help inform passing servicemen of the help available volunteers agreed.

Elks honor Flag Day

The Oak Lawn Elks #2254, 10740 S. Central Avenue, Chicago Ridge held their Annual Flag Day Ceremony at their lodge. Approximately 100 were in attendance at this outdoor ceremony that is mandatory at all Elks Lodges and centers around the history and understanding of the American Flag.

The honorable Maureen Murphy, Illinois State Representative was on hand and spoke about the meaning of "F. L. A. G." She also presented the Lodge with a 150 Year Anniversary Book. The new American Flag raised at the ceremony was donated by U.S. Congressman William O. Lipinski and had flown over the White House.

Elk Past Exalted Rulers Earl J. Konecki, Tom Hummel and current ER Kevin Kennedy also spoke at the ceremony that was coordinated by Nave Vet and Elk Secretary, Jim Fealey. The local color guards that participated were: Chicago Ridge VFW Post #2255, Johnson Phelps VFW Post, Glen Maker American Legion Post, Calument Park American Legion and Midwest Merchant Marine Assoc.

Music for the outdoor ceremony was provided by Irene Snow - who sang a variety of patriotic songs accompanied by Jan Cronin. The event was coordinated by Jo Cherogan and Janet Kennedy with the assistance from the Oak Lawn Ladies of Elks - Carol Fernett, President.

The color guards were presented framed certificates and Chairman Fealey said, "participating in this patriotic event is important to remember the significance of our flag."

Viet Vets Disabled

By Rick Techman

While Vietnam Veterans fought an unpopular war in Southeast Asia, their battle for veteran's equality began years ago after the war ended with the Vietnam Veteran's Bill of Rights.

World War II veteran, Al Grajek said as a State Commander of Disabled American Veterans he led the charge to local legislator's doors for equal health, financial and disability rights for Viet vets.

Vietnam Veterans, especially the disabled, have access to available benefits through their local D.A.V. office, but homeless vets face a bleak future.

Beginning in 1980, Grajek drove the highways of Illinois, to and from state conventions, talking by citizen band radio to Viet vet truck-drivers on the road.

After learning what happened to some disabled Viet vets, Grajek said, "This is wrong." There should be no such thing as veterans living under the bridges.

"When it comes to the homeless veterans, what do they get," he added. "We were fighting for a long time. The government didn't want to give them nothin' because that was an unpopular war."

The Vietnam Veterans Bill of Rights passed Congress and was signed by President Reagan in 1985, but many veterans still fight to gain recognition in congress for the disabling illnesses and family disorders they have suffered as a result of the war.

The Tri Centennial chapter of the Disabled American Veterans, located near Ridgeland Ave. and 111th St. in Worth, remains open under Al Grajek's leadership because, as he said, "We realize that we have to take care of our buddies."

Evergreen Park Village Board Utility Rates, Parks

By Rick Techman

Commonwealth Edison's new rate proposals and park district recreational alternatives highlighted the Evergreen Park Village board meeting Tuesday, July 5.

Evergreen Park citizens could see a decrease in their monthly electric bill by January according to a letter to Village President Anthony Vacco from Maureen Niswonger, of Commonwealth Edison Public Affairs.

She also wrote that the Illinois Commerce Commission is presently working on a proposed order that, when passed by the I.C.C., would allow Commonwealth Edison to offer suburban customers a new, lower rate.

Mayor Vacco said that this is simply a proposed change. He said he needed a new rate structure figure before he could determine potential savings by Evergreen residents.

A spirited discussion on basketball hoop alternatives at Duffy Park and other park district sites began when Evergreen Park resident Thomas Gordon petitioned the village board to return hoops recently removed.

Mayor Vacco, village board members and some residents wanted the basketball hoops replaced with alternative sports equipment due to violence, abuse and non-resident use surrounding the hoops.

But Gordon said, "Duffy Park was really the last good place to play ball. It seems to me we are surrendering to a small handful of people."

While Gordon presented the village board with a petition signed by 37 residents to return the hoops to Duffy Park, Evergreen Park resident Brad Telander announced gathering 250 signature to make the hoop removal permanent.

Evergreen Park resident Carla Hannan-Welch, a Blue Island grammar school instructor, said, "If hoops don't go up something else will have to be done."

Trustee Jim Sexton said, "The property won't go vacant very long."

Mayor Vacco received a strong round of applause when he informed the residents that he would not tolerate and more violence, graffiti, or gang related behavior at Duffy Park or any other park.

He received a unanimous consent by the village board to replace the hoops with an alternative recreational tool.

"I appreciate you listening to my concerns. Thank you," Gordon closed

In other business, the board approved a four way stop for the intersection of 96th Place and Albany.

The mayor reasserted the village ban on the disposal of "white goods" with residential trash on city pick up days and announced a $2.00 drop in monthly fees for basic cable subscriptions.

Oak Lawn Board meeting

By: Rick Techman

The search for a new Oak Lawn police chief narrowed down to a review of 20 highly qualified applicants, scheduled to begin July 14, according the Oak Lawn village board at their July 12 meeting.

Village Manager Joseph Faber arranged for a committee of three to oversee the review of the selected candidates. Trustees Michael Walsh (Dist.4) and Ronald Stancik (Dist.2) received appointments to the committee.

Further in police news, the City of Burbank will continue to fund three police telecommunicators at the Oak Lawn Public Safety building following the replacement of a telecommunicator who reccently accepted a new position.

In a letter to the village board, Robert Adamitis, Director of Emergency Communications, said, "I ask that you join in my efforts to staff the Communications Center in a manner that will continue to let this operation move forward."

He also said earlier in the letter, "In the first five months of 1994 Oak Lawn Emergency Communicators dispatched 99 percent more calls than we did the first five months of 1993."

He explained the department did this while only increasing staffing by 38 percent and added Oak Lawn emergency communicators now answer 911 calls for surrounding villages according to new intergovernmental agreements.

During the 45 minute meeting, the board also approved the purchase of several new city vehicles, unanimously awarded several city contracts and discussed the progress of the 95th Street resurfacing project.

Bridgeview News

On Friday, July 22, beginning at 7:00 pm, the K-9 Citizen Dog Club of the Bridgeview Park District will hold a dog obedience fun match at the Sports Complex Gymnasium, 8100 S. Beloit.

There are four classes in which dogs may compete: pre-novice, novice A & B combined (for dogs without CD Titles), graduate novice, and open (A & B combined). Trophies and ribbons will be awarded for qualifying scores.

Doors will open at 6:30pm for registration. Judging begins at 7:00pm. The gate fee is $5 per entry.

The public is invited to watch the competition at no charge. Refreshments will be sold.

For more information regarding the Dog Obedience Fun Match or dog obedience classes, call the Park office at (708) 594-1818.

Youth will spend the morning learning the fundamentals of cheerleading, including motion technique, voice projections, simple sideline and floor cheers and jumps at the Bridgeview Park District Sports Complex, 8100 S. Beloit, on Wednesday August 3, from 10:00am to 12:00 pm.

Participants are asked to dress in sweatpants or shorts and gym shoes. Long hair must be tied back. Parents are welcome to stay and watch all of the activity.

For more information, regarding the cheerleading workshop, call the Park District at (708)594-1818.

95th street construction

By: Rick Techman

The week of July 5 will see the patching of all lanes on 95th Street from LaGrange Road to Central Avenue, according to the July 1 "Jack Hammer" report by the Illinois Department of Transportation on display at the Oak Lawn Village hall.

The report further stated "The project will run "through October 23 with 20 working days allotted for finishing the traffic signal work. "The order of operations will be patching, cold milling and resurfacing. The week of July 11 should bring the beginning of the curb work."

As of June 30, reconstruction on 95th Street from Melvina Avenue to Western Avenue has been put on hold until a contract for this section is awarded. At the July 12 village board meeting, Mayor Ernie Kolb invited anyone interested in knowing more about the reconstruction progress to call his office during working hours for more information.

AMERICA FOR ME
Henry van Dyke

'Tis fine to see the Old World, and travel up and down
Among the famous palaces and cities of renown,
To admire the crumbly castles and the statues of the kings—
But now I think I've had enough of antiquated things.

So it's home again, and home again, America for me!
My heart is turning home again, and there I long to be,
In the land of youth and freedom beyond the ocean bars,
Where the air is full of sunlight and the flag is full of stars.

Oh, London is a man's town, there's power in the air;
And Paris is a woman's town, with flowers in her hair;
And it's sweet to dream in Venice, and it's great to study Rome;
But when it comes to living there is no place like home.

I like the German fir-woods, in green battalions drilled;
I like the gardens of Versailles, with dashing fountains filled;
But oh, to take your hand, my dear, and ramble for a day
In the friendly western woodland where Nature has her way!

I know that Europe's wonderful, yet something seems to lack;
The past is too much with her, and the people looking back.
But the glory of the Present is to make the Future free—
We love our land for what she is and what she is to be.

Oh, it's home again, and home again, America for me!
I want a ship that's westward bound to plough the rolling sea,
To the blessed Land of Room Enough beyond the ocean bars,
Where the air is full of sunshine and the flag is full of stars.

Brentwood Slayings Awaken Nation to Domestic Violence

Out of the tragedy that surrounds the O.J. Simpson charges, something good may emerge.

Just as the Clarence Thomas/ Anita Hill hearings made us much more sensitive to the problems of sexual harassment, so the deaths of two people who may have been killed by a celebrity can awaken us to the problems of domestic violence.

The problem is much more widespread than most of us knew.

In Sangamon County, Ill., where Springfield, the state capital, is located, 1,161 orders of protection involving domestic situations were issued by the courts last year, according to an excellent article on the problem by Elizabeth Bettendorf in the State Journal-Register of that city.

Statewide there were 42,964 orders. And a much higher number of cases of spousal abuse never reached the courts.

The deaths of two people who may have been killed by a celebrity can awaken us to the problems of domestic violence.

Years ago a respected attorney startled me in a conversation when he said, "You have to beat up your wife once in a while to keep her respect." When I related this to a friend, he told me of an engineer who told him that he occasionally batters his wife "to maintain authority in the home." I am sure neither of these cases reached the courts.

The Nicole Simpson case made headlines and riveted the nation to the O.J. Simpson car surveillance. But when Jennifer Florence of Springfield, Ill., a 31-year-old secretary and mother of three, was killed – and there have been thousands like her – it did not register on the national television screen.

What can be done? Let me suggest four steps:

1. Bring the problem out into the open. If you or a friend or a relative are involved in an abuse situation (almost always men attacking women or abuse of children), don't hide it. Hidden problems tend to grow. Physical abuse within a domestic situation is not normal behavior.

2. Men and women brought up in homes where there has been physical abuse of spouses or children are likely to abuse their spouses and/or children. If that was your experience, you may need professional help.

3. Don't abuse your children. It is conduct they are likely to pass on to their children.

4. If you are in a home situation where you are either abused or are the abuser, seek help. Inquire from a social agency or a religious leader or your physician or the police where you can go for help. You must protect yourself and others.

5. Women should find the phone number and address of a center for abused spouses where they can go if violence erupts: In an emergency, call that center if you do not have transportation.

6. Judges need to become more sensitive on these matters. Part of the crime bill that may emerge from Congress is a Violence Against Women provision that Sen. Joe Biden, D-Del., is the chief sponsor of and I am cosponsoring. It includes a provision I inserted to offer sensitivity training for the judges of the nation, who are overwhelmingly male and often not as understanding of domestic abuse cases (as well as rape and other problems women have) as they should be.

Finally, there are centers for women who face these special problems. They need support from government agencies, but almost all of them are also dependent on charitable contributions. All of us can help.

Little Company Physicians Form Group Practice

Five members of Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers' Medical Staff are pleased to announce that they have formed a group practice to provide more efficient, accessible care, while retaining close relationships to their patients.

The new affiliation, Midwest Primary Care, S.C., includes five long time members of Little Company's Internal Medicine and Family Practice Departments. By consolidating their individual practices, these five primary care physicians will enable their patients to benefit from centralized office management, billing services, insurance acceptance, and more, without affecting quality of care or their current patient population.

The five doctors, all board certified in their specialties, are Richard Farrell, M.D., Internal Medicine, Mary Lynn Sullivan, M.D., Internal Medicine, Michael Thomas, D.O., Internal Medicine, John Hurley, M.D., Family Practice, and Thomas Daum, M.D., Family Practice. All the physicians will continue to practice out of their current offices and retain their current office phone numbers. The physicians will provide coverage for their partners during vacations, etc., but will otherwise still see their current patients.

Dr. Thomas Daum, who is heading Midwest Primary Care, S.C., said the new arrangement, "all of us are very excited by this affiliation. As health care reform continues to move towards managed care, many independent physicians will either be forced to join large HMOs or PPOs, or face increasing regulatory problems implicit in running their own practices. By forming this group, my partners and I will be able to retain our autonomy and continue to see our own patients while avoiding the administrative burdens of operating an independent practice. It's really the best of both worlds," Dr. Daum said.

warmly welcomed by the people here. It was great."

He also said "This is a church that is a real caring church. I'd like to build on the foundation here."

Pastor Breneman moved to Oak Lawn from his former ministry at Gary Memorial United Methodist Church in Wheaton, Illinois. He received his appointment from Bishop Sheldon Duecker.

GETTING IT TOGETHER

By Pene

I am a 29 year old female who will soon be married to a good young man. The only problem I have is that he was disloyal to me in the past. (We dated for 6 yrs, then one night he went out with someone else), that really hurt me and caused us to break up for a few months. He admitted to his wrong doing, apologized and has made up for it in other ways. My problem is that I'm scared that he'll get bored with me after we're married this month and may become disloyal again. I want to trust him fully but society says, "once a dog, always a dog." Can you enlighten me? Signed in love, but SCARED.

Dear Scared: Trust takes a very long time to build between two people, and only a matter of seconds to destroy. Once that trust is broken it is only natural, the one hurt becomes afraid to trust again. Albeit, if you go through your life never trusting again, you may miss out on many enjoyments. Please do not build a wall around your trust in him, you say he is a good man, so if you both really love each other, trust will come again. Something to give thought to, many individuals prior to their wedding day get doubts, so one night they seek different companionship (which is just that, one night, and usually with many regrets). We call it reassurance, even though that does sound kind-of cold, but it can chase those doubts away. Plus, a very good woman help chase those doubts away. Don't depend on what society says, depend on your true inner feelings. At this point what do you feel? Is your love and his that strong to mend the breaks in your trust, and rebuild again?

My son is in his early thirties he's never been married, and has a prospering career. He is dating a wonderful lady. Recently, he told me. the young lady has no desire to marry, even though she does love him very much (her career is more important at this time) she recently told him, she would like to have his baby now, but marriage is out of the question. I am concerned that he may go for this arrangement as he loves her very much. I need to mention also, they wouldn't live together. Signed Concerned.

Dear Concerned: First I'll address the age factor, since both are of age, and two consenting adults. it is difficult to say much. Now on the other hand, having a baby, just because you want a baby is difficult to deal with, for a baby needs love, bonding with parents. Another thought, a baby is a wonderful gift, once here many mothers decide to continue their career. There is no reason why a mother can not continue working if she so desires.

The next issues would concern the families beliefs. If your son is strong on religious beliefs how is he going to feel later. What are the family values of your son and the young lady? Will both of them be able to deal with this type of arrangement? For the pressures may be many from both sides of the family. But again, this choice will be made between two of age consenting adults. There is not much you can do, but give them your love, if this decision is made by your son, to have a baby with this girl.

Write your questions to me today, lets see what help is available to you, or if a better understanding can be achieved.

The Religious Right

Religious freedom our right

by Dolores Woods

The Religious Right — Sounds disastrous but don't believe it. It's the new buzz word now being used by the far left to give a bad connotation to conservatives in the Republican Party who also happen to be Christian. They are attempting to make the word Christian a negative.

It's amazing how poorly Christians are being treated in this day and age. Leftists would have you to believe Christians are attempting to take over the country and force morals on the entire population, not that this country needs morals. Let's tear down the crosses, and stop that terrible example set by our forefathers. Who were those silly men anyway? What good did they do? Why, they never proposed a government handout, foreign aid, gun control, subsidies, post office scandals, or any of that wonderful pork barrel that has made America so great lately.

Those same ultra leftists who are so concerned about the Christian Right, had no comment when the City of San Jose, California announced that $500,000 of tax payer dollars were being spent to erect a statue dedicated to the pagan god, Quetzacoatl, who demanded human sacrifices. They actually are planning to have the school children of San Jose celebrate by circling the statue with flowers in a ceremony sanctioned by the school and State! What is the argument allowing this outrage—it's just a form of art. Couldn't we say that the "Cross" is a form of art and use that to justify its placement on public property? Sure, but only if it's displayed in a vat of urine!

This is serious and all tics in. There is a correlation between how Christians are being portrayed and the loss of individual rights through the legal system. Namely, the new law prohibiting the picketing outside of abortion clinics. I for one, wouldn't picket and don't agree with the method but picketing has been a part of the American landscape for over one hundred years, why stop these people? What about the renegades going through Chicago shutting down job sites because they want the jobs? They are getting away with it, why?

But this is one outrage I wouldn't hold anyone responsible for except the people who allow it. It's that simple. I don't care if you are a member of a Catholic Church, Methodist, Baptist, or Evangelical, you are the ones who should be outraged. It's going to continue and even get worse, so why not stand up now or forever hold your peace.

Crafters Paradise Crafter's Corner

By Rich Techman

Southwest suburban crafters now have a new outlet where they can display and sell their individual work while customers can purchase unique crafts and gifts at Crafter's Paradise located in Justice Square at the corner of Roberts Road and 79th Street.

Susan Khattab, owner of Crafter's Paradise said, "I, myself, have been in it (crafts) for a year. I like all handmade items."

"I don't have a favorite," she added. "I just like it all."

Susan said the main thing about the products available at her store are that they are hand-made quality crafts. She said crafters from throughout the area can, for a small price, purchase space in her store. From handmade wooden lamps, to educational decorations or jewelry, her store has it all.

She also cited personalized shirts, vest and jackets as well as Europeans style headbands, barrettes and planters as merchandise available for the right, satisfied customer.

She said space available for displays is "unlimited" though within reason. She said the products at her store out perform and outlast commercially produced competitive products because the hand-made, custom quality of these goods is superior to assembly line material.

"I'm in search of finding," Susan said, "quality crafters. I want unique, quality handmade craft items."

A free craft pick-up service, offered by Susan's store, allows crafters to get their products on the shelf without ever leaving the house.

She said the products at her store are geared toward home decoration but added her products have plenty of practical purposes.

One example of a very practical item according to Susan is the bachelor ironing board at the front of her store. She said this one, handmade item, serves three practical purposes.

She said the first purpose is the most obvious. It serves as an ironing board. She also said its second purpose is that of a step stool and its third purpose is that of a seat.

Susan said this one item serves all three purposes and when closed takes up very little space. Workmanship, better style and unique design earmark all of the products at Crafter's Paradise.

She said special orders, within reason, are always welcome but added some products, such as lamps and stuffed dolls, have limited variations. Color coordination is always a likely alternative.

FACTS & FIGURES

(NAPS)—A recent survey of 11 major cities around the world revealed that prices for many popular items are lowest in Hong Kong.

Fifteen items, from shirts and shoes to CD players, were compared by the London-based Economist Intelligence Unit (EIU) and the results showed that Hong Kong prices are 22 percent below the average price for the full group of goods, the lowest average prices around.

Shopping, along with dining, outdoor activities and the cultural experience, is just one of the reasons visitors flock to Hong Kong making it the most popular Asian destination for Americans. QUICK QUIZ

Test Your Investment IQ

(NAPS)—Professional investors say there are three investment principles which can help you become well off. Can you name one? Do you know which is the hardest to follow? For how long do you have to stick to them for them to work? Turn this article upside down for the answers that may prove profitable to you.

Answers

According to the experts at the National Association of Investors Corporation, which offers investment education for individual investors and investment clubs, the three principles are:

1. Invest a set sum of money monthly. It doesn't have to be large.

2. Reinvest your earnings.

3. Learn to pick stocks likely to be worth more in five years. The experts say the last of these may seem the hardest, but more people have trouble with the first two. It takes about 10 to 20 years, they add, to get the greatest benefit from this system.

Paramount Arts Centre anounces new season

The Paramount Arts Centre is pleased to announce a fun-filled season of comedy, music and drama as well as holiday, family and cross-cultural shows for 1994-95!

Comedians are always an audience favorite at the Paramount. Starting off the year with a laugh is comedian George Wallace, Oct. 8 at 8 p.m. Star of television, movies and stand-up comedy, Wallace finds humor at every turn. November 5 at 8 p.m., Mark Russell, one of America's best loved political comedians shares his thoughts on November's elections. Then, to brighten up the January blahs, is the Second City's rip-roaring comedy show that will knock you out of your seat January 21 at 8 p.m.!

1994-95 also features fun - filled musicals. February 24 at 8 p.m., experience the timeless spirit of Cole Porter's classic, "Anything Goes!" The history making score features such favorites as "You're the Top" and "I Get a Kick Out of You." Later, that mystical, magical kingdom with its idealist King Authur and legendary Knights of the Round Table, return to vivid life March 24 at 8 p.m. with Lerner and Loewes' famed musical "Camelot." Finally, May 13 at 8 p.m. "Radio Days" will commemorate the 50th anniversary of the golden age of radio with the music of Tommy Dorsey, Glenn Miller and more!

The coming season also boasts some of the world's most talented artists in our cross-cultural offerings. With more than 30 albums to their credit, Los Folkloristas is one of the most accomplished performers of Mexican folk music. The seven member ensemble plays over 100 instruments on Sept. 25 at 3 p.m. Direct from South Africa, Mahlathini and the incredible style, Feb. 11 at 8 p.m., the sheer power of the drums will fill the hall when the spectacular Drummers of Burundi take the stage in a dramatic, moving performance.

Many other musicians will grace the Paramount stage in the coming season. January 28, at 8 p.m., Leon Redbone is "getting to know you" with his haunting voice and undenible authenticity. Then, direct from New Orleans the Preservation Hall Jazz Band will raise the roof February 5 at 3 p.m.

Subscription tickets (tickets for 5 or more shows) go on sale June 4. Single show tickets will be available July 15. For ticket information, call the box office at (708)896-6666. For best seats order early!

GOLF TIPS

Chipping

By Bob Murphy

(NAPS)—Bob Murphy, five-time winner on the PGA tour and the 1993 Sr. PGA Rookie of the Year, offers golf tips to amateurs and professionals alike. Murphy, and the makers of Just For Men Shampoo-In Haircolor, the world leader in haircoloring, believe in enhancement whether it's your golf game or personal appearance.

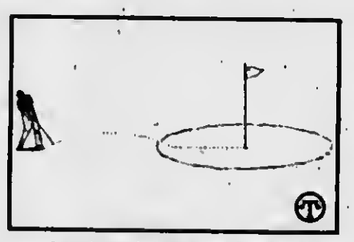
Today's Tip

One key thought around the greens—USE THE LEAST LOFT! Try and move away from the sand wedge/pitching wedge mentality. You want the ball to carry the fringe—in most circumstances—and roll to the hole.



1. Choose the club that you know will land the ball on the green the quickest because it's easier to control the way a ball rolls than the way it flies in the air.
2. Practice a shorter swing of the club and visualize the ball rolling to the hole, very similar to a putting stroke.
3. Try your 7, 8 and 9 iron! You will roll it with more success.

Beverly Theatre needs directors

The Beverly Theatre Guild needs Directors, Musical Directors and Choreographers and Lighting Designers for the 1994-95 Theatre Season. The season will include a variety of challenging and exciting productions opening with a special Halloween presentation of the suspenseful comedy, "The Canterville Ghost" by Time Kelly to be presented October 28,29, 30, 1994. Those interested should send letters of interest or resumes as soon as possible, interviewing will take place on July 25 & 26. Please phone (312) 238-0742.

Pheasant Run Theatre Announces Auditions

Pheasant Run Theatre announces auditions for its' upcoming production of Rodgers and Hammersteins' Oklahoma. Director Diana L. Martinez is seeking to cast 21 actors/dancers/singers, 11 male and 10 female, to portray this strong ensemble. Dancers are encouraged to audition for the Dream Ballet.

Those auditioning should prepare one ballad, preferably a selection from the score of Oklahoma. An accompanist will be provided. Please have sheet music prepared in the key you will be singing. On site transpositions will not be done. Dance auditions will be held at first callbacks. Only performers over age 18 please.

All roles are open, salaried and non-equity. Rehearsals begin August 8, 1994. Performances run Thursdays - Sundays, beginning October 14, 1994 and closing March 19, 1995

"America's most beautiful dinner theatre"

By Annette Dixon

Families throughout the suburbs have experienced theatre but until you visit what the Klopcic Family, owners of The Fireside in Ft Atkinson, Wisconsin have in the way of a dinner theatre package then you really haven't seen theatre.

Dinner-theatre packages at The Fireside include theatre and dinner plus a playhouse that has personal hospitality.

In the dining area an emissary from the Klopcic Family greets everyone and spends several minutes conversing with the group. In the theatre John Erickson, house manager, also does the same. John mentioned that the theatre seats approximately 652. He has a full time job as a teacher and claims he's the only doctor in the house. John has been with the Klopcic Family at The Fireside for 16 years.

For every change of theatre presentation there is a change of menu. "My Fair Lady" is the current play until July 28th through October 2nd Cole Porter's "Anything Goes" will be presented.

The menu will include Shrimp Rockerfeller, Roast Loin of pork, Peach Melba Fantasia. Theres also a weekend dining menu.

Within an air of entertainment which includes a 40 foot stone fireplace, winding stream and fountains and the "Shower of Stars", floor to ceiling glass etchings, there are banquet rooms, elegant dining areas, casual area and a 2nd floor dining room. Capacity for the dining area is 1162.

Gift shops are a must. You may chose from unique gifts to owning a snow village, Dicken's Village, precious moments or choosing collectiveables including jewelery. They have holiday and home decor items, children's and men's clothing, and a bake shop. The Fireside is not as large as Pheasant Run but certainly different.

I was astounded by the superb costing for "My Fair Lady".

Edward Flesch, a resident Artistic Director spends many hours auditioning for the season. He first interviews and auditions at Nola Rehearsal Studios on West 54th St. in New York and then in Chicago.

For example Howard Pinhasik, was courtesy of Actor's Equity Assoc.; he played Professor Henry Higgins and was a natural. Jeanne Larrison, Eliza Doolittle was no "slouch". She was in excellent form. Her voice was in perfect pitch and her demure manner was not contrite but again natural. Both leading roles were presented by experienced actors who made the play appear refreshing.

Ed Flesch is bringing in Tony Stevins for choreographing and directing "Anything Goes". Ed Flesch knows his job and is not afraid to hire the best. He has a full staff and four members of the staff are hired as full time personnell. When I asked why I would remember his name, he modestly replied he was the director at the Wagon Wheel in Roshelle in the 60's & 70's.

Singleling out people could be a mistake because we all know that it takes team work to be successful. Teamwork is just what Dick and Betty Klopcic have with their own family and their theatre family.

Group tickets and individual tickets are available by calling toll free in WI. 1-800-477-9505 or 1-414-563-9505.

The Fireside is completely handicap accessible with handicap bathrooms. And as the emcee announced, sit back, relax and enjoy the performance and we ask God to bless each and everyone and let us pray for your safe journey home.

DNA to Dinosaurs

Herrerasaurus

One of the oldest known dinosaurs, Herrerasaurus gives us a look at dinosaurs just after they burst on the scene about 225 million years ago. Herrerasaurus was discovered in 1961 by Victorino Herrera on his property in Argentina's remote Ischigualasto badlands. Paleontologist O.A. Reig identified them as belonging to an unknown, very early dinosaur that he named for Herrera. But the new dinosaur's full story remained a secret until 1988, when American and Argentinian paleontologists found a complete Herrerasaurus skull and many more bones. The fossil bones were shipped back to Field Museum where preparators worked for months to free them from embedding rock. After cleaning and repairing the fossil bones, an exact replica (pictured here) was made and the original bones were returned to Argentina. DNA to Dinosaurs, a $4 million permanent exhibit, offers a comprehensive view of the dynamics and history of life on Earth from its beginning some three and a half billion years ago through the age of dinosaurs. Under construction for four years, the exhibit stretches over 16,000 square feet of space in the Arthur Rubloff Halls of Life Over Time.

FAT BURNING DIET COFFEE?

By Annette Dixon

Burn Fat Calories!
Stimulate Metabolism!
Curb Cravings!
Increase Energy!
Balance Blood Sugar!

Sound to good to be true? Not according to local Manufacturer's Representative, Shelda Lockwood of Oak Lawn, IL, she featured a "FAT BURNING COFFEE·TRIM™ COFFEE" at the 1994 National Restaurant Association Restaurant Hotel-Motel Show recently held at McCormick Place, Chicago, IL. Ms. Lockwood states that Coffee·Trim™ is "A remarkable new thermogenic formula that has been scientifically designed to increase your body's metabolic rate allowing your body to burn more calories and more stored fat. Coffee·Trim provides the taste of premium Colombian coffee combined with the ingredients most effective to help you lose weight by triggering your body's weight control mechanisms. And, at the same time, Coffee·Trim provides your body with essential chelated minerals and vitamins to help improve your health."

The chelated chromium in Coffee·Trim is the original formulation of niacin bound chromium, Chromium Chelavite®. Chromium Chelavite is more readily absorbed and retained than any other chromium on the market. So in Coffee·Trim you will benefit from how Chromium affects your energy level, blood sugar metabolism, stress-coping ability, weight-control mechanism, muscle and fitness potential, cholesterol level, and heart health. And you can be assured that when you drink Coffee·Trim you will retain and absorb the Chromium Chelavite that you need to achieve these many benefits.

Properly balanced intake of proteins, fats, carbohydrates, vitamins, minerals, and water creates optimal nutrition. Just ingesting these nutrients is not enough. Nutrients must be readily absorbable and bioavailable or they are nothing more than waste material. Only bioavailable minerals enter and enhance the body's metabolic processes and contribute to the maintenance and production of healthy tissue.

Your immune system, energy production, hormone system, vitamin production, blood production, enzyme systems, and reproduction abilities all utilize minerals. Research is showing that imbalances or deficiencies in trace mineral nutrition can affect these systems.

Minerals perform a variety of essential functions and are required required components of enzyme systems which catalyze the metabolism of proteins, carbohydrates, and lipids. Certain minerals regulate fluid and electrolyte balance while others are needed for proper nerve and muscle performance. Vitamins and other substances require minerals to help regulate the body's metabolic systems. Minerals are found in foods but in limited amounts. To obtain daily mineral requirements diets must contain a wide variety of foods. Unfortunately, much of the mineral content in our food supply is poorly absorbed and dietary surveys show that most people do not consume and adequate amount of minerals from food. Supplementation is often recommended.

The form of a mineral supplement is the key factor that determines how well the body absorbs and utilizes the mineral. One form may be absorbed into the body tissues while another form is eliminated. Most minerals found in foods are chelated with the amino acids found in the food's protein. The body metabolizes both the mineral and the amino acids. Independent studies at major universities show that chelated minerals have superior bioavailability, superior tolerance and higher nutrient density.

ADVERTISE HERE

Coffee·Trim contains these chelated minerals.

There are three major properties to be concerned with when choosing a supplement:

Absorption--Absorption measures how well the supplement is transferred from the GI (gastrointestinal) tract into the blood or lymph system.

Bioavailability--Bioavailability measures how well the body can utilize the mineral.

Bioactivity--Where does the body utilize the mineral. Coffee·Trim's Chromium Chelavite ends up in the pancreas where GTF, Glucose Tolerance Factor, is manufactured. Picolinic Chromium ends up in the liver and can cause cause anemia.

The chelated minerals in Coffee·Trim meet these three requirements.

A chelate is a molecule in which the mineral is chemically bonded to another substance to form a ring or cage-like structure. When minerals such as chromium, zinc, manganese, magnesium, copper, iron, cobalt, and others become surrounded by and bonded to amino acids, in a stable form, it is referred to as chelation.

A nutritionally functional chelate must be strong enough to resist destruction in the gastrointestinal system, yet allow its mineral content to be released for use inside the body. At present, this unique type of chelate can only be prepared in one way, and that manufacturing method is patented by the manufacturer of Coffee·Trim's chelated minerals.

The body is very efficient at absorbing amino acids. In a priority list of nutritional substances crossing the intestinal wall after digestions, amino acids rank highly. 90% of all amino acids are absorbed. Chelating minerals to amino acids allows them to be smuggled in the transport process across the intestinal wall. Coffee·Trim's chelated minerals are made to fit the definition of chelation most like the body's own method. They are buffered, have a low molecular weight, are neutral and natural. The chelates are buffered to remain intact and durable throughout digestion. The manufacturer of these chelated minerals has accumulated analytical laboratory data and results for over 15 years while receiving more than 35 patents.

Coffee·Trim is packaged in a 90 serving can, sealed for freshness and topped with a resealable plastic lid, retail priced at $32.95 per can (less than 37¢ a serving). Inside you will find a scoop, pre-measured for one generous serving. Coffee·Trim is also available in a box containing 60 single servings, perfect for those on the go, retail priced at $35.95 (60¢ per serving). Coffee·Trim available in single cans or single cartons at the retail price. Or in cases of four at distinct saving for the wholesale distributor.

To order Coffee·Trim, send a check or money order to Shellee, Ltd., 10804 S. Lamon, Oak Lawn, IL 60453, (708) 425-4764. To order by Visa or Master Card, call 1-800-765-4852, I.D. #33119. Add $4.00 for Shipping & Handling to the above prices and 1% Illinois Food Tax.

95th Street Construction Jack Hammer Report

By Rick Techman

The Melvina Avenue to Western Avenue street rebuilding contract was officially awarded and executed July 14. Bituminous patching will start at Central in the eastbound lanes according to the contractor at the end of the month.

Traffic signal work, patching and storm sewer placement highlights the work to be done form Melvina Avenue to Western Avenue by August.

Completion of all curb work, sidewalk replacement at handicap areas, and the median removal at Central Avenue should be done on the LaGrange Road to Central Avenue project by the first week in August

Cold milling started the last week of July near LaGrange Road. Bituminous paving should begin by August 1.

According to an Illinois Department of Transportation report, "Throughout the project and on a daily basis there will be lane closures for the various operations.

"These closures are not limited to the same area each day. Parking lanes will be used for through lanes when needed, but there will always be parking available on the other side of the street at any given location."

It is the objective of I.D.O.T. officials to see to the completion of the entire project with the least interference to the public and the merchants along 95th Street according to the report. It also said I.D.O.T. officials strive for the completion of this project in a safe and timely manner.

Local business leaders appointed to Hospital's Governing Council

Two south suburban business leaders were recently appointed to serve on the EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center's governing council for a three-year term each.

Kenneth J. Ozinga, chairman and president of First National Bank of Evergreen Park, and William K. Hawkinson, president of Hawkinson Ford in Oak Lawn, filled two seats of council members whose terms had expired. The 13-member governing council serves as an advisory board to EHS Christ Hospital, Oak Lawn.

Ozinga sits on the American Institute of Banking National Board of Directors and the Center for Public Justice in Washington, and serves as a trustee for Calvin College in Grand Rapids, Mich. He is also an elder of the Christ Church of Oak Brook. He and his wife Judy, and their 4 children live in Palos Heights.

Hawkinson is treasurer of the Chicago Ford Dealers Advertising Fund, secretary of the Chicago Metropolitan Ford Dealer's Association and is the past chairman of the Finance and Insurance Committee of the Ford National Dealer Council. He and his wife, Rickie, and their three children live in Oak Lawn.

Local resident's book placed in White House family library

P.S./WASHINGTON

a weekly column by U.S. Senator Paul Simon of Illinois

Is Anything Good Happening in America?

At a town meeting in Aurora, Ill., a young man stood up and said he was tired of reading so many negative things about what is happening in our nation. "Isn't there something positive happening that should make us feel good about our country?"

His point is well taken.

Bad news makes the news. Good news ordinarily does not.

If Tony Perry of Kankakee, Ill., killed someone, it would have made at least a minor news item throughout the Chicago area.

But instead of shooting someone, Tony Perry learned about severe housing problems some of the disabled and elderly have in the Kankakee area. He is in the real estate business, so he got his fellow realtors together and they created a "Christmas in April" plan.

Their idea: they would take some houses owned by either the disabled or elderly that are badly in need of repair, but whose occupants could not afford to fix them and improve them.

They got a business to be the sponsor for $1,000 for each house for building supplies. Then they asked for volunteers for one Saturday, to pound nails, to put up wallboard and do other things.

The unions led in volunteering.

That first year, three homes were fixed. This past April they fixed 54 homes. The hundreds of workers who turned out feel good about themselves and their community. And neighborhoods that were starting to go downhill suddenly started to improve.

I visited two of the homes. What a marvelous experience. And how proud Tony Perry and the people of the Kankakee area should be about what they have done!

Is anything good happening in America? You bet!

Or let me give you another illustration.

Can you believe promises presidential candidates make during a campaign? I know your answer: of course not.

But four studies recently have been completed on seven presidents and they found that, to an amazing degree, the presidents kept the promises they made as candidates. We all know George Bush's "read my lips" pledge that he broke. But how many of us know that he kept virtually every other pledge that he made? And the same is true of six other presidents studied of both political parties.

We hear the bad news so much that we believe that it is reality.

If you want to learn more about this, read the book, Out of Order, by Thomas Patterson.

We hear the bad news so much that we believe that it is reality.

It is part of reality.

Fortunately, there is much more to reality, and so much that is good.

Beverly Theatre Guild

Last December, the Beverly Theatre Guild presented the original holiday production, "Christmas By Remote Control", which featured traditional Christmas songs and a story for the whole family. The show was presented at the Beverly Art Center, 2153 W. 111th Street. Following the production a select number of songs were taken from the show and performed by cast members at five area nursing/retirement homes. It was such a rewarding experience that a group of talented B.T.G. members and members in training have put together "That's Entertainment", a forty minute show of fifteen musical numbers form the 30's, 40's, and 50's. The show will be presented Aug. 12, 13 & 14 at the following locations, on Aug. 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the Washington Jane Smith Home, 2340 W. 113th PL. Chicago, on Aug. 13 at 1:45 p.m. at the Bridgeview Health Care Center, at 2:45 p.m. at Moraine Court, 8080 S. Harlem, Bridgeview, at 4:15, at The Americana, 7850 W. College Dr., Palos, and 6:30 p.m. at Hines V.A. Hospital, Roosevelt Rd. & 5th Ave., Hines, IL., and on Aug. 14th at 2 p.m., at Fairhaven, 10602 Southwest Highway, Chicago Ridge, at 3 p.m., at Lexington, 10300 S.W. Highway, Chicago Ridge, and finishing at 4:15 p.m., at Sunset House, 5701 W. 79th St., Burbank.

It's a show, that truly comes form the heart and the group is happy to give up some of their vacation time to perform for these sometimes forgotten people. The group is also looking for donations from local florist's, so that each resident will be presented with a flower form a cast member, during the performance. Interested parties should call Ed Fudacz at 708-839-6862. The talented cast includes, Fran Carnivele, Justice, Mike Doody, East Hazel Crest, Tom Fagan, Bluc Island, Dave Franklin, Palos Hts., Susie Giampaolo, Burbank, Julie Gurrister, Oak Lawn, Melanie Herman, Hickory Hills who also is the artistic coordinator, Jim Seeburg, Chicago, Ginnie Thoele, Palos Hts., Laurie Videka, Hickory Hills, Wayne Wendell, Chicago, Julie Zebleckis, Justice, Bob Zett, Evergreen Pk., and Producer, Ed Fudacz, Justice.

GETTING IT TOGETHER

By Pene

I am 12 years old, my mom and I use to be able to do things together, even going to Church every Sunday together. But recently mom has started drinking, all the time and we don't go to church together or even talk much any more. What did I do wrong?

You mother needs you more then ever right now. she must be going through some difficult times. Try to set down and talk with mom. If that doesn't work, maybe you can talk to your minister, and get help through him/her. I know it must be hard for a little lady to understand a grown-ups world. For you see, most people drink to escape, it may be reality, it maybe pressures of life. What ever the problem, you and your mom must talk, and then realize no problem is so big or so bad, it can not be figured out. Also, they have Alon meetings you can go to, that will help you understand what mom may be going through, and mom can go to AA meetings, she will see that many others have problems, and they can all be worked out. Here is the phone number for the main headquarters of AA 312-346-1475, they can tell you where the nearest meeting is being held, which there is one every day and nearly everyhour, also, they can tell you where the Alon meetings are held. Give mom lots of reassurance, that you love her and are there for her.

But most of all, young lady take the idea out of your head that you did something wrong.

I recently had been offered a wonderful job, and I've accepted and started to work. However, soon after I started working, the others in the office order fish almost everyday for lunch. I have anaphylaxis, which is a severe and frightening allergic response to fish. The type I have is life threatening, and could cause me to go into shock. I realize many people do not understand how threatening this may be to me, just to smell the fish, and being in the same room. I am concerned about contacting my Union Representative and asking to be placed in a different office or being transferred to a different location altogether. I have waited so long for this position, I don't want to lose it.

You are right, I checked with a local medical authority, and as you say some symptoms of this type of anaphylaxis is life threatening. I would contact my union representative, possibly changing your office location where you are not near the fish smell could be arranged. Your allergic reaction is very rare, and the only solution is for you not to be near the smell. The company can not fire you for your condition, and if that were to be considered you would have a law suit, I am sure the company would much rather see their company doctor and make arrangements for you, so that you can keep your job. After all, if you had a physical and passed everything and were hired, the company must have wanted your talents also.

But most of all talk to your Union Representative.

Local resident is "Teacher of the Year"

Dr. Mike Kisicki, an Oak Lawn resident, has been named the "Teacher of the Year" at St. Rita High School of Chicago.

Dr. Kisicki is currently the Vice-Principal of Activities at the south side school. In his tenure, he has seen St. Rita's extracurricular program rise to 55 clubs, the largest club system in Chicago high school school system.

It is the eleventh time Dr. Kisicki has won the award in his 19 years at St. Rita.

Previously, Dr. Kisicki has served the school as Assistant Principal, Director of Professional Development, Vice-President of Disciple, Athletic Director, and as an English and reading teacher and head cross country coach.

While Athletic Director, Dr. Kisicki oversaw St. Rita's state football championship (1978) and as a coach, led the school's runners to their first three IHSA Regional victories in history (1978-79-80).

More recently, he developed the school's current programs in school discipline, public relations, and staff development. He holds degrees from Lewis University, the University of Arizona, and Loyola University in Educational administration.

Dr. Kisicki has been an Oak Lawn resident since 1991.

Athletes, Doctors Endorse Engineered Food

Derek Goodman, who plans to become a national competitor in bodybuilding, before and after he used MET-Rx, a new high-tech engineered food.

NEWS OF FOOD

(NAPS)—"Anyone who does not have an ideal metabolism, because of genetics or age, would greatly benefit from the daily intake of a new engineered food."

—David Speer, M.D., Alabama.

"Since I started using this new high-tech engineered food I've lost body fat, gained muscle, increased my strength and gained energy."

—Bill Bates, Defensive Back for the World Champion Dallas Cowboys.

"To get maximum strength and energy, I used it during the entire season—right up to the Super Bowl. It's the reason I felt so strong while playing the Buffalo Bills."

—Daryl "The Moose" Johnson, All-Pro Fullback for the Dallas Cowboys.

What these three people are talking about, and what celebrities from Sylvester Stallone to Cher have raved about is an "engineered" food called MET-Rx.

It was created by Dr. A. Scott Connelly, a California physician who has studied human nutrition for 21 years and has undergone medical training at some of the nation's most prestigious universities. He is presently involved in intensive research with a number of other scientists who are studying how proper nutrient consumption can improve health, help boost the immune system, prevent obesity and help build muscle and strength. The product, he says, can help men and women lose weight, gain muscle or both, when combined with a strength training exercise plan.

MET-Rx provides all the essential nutrients a body needs in a special preparation designed to give you time-released energy that lasts for hours with only 260 calories a serving.

Connelly, a critical care specialist and leader in biomechanics focusing on nutrition, originated this high-tech food for intensive-care patients, then adapted it over the last six years through clinical experiments involving healthy subjects.

Costa Rica: Lush paradise just over two hours from Miami

By Anita Anderson

If someone asked me why did you select Costa Rica as a vacation spot I would be able to come up with several answers.

The small, friendly country just about two hours flight from Miami is a lush, green, tropical country that's also a democracy with no army, has some of the best sand beaches around, an ocean, great fishing, good food, great hotels in all budget categories at prices that Mexico charged many years ago before it became choked with tourists and all of the other annoying things that too much tourism can bring, especially high prices and congestion.

I really didn't know what to expect of Costa Rica and had heard about what a good spot it was for deep sea fishing and diving since mutual friends have been there and shared the information.

What surprised me is that around San Jose, the nation's capital is a fairly large contingent of retired Americans who know our dollar goes farther and want to spend part of the year in relative safety in a beautiful atmosphere. Call it the worst "best kept" secret, and most people speak English.

Costa Rica has been very generous with their group of retirees in benefits and special allowances just so they'll settle there and bring along the Yankee dollar.

The government is also extremely ecologically-minded and in one case we noted before we started an hour hike through the Santa Elena Reserve Park in Monteverde, only 100 hikers are allowed at one time in the park.

It's difficult these days to find a travel destination, especially for those who want something different and not just another destination in the Caribbean.

Costa Rica might be your cup of tea if you like to feel safe and that your are getting full value for your dollar and people are friendly.

Our travels took us over a period of seven days which began at Juan Santamaria International Airport in San Jose. Customs was no problem.

We had flown from Miami on Lacsa Airline, the national airline of Costa Rica and it was a five-star service even in economy where we sat. Lunch, by the way, was a five-course meal and the airline had a five-star beverage service the even included Napoleon Brandy.

If, through your travel agent you might select one of the many resorts, for example, the Fiesta Hotel in Puntarenas, you can make arrangements ahead of time and they will pick you up at the airport for the two-hour ride to the hotel which is on the ocean and a five-star organization at budget prices. The Fiesta can also arrange day trips; for example, to see the volcano in Arena or arrange diving trips an hour by boat or deep sea fishing.

Our first stop on our Costa Rica adventure was the Hotel Herradura which is about a ten-minute cab drive to the heart of San Jose. The hotel which is a five-star boasts several neon-lit Jacuzzis next to its three other swimming pools at the mountain range base the property sits on. Its restaurants are also wonderful. For example, one dinner of sea bass served grilled was about $11.

If you care to venture into town and don't want to pay a cab fare you can catch a bus in front and for 50 colonies each or about 35¢ you can have a speedy ride (the drivers love to go at top speeds) to town.

We tried this on our last night and went to a nearby shopping center owned by the Japanese to buy two bottles of Cafe Rica, a wonderful coffee liquor for about $5 which comes in a unique sack.

Hotel prices at Hotel Herradura which is rated as superior, as of June were $71 for a double room per person, not including a hotel tax of 14.33 percent.

As far as the city of San Jose itself, one or two days is all you need to sightsee. In the center of town in the Plaza is the Grand Hotel, one of the oldest in the city. Adjacent to the hotel is a network of vendors selling colorful native art, stuffed jungle birds, the unusual hammocks and t-shirts. The Grand, by the way, serves a great breakfast buffet for about $6 where you can sample the traditional Costa Rica beans and rice which is served at every meal, not to mention the fabulous fresh fruit evident on every buffet.

The national Museum of Art built in 1897 is also within steps of the area and is worth a visit.

When we headed out of the city on our way to the first stop late in the afternoon to Hotel Hacienda Liliposa near the Carrera Biological Reserve, another of the many "green rain forest" of Costa Rica we marveled at the countryside along Highway 10.

Rolling valleys, mountains and a peek quite frequently at colorful tropical toucans, one of the 30 or more species of hummingbirds or a red humped tanninger. We were in a bird lover's haven.

At the Liliposa we were greeted by Jaime Monero, hotel manager. The hotel is set in a park-like setting in the mountains, another bird watcher's dream come true. Each bungalow is furnished in a beautiful motif. Ours was done in bamboo and rattan and was very roomy. We were near the large pool adjacent to the open air bar and restaurant.

As a footnote the cast of "Columbus" stayed there for several months when they shot the movie and according to Montero were not the nicest guests. One night at 2 am actor Gerard Depardieu was in the kitchen raiding the refrigerator and was very rude.

"Some hotels in the area, smaller than us were not even paid for phone bills, rooms and food, but we were lucky, " noted Montero.

According to Juan, our guide, most people go to the rain forest and the coast on day rafting and diving trips which they can arrange in San Jose or the states.

And, there is a regular bus service from San Jose or for the more independent traveler you can rent a car.

Gas is about $1 a gallon but rentals are more expensive. For the first-time visitor and to make the trip more enjoyable I would advise using the services of a travel servic which would provide the transportation or,as in the case of the Fiesta Hotel, they would pick you up at the airport.

The next morning we headed for the Pacific Ocean and Jaco Beach. On the way throughout the lush country, Juan said all coffee beans are hand-picked. We could see for miles of small, green coffee plants on the hillside.

Juan said while at the Jaco Beach area we would visit the Carrera Biological Reserve which is a very important biological area with one of the last patches of forest, 41,000 acres in all left. It's also a favorite nesting spot for the scarlet macaw, a rare bird.

Jaco Beach turned out to be a small town on the Pacific and a favorite spot for surfers with some rooms, which are clean and located on the ocean for $10 a night.

In our case we opted for the Hotel Villa Teca, a beautiful place built on the side of a mountain with individual bungalows and run by a charming Italian gentleman and his family. Rooms in low season from April 16 to December 15 are $75 with a wonderful breakfast and in high season, December 16 to April 15, are $100.

On the way to our next stop which was Puntarenas and the Hotel Fiesta, we saw an alligator, at least 20 feet long lounging below on the river bank, hawks, woodcreepers, falcons, and red beaked hummingbirds, just to name a few.

Villa Techa Teca by the way is located in Quepos, a charming ocean-front town with other good hotels and good shopping. After a more than comfortable night and great breakfast on the balcony open-aired restaurant overlooking the mountains, we headed to the docks for a four-hour ride on the "La Mama de Tarzana" boat which has room for 65 people, which took us to the areas of remote beaches, breathtaking scenery, a great buffet and open bar not to mention the schools of dolphins which literally flew alongside our boat. We were told as long as the boat went at high speeds the dolphins would follow. If we went too slow the dolphins got bored and went elsewhere.

The ride cost about $37 and included the open bar and lunch not to mention the stop at a private beach for swimming.

The ride also circles around Manuel Antonio National Park where we walked for about one hour. It was unusual to have a national park sit right on the lap of the ocean.

With all of its natural surrounding beauty, Quepos could be a good focus point in planning a vacation.

What also was interesting was the fact that "strollers" could see white-faced monkeys romp about in their natural habitat, sloths, cotamondi's, iguanas and many species of tropical birds, too many to mention.

You can't get lost because there are well-marked foot paths, and three good beaches. What better way to see nature and still have time for lounging on the beach.

The weather, by the way, was great for early June. We were told to expect some rain but we only had a torrent of rain for a few hours on the evening we arrived in Costa Rica and sun followed the next day and remained for 6 days.

After the walk through the green jungle and four-hour boat ride, we headed toward Puntarenas, also near the ocean and the Fiesta Hotel. For people who like a tad of luxury at bargain prices, several neon lit pools, a casino, disco and a town nearby, Puntarenas, with about 50,000, this stop may be a good for honeymooners or divers who still want to live in a comfortable place but be able to take off for great diving and snorkeling.

The Fiesta is 15 minutes from Puntarenas and offers a shuttle bus and tours. The hotel has 304 rooms and honeymoon suites and an extending over the Pacific near the seafood restaurant.

This area is famous for its dozens of unique hummingbirds that feed off trays near the gift shop. You can gaze at the tiny creatures for hours, on more beautifully colored than the next as they feed near you by the droves.

The mountain suites at El Sapo are a retreat for those who need peace and quite in a serene, natural atmosphere. The handsome pine cabins all have balconies and the ones down the hill near the restaurant have fireplaces. Forget the phones and TVs. You can wait to get back to the states for that if you choose El Sapo which we were told means rare gold frog. Room rates start at $60 for a double to $70.

This area is also near a wonderful butterfly garden where rare butterflies are housed in screened-in facilities and borders the Monteverde Cloud Forest Perserve where we hiked for one hour and gazed at hummingbirds close up.

The Monteverede Cloud Forest Preserve has earned its fame as one of the most outstanding wildlife sanctuaries in the New World tropics.

Positioned atop the Continental Divide in western Costa Rica, the Preserve extends down both the Caribbean and Pacific slopes. The resultant combination of climatic and geographic factors create temperature and humidity gradients which change dramatically over relatively short distances.

All combined, these geographical and climatic factors give the Preserve a habitat diversity that supports over 100 species of mammals, more than 400 species of birds, over 120 species of amphibians and reptiles, an estimated 2,500 species of plants, and insects species probably numbering in the tens of thousands.

Outstanding wildlife include the endemic Golden Toad, Jaguar, Ocelot, Baird's tapir, Three-Watted Bellbird, Barenecked Umbrellabird and Resplendent Quetzal and more than 30 species of hummingbirds.

Later we left for a day-long trip to Arenal and the Hotel Observatorio to hopefully view the active Arenal volcano which sits one-half mile from the hotel's viewing platform.

We went through the back mountain roads. We could have taken a smoother ride but the scenery we say was worth the drive including forging two-foot-high streams that the van seemed to sail through. Everyone agreed it was a unique experience that we got to enjoy as we headed to the volcano.

It was dark when we pulled into the hotel owned by William Aspinall. There was a sense of excitement as we began to hear rumblings from the volcano. Sounds like the concord swooping through your backyard.

The cloud cover lifted and at about 11 PM a wondrous sight...red hot lava spilled out from the crater's top spiraling into the dark starlit sky. Spirals of hot red lava flowed down the side and large volcanic rocks crashed into the mountain base below.

"An experience and sight of a lifetime, worth the drive," everyone shouted.

Next day we hiked in the warm sun for 30 minutes through the jungle to the black, lava-covered mountain base of Arenal. Even then we heard the its rumblings. On April 28, 1991, Arenal exploded every hour and ten minutes through the night until noon.

Several scientists from the Smithsonian Institute make regular visits to Arenal which by now has its own seismograph to record the volcano's activity. According to Aspinall, "We are on the safe side," he said.

As for rates of Hotel Observatorio, high season, December 15 to April 15 averages $40 a double and in the "green" season, are slightly lower.

Rates for meals, all buffets, average $8.40, breakfast; $9.60, lunch; and $12 for dinner.

Your Guide To Fine Dining, Entertainment & Other Activities Around The Area!

Kids Kingdom only two hours by car

Imagination reigns supreme and interactive fun abounds for children of all ages in Kids Kingdom at The Bristol Renaissance Faire in Kenosha, Wisconsin.

Join the celebration and entertainment created especially for children. Participate in creative dynamics by actively performing in stories and plays, or march in the Children's Parade.

For adults there are Elizabethan Renaissance entertainment, horsemanship, food, and crafts.

Judith the Queene's Royal Storyteller and director of Kids Kingdom, has commanded the return of longtime favorites Mother Goose, a Pocket Ladye, Mistress Mary and her magical flower garden, Juggling Midshipmen, storytellers and a shipload of enchanting characters. These delightful characters provide supervised playtime and spur the imagination of Kids Kingdom's royal guests. New this year, the Canterbury Cove Puppetry Guild will delight and surprise the audience with child-like tales and antics.

The most royal guest of all, Queene Elizabeth I, makes her majestic arrival to Kids Kingdom each afternoon to conduct a knighting ceremony in which she recognizes the children individually for their special accomplishments.

The Queene and her courtiers honor the children as Lourdes and Ladyes of the realm and proclaim them keepers of the kingdom and carc givers of Mother Earth. Each child receives a written proclamation as a remembrance of their newly knighted status.

The charm of Kids Kingdom takes to the streets of the realm. The Green Children of Bristol extend an invitation to join them during the day as they play games, dance the Maypole or catch a quick nap in the shady village.

A wandering Mummer Troupe, The Bristol Brotherhood of Cuthburth (BBC), provides whimsical entertainment featuring a seven foot Green man, life-size hobby horses and wood sprites. Join the Traveling Arthurian Bard at the new storyteller's chair for ancient tales of chivalry and adventure.

For a paltry pence, there are more than a dozen games of strength and skill throughout the Faire. Several hand operated rides such as The Flying Nixies and Christopher Columbus' Ships further delight children of any age.

The Bristol Renaissance Faire runs June 25 through August 21, 1994. Admission for adults are $12.95, children 5 - 12 is $5.95. Children under 5 are free. All activities in Kids Kingdom are free with admission into the Faire.

Open Saturdays & Sundays only. June 25 - August 21, 1994. Hours 10:00 AM to 7:00 PM. Rain or shine.

Go directly west of I-94 on State Line Road, Kenosha, WI. From the north, Highway Q, exit #347. From the south, Russell Road, exit # 1.

Ticket prices include: Adults $12.95, children 5-12 $5.95, children under 5 free, senior citizens (55+) $11.95, student discount with I.D. $11.95, season pass $60.00, group sales (15 or more) $9.95 (Not available at gate).

"You ought to go Pheasant Run"

The fabulous comedic sensation "I ought to be in pictures" is coming and "You gotta be there" when the hilarity and havoc of Neil Simon's hit play arrives at the Pheasant Run Dinner Theatre. Director Diana L. Martinez revives this witty and warm comedy, which centers around the estranged relationship of a brash teenage daughter and her downtrodden screenwriting father. When they reunite after a 16 year separation, humorous scenarios evolve into a sentimental and heart-wrenching finale that will leave you laughing through your tears. "I ought to be in pictures" opens at Pheasant Run for a limited engagement on July 8th and closes on September 25, 1994. Show times are : Thursday and Fridays, 7:30 PM; Saturdays, 4:45 PM and 9:15 PM; and Sundays 1:45 PM and 6:15 PM. Tickets start at $37.00, with group, senior and children discounts available. Show only tickets are also available, starting at $15.00.

Chicago Art News

The Beverly Choral Society needs "Singers", men and women of all vocal ranges and experience levels, to meet, socialize, and most importantly sing on Tuesday evenings from 7:00 PM to 9:00 PM. The group though, not directly affiliated with St. Paul's Bible Church, 1960 W. 94th Street, Chicago, meets there and also performs concerts there, throughout the year, including a Christmas concert. Singers, should call 312-881-4400, for futher information on up-coming rehearsals and concerts!

McCormick Museum Tour

If you are in the mood for a "walking tour", join fellow travelers on Wednesday, September 21st to experience the formal gardens of Cantigny, a guided tour of the McCormick Museum, offered by the Office of Citizens' Services at 3450 West 97th Street.

The McCormick Museum was built in 1896, and you can also tour the First Division which is surrounded by a military equipment park with pieces from W.W.I to Vict Nam.

The Museums are located at opposite ends of the property. In the center of the Museums, are 10 acres of formal gardens, a theatre, gift and snack shop and a main gallery which overlooks the fountain and gardens. The Spectacular main exhibit hall traces the First division history from the Revolutionary War to Desert Storm.

Afterwards, the tour will include a family style lunch at the Bohemian Crystal Restaurant. Tickets for this trip are $28.00 and include transportation. Tickets are on sale in Room 107 at the Community Center through September 9th.

Moraine Valley Community College is offering a workshop for health care professionals who work with maternity patients

Antenatal Testing—Current Methods will meet Friday, Aug. 12 from 6:30 to 10 PM on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills, in building L, Room 165.

The course covers genetic testing, ultrasonography and electronic fetal monitoring techniques for antental testing. Nursing implications of antepartal testing will also be covered.

The fee for this class is $27.

From singing and dancing to bands and ensembles—they are all available for students and community members at Moraine Valley Community College.

The Chamber Singers is a musical group that provides students and community members an opportunity to sing vocal music of all styles. The five-year-old group is directed by Karen Carbray, the director of the Oak Lawn Children's choir.

You don't have to audition to be a part of this group, but members must register for the credit to participate.

Moraine Valley Community College will offer a variety of 17-week, credit art classes this fall.

Introduction to Computer Art (ART-146) is an introduction to computer-generated art. The class uses computer hardware and software to capture, combine, manipulate and generate traditional and contemporary two- dimensional visual images in both art and design. Morning and evening sections of the class are offered.

Photography I (ART-160) and Photography II (ART-161) will also be offered in the fall. Photography I covers basic principles of photography, including equipment, film processing, composition, and darkroom techniques. It will be offered during the morning and evening. Photography, black and white printing, lighting, and laboratory work. This class will meet in the afternoon.

These and other art classes at Moraine Valley begin Aug. 22. For more information, call the college at (708) 974-5500. To register, call the College Service Center at (708) 974-2110.

Friends of Library Schedule Trips

Friends of the Oak Lawn Library has scheduled two trips for September. The group will be going to the Cuneo Museum, Libertyville, on Wednesday, Sept. 7. The bus will leave the Cook Ave. entrance of the library at 9:15 am for an 11 am tour at Cuneo. Participants are urged to wear comfortable shoes. After the tour, the group will go to lunch at a nearby restaurant. Return to the library will be approximately 3:30 PM. Cost of the package which includes transportation, tour and lunch is $25 for members; $27 for others.

Struggles Dinner Playhouse, 114th and S. Kedzie, is the destination on Wednesday, Sept. 28. The bus will leave the Cook Ave. entrance of the library at 12:30 PM for a 1 PM lunch and a 2:30 PM performance of the romantic comedy "I Do, I Do." Lunch will be catered by Papa Joe's Restaurant. Cost of the Package is $26 for members; $28 for others.

For additional information and to make reservations contact Bennie Cunningham, 708-424-3781.

Oak Lawn Board Meeting Police Chief, New Map

By Rick Techman

An overall comprehensive zoning map for Oak Lawn accompanied by a redress of all applicable real estate taxes for homeowners and businessmen became an issue at the Oak Lawn Board meeting Aug. 9.

Two seperate questions were raised, one about a zoning variation and the other about real estate transfer taxes for retirees, increased the boards awareness of the need to redress these city ordinances.

An attorney representing a landowner on 95th Street seeking to convert his land to a condominium told the board that condos are quickly becoming a new source of revenue surpassing the business district and condominium variances are the wave of the future.

After some discussion by the board it was decided not to grant any further variances until a recent, comprehensive zoning map could be drawn to cover all of Oak Lawn.

"We have to keep the commercial property," Trustee William Keane said before the appeal was denied. Trustee Ronald Stancik recommended full discussion of a new zoning map beginning at the next board meeting.

In a related matter Trustee Robert Streit brought up a popular real estate transfer tax issue regarding retirees who legally share home ownership with their children.

Following discussion on real estate transfer taxes, the board decided to initiate a study on a comprehensive real estate reform program at their next meeting.

The search for a police chief has been narrowed to five highly qualified applicants according to Gail Paul, Oak Lawn Administrative Services Director.

She said the entire board enjoys the privilege of participating in the entire recruitment effort which could conclude by the end of August.

The board appointed Trustee Marjorie Ann Joy to the third seat on the search committee vacated by Trustee Michael Walsh currently involved in a business relocation.

Oak Lawn Clerk Jane Powers announced the deadline for Oak Lawn vehicle tags remains midnight August 15. Powers also announced Mayor Kolb's Birthday Tuesday night.

Kolb replied, "As they say, I'm still above ground."

Republican for Congress Republican Kelly V.S. Bobby Rush

By Rick Techman

Last month, Congressman Bobby Rush (D-1) announced a possible Chicago mayoral bid next year following his intended victory in the new 1st congressional district in November. Since reapportionment, the 1st Congressional district includes all or parts of Oak Lawn, Evergreen Park, Mt. Greenwood, Beverly Hills and Alsip.

William Kelly, the Republican candidate for congress, demanded Rush choose between running for congress on the south side and running for Mayor of Chicago in 1995.

Rush told WMAQ radio that his mayoral campaign against Mayor Richard J. Daley, "would be a response to a call from people who feel as though they have been left out."

As to Daley's record, Rush chastised the Mayor for, "not doing a better job with the issues of crime and dealing with the issues of public education."

Kelly found Rush's criticism of Daley absurd considering Rush's radical history as Minister of Defense for the Illinois Black Panther Party and his criminal conviction for weapons violations.

Kelly said his platform includes personal responsibility, which he expects will hit Rush hard with Rush's failure to pay child support for ten years, his back taxes and his legal fees for all of his past misconduct.

Publisher's Pen

By Annette Dixon

This issue of Publisher's Pen is designated to a writer who just happens to be a former teacher of mine. Sister Mary Ellen is now my friend, and columnist for Village View Newspaper.

Sister Mary Ellen has a column titled Dennehy's Corner and will mention your birthday in her column, call her.

In this newspaper we are reprinting a story from the January 15, 1994 issue. The reason is the 65th anniversary of her entering the IBVM community on August 15, 1929. We are celebrating with Mass and dinner on August 14 at 12:00 noon.

Sister Mary Ellen's teaching experience included St. Bernard, St. Cyril and St. Brides in Chicago. She also was principal at St. Bernard School. In 1956 she taught at Loretto Englewood and proceeded to teach at Loretto Woodlawn from 1958 to 1962. In the 70's she taught at St. Francis in Wheaton and Benet Academy in Lisle.

Sister Mary Ellen taught Math and Latin. Her math classes included Calculus, Algebra and Geometry. As a retired sister she tutored students at Loretto Convent in Wheaton. Also she was president of the now defunct Loretto Federation. Curently Sister Mary Ellen can be read in the Village View Newspaper.

There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where the highways never ran; —
But let me live in a house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by —
The men who are good and the men who are bad,
As good and as bad as I.
I would not sit in the scorner's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban;
Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

I see from my house by the side of the road,
By the side of the highway of life,
The men who press with the ardor of hope,
The men who are faint with the strife.
But I turn not away form their smiles nor their tears,
Both parts of an infinite plan; —
Let me live in my house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

I know there are brook-gladdened meadows ahead
And mountains of wearisome height;
That the road passes on through the long afternoon and stretches away to the night.
But still I rejoice when the travelers rejoice,
And weep with the strangers that moan,
Nor live in my house by the side of the road
Where the race of men go by; —
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong,
Wise, foolish; —so am I.
Then why should I sit in the scorner's seat.
Or hurl the cynic's ban?
Let me live in my house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

Air Force Nurse visits Christ Hospital

Royal British Air Force Nurse Visits EHS Christ Hospital's Emergency Department: A Royal British Air Force flight lieutenant recently visited EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center's emergency department to observe how trauma medicine is delivered in the United States.

Flight Lt. Denise Kyte, who came to the United States to learn more about combat flight nursing through a Pentagon exchange program, visited EHS Christ Hospital, Oak Lawn, at the invitation of Tracey Shumard, a psychiatric consultation nurse liaison at the hospital and a captain in the U.S. Air Force Reserves, Kyte also toured the hospital's pediatric intensive care unit.

Kyte had come to the 928th Tactical Airlift Group at O'Hare to visit the 63rd Aeromedical Evacuation Squadron to learn about evacuation practices of casualties under combat conditions. Shumard, a member of the squadron, said she asked Kyte come to EHS Christ Hospital to see "American tramua medicine at its finest. She said she had never seen anything so high-tech in her life."

Oak Lawn Park District 50th Anniversary

by Rick Techman

The 50th Anniversary of the Oak Lawn Park District this year sees continued progress with the opening of the Stoney Creek Golf Course and the construction of a new ice arena.

Park District Director Ernest Nance said, "The park district has always provided recreational opportunities to community residents, now we're offering more programs that keep up with national trends, and residents love them."

The park district will host a special "Celebrating 50 Years" celebration on Labor day, September 5 at Centennial Park.

The park district's 50th Anniversary "kick-off" celebration, held on Memorial Day, began at the district's first park, Memorial Park. The celebration included a 5K walk and a parade afterward down 95th Street.

"We've been ecstatic about the success of our new programs," Nance continued, "which target a variety of interests, we literally have something for everyone in Oak Lawn.

According to a park district representative, the park district has major facilities and parks in most areas of Oak Lawn where the program are hosted. She said the ice arena, raquet club and three pools offer a wide range of sport and execersize for Oak Lawn residents.

Since 1980, she explained, the park district has offered special recreation programs to individuals who are physically and mentally challenged. Last year more than 600 people participated in these programs.

She also said the park district is a leading agency in environmental preservation by explaining that the Wolfe Wildlife Refuge was purchased in 1980 to provide a lasting nature preserve in Oak Lawn.

The Oak Lawn Park District was founded in 1944, during WWII, by a project sponsored by the Cook Avenue P.T.A., the representative said. By September, 1944 a petition was filed in the county court to organize the Oak Lawn Park District.

An election for the formation of the park was held in November, 1944 and passed with 75% approval. The Oak Lawn Park District today is an individual taxing body but at its formation the park district was supported by the Oak Lawn Community Chest and solicited donations.

"Oak Lawn residents have insisted on progress and the Park District of Commissioners continue to respond to the needs of the community." Nance closed.

The Oak Lawn Park District Black Tie Optional 50th Anniversary Dinner Ball will close the golden anniversary celebration on Saturday November 5. For more information on park district activities stop by any park district building.

GETTING IT TOGETHER

By Pene

I am a 76 year old gentleman, recently divorced, the divorce created extreme bad feelings between my wife and myself. Before the divorce was finalized I had a stroke, which has left me dependent on others (I now have my daughter living with me, to help). When I was in the hospital and immediately before the divorce proceeding my wife made statements that have left me full of anger. How can I release all this internal anger and get on with my life?

A divorce at any age is devastating, in a divorce one person always seems to feel the effect of a divorce more so and in different ways then the other partner. Some say death is easier to handle then a divorce. I agree. Even though you left several questions unanswered, I will give you some of the best therapy others have used and it has helped, whether it be a divorce or a death of your partner.

Sit your self down with pen and paper and start writing, put on the paper all the anger you are feeling, address this letter to your ex-wife. Hold nothing back. However, DO NOT mail this letter, you keep it in a safe place for no one to see but you, re-read it if need be, re-write it if need be. Under NO circumstances DO NOT mail this letter. Several months down the road, since you have been able to release some of this anger, you should feel better. Sometimes we find it easy to talk with someone else, but you always leave something out of the conversation that really hurts and you want no one else to know, that is why writing a letter, you can say everything, and its for your eyes only.

The stages of divorce are not easy steps, but if taken one-day-at-a-time, the healing will begin and you will be able to get on with your life.

Pope John Paul II greets Sister Mary Ellen at a private audience.

For the love of God

by Annette Dixon

This issue is special to me only because I am privileged to write a story about a woman who wanted and prayed for my success with this paper.

The woman I wish to write about is a person who dedicated herself to God. The love and thanks I have in my heart for Sister Mary Ellen Dennehy I hope to express in the following story!

It was in June of 1992, while visiting Rathfarnem near Dublin, that I realized how loving Sister Mary Ellen is toward her friends and former students.

Prior to visiting Ireland, I called Sister Mary Ellen to discuss my trip. She insisted I visit the Loretto Convent in Rathfarnem.

As I was inquiring within for directions, a woman came up to me and said, "I overheard your conversation and that you are a former student of Sister Mary Ellen." I said yes. Her reply was "how lucky you are for she has a special love of all her former students. I admire her for staying in touch with many of her students." I felt so honored that she knew Sister Mary Ellen when I was across the country.

It was first about a year ago, when Paul Andary and Roy Paquin met with Sister on her 80th birthday in Sault Ste. Marie. It will be 65 years Sister Mary Ellen has dedicated her life to the IBVM order. She still wears the habit of the traditional order I remember while attending Loretto Englewood at 65th and Stewart Streets in Chicago.

Sister Mary Ellen was my Algebra and Latin teacher during my Freshman and Sophomore years.

When various students would disrupt her class with complaints of lost articles, she would stop teaching and tend to the problem. But, before doing so, she would recite her prayer to St. Anthony in order that the person would find their lost item.

Sister comments, "I never met a kid I didn't love." Love them hard and spank them soft, was her motto. Of course, that was when she taught in grammar school and was Principal.

At Loretto, many Freshmen were frightened of her because she was very strict in the classroom.

If you saw Nunsense you could relate to her in a classroom. Sister not only scared all of the students, but received the most efforts from them. I was the only one in the classroom that would challenge her.

When she was seriously reprimanding someone, I would be hysterical at the humor she would express. I don't believe anyone in the class wanted to react the way I did for fear it meant that they would receive a detention.

Sister Mary Ellen would just look at me with a stern look. When it began to happen too many times, she called me into the hall and said, "If you think I am funny, please keep it to yourself. I have an image I have to protect."

She would also remind me as to when I was too busy day dreaming rather than listening in class. But what she didn't know is that I was studying her personality. I watched her movements, I listened for her speech pattern and waited for her humor to show through some of her teaching methods.

Sister Mary Ellen did not know what I thought of her, but I knew she was the first Public Relations person I had ever met.

In one breath, we were forbidden to dance to Elvis Presley records, and yet, she would accidently press the button and we would hear "You Ain't Nothin But A Hound Dog," as she would dance out of the recreation room.

I also remember that she wore open toed shoes when everyone else wore tied oxfords. When most sisters in the order wore regular street dress, she kept her traditional look. Yes, she showed her independence, and yet, her love for the community which she represents.

Most people who attended the Loretto Federation Teas, then Luncheons, know of her dedication for raising funds within the IBVM order and the Loretto Wheaton Infirmary. The Federation Luncheons are a sign of the past, due to a change for developing new methods of fund raising. But, just as change is inevitable, so do we look into the past.

It is within studying this woman that I too can emulate someone who I thought had a lot of independence and humor, and yet, expressed herself with complete confidence and strength to guide people with all the love she had within her.

God bless you and thank you for giving me the opportunity to enjoy school!

OL thanks Sen. O'Malley Rep. Murphy

By Rick Teehman

A $290,000 grant from the state of Illinois, acquired jointly by Senator Pat O"Malley, (R-18) and representative Maureen Murphy, (R-36) to provide parking on 95th Street near 52nd Avenue caused Oak Lawn Mayor Ernie Kolb to offer these legislators a public "Thank You" on behalf of Oak Lawn at the board of Trustees meeting August 9.

"From Tully to 52nd Avenue," Trustee William Keane said, "we will be removing parking and this will basically be replacing it."

Mayor Kolb went on to thank representative Maureen Murphy individually for her help in acquiring an $18,000 state grant for a senior citizen minibus that will operate three days a week.

The senior minibus, according to Keane, will be handicap accessible and can be used by retirees who need to run just about any errand from a doctor visit to shopping.

He added that the Worth bus will serve Oak Lawn during the days when the Oak Lawn bus is not in service.

PARENTS SHOULD HELP SCHOOLS COMBAT EVIL INFLUENCES

There was a time when getting your children ready for school simply meant clothes, shoes, eye exams and vaccinations. Today, however, it also means warning them against any attempt to induce them to use drugs, join in gang activities, or commit acts of crime or vandalism. With all the evil influences abroad, this is not an easy time to bring up children--even the very young ones--and it requires an extra effort on the part of parents and law enforcement authorities to help the schools combat these things. However, it should also be remembered that the Sunday school at your House of Worship can teach your children positive moral values, helping them to see the advantages of a clean and law-abiding life. There is no more vital part of their education.

The most important thing parents can teach their children is how to get along without them.
— Frank Clark

"Children, obey your parents in all things...".

NEWS OF NUTRITION

Good Cookies Can Be Good For You

(NAPS)—Here's some sweet news: You can have your cookies and eat them, too—without the guilt.

Local stores now carry cookies that can play a useful part in a balanced diet.

For example, Archway has introduced a new line of fat-free, no-cholesterol cookies. There are six different varieties: Fat Free Apple Bars, Fat Free Fig Bars, Fat Free Fruit Bars, Fat Free Granola, Fat Free Oatmeal Raisin and Fat Free Oatmeal Raspberry.

In addition, these delicious treats are made with real fruit, such as apples, figs, and raisins. They are also made with wholesome grains like oats, wheat, and rice that contribute complex carbohydrates to a good balanced diet. Grain and grain products are the foundation of nutritious eating habits. Complex carbohydrates are a good source of energy.

Shoppers say these cookies are fresher too, because they stay on store shelves for a shorter time than many other brands. What's more, they are made with the finest quality ingredients money can buy.

Other ways to have a balanced diet include:

• Use herbs, spices, lemon and other natural seasonings in place of salt.

• Try water or fruit juice instead of carbonated beverages.

• Add chopped dried or fresh fruit to cereal instead of sugar.

• Drink skim milk. To make the transition easier, try mixing skim with whole milk in increasing amounts.

• Skim all fat off meat drippings before making gravy.

• Broil and bake instead of frying foods whenever you can.

• Reduce the amount of meat you eat. Try casseroles as a way of doing this.

• Use egg whites instead of whole eggs.

Keep these ideas in mind—and fat-free cookies in the cupboard—and you may find the idea of healthy eating a lot easier to swallow.

Pointers For Parents

Serve Fun Foods To Add Calcium For Kids

(NAPS)—A panel convened by the National Institutes of Health recently recommended an increased calcium intake for children and young adults ages 11 to 24.

Sadly, most kids and young adults today aren't getting the calcium they need to build the strongest possible bones. Forty percent of preadolescent boys and 61 percent of preadolescent girls fall short of getting the Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA). Nine out of ten teen girls and seven out of ten teen boys also fall short.

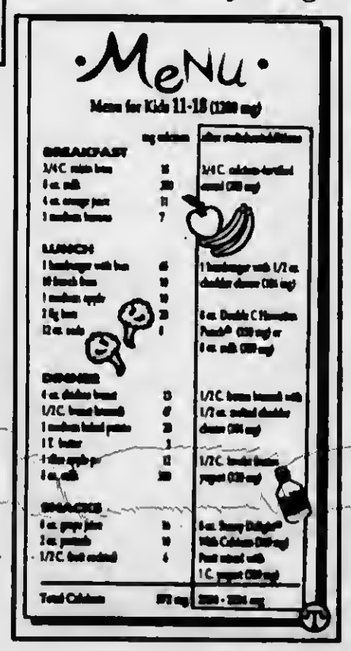
Increasing kids' daily calcium intake is easier than parents might think. Here are some simple tips for parents for getting more calcium into kids' diets:

• Take what's good and make it good fun. Add imagination and variety to food. Mix powdered flavorings, like strawberry, into milk. Cut cheese into fun shapes. Try lowfat yogurt for snacks. Top off dinner with chocolate pudding.

• Recognize a winner. Serve your kids more of the calcium-enriched foods that you know they already like and eat. Calcium-fortified foods like Double C Hawaiian Punch® and Sunny Delight® With Calcium, along with milk, cheese and dark green leafy vegetables, provide other options to get more calcium into kids' diets.

• Line-up switch-hitters at the plate. Parents have lots of calcium options to choose from. Give kids a choice, such as letting them switch yogurt for a cheese sandwich.

• Foods, like appetites, are not created equal. Some foods have more absorbable calcium than others. Include foods that are both high in calcium and contain calcium that is easily absorbed by the body. For example FruitCal® (calcium citrate malate), the form of calcium in Double C Hawaiian Punch and Sunny Delight



With Calcium, is even more absorbable than the calcium in milk or calcium carbonate.

FruitCal is recognized by researchers as an excellent source of calcium that has been proven in many bone and absorption studies. Most recently, a 1993 Penn State study of 12 to 14 year old girls showed those who received the equivalent of one extra serving a day of calcium in the form of FruitCal as part of a balanced diet grew significantly stronger bones.

Calcium is an essential mineral that is needed every day throughout life for a number of important body functions. Ninety-five percent of an individual's bone mass develops by the time a child is 18. Calcium missed during these formative years cannot be made up later in life, and may increase the risk of bone fractures in later years.

The panel convened by the National Institutes of Health recommended that optimal calcium intake for children and young adults ages 11 to 24 be increased from 1,200, which is now the RDA, to between 1,200 and 1,500 milligrams per day.

NEWS OF EDUCATION

Now Sales Training Pays Two Ways

Learning to be a good sales representative can be a wise career move.

(NAPS)—Whether you'd like to sell space for this newspaper or get a job as a top executive in a major corporation, you can be helped toward your goal by two things:

1. Training and certification.
2. A decision: Go for it.

Certification

You can now not only learn the ins and outs of sales and marketing, you can even be officially certified in the profession. The designation of Sales and Marketing Executives International (SMEI) Certified Professional Salesperson (SCPS) can now be granted through the 86 chapters of the SMEI, a non-profit professional association. Founded in 1935 to advance professionalism in sales and marketing, it has served as the world voice of the profession since that time.

Candidates for the designation must qualify in four areas: job experience, education, professional service and continuing professional education. Candidates must also sign a written pledge to abide by the SCPS Code of Ethics and pass a qualifying exam.

Training

To help candidates prepare for the exam, the Institute developed a comprehensive study guide. It's a step-by-step workbook containing reading, exercises, cases and sales planning checklists. Topics include sales strategy and planning, questioning and listening, sales ethics, the history of selling, trust-based relationship selling, presentation skills and buyer behavior.

What It Takes

"Today's successful salesperson," says Thomas N. Ingram, Ph.D., CSE, chairman of the SMEI Accreditation Board of Trustees, "is quite likely a better listener than a talker and is more oriented toward developing long-term customer relationships than emphasizing high-pressure, short-term sales techniques. True sales professionals have staying power in a competitive marketplace, relying on sophisticated skills and a customer orientation through sometimes lengthy, complex sales cycles."

With the proper training, you can be not only a great salesperson, you can learn how to sell your own ideas and talents, without selling yourself short.

Anyone interested in establishing professional sales credentials can call SMEI at 800-999-1414.

Tips For College Bound Students

(NAPS)—Thousands of qualified students enter college each fall, but for many of them, their stay will be a short one. In fact, nearly forty percent of college freshmen never get their degree. That amounts to a lot of broken hearts and depleted checking accounts.

On their own for the first time, freshmen are often unprepared for the many choices and challenges they face in college. The Secrets to College Success, a video from Success Films of Burbank, CA, delivers a frank assessment of the college system and potential pitfalls. With the help of 24 honor students, the program's hosts reveal insider information and proven study techniques in 14 segments, such as: taking tests, classroom skills, writing papers, studying alone and dorm life. Among the dozens of helpful hints are:

- Arrive at least a week before classes begin. Get settled and learn the layout of the school campus and library. Read up on university policies and guidelines.
- Start carrying a daily organizer. In college there are too many deadlines and details to effectively track without notes.
- Always sit near the front of the classroom. Students see and hear better up front and will be recognized by their instructor there.
- Never turn in a term paper without first taking an early draft to the professor, a teacher's assistant or tutor. The grading of papers is too subjective to take chances.
- Friends and even school libraries often have old tests on file. Students should not rely on such tests to study, but they can learn the topics deemed important by their instructor and expect the types of questions, i.e. essay, multiple choice, or true or false.
- Be choosy when making your new friends. Good students provide positive peer pressure, and party animals are hard to shake.

Unlike a book on the same subject, a video can be shared by students and parents at the same time, opening lines of communication that are essential when both parties have so much at stake.

Four out of ten college freshmen will not graduate.

Winner of four 1994 Educational Film Festivals, The Secrets to College Success, comes with a free handbook that covers topics ranging from high school preparation and course scheduling to safety tips and goal checklists. The program, 77 minutes, can be ordered for $19.95 by calling 1-800-303-5050.

NEWS OF EDUCATION

(NAPS)—Many people who believe they can't get a college education—whether for financial or other reasons—may be surprised to learn about a program designed especially for them.

The TRIO Programs (Upward Bound; Talent Search; Student Support Services; Ronald E. McNair Post-Baccalaureate Achievement; and Educational Opportunity Centers) now available at over 1,000 colleges and at more than 90 community agencies nationwide, give millions of Americans a realistic chance to enter and graduate from a post-secondary institution.

These federally-funded programs, first established in 1965, provide at no cost career information and counseling, academic instruction, tutoring and assistance in applying for financial aid.

Oak Lawn Library closed for staff inservice day.

The Oak Lawn Public Library will be closed all day, Friday, Aug. 19, for staff inservice training. All library employees are expected to attend. Regular Saturday hours, 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., will resume on Aug.20.

The Friends of the Oak Lawn Library has scheduled a trip to the Cuneo Museum, Libertyville, Wednesday, Sept. 7, with lunch scheduled after a complete tour beginning at 11 a.m. Participants are advised to wear comfortable walking shoes. Lunch will be at a nearby restaurant. The bus will leave Cook Ave. entrance of the library at 9:15 a.m. and return at approximately 3:30 p.m. Cost of the package is $25 for members; $27 for others.

A trip to Struggles Dinner Theatre, Merrionette Park, has been scheduled by the Friends of the Oak Lawn Library on Wednesday, Sept. 28. The package includes roundtrip bus transportation, lunch catered by Papa Joe's restaurant and the play I Do I Do presented by the Struggles players.

Reservations for the trip can be made with Bennie Cunningham, 708-424-3781, during the day and after dinner.

Governor proclaims open safety week

Governor Jim Edgar has proclaimed August 22-26 as "School's Open Safety Week" in Illinois.

In his proclamation, Edgar alerts motorists to the need for special attention to children walking to and from schools as they return to classes. He cautions drivers to watch their speed and follow the signals of the School Safety Patrols or adult crossing guards. Extra driving care also is needed near school bus stops.

AAA-CMC leads the "School's Open, Drive Carefully" campaign for the 47th year. Thousands of School's Open posters and related materials are being distributed free of charge to participating Illinois communities.

POW-MIA
Lets get this stamp issued

By Annette Dixon

A petition drive originated by Ronald Eubank in February 1983 swept the country but to no avail-a stamp dedicated to the remembrance of POW-MIA was not issued.

Ron has not given up. Letters are continually being written to Postmaster General Marvin Runyon from even the senators.

A letter dated May 30, 1994 to the Postmaster indicated that 82 U.S. Senators have signed this letter seeking National POW-MIA Recognition Day September 16, 1996 as the target date for the unveiling of the stamps.

According to Ron Eubank POW-MIA Chairman of VFW Post #5220 in Oak Lawn, the U.S. Senator adopted an amendment in 1992 to the Dept. of Defense Authorization Bill mandating the issuance of a POW-MIA stamp. The amendment was later removed form the bill in deference to the normal stamp approval process, however the U.S. Senate made it very apparent of their strong support for such a stamp at that time.

Hopefully with the proposal of Recognition Day there will be an issuance of a POW-MIA stamp. The success remains in the hands and letters of all concerned individuals.

Please write to: Honorable Marvin T. Runyon Postmaster General & Chief; Executive Officer U.S.P.S. Headquarters 475 L'Enfant Plaza, SW Room 10022, Washington, D.C. 20260-0010.

US 12/20 95th Street Jackhammer Report

By Rick Techman

Bituminous paving of 95th Street from La-Grange Road to Central Avenue including permanent striping chould be completed by September 1 according to an Illinois Department of Transportation report.

Railroad reconstruction just west of Western Avenue, which took place in two stages beginning August 14, should also be completed by September 1 according to the IDOT report.

Traffic signal work, storm sewer replacement and curb removal and replacement between Central and Western Avenues also became primary targets by IDOT for completion by September 1.

Notice Public Forum Education Forum

By Rick Techman

Topics vital to the well being of our children and community will be targeted at an educational forum, sponsored by the Village of Oak Lawn , scheduled for Thursday, October 6 at 7 PM at Oak Lawn Community High School.

Village trustee Marjorie Ann Joy told the village board last month both state representatives Maureen Murphy and Ann Zickus as well as state candidates Nancy Stack and Kathleen Murray will participate in a panel discussion of funding of education in the southwest suburbs and related school issues.

State School Superintendent Joseph Spagnola will be the keynote speaker Joy said. She added the moderator, School District 122 Superintendent Dr. Donald Johnson, will host the panel discussion.

The mission of the summit according to Trustee Joy is to remind the public that education is everyone's business, that citizens must invest in Oak Lawn's future and it is time to commit to quality education.

The primary goal, according to Joy, is to address state funding of education reminding the public and the state that money drives education.

She said several other goals include improving the image of Oak Lawn Schools, increasing parental involvement in schools and drawing upon the wisdom of senior citizens and retirees in addressing education improvements.

An education forum flyer distributed by Trustee Joy said the panel will discuss questions submitted prior to September 15.

The flyer further stated, "Come hear what our state leaders have to say about funding in public funding in public schools in Illinois."

"We want the community to be aware and involved. Please plan to attend this very important forum. It is your children and grandchildren who are affected.

Lipinski Backs Crime Bill

By Rick Techman

President Clinton's crime bill passed Congress last week with the help of U.S. Congressman William O. Lipinski (D-3).

The bill included funding for extra law enforcement officials, prisons, drug courts, programs to combat violence against women and material from specific prevention programs proposed by seven Republican senators.

"Not enough policemen," Lipinski said and added, "not enough jail cells, not enough tough honest sentences."

"So many crimes are committed by people who are out on bail instead of behind bars where they belong because some judge has ruled you cannot put a criminal in an overcrowed prison."

Lipinski was part of a vocal group of conservative democrats who successfully fought to remove a provision that would have led to racial quotas in death sentences. That ironically led anti-death penalty democrats to oppose the original bill.

Oak Lawn Orioles Summer League Champs

By Rick Techman

The Oak Lawn Orioles summer collegiate baseball team and Mayor Ernie Kolb shared center stage at the village Board meeting August 23 celebrating the teams first world series championship since the team was founded in 1980 and the first world series championship for an Illinois team.

Orioles coach Richard Matyas and several team mates handed Mayor Kolb and the Village Board the North Zone Champion and collegiate World Series Champion trophys they earned.

The Mayor also received a plaque commemorating their Collegiate Summer Baseball Association Championship.

"The players are happy to represent the Village of Oak Lawn," Matyas told the board at the ceremony.

"On behalf of myself," Mayor Kolb replied, "and our board and our staff, I want to congratulate you."

"They won the championship," the Mayor explained." and I guess they swept the series."

Matyas announced at the ceremony that the founding coach of the Orioles, John Cosenza, died during the season but with dedication, devotion and focus the Orioles went on to become summer collegiate world series champs.

The Orioles have a 1994 team record of 34-7 and the team went 26-1 in the last 27 games. The team went 3-0 in the north zone to advance to the world series and 4-0 at the world series.

IT COULDN'T BE DONE

Edgar A. Guest

Somebody said that is couldn't be done,
But he with a chuckle replied
That "maybe it couldn't," but he would be one
Who wouldn't say so till he's tried.
So he buckled right in with the trace of a grin
On his face. If he worried he hid it.
He started to sing as he tackled the thing
That couldn't be done, and he did it.

Village of Bridgeview 9-1-1

Bridgeview, Illinois: The Village of Bridgeview has recently contracted with Meade Communications, Inc. to supply and implement a new communications center consisting of a CML Technologies COM-NODE radio communications system will be provided by Motorola. The system will consist of 3 console operator positions.

Upon completion of the installation and testing phase, the Village will offer all residents enhanced emergency communications. This will include the newly installed CML Technologies digital communications equipment. The new 911 center will be provided with all new custom furniture manufactured by Skaggs Telecommunications Services of Murray, Utah, and will also be equipped with a new UPS emergency power system by Best Technology.

Once on-line, residents will be able to dial 9-1-1 and be immediately connected to the police department for emergency services related to police, fire or ambulance requests. The new 9-1-1 system will offer the call-takers access to pertinent information regarding the location of the caller, as each 9-1-1 call will display the caller's name and address location on the operators screen. Should an emergency arise in which the caller cannot communicate, an immediate response could be made upon the received information.

The newly installed radio communications equipment will feature these technological advances in digital communications:

• Hot Standby operations - no single point of failure exists in the system.

• Digital operation - state of the art in fast, error free communications.

• Emergency Power systems - including high output generator and an on-line UPS - power outages will not affect operations.

• System support - Meade will provide 24 hours, 7 day/week emergency service .

• New Radio Equipment - all new Ericsson GE, MASTR III synthesized base stations are being provided.

Public safety telecommunications personnel are the link between the public who telephone for help, and the agencies which provide help. They often work long and hard hours under extremely stressful conditions. Public safety telecommunications personnel are our nation's unsung heroes who are responsible for protecting life and property while often times not getting their much deserved credit.

Bridgeview Park District on the road

The Bridgeview Park District is hosting a variety of bus trips this Fall. In district registration is currently underway. Pre-registration at the Sports Complex, 8100 S. Beloit, is necessary, and proof of residency is required.

All trips are for persons 18 years and older. Buses depart from and return to The Sports Complex.

All trips are contractual programs, so people are encouraged to come in as soon as possible to register. For more information, call the Park Office at (708) 594-1818.

Untouchable Tour: On Friday, September 30th from 9:15 AM to 4:30 PM, "Southside Johnny" will hijack us for a tour of the hot spots and hit spots made famous by Chicago crime legends. We'll also take a tour of the Museum of Broadcasting, and enjoy lunch at the Haylemon restaurant in Chinatown. Fee includes deluxe motor coach transportation, admission to the Museum of Broadcasting, and luncheon package including beverages. Fees are $44/District and $49/Non-District. Registration deadline is September 4th.

Tastee Tour : On Thursday, October 6th from 8:45 AM to 4:00 PM, we'll go behind the scenes of Chicago's food industry. Through tours, demonstrations, and of course, tastings, you'll have the opportunity to explore this area from market to basket. Stops on this tour will include a bakery, a caterer, a wine shop, a meat market, and a restaurant supply house. Included in the tour is lunch at the Cooking and Hospitality Institute of Chicago, one of the premier professional gourmet chef cooking schools. Fee includes deluxe motor coach transportation and luncheon package including beverages. Fees are $50/District and $55/Non-District. Registration deadline is September 22nd.

Amish Acres: Fee includes transportation on a deluxe motor coach to Nappanee, Indiana, a house and farm walking tour, a film presentation depicting Amish life in Nappanee, a horse drawn buggy ride, and a family style luncheon package including beverages. There will also be time to browse shops filled with local foods and country crafts. The trip is scheduled to take place on Tuesday, October 25th from 7:30 AM to 6:00 PM. Fees are $50/District and $55 Non-District. Registration deadline is September 22nd.

Excursion Unto The Unknown: Ride a deluxe motor coach on Friday, October 21st through Chicago and the suburban areas on a psychic tour. Kaczmarek, President of the Ghost Research Society. You'll delve into the realm of the supernatural with on-the-spot examinations of some of Chicagoland's most haunted areas! This tour is 80% different from last year's, so if you went in '93, join us again for '94. Fees, which include a light snack, are $25/District and $30/Non-District. Registration deadline is October 7th.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Annette:

I just wanted to let you know that the last four ads that we have placed in Village View have turned out great.

The last two ads have brought in more patients then we were expecting. The ads look very professional and give us a warm feel that we were after. Your timely service and expertise in the newspaper field are a big help to us small business owners.

Today service seems to be a business skill that is badly missing and I am glad Village View is still giving great service.

So in closing I would like to thank you for all of your help in the past, and I know that the future will bring the same results. Anyone that asks I will tell them of the benefits of working with Village View Newspaper.

Sincerely,

Bridgeview Village Board Taxes, Clean Water

By Rick Techman

State tax revenue shares and state sanctioned clean village water highlighted the Bridgeview Village Board meeting August 10.

More than $385,000 in sales tax shares from local business in May and more than $24,000 of motor fuel taxes returned to the Village of Bridgeview in July from Springfield according to Deputy Village Clerk Claudette Struzik.

"Bridgeview is a very stable community," Struzik said. She added Bridgeview gets a good return on their tax dollars from the state due to its successful business district composed primarily of discount stores.

She also said she's been to several village clerk meetings and learned Bridgeview leads many surrounding communities in taxes returned from the state.

Water samples taken under state supervision throughout the year show Bridgeview's water to be free of lead and copper according to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency analysis.

"All towns," Kaput said, "have to do this. It is required." He added, "IEPA is the one who requires it."

The IEPA awarded Bridgeview a reduced water monitoring requirement based on the cleanliness of the water found in periodic samples Kaput announced.

He also announced the railroad tracks on 71th Street between Harlem and Roberts Road are scheduled for a three day repair beginning September 6.

He said the street will be closed to east-west traffic and reminded the board that this is yet another tentative date he has been given by the CSX railroad for repairs.

Confusion in the CSX railroad's engineering department could be at fault for the delay according to Kaput.

"This is," Kaput stated, "the third engineer we've dealt with."

"This is the third tentative date," Kaput added. "Hopefully this is the one. It's being paid for by the CSX railroad."

Kaput explained the last repair at this crossing was done about four years ago.

Also in village board news, Trustee Robert Cusack got board support for the Goodwill Industries toy tent sale in the parking lot affronting the Harlem Corners movie theater.

He reminded the board that Goodwill is a legitimate charitable organization and the event is an organizational fundraiser.

The board passed the Goodwill request for a permit with the stipulation that Goodwill still must also get the approval of the landowners.

The tamborine entered Western music during the 1700's.

GETTING IT TOGETHER

By Pene

My lady says that she needs her space! I understand that everyone needs their time alone to contemplate whatever is necessary to complete the present or future goals and to map the actions required to obtain them. But how do you turn affection ON and OFF? When in passing isn't a hug, a kiss on the cheek, a pat on the shoulder between two people acceptable? If this is wrong, what is holding these people together, except for reproduction then we may as well as be animals.

When your lady said she needs space - how did she mean it? (What was occupying her at the moment?) Could she mean you were crowding her?. You acknowledge that everyone needs their space, but do you acknowledge that everyone is different and needs different types of space at different times...

Again, you are right, feelings can not be turned ON and OFF. Affection is there when the two of you are in the same room, and being affectionate does not mean touching in every passing between you two. Affection and closeness is always present when two individuals are together that care for each other. Is not an affectionate glance the same as touching? The over showering of affection/closeness can be overbearing at times and therefore be over crowding Making one feel ill at ease.

Another thought, do you feel you show closeness by touching her cheek, or a kiss is your way of reassuring her you are there? Is she an insecure individual and needs this attention? Or does it make you feel more secure in your relationship? Consider these two thoughts, and maybe you are crowding her with too much affection.

Just keep being your self for it is possible also that you have misunderstood what your lady meant when she said she needs her space. Also, it could be she is not accustom to the show of affection you are displaying. Give it time...

Saint Xavier University's Third Annual Irishfest Celebration takes place Labor Day Weekend

Chicago— Saint Xavier University's Irishfest '94 will take place Saturday and Sunday, September 3 and 4 from 3:00 to 11:30 PM on the university campus grounds located at 3700 West 103rd Street in Chicago, Illinois. Irish entertainment, cultural offerings, refreshments, children's events, Irish import stores, a $50,000 raffle and a Gaelic Mass at 1 PM on Sunday, September 4, will highlight the weekend's activities.

A number of internationally and locally known Irish entertainers will perform on two stages from 3 to 11:30 PM on both Saturday and Sunday. Leading the musical entertainment for the weekend are world renown Irish folk musicians Liam Clancy & Robbie O'Connell, Cahal Dunne and traditional bands Barley Bree and the Makem Brothers & Brian Sullivan. In addition, attendees can enjoy a number of Irish contemporary, Celtic rock and ballad performers, including Parting Glass, The Reeks, The Willeys and more.

Raffle tickets and Irishfest admission tickets can be purchased in person, or by mail, at Saint Xavier University, Office of Institutional Advancement (A228), located at 3700 W. 103rd Street, Chicago, Illinois, 60655, or at the actual Irishfest celebration over Labor Day Weekend.

"Last year's Fest welcomed over 10,000 people," Butler added. "This year, with all the added attractions, we're planning for an even bigger celebration."

Saint Xavier University, located 3700 W. 103rd Street between Pulaski and Kedzie is easily reached by expressways (I-294, I-57, I-94) and major through streets, including Cicero. Plenty of free, lighted parking is available on the campus.

Norris Theatre presents Mel Torme on opening season

The Norris Culture Arts Center proudly announces the opening of its 1994-1995 season with a special appearance by superstar Mel Torme on Saturday, September 10, at 8:00 PM, at the Norris Theatre in St. Charles.

Mel Torme is a legendary figure in the music business, a true giant whose presence has been felt over most of the last four decades. He has been idolized by professionals who study his unique phrasing of every lyric, and adored by fans. His career has also extended to television variety shows, movies, even sitcoms(who can forget his hilarious regular appearances with Harry Anderson on Night Court?), but it is on recordings and the concert stage that he has earned his lasting fame.

To help celebrate the opening of another season of star-studded variety, the Norris Theatre has arranged for acclaimed comedian-magician Ken Mate to open the Show. Mate performed for the Chicago Bulls' team parties, and opened shows for headliners as diverse as Ann Jillian, The Oak Ridge Boys, Eddie Rabbitt, Lucie Arnaz, Bobby Vinton and Patty Page. The Norris Theatre is also offering the perfect nightcap to this exciting gala evening — a wine and hors d'oeuvres get-together after the show at the exclusive Herrington in Geneva. Available for an additional fee of only $10.00, the limited spaces for this get-together are sure to go quickly, and the Norris Theatre is recommending early reservations.

Tickets for the special appearance of Mel Torme with Ken Mate, which is sponsored by Harris Bank and 90.9 FM, WDCB, are only $35.00 for adults, $33.00 for children and senior citizens, and $31.00 a person for groups of ten or more. Tickets for all the shows in the Norris Theatre's 1994-1995 Season are on sale now at the Norris Box Office. The Box Office is open from 10:00 AM to 5:00 PM, Monday through Friday, and Saturdays from Noon to 4:00 PM. Tickets may also be reserved on credit card by calling (708) 584-7200.

The Norris Theatre at the Dellora A. Norris Cultural Arts Center is located between Dunham and Kirk Roads, just 1/2 mile north of Route 64 (North Avenue), in St. Charles.

Saint Xavier University signs Articulation Agreement with Moraine Valley Community College

CHICAGO-Saint Xavier University President Sister Colette Mahoney and Moraine Valley Community College President Dr. Vernon Crawley sign an Articulation Agreement enabling transferring MVCC graduates a guaranteed junior status at Saint Xavier University.

Chicago—Saint Xavier University signed an Articulation Agreement with Moraine Valley Community College on Wednesday, August 10; it is the first such agreement of its kind in the history of the 148 year old Saint Xavier Institution. The agreement will ensure a smooth transfer process and guaranteed junior standing for MVCC students who have successfully completed an associate arts or science degrees.

Under this new plan, the requirements for Moraine graduates are that they maintain a 2.5 grade-point average on a 4.0 scale, and that they take a three-hour religion course and three-hour philosophy course in addition to their degree requirements at St. Xavier. Students can major in any of the undergraduate fields of study with the exception of nursing where course work begins at the sophomore level.

"This is an excellent opportunity for our two schools to work together," said MVCC President Vernon Crawley. "Ultimately we smoothed the transition process for southwest side students and provide them an even greater opportunity to pursue higher education dreams and various career paths."

Saint Xavier University, 3700 West 103rd St., Chicago, was founded in 1846 by the Sisters of Mercy. Chartered by the State of Illinois in 1847 with the power to grant academic degrees, it ranks among the first of Illinois' colleges's and universities. Today, the University is a coeducational, multi-generation, multi-ethic, and international institution serving over 4,100 students in 35 majors and 27 graduate options.

In addition to its main Chicago Campus on the city's southwest side, the University operates an Orland Park Center; and two campuses in Europe—Paris, France and Milan, Italy,—which offer courses for the graduate MBA program.

Richard A. Yanikoski Named President at Saint Xavier

Chicago—Saint Xavier University announced the appointment of Dr Richard Alan Yanikoski as the University's new President. The presidental search committe's recommendation of Yanikoski was unanimously approved by Saint Xavier's Board of Trustees and the Corporation of the Sisters of Mercy, Chicago Region, on August 9th.

Dr. Yanikoski joins the Saint Xavier community with over 19 years of experience in higher education, eighteen of which were served at DePaul University of Chicago. Most recently, Dr. Yanikoski held the position of Director of the Harry F. and Elaine M. Chaddick Institute and served as Associate Professor and Director of DePaul's Public Services Graduate Program.

Other positions previously held at DePaul included Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs, Director of Institutional Planning and Research, Evaluation Coordinator, Instructor and Mentor of DePaul's School for new learning.

Dr. Yanikoski additional professional experience includes his work as Research Assistant for Chicago's Spencer Foundation, part-time instructor for Loyola's Ph.D. program in Higher Education, and mentor for Native American Education Services College of Chicago.

Dr. Yanikoski was selected after a nationwide search attracted distinguished candidates from all regions of the country. Initiated by Saint Xavier University's Board of Trustees this past May, members of the University's administration, faculty, staff, students and alumni participated in the presidental search process. Dr. Yanikoski will succeed Sister Colette Mahoney, RSHM, who is currently serving the University as Interim President. He will begin his term late this fall.

"The University is thrilled to have such an established leader in higher education for our new President," said Board of Trustee member and Presidential Search Committee Chair Marion Faldet. "We're confident Dr. Yanikoski can lead Saint Xavier University to even higher levels of success as we head into the 21st century."

Oak Lawn Trustee Holesha receives Lieb School recognition award

Illinois PTA presented Cy Holesha with a Lieb PTA 1993/94 Book of Recognition Award. The Book of Recognition Award was called the Council Hall of Fame Award and is presented to an individual who has served both the outside community as well as the service to children of Lieb School.

Cy Holesha has been solely instrumental in having cable installed at Lieb School thereby giving the students in Oak Lawn and Bridgeview the opportunity to benefit by educational programing that was unavailable because of location and prohibitive cost of installation. He also was instrumental in providing an additional crossing guard and installation of a sidewalk for the safety of children.

Cy Holesha's community service includes a reader at church, civilian watch for traffic offenders, and offering his services as trustee in the 1st District. He can be contacted by calling Oak Lawn Village Hall at 708-636-4400

Park District offers "School's Out Club" after school

The Oak Lawn Park District, through a cooperative effort with local school districts 122, 123 and 125, is offering "School's Out Club", an afterschool recreation program for children in Kindergarten through 6th Grades, held at participating Oak Lawn schools. The Oak Lawn Parks Foundation is underwriting this program with a grant, Schools participating include Columbus Manor, Covington, Kolmar, Sward, Hannum and Lawn Manor.

Programs at Columbus Manor include "Study Buddies," 3 to 4 PM, Mondays and Wednesdays, older students and adults guide students with their work, "Nature Fun," 3 to 4 PM, Fridays, focuses on students getting in touch with the natural world and learning about their community and "Arts & Crafts," 3 to 4 PM, Thursdays.

Programs at Columbus Manor include " Homework Help," 3 to 4 PM, Tuesdays and Thursdays, and "Arts & Craft," 2:30 to 3:30 PM, Mondays. Reference Head Annual Report to Library Board

There has been a decrease over the past year in the number of reference questions asked at the Oak Lawn Public Library reference desk according to William Goodfellow, head of the department. "Instead of a question every 2.1 minutes as it was in 1993, it is 2.6 in 1994," Goodfellow noted in his annual report to the library board of trustees, Aug. 16. He indicated that there were 62,061 reference questions, 43,183 directional questions and 460 data base searches.

Goodfellow reported that the department is making an effort to eliminate staff as an "unnecessary" middleman. To accomplish this and still provide an excellent quality of service, the department staff has been reorganized to provide more flexibility and more in-depth service to patrons. In addition, staff members have been developing more handouts and bibliographies to answer the most frequently asked questions. A CD-ROM network is being established which will give the public access to a variety of directories which staff had to handle previously. Five locally-generated reference tools have been converted to an on-line format which allows students to use them on their own. Goodfellow added that if done right, there is no reason why a library cannot be as self-serve as a K-Mart.

The reference staff also is sharing some of its handouts with related Oak Lawn businesses. Through specific mailings the library hopes to make them aware of what is available for them or their customers at the library.

Future plans include visits to local high school libraries to establish a cooperative arrangement whereby assignment alerts could be forwarded to the Oak Lawn Library so preparations could be made to meet the need and the demand.

In regular business, the board approved payment of $36,999 for library materials; $16,586 for general operations; and $151,402 for personnel.

The board meets at 7:30 PM on the third Tuesday of each month in the Oak Lawn Rotary Room, lower level, 9427 Raymond Ave. (5300 W. 95th St.) Board members are Lois Gasteyer, president; Marian Sullivan, vice president; Bob Honkisz, secretary; Joann Buschbach, treasurer; and Shirley Barrett, Nancy Czerwiec and Robert K. Thompson, trustees.

Learn how to produce publications, work with spreadsheets, and use a word processing program at Moraine Valley Community College.

Two desktop publishing classes are available for people who want to learn how to create professional-quality publications.

Introduction to Desktop Publishing meets Saturdays for six weeks starting Sept. 10 from 12:30 PM to 3 PM on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills, in building L, Room 251. The cost is $97.

If you're an alumni of Moraine Valley Community College and would be willing to share information with college students about potential careers, then Moraine Valley's new Career Mentorship Program could benefit from your expertise.

The purpose of this new program is to link a student at the college with a professional who is currently working in a career that is of interest to the student. Through this program, students at the college will acquire valuable information as part of the decision-making phase in the career development process.

Mentors, alumni of the college, are community members and will share information with students through a personal interview, a tour of the job site, and/or panel presentations.

A career mentorship director will be published and will include information on mentors, such as places of employment and brief descriptions of job functions.

Mentors will participate in a brief orientation program on Tuesday, Sept. 13 at 7 PM in the College Center, Moraine Room 2, on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills. Mentors will also complete an evaluation form after each interview.

Stickney North Clinic Health Care Compensation

By Rick Techman

Improvements in compensation and benefits for health care workers progressed following several decisions made by the Stickney Township board at their August 30 meeting at the north clinic.

When the point was raised during the meeting of adding needed employees to the township's home health care force, Township Supervisor Louis Viverito raised the point of equitable wages and benefits for workers.

According to Viverito, the present starting wage for a home health care worker of $5.75 an hour was substandard based on an industry wide level.

The health care positions in question involve women of all ages providing light housekeeping, cleaning, meals, vacuuming, personal hygiene and other minor household chores for disabled senior citizens still able to live independently in the community.

Township Administrator Bob Peters said the township's view of this title 20 federal program is an attempt to allow the senior citizens to stay in their own home.

He said, "We're basically the last resource to provide a very genuine service or method of maintenance in the home."

The board addressed this work situation as a form of community service and determined through information on hand that most government workers in this field actually start at a slightly lower wage.

Viverito continued to show an interest in addressing equitable compensation for Stickney health care workers. Peters assured the board that all workers who reach twenty hours or more of work each week are entitled to a benefit package that includes insurance.

Peters also assured the board that the openings announced at the meeting were made possible by both resignations of present employees and increased workloads. He also said all home health care workers receive training and are supervised by a licensed nurse.

"It, " he added, "is not a revolving door of new faces."

OL Park charges children to sell used toys

Frank Soczek

On a cloudy and overcast Labor Day holiday, bright and colorful treasures of Christmases and birthdays past were lovingly arranged on folding tables, with the hope of finding new owners to share in their enduring magic.

As part of the 50th Anniversary celebration sponsored by the Oak Lawn Park District, young participants in the Kid's Garage Sale were required to pay a Five Dollar fee to sell their no longer used toys, games and sports cards during the festivities.

The concept of having such an activity on a kid's level is indeed admirable. The excitement generated by the dozen or so tables overflowing with toys and games was certainly a hit with the kids (and no doubt parents as well!) thanks to the absence of the everpresent VISA card machine; pockets were emptied of spare change as "new" acquisitions changed hands at a very modest cost.

Considering the nickel and quarter price tags on many of the items, some of the kids no doubt lost money on their venture. This is regrettable, since the Park District did not have to charge a Five Dollar fee; according to information published in section 3 of the Park District budget, "The estimated fund balance to be on hand at the end of the fiscal year is $2,234,705.00"

No, this is not a typographical error--the district governing body used the fees obtained from selling kid's toys to enrich a budget with a multi-million dollar surplus.

Surely there must be another way to demonstrate fiscal responsibility to our children without involving a well-loved teddy bear, a box of Star Wars figures and heaven forbid, Barney!

Please call your local comissioner and ask why.....For our kid's sake.....

Southside Business Network holds breakfast in Orland Park

September 30th will mark a very special occasion for the Southside Business Network. It will be their 5th Annual breakfast open to all businesses.

Friday, September 30, at 8:00 AM, Southside Business Network will sponsor a family style breakfast at Orland Chateau 14500 S. LaGrange Road in Orland Park.

Breakfast includes scrambled eggs, hash browns, ham, pork sausages, hot rolls, coffee cake or fruit cup and juice. There will be a raffle. Gifts include Braided rug from Rick Warman Carpet Fair in Posen, and certificate for two to see Will Rogers Follies at the Candlelight Theatre.

The speaker is Grace K. Morris, M.A., president of Astro Economics, Inc., and its division Company Profile, a timing and advisory service for businesses. She has two offices, one in Oak Brook and one in Oak Lawn. She is the author of "Stocks that will outperform the market" and "Working with businesses." Ms. Morris's speech will be "Money Making Trends."

A topic close to my heart will be a topic regarding the cease fire in Northern Ireland declared by the IRA.

One understanding of a cease fire is that regardless of injury, death, resentment and past atrocities, the cease firing will continue to exist. Does that mean that the current killings from the Protestant offsprings of paramilitary groups can continue and no retaliations from the IRA or subgroups will take place?

Well I hope this would be the case but as a skeptic, I doubt that it will occur. The Derry Journal concludes that cease firing will be a permanent status and now it is up to the British Government to request a dismissal of all military convoys and civilians in Northern Ireland for the establishment of a peaceful status in that sector since 1969.

Surely we know England is losing money having troops in Northern Ireland just as we know Northern Ireland is indeed dependent on England for a substantial amount of funding for stability of their economy.

Questions will follow in the future for an independent Northern Ireland! The United States will be smart if we continue to support the Republic and continue the encouragement for a successful Northern Ireland!

Kidscures

KIDS" CURES official "Kickoff" on June 28th was a smashing success, raising over $30,000 to fight the deadliest childhood genetic diseases.

After the tragic death of their daughter in April, Edward & Anna McElroy of Oak Brook formed KIDS' CURES and quickly put together their first benefit.

The KIDS' CURES mission is to cure the leading genetic killers of children by supporting medical research and to offer emotional support to those faced with such a deadly disease in their family. We will start with Spinal Muscular Atrophy (SMA) and other leading genetic childhood diseases.

When our medical advisory board guides us in the distribution of KIDS' CURES funds, we will inform you of the specific research your dollars support. Please call us with questions or comments at any time!

Baby Emily McElroy died at just seven Months, of Spinal Muscular Atrophy (SMA).

The McElroy's learned about clinical research firsthand, as Emily was the 3rd baby in the world to receive an experimental treatment for SMA (the first possible treatment ever).

"There's no greater, desperate sense of urgency, than that of a parent trying to save their dying child." Time very rapidly ran out for Emily, but she was part of the monumental first step towards curing SMA. Funds are so desperately needed to keep the research momentum going.

In her very short time on this earth, Emily inspired so many people to really make a difference in the lives of others. KIDS' CURES is absolutely devoted to its mission of abolishing the senseless loss of young lives to such deadly genetic diseases.

WHAT IS GOOD
John Boyle O'Reilly

"What is the real good?"
I asked in musing mood.

Order, said the law court;
Knowledge, said the school;
Truth, said the wise man;
Pleasure, said the fool;
Love, said the maiden;
Beauty, said the page;
Freedom, said the dreamer;
Home, said the sage;
Fame, said the soldier;
Equity, said the seer;—

Spake my heart full sadly;
"The answer is not here."

Then within my bosom
Softly this I heard:
"Each heart holds the secret;
Kindness is the word."

Cholesterol: Getting to the heart of the matter

"Your blood cholesterol level is an indicator of your cardiovascular health. In cholesterol-level screenings, the average score is 210 miligrams per deciliter of blood (mg/dl). It is recommended that people under 30 reduce their blood cholesterol levels to 180 mg/dl or less, and that those over 30 reduce to less than 200 mg/dl," stated Allocco.

If your total blood cholesterol reading is high, your physician may order a diagnostic test to learn about its compostion. There are actually two types of cholesterol, both carried through the blood vessels by lipoproteins. Low-density lipoproteins (LDL) that deposit cholesterol in the walls of the blood vessels are harmful. High-density lipoproteins (HDL) clear cholesterol out of the blood system and are beneficial.

"Some people have elevated blood cholesterol levels due to genetic factors but usually this is only one out of 500 cases. But most of us can control our cholesterol through a combination of diet and exercise which should be the first step taken to reduce elevated levels of cholesterol," concluded Allocco.

St. Francis Hospital & Health Center's new eight-week Cholesterol Reduction Program teaches you how to control your cholesterol levels and prevent heart disease through a common-sense approach to food. To register for a free orientation, call (708) 597-2000, Ext. 5735.

GETTING IT TOGETHER

By Pene

Darby and I were married for several years and had two children. We were separated for a short time and while we were separated, Darby had a baby by another man. I love Darby, so when we got back together, I accepted this child as my own. However, now a divorce is on the horizon, and if this divorce goes through, I do not think I should have to pay child support for this child, is there anything I can do to prove that this child is not mine? Then the natural father can pay support for this child.

Since divorce is near, it would be logical that your attorney would request a DNA testing, to prove that you are not the father of this child.

Other questions arise: Does the legal father dispute that he is the father? Is your wife still seeing the father of this child? Do you plan on still accepting this child once you are divorced, especially, when you have visitation with your own children, will you include this child with your activities?

If your attorney requests a DNA testing, since this is an issue, DNA can prove almost beyond a doubt if you are or are not the father of this child. To prove who the father is, would involve his cooperation, is he willing to submit to this testing?

So to answer your question, I must hand it back to you and our legal system.

Media—Ambulance Chasers?

By Dolores Woods

I don't know how others feel but I'm sure perplexed at the most recent media "health reports" on political candidates, elected officials and celebrity figures.

I would say that this trend began with President Reagan's colon and has spiraled down hill non-stop. We all learned about how a colonoscopy is performed and even watched as cameras traveled through an actual colon. Most of this scenic view came during the dinner hour, I might add. How much more fun can the media provide us as we dine?

Of course, we all expected to hear of the governor's medical crisis, but it has been going too far. Cameras were set up outside his hospital window and at the doors of the hospital where anyone who knew him was stopped for a comment. At the same time we learned of the Governor's condition, we were treated to other candidates—not even elected officail's — hysterectomises and lumpectomies. Is this all necessary?

Most recently we even traveled the road to the hospital where they took O.J. Simpson for his lymph gland biopsy. How is any of this any business of mine or any other American? If you remember, the first reports of O.J. condition were reported on the early news as "hemorrhoids!" Not only did they have the wrong symptoms, but they had the wrong part of the body.

I surely don't blame any of the candidates or elected officals, in fact, I'm sure they would rather have their privacy on medical matters such as these.

I'm not a prude but I still feel embarrassed when my sons are treated to commericals about feminine hygiene products, I can remember when yeast was a product used to raise dough, now it's a private infection females get that is publicized on the air waves!

I think it's nice to know when someone you care about is having medical problems, because you can send cards and possibly offer your assistance should they need it, but all of this invasion of privacy embarrasses, especially on a slow news day.

United Way begins $94 million campaign

The United Way/Crusade of Mercy on Thursday kicked off its 1994 Step Up and Be Counted, Caring Counts campaign to raise $94.3 million, highlighting the help it has given Chicago-area residents in past years.

United Way of Chicago and United Way of Suburban Chicago help fund more than 450 health and human service agencies that serve 2.5 million people annually.

Making changes in individual lives is the reason why (United Way) is doing what it does," campaign chairman James Kuckley said. "We have to feel the community and commitment in this campaign. United Way makes a difference."

A volunteer organization, United Way is considered one of the country's most effective charities. About 89 cents of every dollar collected is used for administrative costs and fundraising.

New children- and adult-sized shoes, boots, socks and slippers were collected at the kickoff and will be distributed to United Way-supported agencies. Contributors included are John & Rose Stella, Theresa & Richard Swanson.

Sears and Brunswick Recreational Centers contributed more than 400 pairs of new shoes, and Morton International and GATX Corporation employees also are operating shoe drives.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Ms. Dixon:

Thank you very much for sending me the copy of your August 1 edition containing a story on my winning the 1994 St. Rita High School "Teacher of the Year" award.

I was not even aware that the school's Publicity Director had sent out a story, I was very surprised and grateful to see it had been published in your paper, and just as surprised to see the copy of the press release sent to you by the school about my award.

It is very generous of you to print it and I thank you for doing so, as well as for your thoughtfulness in sending a copy of the press release and of the newspaper itself.

Best of luck in all your future endeavors.

Gratefully yours,

Dr. Michael Kisicki

A popular Southside dining institution celebrates life anew this week (with a Gaelic-inspired incarnation) as Kate O'Learys.

Housed in the former Louise's Restaurant at 10335 S. Pulaski in Chicago, the new proprietor Wayne Baxtrom plans to bring A Taste of Old Chicago to the local restaurant purview.

Following the premise that good food and entertainment are inseparable elements of a fine dining experience, a diverse mixture of Irish Folk, Big Band and Oldies sounds make up the eclectic mix of live music performed during the week.

With a warm, Dixieland style, Right Of Way featuring Gordon Wallin, Dennis Natarelli and John Trimmel rarely saw the tiny dance floor empty as they masterfully transcended several musical generations with a vibrant, upbeat presentation.

The dining menu has a number of modestly priced selections that will make the the local drive-in joint consider hiring an advertising agency! The Blackened Prime Rib Salad with onion, tomato, broccoli cucumber, and served on a bed of lettuce, topped with julienne strips of blackened prime rib...and served with a half-loaf of crisp bread and butter...is priced at $5.95!

The O'Leary House Specialty is an 8 oz Black Angus sirloin, marinated in Jameson Irish Whiskey and herbs and priced at $10.95.

Numerous prime rib, seafood, chicken and pasta selections are also available, along with a complete sandwich and pizza menu.

The Soon to be famous cheesecake (sugar free available) or Strawberry (albeit frozen) shortcake, along with a hot cup of coffee will add a fitting finish to a most pleasurable dining experience.

A Short Look At Long-Term Care Insurance

By Martha A. McSteen
President
The National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare

(NAPS)—Medicare does not protect seniors against the costs of long-term care. It covers only skilled care or about five percent of all nursing home costs. Nursing home stays cost about $35,000 a year and home care about half that.

McSteen

Many people choose to purchase private long-term care insurance. About 2.6 million policies have been sold by more than 130 companies. These policies typically offer a set dollar amount per day for care.

Currently, such insurance products are loosely regulated by the states. Several proposals have been introduced in Congress requiring federal standards for long-term care insurance policies. These would standardize coverage terms for ease in comparing policies; limit waiting periods for preexisting conditions to a one-time only maximum six months; protect against certain sales practices; eliminate a requirement for prior hospitalization before benefits are paid; limit sales commissions; require policies to contain non-forfeiture benefits; require additional funding for counseling and establish sanctions of up to $25,000 for violation of federal standards.

The National Committee supports such standards. Consumers need simplification of policy language to make comparisons easier and they need better access to insurance counseling.

On Nurses And Nursing Homes

By Martha A. McSteen
President
The National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare

(NAPS)—Quality care for people in nursing homes depends to a great degree on the adequacy of nurses and nurse aides. Yet current law is vague and inadequate on the subject of staffing. For Medicaid recipients, all the licensed nurse requirements can be waived by the states.

McSteen

A National Committee study showed that in 1988, U.S. nursing homes collectively needed to hire more than 35,800 additional registered nurses, 27,000 licensed practical nurses and 205,000 nurse aides to meet a modest minimum staffing standard chosen by long-term care experts.

The National Committee supports higher federal minimum staffing standards in nursing homes. Nursing home residents are very vulnerable and dependent on others to protect their rights. Adequate staffing should allow nurses to meet requirements of the law:

- Care that achieves the highest practicable mental, physical and psycho-social well being for each resident.
- No use of restraints or behavior-altering drugs unless all reasonable alternatives have been tried and a physician determines there is a documented urgent need.
- A plan of care for each resident built on a detailed assessment of needs and coordinated by a registered nurse.
- Nurse aides with a minimum of 75 hours of training and/or who have passed a state-certified competency test. Trainees may provide only the services they have demonstrated competence in and only under supervision.

HOW COMPANIES IN TROUBLE GOT THERE

(NAPS)—When Mark Barer decided to start his own company, all he could see were visions of dollars and tropical holidays dancing in his head. With a solid business idea and a hefty bank account, he began his dream. But one year later, Mark realized his dream had started to fade.

"I started with a solid $100,000 but the next thing I knew I was asking for a loan," he says. "My product was selling enough to cover what I had thought were the costs and customers seemed pleased. I just didn't understand why I didn't have enough money to survive."

Unfortunately, Mark's experience is not unusual. Although recent studies show the failure rate of small businesses is declining, three out of five still fail within the first five years.

According to Dun and Bradstreet, the leading reasons for business failure are economic and finance. For example, burdensome debt usually means poor financial planning; insufficient profits often indicate not that the product was poor, but that money was not collected from clients efficiently.

But the news isn't all bad. Unlike most factors, financial planning is the one area in which business owners can take control.

Lisa Zuffi, of the Small Business Administration, says many people she sees have solid business ideas and business knowledge, but their weak link is financial planning for their small business.

"The best immediate advice I can give to these companies is to computerize your bookkeeping. There are several software programs that allow you to keep your small business finances under control, by keeping track of invoices, check writing, bank accounts and by generating reports on all aspects of your business. And there are one or two that don't require a knowledge of accounting jargon," she says.

"Until I put my small business finances on QuickBooks, I didn't know where my money was going," says Kent Meschke, owner of Meschke Poultry and Feed Mill in Minnesota. "Now we can track our expenses by categories and at any time I can pull up a graph or report of where I spent my money last month and compare that to my present budget."

Virginia Hoffman says she is not a bookkeeper or a computer expert, but she has been successful at gaining control of her small business finances. "I used to hate working on my finances, but QuickBooks is so easy to use. Now I pay my bills and create customized invoices in half the time it takes by hand."

Another source of relief is the Small Business Administration (SBA) which offers free counseling to small businesses, through such groups as SBDC and SCORE. To locate the office near you call 1-800-8ASK-SBA.

In the meantime you can check your knowledge of business failures and the habits of small businesses with this quiz.

Business Failure Quiz

1. Who is credited with all of the nation's net new jobs—5.9 million—from 1987 to 1992? (a) large corporations (b) small businesses (c) the President (d) headhunters

2. In 1993, how many small businesses with less than 20 employees were in the United States? (a) 2 million (b) 4 million (c) 10 million (d) 19 million

3. The states where the most failed businesses occurred were: (a) New York, California (b) Texas, Oregon (c) New Hamp-shire, Arizona (d) California, Georgia

4. The leading cause(s) of small business failure: (a) inability to keep accurate and current financial records (b) inability to detect early signals of trouble and implement strategies to head them off (c) serious mistakes or miscalculations about the business (d) not collecting on delinquent accounts (e) all of the above.

5. The percentage of small businesses in which the owner, president or partner is responsible for day-to-day bookkeeping. (a) 25% (b) 45% (c) 66% (d) 74%

6. The percentage of small business owners that understand double-entry accounting methodology. (a) 10% (b) 20% (c) 66% (d) 40%

7. The number-one selling accounting software package in the United States and Canada (a) Microsoft Profit (b) Intuit's QuickBooks (c) Peachtree Accounting (d) Intuit's Quicken.

ANSWERS:

1. b. Small businesses created all these jobs. 2. d. Roughly 19 million. 3. d. California, Georgia. Arizona and New Hampshire come in third and fourth. 4. e. All of these factors fall under the category of financial and economic mistakes. 5. d. A 1994 study by Intuit found that in most small businesses, the owner, partner or president is also the accountant. This shows the need for an easy computerized software package that allows you to spend less time on bookkeeping and more time on your business. 6. c. Only 2/3 of small business owners understand accounting mumbo-jumbo, yet products like Peachtree and Microsoft Profit rely on debits and credits and double entry accounting in their programs. 7. b. QuickBooks is the number one selling small business accounting software package and Quicken is the number one selling personal finance package.

CELEBRATE! Pecans

All-American Dessert Is Easy As Pie

(NAPS)—As American as pecan pie?

You bet! Apple pie didn't even originate in the Western Hemisphere, let alone America. Pecan pies were born and raised in America—and are enjoyed here every day.

Fact is, the pecan pie is more than just a dessert. It's an institution.

There are probably as many recipes for this all-American favorite as there are pecan pie bakers. The following recipe, developed for the nation's pecan growers, certainly ranks among the best ever. And the easiest.

With just one bowl needed for preparation, you won't be spending a lot of time cleaning up the kitchen—just enjoying the rich custard that floats a crowd of crunchy pecans above a melt-in-your-mouth crust. Serve it warm with a scoop of vanilla ice cream, and you've got an American institution at its finest.

For more recipes featuring one of America's favorite nuts, send a self-addressed, stamped long envelope to Pecans, The Thacker Group, 1008 Second Street, Old Sacramento, CA 95814.

Best-Ever Pecan Pie A La Mode

- 1 (9-inch) pastry shell, unbaked
- 1 cup pecans, chopped
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup light corn syrup
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 eggs
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Line pastry shell with pecans; set aside. Blend sugar, salt, corn syrup and vanilla. Beat in eggs one at a time, mixing well. Pour mixture over pecans and dot with butter. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour, or until knife inserted in center of pie comes out clean. Serve warm with scoop of French vanilla ice cream.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

A "Brave Little Toaster" To Warm Your Heart

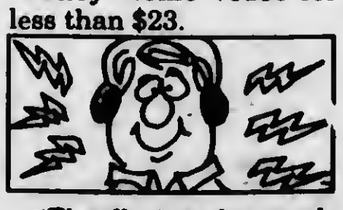
A tale of loyalty and courage, the superbly animated film follows the adventures of five electrical appliances who set off with a host of other household items to find their beloved owner who mysteriously disappeared. The Emmy-nominated film features the voice talents of Jon Lovitz and Phil Hartman.

The full-length feature, a rare combination of sly wit, excellent animation and strong story is available from Walt Disney Home Video for less than $23.



The first major work of electronic music was Poeme Electronique, by Edgard Varèse in 1958.

A Quick But Luscious Lunch For Fall

A Waldorf chicken sandwich made with canned meat is almost as easy to create as it is delicious.

(NAPS)—Here's a great idea for a quick midday break. Try a delicious and even elegant Waldorf chicken sandwich made with UNDERWOOD® Chunky Chicken Spread.

Many cooks are pleased to use this authentic meat spread developed by the Wm. Underwood Co., because it's so easy and convenient to use.

In addition to chicken, Deviled Ham Spread and Honey Ham Spread, also from UNDERWOOD, are great as snacks, in salads, in dips, as appetizers and on sandwiches.

Waldorf Chicken Sandwich

1 can (4 1/4 ounces) UNDERWOOD Chunky Chicken Spread
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1/2 medium apple, finely chopped
2 tablespoons raisins
1 stalk celery, finely chopped
6 slices whole grain bread

In a medium bowl, combine all ingredients; mix well.

Cover and refrigerate 1 hour. Serve on whole grain bread. Makes 3 servings.

BUDGET STRETCHING TRAVEL IDEAS

Budget Accommodations For Travelers

(NAPS)—Travelers on an economy budget can experience the Korean lifestyle by staying in a traditional yogwan or private home.

The special yogwan and homestay programs were organized by Korea National Tourism Corporation in response to current consumer trends emphasizing budget travel.

Korean culture emphasizes a warm welcome and cordial hospitality for visitors. A yogwan stay or homestay are ideal ways to experience Korean hospitality at a personalized level. For example, it's customary to leave shoes at the door.

Yogwan is a small Korean inn with under 100 rooms. Yogwan guests can choose Korean style or Western style rooms. A Korean style room includes a traditional mattress and quilt for sleeping on the floor. A Western style room includes a regular bed with mattress and box springs.

Yogwan rooms are furnished with color television, telephone and private bath. Yogwan room rates range from approximately $20 to $40 per night.

Booking information: Yogwan are listed in an accommodations guide available from Korea National Tourism Corporation. Travelers should contact the yogwan directly.

The homestay program, with 500 homes in Korea's major cities and small country towns, is an opportunity to meet Korean families in a traditional setting.

Homestay room rates are approximately $25 for a single traveler. The double occupancy room rate is approximately $30. The family room rate is approximately $40 for two adults and one child age six to 12. Homestay rates include breakfast.

Booking information: The new accommodations guide includes a reservation form for the homestay program. The form should be submitted to a regional office of Korea National Tourism Corporation at least one month in advance of the visit.

The accommodations brochure and detailed travel information are available from Korea National Tourism Corporation at 3435 Wilshire Bl., Ste. 350, Los Angeles, CA 90010.

NEWS FOR VETERANS

Letters To Washington Can Help Get You The Health Benefits You Deserve

(NAPS)—How will health care reform affect America's veterans? Writing your legislators could help ensure that you or a loved one will get affordable, quality medical care whenever it's needed, say the members of Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW).

Health care reform should include a true commitment to funding for the VA health care system, many believe.

While the Administration's health care plan seems to address many concerns of veterans, it is offered only as a package deal, forcing veterans to involve themselves in the non-veteran side of the health care debate. VFW is fighting to remain focused on the concerns of veterans.

If saving and preserving the Veterans Administration (VA) system is truly the goal of Congress and the Administration, VFW members ask, why has the government refused to support VFW's proposal of proceeding with VA health care eligibility reform independent of any national health care plan? Even with the installation of a national health care system in mind, it simply makes sense to open up the VA to all of America's veterans now, rather than later, VFW believes.

Many veterans are also concerned about adequate funding for the VA health care system, which has been grossly underfunded through the years. Because of this, only a small minority of the veteran population has access to the system.

What the VA system needs, VFW believes, is "stand-alone" legislation providing for both adequate funding and liberalized eligibility criteria so that more veterans might use the system. There should be no need to wait for the establishment of some national health care plan rather than pushing ahead with VA funding and reform today.

It is VFW's firm conviction that national health care reform will not prove to be a panacea for all that ails the VA; therefore, it is not completely endorsing the proposed national health care plan. For the VFW, it is the well-being of veterans that must remain first and foremost in mind.

What's your opinion on this issue? You can let your legislators know by writing the U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510 and the House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

NEWS FOR SENIORS

Get Your Share Of Benefits And Services

(NAPS)—If you or someone you know is among the 42 million Americans over 65—or intends to be some day—a new book could soon become an old friend.

Called American Guidance for Seniors and Their Caregivers, this edition, written by senior citizen advocate Ken Skala, includes facts and phone numbers on hundreds of programs, agencies and services available to older Americans.

Ken Skala has authored a guide book for older Americans that could help many save money and improve the quality of their lives.

Here are a few examples:

• Over 670 Agencies on Aging provide home-delivered meals, health and personal care, chores, visitation, counseling, rehabilitation service, respite care, transportation, general information and referrals to anyone over 60 for little or no money.

• Banks and savings institutions now offer tremendous incentives on new accounts opened by older customers, including free checking and fee-free travelers checks.

• Home energy and weatherization programs from governments and utilities give seniors low- or no-cost assistance with home heating and cooling.

• There are several federal programs which help elderly individuals meet their transportation needs with reduced fares or free rides to acquire medical services.

• Senior Citizens may receive legal assistance from legal aid offices in areas such as government benefits, consumer fraud, pensions, age discrimination, property tax exemptions and assessments, guardianships, nursing home matters and other problems.

The book tells you how you can go about getting all these services, and more and explores and explains income assistance, education, travel discounts, health care, housing assistance and senior employment programs. It shows how Social Security and Medicare work, and how to work with them to make them work for you.

It costs $17.95, plus $3 for postage and handling and can be charged to Visa, MasterCard or American Express. For a copy, call 1-800-705-5353 and request Dept. AP.

NEWS FOR OLDER AMERICANS

Government Creates Commission On "Notch" Reform

(NAPS)—If you were born between 1917 and 1926, you may get an additional $1,000 a year from Social Security.

Congress is currently considering Social Security reform legislation that may mean more money for you.

An official U.S. government Commission is preparing recommendations that may change the Social Security system so people born in those years get the full amount they deserve.

The Notch Victims Handbook can help you confirm if you qualify and learn how much victims are owed. It shows how the Social Security Notch was created and comes with a free pamphlet giving full details on the Commission.

The book costs $5. Seniors or house-bound persons may order by mail at a discount price of $3.95 plus $1 shipping and handling from: Book Offer, THE SENIOR EXCHANGE, INC., Box 1010, Madison, VA 22727-1010.

The Difference In A Woman's Heart℠

(NAPS)—Anne Smith was 50 years old when she experienced her heart attack—only she didn't learn it was a heart attack right away.

"I just hadn't been feeling well. Even with just a little effort, I'd suddenly be out of breath. Sometimes I felt so nauseous, I couldn't eat. I went to the emergency room and they thought it was my stomach. I insisted on a second opinion and that's when a cardiologist told me I was indeed having a heart attack."

Women tend to have different symptoms from men, making their heart disease harder to detect.

Anne may not have been diagnosed as having a heart attack right away because the signs of cardiovascular disease are often different in women than in men. While men usually experience sharp pains in the chest, women experience vague chest pressure, usually in the epigastric area (below the sternum). Their pain tends to come and go and is often accompanied by nausea. Women with heart disease also tend to experience severe shortness of breath when mildly exerted.

According to medical experts from the advisory board of "The Difference in a Woman's Heart℠" campaign, which is a national effort sponsored by DuPont Radiopharmaceuticals to educate physicians and women about female heart disease, women may not recognize their risk factors—age, hormone status, family history of heart disease, smoking, obesity, cholesterol levels and physical inactivity—and need to take a more active role in discussing them with their doctor.

Cardiovascular disease, well known as the leading killer of men, is actually the number one killer of women as well, claiming the lives of nearly 500,000 every year, reports the American Heart Association (AHA). According to a recent Gallup poll, many women believe that breast cancer is their most serious health threat—but in fact, about twice as many women die from heart disease than from breast, lung, ovarian and uterine cancers combined.

Research has proven that women with coronary artery disease, which causes heart attacks, are less likely to be properly diagnosed than men and are also less likely to be treated aggressively. A study conducted by D. Douglas Miller M.D. and his colleagues at St. Louis University Medical School shows that women with suspected coronary artery disease undergo fewer additional diagnostic studies than men after an initial noninvasive stress test that shows abnormalities.

According to Dr. Miller, there are simple, painless, noninvasive tests available to detect heart disease that may be better suited to a woman's anatomy and physiology. One of these is cardiac imaging which shows 3-D images of blood flow and the pumping action of the heart. "By using a newer imaging agent such as Technetium-99m sestamibi," Dr. Miller explains, "we are able to overcome the problem of shadows caused by breast tissue which can interfere with images of the heart. The clearer picture resulting from this method of testing may give more accurate results than previously available from routine treadmill and echocardiogram tests."

If you suspect that heart disease may be a problem for you or someone you care about, consult your doctor.

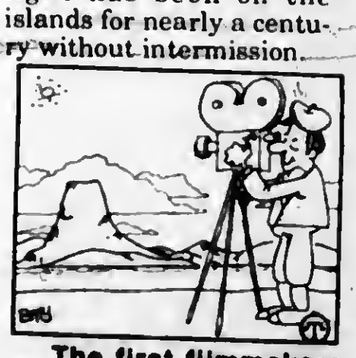
NEWS OF TRAVEL

Spotlight on Hawaii

(NAPS)—Our 50th state has not only become one of the world's most photographed places by visitors, but Hawaii also provides some of the most spectacular backdrops for the movie and television industries. In fact, according to Pleasant Hawaiian Holidays, the largest travel company to Hawaii, the entertainment spotlight has been on the islands for nearly a century without intermission.



The first filmmakers in Hawaii produced travelogues in 1898.

The first filmmakers produced travelogues in 1898, but, when Hollywood discovered Hawaii, we saw such classics as "From Here to Eternity," "South Pacific," and "The Caine Mutiny." Other silver screen favorites included "Blue Hawaii," "Mister Roberts," "Raiders of the Lost Ark," and "Jurassic Park." The latest movie to be shot there is Kevin Kostner's futuristic "Water World."

Television in the 60s brought the Islands into mainland living rooms with "Adventures in Paradise" and "Hawaiian Eye." And who can forget "Hawaii Five-O" and "Magnum, P.I."?

The spotlight remains on Hawaii as a popular setting for films and television, but for a free brochure on travel to see Hawaii in person, call your travel agent or Pleasant Hawaiian Holidays at 800-2-HAWAII.

The OCS frequently receives calls from residents requesting help with various "Odd Jobs" that need to be done around the house. If you would like to change your "spare time" into a "profitable time" please come to the OCS office and fill out an application. You do not have to be a senior or retired to qualify.

Painters, electricians, plumbers, lawn caretakers are in demand. Women are wanted for light housework, baby-sitting, senior sitting/companion. Most jobs are on a one-time or part-time basis, and salaries are negotiable.

I & M Canal rendevous

Frank Soczek

Close your eyes and try to imagine smoky campfires along the wooded shores of the Des Plaines River. Listen carefully, and you may be able to hear the sounds of the banjo, fiddle and tin whistle emanating from another place in time.

And maybe, you might discover an 18th century American, English or French fur trapper as he barters his rabbit and beaver pelts for tinwares jewelry, or perhaps a flintock musket.

Sound like a dream? In a way it is; but in another sense the annual Illinois and Michigan Canal Rendevous gives a remarkable insight into the customs and traditions of our local heritage.

No history book can convey the acrid smell of black powder or butter-soft suppleness of a newly tanned rabbit pelt....or capture the sweet, magical tonality of the hammered dulcimer played on authentic period instruments without the benefit of speakers and amplifiers. Such aural and sensual feelings are beyond realm of even the most meticulously prepared public television presentation.

Thanks to the sponsors and participants of this special annual historical celebration, we can, if but for a brief moment, relive a rich and colorful past.. and gain a greater respect and awareness for those who passed before us .

Gang and Cult Awareness Workshop at Moraine Valley

A workshop on gang and cult awareness for health care providers will be held on Friday, Oct. 7, from 9 AM to 4:30 PM at Moraine Valley Community College in Palos Hills. The program will be held in the College Center Moraine Rooms on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave.

This workshop, presented by Detective Tom Babicky form the Illinois Department of Corrections, will increase participants' understanding of people who join gangs; the identification of gang activity; bylaws of gangs, use of hand signals; clothing and other signals as gang identifiers; and special concerns for health care providers and other service providers.

The program is co-sponsored by Moraine Valley and Evangelical Health Systems (EHS).

The fee is $20 for EHS employees, and $35 for others. The fee includes refreshments and lunch.

For more information, call Community and Continuing Education at (708) 974-5747. To register, call the College Service Center at (708) 974-2110.

Economic Development Council to host Breakfast Forum

Furthering the development of the southwest suburbs is one of the goals of Moraine Valley Community College's Economic Development Council for the Southwest Suburbs (EDCSS).

To move forward with that goal, the EDCSS is co-sponsoring a business and community development breakfast forum along with the Oak Lawn Hilton and Palos Bank and Trust.

The breakfast, which will bring together economic development professionals from the area, will be held on Monday, Sept. 26, from 8 AM to 10 AM at the Oak Lawn Hilton.

Through a series of focus groups conducted prior to Sept.26 EDCSS Director Hilary Gereg hopes to identify the major economic development issues of the area.

"At the meeting on Sept. 26, we'll present a summary of the information we gather from the focus groups," Gereg said.

From that information, Gereg added, the EDCSS will develop a series of other breakfast forums to address specific economic development - related topics.

Anyone interested in the topic of economic development is invited to attend the meeting at the Oak Lawn Hilton, Cicero Avenue at 94th Street in Oak Lawn.

For more information, call the EDCSS at (708) 974-5714.

Navy Seaman Recruit

Daniel A. Binfa, son of Fernando A. and Patricia V. Binfa of 9047 S. Major, Oak Lawn, IL., recently completed basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, IL.

During the cycle, recruits are taught general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 occupational fields.

Studies include seamanship, close-order drill, naval history and first-aid.

Although the Navy is getting smaller, the state-of-the-art ships, aircraft and high tech systems in today's fleet require bright, talented young men and women to operate them. The Navy has over 55,000 job openings this year, most of which include guaranteed training.

The oldest warship still afloat is the Constitution, built in 1797.

Paramount Arts Centre presents Los Folkoristas

A truly international group, they have performed in the United States, Canada, Columbia, Ecuador, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Italy, Germany, Belgium, Cuba, Nicaragua and the Netherlands.

The group's efforts help to preserve valuable traditions. To pass these traditions along, Los Folkloristas introduce each song. They also perform frequently at schools around the world. Creating an imaginary journey through Latin America, the group paints a picture of the region and its people, capturing its heart through the sounds that they hold dear.

Songs frequently include themes of love, respect and peace. For example "Riaz Viva" uses instruments from the Pre-Columbian era to convey the importance of heritage while Banos a Andar" speaks of hope and is dedicated to victims of the Mexico City earthquake.

Some of the world's most accomplished performers of music form Latin America, Los Folkloristas, perform with undenialbe spirit and style at the Paramount Arts Centre in Aurora Sun., Sept. 25 at 3 PM.

The group's energy and love of art make every song a celebration with musical talents that are bound neither by language nor ethnicity. Songs are lively and exciting. At the end of the show itr is not unusual to here bilingual cries for more amid the applause.

This accomplished seven member ensemble plays over 100 instruments to capture the variety of sounds in their multi-faceted culture. Included in their sound are such unusual organic instruments as a guitar made from an armadillo shell, turtle shells, dried butterfly cocoons, a gourd immersed in water and a water stick which mimics the sounds of the sea along with more traditional strings, winds and percussion.

Founded in 1966, Los Folkloristas aims to interpret and spread the folklore of Latin America and the Nueva Cancion through all possible means. They have recorded an impressive 30 albums as well as provided music for theatrical works as well as such films as "Under Fire" and "El Norte."

Tickets for the show are $14.50 for adults and $12.50 for children 12 and under. For tickets and information contact the Paramount Box Office at (708) 896-6666, 23 E. Galena Blvd. in Aurora. Tickets are also available through ticketmaster, (312) 902-1500 and at all ticketmaster outlets.

Other shows coming to the Paramount this fall include comedian George Wallace, Oct. 8; David Seebach's Illusions in the Night, Oct. 22 and Dancetime!, Oct. 30.

A wrongdoer is often a man that has left something undone, not always he that has done something.

Chicago THE WINDY CITY

by Frank Soczek

Have you ever wondered how Chicago got its nickname the Windy City? Or how many languages can be encountered within the City limits? Did you know the second busiest highway in America is found right here in town? These and many more fascinating bits of trivia are included on The Grand Tour sponsored by American Sightseeing Company of Chicago.

One of fifteen different bus tours available from downtown Chicago, the four hour trip begins at the Palmer House and travels north along the Magnificent Mile, noting popular shops, restaurants and points of interest along the route.

The driver on the "North" leg of our trip, Homero Tijerina, kept interest levels high by interspersing clever one-liners along with the tour dialog. He discussed the folklore of the Lincoln Park Totem Pole, noting it was meant to ward off evil spirits.."But it hasn't helped the Cubs much."

It was particularly enjoyable to sit back and observe with awe Homero's navigational skills as he deftly maneuvered his massive tour bus through the narrow Northside streets, fending off suicidal taxi cabs and rollerbladers with an obvious death wish.

As one of the native Chicagoans on the trip, it was difficult to suppress a smug grin (and chuckle) as magnificent million dollar Lincoln Park graystone mansions were described as "typical Chicago homes." (I think I'll send my resume to the bus line and apply for a tour guide position!)

I have walked past the heroic bronze sculptures of the Indian warriors near the Art institute for many years and never noticed their weapons were missing!

The South Shore tour progressed down the second busiest highway (the Dan Ryan; the Santa Monica Freeway is number one) to Jackson Park, offering brief glimpses of the Museum of Science and Industry and the University of Chicago before heading back north for a stop at the Adler Planeterium and its sweeping, panoramic vistas of the city skyline.

Hidden treasures of information and attention to often overlooked details instilled a renewed sense of pride in those who have lived in Chicago all of their lives; for those visiting for the first time, a spellbound sense of awe seemed to prevail.

The Grand Tour is definitely not for tourists only! For information and reservations (and the answer to the Windy City appelation) call 312 427-3100.

OL student will attend national conference

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Miss Chrissie Garza of Oak Lawn has been selected to attend The National Young Leaders Conference from Oct. 11 to Oct. 16, 1994, in Washington, D.C. The National Young Leaders Conference is a unique leadership development program for high school students who have demonstrated leadership potential and scholastic merit. Chrissie, a Junior at Oak Lawn Community High School will be among 350 outstanding National Scholars attending the conference from across America.

The theme of the National Young Leaders Conference is The Leaders of Tomorrow Meeting the Leaders of Today. Throughout the six-day conference, Chrissie will interact with key leaders and newsmakers from the three branches of government, the media and the diplomatic corps.

Highlights of the program include welcoming remarks from the Floor of the United States House of Representatives and a panel discussion with prominent journalists at the National Press Club. Scholars will visit foreign embassies and receive policy briefings from senior government officials. Chrissie may also meet with Senator Carol Moseley-Braun, Senator Paul Simon and Representative William O. Lipinski to discuss important issues facing Oak Lawn and the nation.

"The conference provides the opportunity for students, like Chrissie, to distinguish themselves as tomorrow's leaders," said John Hines, Council Executive Director. "Scholars not only gain knowledge and experience in the nation's capital, they leave with a sense of accomplishment and an increased ability to face the challenges of the future."

1994-95 alumnae officers

The Alumnae Mothers sponsor events for members throughout the school year. Members and friends play bridge each month, under the direction of Therese Kwiatkowski of Oak Lawn and Lenore Roberts of Midlothian. The 10th Anniversary of the founding of the Alumnae Mothers Club, coordinated by Mary Ellen Schwaller and Betty DeTamble, will be celebrated on Nov. 2.

OL adopts Southwest Symphony

The Oak Lawn Village Board voted at its September 27th meeting to formally "adopt" the Southwest Symphony Orchestra.

Representing the orchestra's board, Arlene Guca noted: "Oak Lawn is proud of its blue collar working class roots.." Dispelling the "unsophisticated and lowly educated" inference of a recent article in Crain's, Guca dismissed the pejorative "bowling type" label of the "blue collar southern suburbs" and the perceived inability to financially sustain such a cultural institution.

Mayor Kolb praised the orchestra's recent performance at Moraine Valley Community College, noting the support and representation of 17 out of the 20 local community leaders invited.

Aside from the three regularly scheduled performances held at Mother McAuley High School in Chicago, future events include a special Christmas concert at Peace Memorial Church in Palos Park and a pops concert in May at Moraine Valley College.

The column is going to be about my pet peeves the past week.

I went to see Art Garfunkle on September 6 at the Star Plaza and could hardly get anyone interested to attend the concert with me Everyone I know likes (Simon)! I remember Simon and Garfunkle from the 60's but it was always Art Garfunkle's voice I enjoyed. It was a pleasure listening again to his old standards along with several new hits. What ever happened to Simon?

At several Chamber Happenings business people where in their small group meetings and that's too bad. They should join Southwest Business Network and learn to Network! Joining organizations and hoping your going to get business is not networking in the 90's.

Why is it that the main thoroughfares are all under construction when our State road and repair funds are low. Could it be that we are in for a toll increase after November's Election?

With all the communication systems available to me, I'm still missing calls. I have an answering machine, voice mail, pager and call forwarding. I believe some people still refuse to accept our new communication technology, too bad.

Last pet peevel Why do computer experts tell you they can repair your hardware but cannot quote an accurate price for labor and repairs. The same is for T.V. repairs and all appliance repairs. I know someone who was told by a refrigeration repairman that it would cost $388 for labor and repair. also $350 for repair of a $495 printer! It cost a friend $250 for repair on a T.V. The days for hiring service repair companies for small appliances are long gone. Instead of checking the yellow pages for repairs, you might check the FOR SALE ads in local papers.

When choosing between two evils, I always like to try the one I've never tried before.

Editor's Note: Sister Mary Ellen was her independent self as she exited out of this world. She was accompanied at the time of her death by her niece Mary Ellen and her friend Mary Ann Morgan; showing them the love she has shown everyone that had entered her life.

On September 6 when she left Wheaton to visit four states including Las Vegas, Mary Ellen reminded me to be sure to put her column in the paper and I was prepared until Oct. 15. It was as though she knew she would not return.

While she was in Las Vegas visiting her two sisters, Mary Ellen had the opportunity to fly over the Grand Canyon. This was something she told me before she left that she had wanted to do all her life.

After a day out over the Grand Canyon, she tumbled in the parking lot at the hotel and was hospitalized on the 19th. It was either late Thursday on the 22nd or early Friday morning the 23rd she succumbed to the Canyon in the sky!

He Called Me By Name

"He called me by name"
From the time of my birth,
Before I had met Him,
And valued His worth.
And because He was God,
He was able to see
That I had to have someone
To watch over me.

So He picked out an angel,
My own special one,
To guide and protect me,
'Til living was done.
Who had but one job,
And that was to be
A loving and loyal
Companion to me.

"He called me by name"
And the love in His eyes,
Promised me all
That this cold world denies.
A home with Him always,
In Heaven above,
Safe in the Kingdom
Of God's endless love.

Grace E. Easley

I will give you treasures out of the darkness and hidden riches that you may know that I am the Lord, the God of Israel, who calls you by name.

Included are the names she has given me up until October 15.

Memorials can be sent in her name: Sr. Mary Ellen, Loretto Convent, P.O. Box 508, Wheaton, IL.

CONTEST CORNER

$100,000 Kid Search Seeks Tomorrow's Supermodels

Kid Search Model Contest is looking for the child model of the year.

(NAPS)—As the glamour fades from Hollywood, fascination with the modeling industry has soared to an all-time high. "Supermodel" has become a household word, with names such as Cindy Crawford and Claudia Schiffer known to millions. Cable TV shows, the new Fox series "Models Inc.," and a flood of magazine stories have put the exciting world of modeling in the spotlight.

In light of the industry's growth, Wilhelmina Models, one of the world's largest modeling agencies, is presenting Kid Search '94, a nationwide search for new child models. Open to ages newborn through 17, the grand prize is a $100,000 modeling contract with Wilhelmina and a $1,000 college scholarship. The weight and height requirements may differ from that of a supermodel, but the very youngest entrants still have to look great in a pair of Huggies! The first 1,000 entrants will receive a free book, Wilhelmina's World of Child Modeling, by director Natasha Esch.

"The need for child models has skyrocketed and Kid Search is the safest way and easiest way for them to get started modeling the right way," says Esch.

Kid Search is sponsored by Expressly Portraits and We Care Hair. Official entry forms are available at all sponsor locations, by calling 1-800-KIDS-MODEL, or write: Kid Search '94, Dept. NP, P.O. Box 13486, Bridgeport, CT.06673-3486. Deadline for entry is October 31, 1994.

Bone marrow transplant needed for local resident

Dennis Barre was a happy and healthy young man, looking forward to a future of a family and the happily ever afters we all want.

Two years ago, Dennis was diagnosed with Aplastic Anemia, a rare and life threatening disease of the blood. He must, at this time, have transfusions of blood platelets and whole units of blood on a weekly basis. His only chance of survival is to have a bone marrow transplant. The problem for Dennis, along with so many others suffering from disorders of the blood, including leukemia is finding a suitable donor.

The test, which consists of a simple blood draw is very expensive, it runs about $600.00 per person tested. If we were able to have 200 people tested at one time, the cost would drop from $600.00 to $50.00 per person. This project will still cost $10,000.00 at that price. With Dennis' mounting health care costs, this would be impossible without your help. This project will also help others waiting for a bone marrow transplant. The individuals who are tested are then placed on a registered national list of donors. We could virtually help 200 other people through this effort and hopefully one of them will match Dennis.

Dennis' bills at this time are running $12,000.00 a month. With the proper donor this nightmare for the entire Barre family could end happily. Dennis was a great healthy active kid that everyone loved, please help this 22 year old young man live the long life someone like Dennis deserves. On October 14, 1994 we will be holding a benefit at the Sabre Room located at 8900 W. 95th Street in Hickory Hills, phone (708) 598-1200. We plan to make this a fun filled entertaining night. Including dancing to The Tony Bernard Show, guest celebrities and many raffles to help the cause. There will be a live auction, money raffle and a prize raffle. It will be a night of fun for a good cause. The money raised will help for the bone marrow testing and medical expenses. We need help with donated items for the raffles and the auction (all donors will be noted to those in attendance). We need media coverage and help with selling the benefit tickets. If you could see your way clear to help us that is wonderful and we thank you for something that could not be accomplished alone.

Sincerely, The family & Friends of Dennis Barre

Beverly Theatre auditions

The Beverly Theatre Guild will hold open auditions for the original Christmas revue, "Christmas By Remote Control", Sun., Oct. 9 from 6:30 to 9 PM and Mon., Oct. 10 from 7 to 10 PM at LaSalle Talman Bank, (west entrance, lower level) at the northeast corner of 95th & Cicero, Oak Lawn. Parts are available for both children and adults, all ages. Auditionees should be prepared to sing, a Christmas carol is acceptable, because traditional as well as contemporary carols will be featured in the production. There will also be a dance audition, so loose fitting clothing should be wore. Parts are also available for characters that neither sing nor dance. The show is the story of little Eddie, who has not learned the true meaning of Christmas. The situation looks bleak, until Santa appears to work some of his Christmas magic.

The show will be performed at two locations, starting on the north side at the theater located in LaSalle Talman Bank, at 4901 W. Irving Park, Chi., Sat., Dec., Dec., 10 at 8 PM and Sun., Dec. 11 at 2 PM and then the following weekend at the Beverly Art Center, 2153 W. 111th Street., Chi., Fri., Dec., 16 & Sat., Dec., 17 at 8 PM and Sun., Dec., 18 at 2 PM. The show will be directed by Leanne Rae, (Justice) choreographed by Melanie Herman (Hickory Hills), and musically directed by Kathy Miller (Tinley Park). Phone 708-839-6862, for further information.

Paramount Arts Centre presents George Wallace

George Wallace knows your mother, and he is telling the world about her at the Paramount Arts Centre Sat., Oct. 8 at 8 PM.

I hear she's so fat if you walked around her from east to west you'd lose a day. She's so ugly too. She sent her picture in to Playboy and they sent it on to Field and Stream.

Opening for Wallace at the Paramount Centre is Wendy Liebman who started her comedy career in nursery school, where she tried making her classmates laugh during naptime. Instead, they cried and threw graham crackers. Fortunately for the comedy world she persisted. A familiar presence on television, Liebman has appeared on The Tonight Show with Johnny Carson and Jay Leno, Comic Strip Live, VH1's Stand-Up Spotlight. Bob Hope's Ladies of Laughter and MTV's Half Hour Comedy Hour.

Liebman's stock in trade is the one-liner, the deadpan aside, the tag and the subliminal afterthought. The effectiveness of her technique lies largely in the unexpectedness of her timing. The punchline invariably falls after the joke seems to be over.

This fun-filled evening of comedy is sponsored by WYSY, 107.9 FM.

Tickets for George Wallace and Wendy Liebman are $19.75. To order tickets contact the Paramount Box Office at (708) 896-6666, 23 E. Galena Blvd., Aurora.

Tickets can also be purchased by phone through Ticketmaster (312) 902-1500 and at all Ticketmaster outlets.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Fast fixing family menu

You can still eat lean beef

Think you have to eat chicken instead of beef to lower your cholesterol level? Think again. Beef lovers can now take heart, thanks to new research from Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. Researchers confirm that beef and chicken that are equally low in fat have virtually the same effect on reducing cholesterol levels in the body. Best of all, according to researches, it comes down to selection, preparation and portioning.

The 13-week study, published in the June 13 issue of the Archives of Internal Medicine, put two groups of men with high blood cholesterol on a heart-healthy diet with 30 percent of daily calories from fat. The only difference was that one group of study participants ate chicken as their source of meat, while the other group ate beef. The meat portions were the same and the amount of fat, saturated fat and cholesterol of the two test diets were very similar.

Some surprising results- Both test diets produced significant decreases in average total blood cholesterol and low-density lipoprotein(LDL) cholesterol levels. Both beef and chicken lowered "bad" (LDL) cholesterol levels 9 to 11 percent.

"This research shows that it's the amount of fat and saturated fat in the diet — not the type of meat eaten — that correlates with blood cholesterol levels," says Lynne Scott, M.A., R.D., director of the Diet Modification Clinic at the Baylor College of Medicine and one of the study's lead researchers. "We've found that when beef and chicken contain comparable amounts of fat, they are virtually interchangeable in regard to their effect on cholesterol levels. The important thing is how the products are prepared."

Easy Diet Changes— The men in the study first ate a "stabilization" diet that provided 40 percent of calories from fat and included Prime beef top loin (strip) steak and chicken thigh meat with skin. Then, they switched to leaner cuts of meat and poultry during the test diet period. During the test diet (which contained 30 percent of from fat), the men were divided into two groups: one eating only Choice beef sirloin or top round and the other chicken breast with the skin partially removed. The study participants made other lower-fat changes in their overall diet, such as substituting part-skim mozzarella cheese for cheddar.

The chicken and beef entrees for the test meals contained only 7 or 8 grams of fat per 3.5-ounce serving and were low in saturated fat. Food scientists at Texas A & M University prepared the meat for the participants to control portion sizes and the exact amount of fat. Portion sizes totaled about three ounces of meat per 1,000 calories daily.

The men on the beef test diet ate meals including Lemony Beef (trimmed, broiled top loin, with lemon)), Teriyaki Beef (marinated, trimmed top loin), and Shredded Beef (top round). Participants on the chicken-only test diet received Lemon Pepper Chicken, Italian Style Chicken

The Baylor College of Medicine study showed that beef was equal to chicken in lowering blood cholesterol levels when used as as part of a low-fat diet. The difference, according to researchers, is not which meat you eat, but how lean it is, how much is eaten, and what other foods are eaten with it.

"Although beef today is 27% leaner than a decade ago, consumers can further reduce the amount of fat and cholesterol in their diet by trimming fat and using low-fat cooking methods," explains Eric Hentges, Ph.D., director of nutrition research for the National Live Stock and Meat Board. The Meat Board provides funding for the study.

Here are your best bets for beef: • Look for the words "round" or loin in the name when shopping for beef. • In the Baylor Study, participants ate beef that was graded as USDA Choice. Beef graded as Select has even less fat than Choice beef. • Trim any visible external fat from beef before cooking, and trim inside separable fat after cooking but before eating. • Watch portion sizes. The American Heart Association and American Dietetic Association recommends eating no more than 6 ounces of lean beef or other foods from the Meat Group each day. That equals two 3-ounce servings, or one 6-ounce serving of cooked, trimmed meat. A 3-ounce cooked serving of beef is about the size of a deck of cards. • Use cooking methods that do not require added fat, such as broiling or roasting on a rack, panbroiling, grilling and poaching. • Make gravies and sauces by skimming fat from juices that cook out of meat and thickening it, either by using a small amount of flour or cornstarch or by cooking longer to reduce the volume.

Mediterranean Beef Steak & Potato Wedges

1 1/2-pound boneless beef top sirloin steak, cut 1 1/4 inches thick

Steak Seasoning:
3 lg. cloves, garlic crushed
2 tsp. dried oregano leaves
1/2 tsp. lemon pepper

Potato Wedges:
1 tbsp. olive oil
1/2 tsp. lemon pepper
3 all-purpose potatoes, each cut into 6 lengthwise wedges

Combine steak seasoning ingredients; press into both sides of beef steak. Next in medium bowl, combine oil and 1/2 tsp. lemon pepper. Add potatoes; toss to coat. Third, place steak on one side of rack in broiler pan so surface of meat is 3 to 4 inches from heat; arrange potatoes on the other side. Broil 18 to 20 minutes until steak is rare to medium doneness and potatoes are tender, turning steak and potato wedges over once. Lastly, trim fat from steak. Carve steak crosswise into slices and serve with potatoes.

Makes 6 servings.

Feast of the Hunters' Moon a two-hour drive

By Anita Anderson

Have your ever wanted to get away for the weekend to do something different? Well Feast of the Hunter's Moon in West Lafayette, IN. may be your answer. It's only a two-and-one-half hour drive.

The feast is an annual affair and attracts people nationwide who have an avid interest in what happened when the Indians and French gathered at a fur trading outpost in the mid-1700s. Also, the feast centers on life in those days and emphasizes the French settlement and development of this part of the Northwest Territory.

The event is sponsored by the Tippecanoe County Historical Association.

Established by the French in 1717 Quiatenon was the first fortified European outpost in what today is Indiana.

The affair will be held Oct. 1 and 2 at Fort Quiatenon Historic Park located four miles southwest of West Lafayette on South River Road. What will greet your eyes will be an authentic reercation of life in the early days. All participants are screened and monitored to keep products sold, music, food, activities, entertainment and costuming true to the nature of 18th Century life.

By the way, this event has been named one of the top 100 events in North Amcrica by thc American Bus Association.

What's also interesting, besides having the participants wearing authentic clothing, people who visit the event also wear 1700 clothing. One young couple and their two children wore deer skin outfits the mother had madc. Although, not everyone does this.

Some of the events include a individual tomahawk throw contest, cannon demo, the landing of the French Voyagers on the riverbank, military fashions of the Revolutionary War period, dancing, music, a fife and drum corps, just to name a few.

Hotels are plentiful if you wish to stay overnight as we did. Not a fancy place but the price was $35 a night and we enjoyed breakfast at Denny's across the street.

Prices are $6 at the gate for people over 13 and $1 for kids 4-12. Under four years old are free. Call 317-742-8411 and ask for Fern Martin. If you can't make it this year mark it on your calendar for next. It's a must.

Fashion Update

You can still eat lean beef

and Natural Chicken (scasoncd, broilcd partially - skinned chicken breasts).

At home, you can serve a three-ounce portion of beef top sirloin, trimmed an broiled, which contains 6 grams of fat and 75 milligrams of cholesterol. That's comparable to a three-ounce serving of a roasted skinless chicken drumstick meat, which weights in at 4 grams of fat and 80 milligrams of cholesterol.

"There is no reason for people concerned about their cholesterol levels to eliminate beef from their dict," advises Scott. " Long - term changes in eating habits are what's needed to lower blood cholesterol levels. It's a matter of combining a wide variety of foods that's effective over time."

Established in 1922, the National Live Stock and Meat Board is committed to educating consumers about meat's role in the diet and conducts programs in research, education and promotion.

Rollie's Trivia Corner

by Rollie Fingers

(NAPS)—Hall of Famer Rollie Fingers, the first relief pitcher to win the Cy Young and MVP Awards in the same season, invites sports fans to his trivia corner.

Rollie, who led the Oakland A's to three consecutive World Series titles from 1972-74, has teamed with the makers of Just For Men Brush-In Color Gel for Mustache, Beard and Sideburns, the five-minute way to blend away gray.

Chicago Southland Convention Visitors Bureau Hires Director

Bert J. Doctor, Board of the Chicago Southland Convention and Vistors Bureau, announced the hiring of Richard B. Gartrell, CAE as the new C.E.O. after a special Board of Directors meeting Wednesday, July 27. Gartrell comes to the Bureau with 13 years of experience in association management as a Chief Executive.

Gartrell was formerly the president/chief executive officer of the Newport Beach Conference and Visitors Bureau in California. Gartrell, who was responsible for a $650,000.00 budget and a staff of seven employees, launched a marketing program that produced a 65% increase in confirmed conference bookings for the Newport Beach CVB. Gartrell also initiated a computerization of the bureau and successfully established a working relationship with the political and business leaders in the community.

Gartrell prides himself as being a self-starting motivated individual and has proven to be a visionary leader with strong organizational talents, creative marketing and communication skills. Personal integrity and high ethical standards govern his performance. Gartrell's educational background consists of a Masters Degree plus doctoral studies in the field of communications and key industry certifications.

Gartrell's professional highlights include authoring Destination Marketing for Convention and Visitors Bureaus, which was the industry's first textbook, as well as receiving the Vic Hartley Association Executive of the Year award in 1993, the Outstanding Service Award from the International Association of Convention and Visitors Bureaus in 1988 and the Outstanding Public Sector Member Award from the National Tour Association in 1987.

Doctor said, "The Board and staff are excited that the position has been filled and are looking forward to the experiences and challenges Gartrell is bringing to the Convention and Visitors Bureau."

EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center to offer free depression screenings

Although more than 15 million Americans experience depression at some point in there lives, less than 50 percent of them actually seek help. To help adults and adolescents (14 years or older) identify the signs and symptoms of depression and understand the benefits of treatment, EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center, 4440 W. 95th St., Oak Lawn, is participating in National Depression Screening Day on Thursday, October 6.

At each of the two-hour sessions, being held at 2 PM and 6:30 PM in the hospital's Schlan Room, attendees will participate in a discussion about depression by psychiatrist Jeffrey Ivanoff, M.D., see a video presentation outlining the signs and symptoms of depression and complete a self-assessment questionnaire. Results of the self-assessment will be reviewed one-on-one with a trained mental health professional who will privately discuss whether a participant has symptoms of depression. Referrals for treatment will be made when necessary.

Space for the screening is limited and reservations are required. For more information or to register, call the EHS Health Care's behavioral health referral service at (708) 456-4444.

Mary Beth Hypnotherapist Hypnotherapy Genuine Healthcare

By Rick Techman

Hypnosis, in the past, appeared to us as supernatural, cursed or simply unreal. Today, a local family counselor has reached success with the use of hypnotherapy, along with other psychological practices, as a genuine healthcare alternative associated with behavioral modifications.

Clinical hypnotherapist, Mary Beth Prosapio, a family counselor from Oak Lawn, described hypnotherapy as, "the use of hypnosis, as a tool, in therapy."

She defined hypnosis as, "the natural process by which we bypass the conscious critical factor of the brain."

A hypnotic state does not cause an individual to lose control of their actions, Mary Beth stated. She explained, while hypnosis performed by a professional hypnotherapist will put an individual in a more relaxed state of mind, it will not obscure an individual's ability to reason.

"All hypnosis is self hypnosis," Mary Beth said, "I don't do anything but guide."

"Minds," she added, "are like parachutes. They only function when open."

Mary Beth explained that while the left side of the brain controls an individual's conscious, logical, rational, analytical and sequential thinking, it is the right side of the brain that controls the subconscious, intuitive, rhythmic, and symbolic thought as well as dreams and pattern recognition.

She also said the right side of the brain controls the physical functions of the body and the emotional state.

She said hypnosis affects the right side of the brain and works with the subconscious.

"It is the part that is running your life," Mary Beth said, "whether you know it or not."

Mary Beth explained that a therapist has to go deeper than just what is on the surface and that therapy, including hypnotherapy, speeds up the process of healing our inner self.

Mary Beth said a client will go to see her with a "presenting" problem. This could be a weight problem or anything else that presents an obvious disorder in one's life.

Mary Beth said she will then analyze the patient for several hours to discover what particular rooted cause is actually responsible for the obvious disorder in one's life.

Mary Beth said she will then analyze the patient for several hours to discover what particular rooted cause is actually responsible for the obvious symptom, in this case overeating.

Hypnotherapy could be one likely means of discovering the cause, but, according to Mary Beth, she will use all the tools at her disposal appropriate for addressing the situation.

Mary Beth would not give a definite amount of time it would take to correct any disorder but said she never counsels a client for more than two years.

She also said a practical answer could be reached in as few as four or five sessions depending on the situation.

Mary Beth said she is a member of the National Guild of Hypnotherapists. This, she said, is the oldest and largest guild of its kind in the nation.

Mary Beth also said there is no government regulation or licensing for hypnotherapists allowing just about anyone from any guild to claim to be a hypnotherapist.

She emphasized the importance of her certification as a hypnotherapy instructor by the National Guild for Hypnotherapists and as her position as the only advanced instructor in Illinois as integral to her identification with her practice.

Mary Beth works out of her home, does not keep regularly scheduled hours and emphasizes her practice as family counseling. She can be reached at this number: (708) 636-9238.

Oak Lawn library pulled old used books from collection

Library staff members have completed a major "weeding" project in the adult fiction area of the Oak Lawn Public Library. According to Dr. James Casey, library director, thousands of older, little used books and unnecessary duplicates were pulled from the collection. In his report to the board at its regular meeting of Sept. 20, Casey indicated that this important project should improve patron access to the adult fiction and genre collection such as mystery and science fiction. The fiction area had not been "weeded" for approximately eight years.

In another part of his report, Casey said that the CD-ROM tower is up and working on the library's Local Area Network (LAN). Among the products on this tower are Books in Print Plus, Video Directory Plus, Infotrac and Newsbank, important resources for library patrons. Board members had an opportunity before the meeting to view the tower and discuss its operation with LAN manager Rich Gast.

The board approved the payment of $28,248 for library materials; $40,081 for general operating expenses; and $151,598 for personnel. Board policies that were presented for an annual review included loan periods, library cards, non-resident fees and non-resident borrowing. All were approved as presented.

The Oak Lawn Public Library meets at 7:30 PM on the third Tuesday of each month in the lower level Oak Lawn Rotary Room, 9427 Raymond Ave.,(5300 W. 95th St.) Meetings are open to the public.

Board members are Lois Gasteyer, president; Marian Sullivan, vice president; Robert Honkisz, secretary; Joann Buschbach, treasurer, Shirley Barrett, Nancy Czerwiec and Robert Thompson, trustees.

Landscaping Goes Native

(NAPS)—In an increasing number of communities around the country, native plants and natural areas are used to complement grass lawns, a landscaping practice known as Xeriscape.

According to Bob Dickinson, Senior Landscape Architect for ITT-CDC at Palm Coast, Florida, this is "water conservation through creative landscaping," and something his company has long practiced.

The landscape design capitalizes on the natural beauty of existing vegetation. It minimizes the use of open sod areas and maximizes the use of native plants. Builders are especially careful of trees and their root systems.

To find out more about the natural beauties and other advantages of homes in Palm Coast communities, call 1-800-654-2213, Ext. 93.

Dr. Hummel joins Advanced Chiropractic Clinic

Dr. Hummel earned his Bachelor of Science degree from Temple University in 1975. While a member of the football team, Dr. Hummel personally learned of the impressive healing potential of Chiropractic. He was so convinced of its scientific merit that he decided to pursue a career in this natural way of helping people regain their health.

Dr. Hummel went on to earn his doctorate from prestigious Logan College of Chiropractic in St. Louis where he graduated Magna Cum Laude. He earned numerous academic awards in recognition for his excellence in Chiropractic technique and studies.

Dr. Hummel passed the rigorous state licensing examinations in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Illinois with near perfect scores while becoming a Diplomate of the National Board of Chiropractic Examiners. In addition, Dr. Hummel attained certification from the International Academy of Clinical Acupuncture. He practiced for several years in New Jersey helping thousands of patients regain their health before making the decision to return to the Midwest with his wife and two daughters. He has recently started his own practice in the Oak Lawn area and is accepting new patients at this time.

At the Advanced Chiropractic & Therapy Clinic, Dr. Hummel specializes in difficult cases that have not previously responded to treatment. He has been able to do so by maintaining his knowledge of the latest research and most advanced techniques in his field by completing numerous post graduate seminars in Chiropractic technique, orthopedics, neurology and x-ray studies. He also incorporates a unique blend of acupuncture, herbal and homeopathic remedies, physical therapeutic modalities and patient education into his individually designed holistic treatments.

Dr. Hummel strongly believes in the natural healing power of the body and in following some simple yet extremely effective preventative measures that can help keep the body youthful, vibrant and healthy. To help celebrate his opening, Dr. Hummel in conjunction with St. Jude Childrens Research Hospital (Danny Thomas-founder), is offering ALL new patients first day services including consultations, examinations, AND necessary x-rays at NO CHARGE! The only requirement to take advantage of this generous offer is a minimal $5 donation to the hospital. Help yourself and the children. This will take place on Saturday, October 15th from 9:00 AM to 4:00 PM. Call (708) 425-2700 for an appointment.

Lipinski calls for extension of Health care deduction for self employed

Rick Techman

Congressman Bill Lipinski, (D-3), recently cosponsored two legislative initiates that would extend the health insurance deduction for the self-employed.

He also called for immediate Congressional action to reauthorize the 25 percent deduction for paid health insurance premiums for self-employed individuals and their dependents.

Lipinski, citing a recent statistic, added, "In 1992, of the 24 million self-employed Americans, 42 percent were uninsured."

"We," Lipinski stated, "cannot let this important matter slip through the cracks. Without the deduction, self-employed Americans who are barely keeping their head above water simply can't afford to buy health insurance."

Lipinski explained the deduction was first authorized in the Tax Reform Act of 1986 for a three year period. According to Lipinski the deduction has been extended year after year since 1989 by the U.S.

The deduction originally intended to encourage small business owners to purchase health insurance for themselves and their employees according to Lipinski.

"Corporations," Lipinski said, "can deduct 100 percent of their health insurance costs.

Sertoma Speech & Hearing offers free screenings

The Sertoma Speech & Hearing Center is offering free speech/language consultations to children and adults at its offices in Palos Hills and Flossmoor. Three speech pathologists are on hand to provide the consultations. The free screenings, which take about 25 minutes are available to children and adults, and include consultation with a speech therapist who will provide recommendations.

For an appointment, call the Palos Hills office, located in the Homewood Flossmoor High School North Building, at (708) 957-7122.

Marist welcomes Freshman Moms

The Marist High School Mothers' Club hosted their traditional Freshmen Mothers Tea to welcome the moms of the new freshmen, class of 1998.

They were greeted by Elise Farrell (Oak Lawn), Chairman of the event and enjoyed an afternoon of coffee, tea, and a variety of baked goods. Tea and coffee were served by former Mothers' Club Presidents, Mary Grimm (Midlothian), Carole Salvino (Beverly), Aileen Lundy (Oak Lawn), and Joan Loftus (Oak Lawn).

The moms were introduced to many new faces, beginning with the Principal, Br. Hank Hammer, FMS(Beverly), the Dean of Discipline, Bro. Kevin Moran, FMS (Mt. Greenwood), the Freshmen Counselors and many of the freshmen teachers.

After the brief talks, the moms were treated to a fashion show by the members of the student council. Juniors, Charlie Farrell (Oak Lawn), Bob Johnson (Hometown), and Sophomores Tim Hughes (Crestwood), Casey Farrell (Oak Lawn), Joe Enright (Oak Lawn), and Paul Hollock (Mt. Greenwood), modeled a variety of sportswear items from the Martist High School Bookstore. the bookstore was then open for the moms to purchase sportswear for their sons.

EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center Receives Toys for Children

The pediatric department of EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center, Oak Lawn, recently received a donation of several toys from Children's Heart Services, Elk Grove Village.

Children's Heart Services is a support group for parents who have children or infants with congenital heart defects. At EHS Christ Hospital, children with congenital heart defects are cared for by pediatric cardiologists and cardiac surgeons from the Heart Institute for Children, a division of the pediatric department.

Trick-or-treat tips

Halloween is a time when children take to the sidewalks, knocking on doors and filling their bags with tasty treats. With so many children out during the evening hours, parents need to make sure their children take extra precautions.

Romaine Bogdanovic, R.N., director, Emergency Services at St. Francis Hospital & Health Center, Blue Island, says, "Parents need to be aware of their town's trick-or-treat hours and abide by them. They should accompany their children during trick-or-treat hours, and set some rules to follow as safety precautions."

Following are a few safety tips which can prevent your Halloween from becoming a "Fright Night."

If you are unable to go trick-or-treating with your children, sketch two maps of the route your children will be taking. Keep one map, and give one map to your children.

Encourage your children to wear light-colored clothing; use reflective tape strips; and remove masks when crossing streets.

Teaching children to stay alert and to exercise precaution can make Halloween a "ghoul" one.

I'M HERE

Her telephone rang often
And her voice was calm and clear
As she simply said two little words
"I'm here."

We called for prayers, we called for help
We called in times of fear
We always knew we'd hear those words
"I'm here."

She loved her God, she loved her life
And when the end was near
He called her and we know she said,
"I'm here."

Please Sister Ellen, help us still
Let our pleas still reach your ears
For now we know we'll hear you say
"I'm here.

All Saints Day Honoring Sister Mary Ellen Dennehy

By Rick Techman

Among all those pumpkins, ghosts and goblins we will be seeing as we near Halloween, I see the arrival of a truly spiritual "minor" holiday on November 1. November 1 has historically been seen by the traditional Catholic Church as a holiday commemorating all of the saints since the first pope and St. Paul, Christianity's first evangelist.

What does this have to do with Halloween? Just look at that word again. Some might say Halloween is a pagan holiday, which in itself it is. I want you to see how its name was derived from, "All Hallowed Eve," the evening before we honor the all holy.

Just as Christmas Eve is the evening before Christmas Day, so too does Halloween, "The Hallowed Eve," reach us the night before All Saints day.

I've been waiting to tell people this for years and, with the passing of Sister Mary Ellen Dennehy, a genuine saint in her own time, I chose to take this opportunity to remind all Catholic and Christian denominational readers that we still can remember Sister Mary Ellen Dennehy, and all of the God fearing people who have influenced our lives, both on All Saints Day, November 1 and its sister holiday, All Souls Day, November 2, 1994.

I'd also like to point out that All Saints Day has been a Christian holiday since mediaeval times and it is the fears, myths, sorcery and misconceptions of people from a much earlier time that actually corrupted the name of the holiday intended for the holy eve.

Doctor Payne Can Help

Send your letter c/o of this newspaper
9720 S. Parkside Ave. Oak Lawn, Il. 60453

Dear Doc Payne,
My (best) friend broke up with his girlfriend. Now, she and I are seeing each other. How can I rectify any ill feelings my friend may have.

What a curious situation. Your friend is experiencing loss. He needs to go through the healing process. He might see you as the object that caused the pain.

Look at the situation from his point of view. Give him space and understanding. Over time his feelings of mistrust and discontent toward you and your girlfriend may lessen or they may not. You have may a choice and now you must live with the outcome. We can't have our cake and eat it too.

By the way, if you value your new romantic situation don't introduce your new gal pal to any of your buddies...

Dear Doc Payne,
I'm having a hard time dealing with the federal deficit increasing, taxes increasing and foreign aid increasing. How is all of the U.S.A.'s philanthropy helping the people in our nation?

Hopefully the dollars we are spending to promote peace in the world will one day pay off, It does seem unfair that while many people in the U.S. are hungry, sick and homeless our tax dollars are going to other lands.

I have a two part philosophy. The first part: Charity begins at home. This leads to a bigger question. Is home one's house, one's country or the Earth.

The second part is: I'm my favorite charity.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Annette:

On behalf of the Loretto Alumnae, I would like to thank you for the beautiful focus you brought to our beloved Sister Mary Ellen, both as an outstanding Catholic educator, and a columnist in your Village View Newspaper.

We who have had the benefit of her teaching at Loretto, have always held her in the highest esteem for the fine education and spiritual outlook she gave us, and we do believe her to be an excellent emissary for religious life at a time when her dedicated lifestyle is finding and meeting new challenges.

Thank you, Annette for your generous appreciation of her talents, energies and achievements. She is a credit to your professional appreciation of a great communicator.

Although GOD saw fit to take her to his eternal home, she has left an imprint on Catholic education in the hearts of all who knew her, loved her and benefitted by her inspiring personality, warm friendliness and teaching expertise.

Stickney Township Board Flu Vaccines, General Assistance

By Rick Techman

A brief Stickney Township board meeting at the Central Clinic on September 27 stressed the economic point that general assistance in the township has decreased while employment has increased and flu vaccinations will be available as soon as the vaccine is received by local health workers.

It was reported to the board that general assistance in Stickney Township is the lowest it has been in a "long, long time."

"It is nice to see people making a living," Township supervisor Louis Viverito said. He added. "We are very fortunate."

The flu vaccine expected by the end of September did not arrive at Stickney Township by the meeting.

Stickney Township Administrator Bob Peters said the health workers are ready to administer the flu vaccine but have not yet received the township's allocation.

Residents 55 years old and older with heart or respiratory problems will be the first one targeted to receive their vaccination when the product has arrived.

Bridgeview Village Board Public Works, 911

By Rick Techman

Installation of the emergency 9-1-1 system and almost $65,000 in underground reservoir repairs highlighted the public works and Public Safety announcements at the Bridgeview Village Board meeting October 5.

Although the 9-1-1 emergency number did not go into effect as of the night of the meeting, a special citizen test of the system was called by the Village of Bridgeview to clear the system of any problems before it is implemented.

In the test, scheduled for 5:00 PM October 6, concerned residents and police officers were instructed to dial 9-1-1, identify themselves as test callers and tell the telecommunications operator their name, address and phone number.

The TCO would then confirm the information received with the information on the E9-1-1 screen to test for accuracy.

The addition, deletion or correction of any names must be addressed by the user of the line. To continue to report emergencies for the time being continue to call police at 458-2131.

Hairline cracks in the 500,000 gallon underground water reservoir at 71st and Thomas will be repaired for $64,950 dollars according to Trustee Joseph Kaput, public works committee chairman.

"This tank will be drained. This will not affect our water supply by any means," Kaput explained. He also said the work should be done by the end of October.

Other public works news includes an $8,175 village board allocation for the completion of an emergency generator that will be used to keep all city services, including 9-1-1, functioning in the eye of a local power outage.

Also in village financial prominence is a $9,382.77 reimbursement from the State of Illinois for the Bridgeview Fire Department's apportionment of the Illinois Fire Protection Act.

"This refund is for payment of claims submitted for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1994," according to Bridgeview Fire Chief Don Billig in a letter to the board.

Bridgeview teen seeks safety teen want to save lives

By Rick Techman

A Bridgeview teen advocate sought Village Board support at the October 5 meeting to save local lives by correcting the pedestrian and road traffic difficulties on Harlem Avenue at 88th Street where poor traffic management has led to local fatalities.

Nazarath Academy High School senior Crystal Tabor, working on her girl scout "Gold" award, decided to write a letter to the Illinois Department of Transportation informing Springfield of the hazards at this shopping mall crossing.

Crystal admits she is not the first girl scout who has sought government action on a fatal and sorely needed state traffic mismanagement issue.

Crystal said that since she was in the eighth grade she has been aware of injuries and deaths caused by poor road traffic control and the inability for seniors and the disabled to cross the street safely because of high curbs preventing access to the walkway and heavy traffic.

Crystal said the last teen to work on the local and state problem contributed to the traffic light installation at the shopping center but this did not correct the high curbs and pedestrian disruptions that still makes J-walking and the use of the parking lot driveway easier on some people.

Village Board President John Oremus welcomed Crystal's advocacy for this important issue and encouraged her to talk to Trustee Chester Haraf, public safety chairman, on joint cooperation with the village to continue to petition I.D.O.T. on this matter.

"I am a girl scout and...I am happy to save lives. Thank you.," Crystal was also invited by the board to lead in the hall in the Pledge of Allegiance before roll call.

In a response letter to Crystal from Duane Carlson, I.D.O.T. district manager, the state said, "Removal and replacement of broken concrete curb and gutter, placing new pavement markings and installing sidewalk ramps for the handicapped at intersections will all be included in the work for this improvement."

The letter also said gutter draining, cleaning and reconstruction would be included.

The letter addressed the length of Harlem Avenue (Illinois Route 7) for improvement which would primarily consist of patching, milling and resurfacing the existing pavement.

Trustee Michael Plicek, who encouraged Crystal's highway advocacy at the meeting and other various endeavors told her, "I especially want to thank you for the hard work you put in for our Christmas party."

Crystal explained a girl scout "Gold" award is equivalent to the popular boy scout "Eagle Scout" award.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Entertaining enters new dimension

By Anita Anderson

Marlene Sorosky, author of "Entertaining on the Run" asked a recent gathering of guests of Dominick's Finer Food chains, "how do you define entertainment?"

She said entertainment in the present decade is undergoing a complete transformation.

"Anytime you feed people who don't live in your home, you can call this entertaining. Times are gone when a person will almost kill themselves in the kitchen, cooking and not to mention shopping and planning the menu," Sorosky said.

The cookbook author said there are two kinds of entertaining at home are Italian, Caribbean, Western and of course, Mexican.

She said the Saturday night dinner party is being replaced by pot luck parties where everyone brings a dish and the host, usually a gourmet type, provides a wonderful entree and guests come into the kitchen, help cook and often serve themselves.

Sorosky said as people get older their values change and they place more emphasis on relationships, health and care less about material things.

A Roper poll she added found that people surveyed said they would first cut back on eating out before the would cut back on home entertaining with friends and family.

Sorosky said Asians are the fastest growing group in the U.S. so eating trends and tastes are going in the Asian directions and stores like Dominick's are offering the consumer exotic products they normally would have to find in a small specialty grocery.

Foods like special marinades, seasonings, North, African foods like humus, couscous, Asian noodle dishes, spices, and even curried red lentils.

"Those who are cooking are doing so on a limited basis and are turning to "speed scratch cooking", buying partially cooked foods or complete dinners, Kabobs, freshly, poached and garnished salmon and a wide variety of other foods," she said.

" Dominick's new stores, which now number ten including the 87th and Cicero location are the kitchens for those people who don't wish to cook but want to continue to entertaining," Sorosky went on to say.

After the author's presentation Sue Ashton-Becker, executive chef for Dominick's Finer Foods explained her key role in product development and her new "Chef's Collection", a monthly menu of fully-prepared foods, entrees, side dishes and sauces for eat-at-home convenience. She also develops recipes for the Fresh Store's pizza, pasta, Chinese and rotisserie chicken menus.

Ashton-Becker has been in her present position since 1990 and once managed kitchen teams at the University Club of Chicago.

Mexican appetizers might make for a great cocktail party.

Stir-fry key to quick family meals

The technique has been around for centuries, but it's more on target than ever for the contemporary cook. Stir-frying offers many pluses for today's time-conscious cook—it's quick, easy and versatile.

Quick and Easy Beef Stir-fry

1. Stack beef steaks; cut lengthwise in half and then crosswise into 1-inch strips. Combine

1 pound beef round tip steaks, cut 1/8 to 1/4 inch thick
1 small onion, cut into thin wedges
1 package (16 oz.) frozen vegetable mixture or Japanese-style frozen mixture, defrosted
Marinade:
3 tbsp. soy sauce
2 tbsp. dry sherry
2 tbsp. water
1 tbsp. cornstarch
1 tbsp. vegetable oil
2 cloves garlic, crushed

marinade ingredients; remove and reserve 1/4 cup. Place beef and remaining marinade in plastic bag, turning to coat. Close bag securely and marinade in refrigerator 15 minutes.

2. Remove beef from marinade; discard marinade. Heat large nonstick skillet or wok over medium-high heat until hot. Add beef (1/2 at a time) and stir-fry 1 minute or until outside surface of beef is no longer pink. (Do not overcook.) Remove from skillet; keep warm.

3. Reduce heat to medium. Add onion; stir-fry 1 minute. Add vegetable mixture; stir-fry 2 to 4 minutes or until crisp-tender. Stir in reserved marinade; cook and stir until sauce is thickened and bubbly. Return beef to skillet; heat through.

SAFETY SENSE

Carbon Monoxide In Your Home

(NAPS)—You can't see, touch or taste it, but it can kill you and it may be in your home today. Carbon monoxide is a silent threat produced by any appliance or heating device that runs on a combustible fuel. Carbon monoxide from fuel exhaust can also be a problem in homes with attached garages. The grim fact is that carbon monoxide is the number one cause of poisoning deaths in the country, responsible for 1,500 deaths and

The Consumer Product Safety Commission recommends installing at least one carbon monoxide detector in your home.

10,000 illnesses each year according to the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA).

You Can Protect Yourself

Reliable, cost effective carbon monoxide detectors are now available from First Alert®, inventors of the smoke detector. The Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), recommends installing at least one carbon monoxide detector per household, located near the sleeping area. A second detector located near the home's heat source adds an extra measure of safety.

The first woman to become a president of a nation in the Western Hemisphere was Isabel Peron of Argentina in 1974.

Home Safety

Home Lighting Security Timers

(NAPS)—Studies show that up to one in every four American homes are vandalized or broken into each year, with one burglary occurring every ten seconds. Experts say that one way to discourage robberies is to make would-be thieves believe a house is occupied, even when it is not. A simple and inexpensive way to do this is with home lighting security timers.

Programmable and automatic lighting timers are available for both indoor and outdoor applications. Experts at First Alert, a leading manufacturer of home safety products, produce timers that allow you to set lights to go on and off at designated times during the day, for example on in the early evening, off at bedtime. There are timers that have a built-in clock to make them easier to set. Automatic timers have built-in photo cells that sense dusk and turn on a light each evening, providing a sense of security and eliminating the need to walk into a dark house.

For vacationers who leave an empty house behind, timers can be placed in several rooms and be used for both lights and appliances such as a television or radio. First Alert's Light and Appliance Timer allows you to set different on and off times each day of the week, for a lived in look.

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Keep Those Home Fires From Burning

(NAPS)—Fires started in homes by cigarettes, arson, electrical malfunction and other causes result in about 6,000 deaths in the United States and Canada each year, and more than 31,000 injuries. Billions of dollars worth of property are lost as well.

There are many important precautions families can take to prevent fires in their homes. These include keeping matches away from children, unplugging small appliances when leaving the home and storing fuels, paints and battery acid in tightly closed containers away from ignition sources.

Smoke detectors are the most important fire-safety items in the home. Smoke and deadly gases spread faster and farther than flames and heat. More than 80 percent of United States homes have smoke detectors installed and when properly used and maintained, smoke detectors save lives. Unfortunately, one-third of all home smoke detectors, it's believed, are inoperable due to dead, disconnected or missing batteries.

However, there are some necessary precautions families can take to protect themselves should a fire start in their home:

• When purchasing a smoke detector look for the Underwriter Laboratories (UL) label, which indicates fire-code standards have been met.

• Check to see if the detector operates with a common battery. Those that don't frequently have a custom battery that can be hard to find in stores.

• Dust and test detectors monthly. Test an alarm by exposing it to smoke.

• Replace the batteries in all home smoke detectors once a year.

• Place detectors in key locations throughout the home—one at the top of each stairwell leading to sleeping areas and one on each floor and/or each distinct living area, including the basement and attic.

• Keep at least two fire extinguishers in the home—one in the kitchen and one in the furnace area.

• Prepare escape routes and plan and practice regular family fire drills.

Some advanced smoke detectors are integrated with home security systems to offer homeowners added home protection and peace of mind. A home automation system, such as Honeywell's TotalHome® system, can integrate control of security and fire alarm systems, as well as temperature, lighting and appliances. In the case of fire, the TotalHome system not only detects smoke and/or rising temperatures and alerts occupants with an alarm, but also sends a signal to Honeywell's 24 hour UL-approved monitoring station, ensuring that help is on the way, even when you're not home.

In addition, smoke and heat detectors can be integrated with all Honeywell security systems to alert home owners of the presence of smoke or fire. In fact, all of the company's security systems are installed with a fire panic button which, when pressed by the home owner, automatically calls the central monitoring station to notify the fire department.

For more information on Honeywell home automation and security systems, call: 1-800-345-6770 ext. 2033.

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Tips On Selling Your House

(NAPS)—You may be able to get more for your home and get it sooner, if you heed the hints in a new book, How to Sell Your Home in 5 Days (paper, $14.95, Workman Publishing) by William G. Effros.

The book is based on one basic truth of free enterprise: your home is worth exactly what the highest bidder will pay for it.

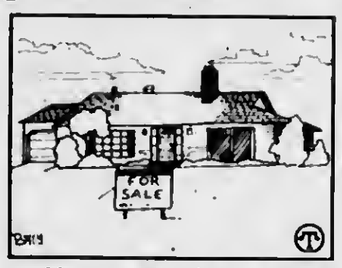
Beginning with a quick course in marketing, Effros weighs the pros and cons of brokers and details the method of the five-day plan. For one thing, the book says, the plan can help you avoid frustratingly long dry spells that can result when the asking price is too high. For another, because you don't work through a broker, you save the commission.

The book offers a wise discussion of repairs it pays to make, and those it doesn't. There are chapters on writing the perfect ad, the importance of full disclosure, taking calls, setting up an open house, rating the buyers, accepting bids and when and why you need an attorney.

Among the tips included are:

• Holidays are bad times for open houses.

• Prices should be set based on what the buyer wants to pay, not on what



You may be better able to get the best price for your home—no matter what the market—if you first read a new book on home selling.

you want to receive.

• A low asking price brings lots of buyers.

• You won't get more or less than your home is worth—the market value determines its value.

• In setting a price, ask yourself if it feels right to you as a seller; then ask if you would buy the house at that price.

• Pretend you're a buyer and ask yourself what you think you'd want repaired, then repair everything that will raise the selling price more than the repair costs.

Complete with pricing worksheets, round robin bidding sheets, mortgage tables and sample materials, the book, available at local bookstores, helps you maintain complete control over every step in the selling process to make the market work for you.

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Screen In Energy Savings

(NAPS)—With the right kind of screens and shading fabrics, you can let the sunshine in and stop throwing your energy dollars out the window.

When you add innovative SunScreen® solar screening to windows in place of regular insect screening, for instance, you stop heat before it ever penetrates the glass and enters your home. This screening from Phifer Wire Products has a unique ribbed-weave design that can block up to 70 percent of the sun's heat and glare. The result is a window that will help keep the sun's heat outside in the summer, and that can mean less work for your air conditioner and lower energy bills.

SunScreens can be easily installed over any type or size of window, even fixed or storm windows. If you have conventional double-hung windows with full-length insect screens, the regular screening can be replaced with solar screening.

Other great money and energy-savers from Phifer are SheerWeave® interior shading fabrics. They give windows a whisper of light and color while protecting a room from solar heat gain and glare. Like the SunScreens, they protect your valuable rugs, drapes and other furnishings by filtering out a percentage of the sun's damaging rays. This helps reduce fading of colored fabrics and cracking and peeling of wood surfaces.

Solar screens save energy by blocking the sun's hot rays.

Each fabric in the line preserves a good outward view while enhancing even the most sophisticated of decorating schemes. In addition, the fabrics adapt easily to custom and standard, motorized or manual, shading systems, vertical blinds, roller, Roman, pleated and folding shades, drapes, sheers and screens. A wide range of openness factors and colors allows for flexibility in solar controls.

You can choose from several different fabrics with distinctly different weaves and looks. All offer easy maintenance, energy efficiency and flame resistance.

Create a New-Home Look At The Same Address Through Kitchen And Bath Remodeling

(NAPS)—If your home is like most, the rooms that get the greatest use—the kitchen and bathroom—are also the most likely targets for remodeling jobs.

By following a few simple tips, do-it-yourselfers can save money on remodeling work like the installation of a FreeStyle™ shower door system.

Because some think it's tough to re-do these rooms without breaking the bank, Sterling—a company long known for quality kitchen and bath fixtures at reasonable prices—now has a free booklet suggesting quick, easy and economical spruce-up tips.

For example:

• Anti-scald tub and shower faucets assure constant water temperature regardless of water pressure changes, and are a must if you have children.

• The single most important faucet feature is drip-free performance, so a washerless design is your best bet.

• Those concerned about water purity should consider one of the new, lead-free faucet designs, which are also highly corrosion-resistant.

• New 1.6-gallon low consumption toilets are not affected by changes in water pressure, and save water and money, with one-flush performance.

• Today's affordable composite sinks offer contemporary, "designer" looks, yet are stain-, chip- and scratch-resistant—a blessing in hectic households.

• Tub and shower stalls designed for do-it-yourself installation can save you hundreds of dollars. Look for VIKRELL™ multi-piece units that snap together easily, and have structural ribs for added support and longevity.

• Ready to replace those shower curtains with the latest in shower doors? Think FreeStyle™, which allows complete access to every inch of the tub or shower, has no tracks to collect dirt and mildew, and is easy to clean.

For additional information on the FreeStyle™ trackless shower door system or a free tips booklet, call 1-800-895-4774, or write to: Sterling Plumbing Group, 2900 Golf Road, Rolling Meadows, IL 60008, attention "Sterling Fundamentals".

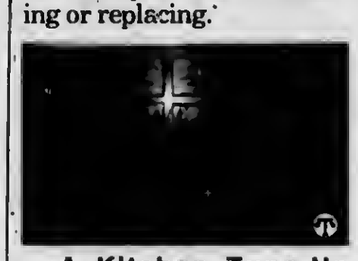
Kitchen Tune-Up

(NAPS)—You can begin to have a new home at the old address these days, thanks to inexpensive alternatives to high remodeling costs.

What's cooking in many kitchens, for example, is a new franchise service called Kitchen Tune-Up (KTU). KTU helps your cabinets and counters look and feel like new. It can save you thousands of dollars compared to refinishing or replacing.



A Kitchen Tune-Up can help old cabinets look like new once again.

A Kitchen Tune-Up is a nine-step process that restores wood surfaces without sanding, stripping or varnishing. Special biodegradable products are used to actually reach into the finish to remove dirt and grease—some of which you can't even see, but it's there, damaging the fibers.

A Kitchen Tune-Up also includes touching up nicks and scratches; replacing bumper pads to get rid of squeaky hinges and banging doors; realigning drawer slides; adding nutrients and oils to the wood; and waxing and buffing countertops.

The whole Tune-Up takes less than a day to complete and there's no mess, fumes or drying time. The process also works on stairways, paneling, beam ceilings, window casings and all wood furniture in homes and businesses.

Home Design Trends For Today's Lifestyles

(NAPS)—Decorating tastes of today's consumers are far from paint-by-number. Casual people who like to get their hands dirty in the garden may prefer a relaxed kitchen, but want a very formal dining area. A whimsical and funky kid's room may be across the hall from a romantic master suite.

According to Stuart Beattie, Vice President, Styling and Design for Mannington Resilient Floors, there are currently eight dominant trends for the coming year. "Certain lifestyles may be more suited to one trend than another," he says. "This shouldn't limit consumers unless they like a harmonious look. Combinations of styling trends often produce decorating masterpieces that capture the many moods of a household."

The Mannington Gold Classic line offers 12 high fashion designs and 58 colors. So regardless of design trend, Mannington has a stylish vinyl floor, such as Pompano in Clay Agate, to complement the home decor.

Trends to consider for 1995 are:

• Young At Heart—Whether it's a cartoon fish on a shower curtain or a zany piece of painted pottery, this trend appeals to decorators who like childhood fun and amusing conversational pieces.

• 50's Revival—Great for accent fabrics and casual dinnerware, this includes Art Deco influences which saw a revival in the 50's (a la Miami's South Beach).

• Bed & Breakfast—This "country goes botanical" trend reflects our aging population's interest in the garden and the nostalgic charm of a country inn (a look a little softer than "American Farmhouse" and less busy than "English Cottage"). Beattie says many stylish floor coverings today, such as the Mannington Gold Classic Florenza design or the delicately-designed flowers and leaves of La Petite Fleur, beautifully suit this style trend.

• Utility Style—Think traditional, functional and classic. Visualize beautiful beiges, whites and soft blues and the always-in-style basics.

• Purist—The barely there interior in which "less is more"—Italian linens, taupe couches, pale wall coverings.

• Global Bazaar—This includes design influences from Asia, America (Native Indians), Mexico, India, Africa and Europe. So whether you're going back to your roots, or dreaming of a far away land, there's plenty of ways to bring the look home.

• The Romantic Years—Period furniture, in which craftsmanship and timeless style are king, dominate—from Louis the Fourteenth to Queen Anne, from Victorian to New Classical. It's interior design for "An Age of Innocence" home.

• Painterly Abstractions—Looks taken from Twentieth Century art like Picasso and Matisse let a home decorator create a very dramatic, colorful and personal design statement. Modern kitchenware, bed linens, men's ties and women's apparel all reflect this trend.

Of course the best aspect to this constantly evolving cycle of decor trends is that consumers have the chance to explore whole new interior options or to update favorite rooms with interesting accents at a moment's whim.

Choosing The Perfect Garage Door

New designs, materials and technology mean more garage-door choices for homeowners.

(NAPS)—Your garage doors deserve extra attention when you build or remodel your home. They can contribute as much as 40 percent to its overall appearance.

The range of garage door options has grown substantially in the past few years, with new designs, new materials and new technology. That means more choices for you.

One of the most significant decisions homeowners will make is the choice of construction materials. Generally speaking, the available options are steel and wood.

Wood has been the traditional choice for millions of homes over the years. But for most homeowners, today's state-of-the-art steel garage doors offer many advantages that are hard to beat.

APPEARANCE. Some homeowners still prefer the look of genuine wood garage doors. But today's steel doors offer the widest selection of panel styles, pre-painted colors, windows and window design options to accent and enhance any home's exterior.

MAINTENANCE. Modern steel doors are available pre-painted with permanent, durable, rust-inhibitive paints to match or coordinate with exterior house colors. Wood doors usually require sealing, caulking and repainting every few years.

INSULATION. Steel doors are available with insulation in a variety of thicknesses, bonded to exterior and interior steel skins for rigidity, durability, noise reduction, energy efficiency and comfort. Wood doors generally are sold without added insulation.

DURABILITY. Steel garage doors are built to last. Wood doors require periodic preventive maintenance—sealing, painting, staining—to avoid rot and deterioration.

ECONOMY. Because steel doors last longer, with less maintenance, they offer the lowest total cost over the life of the door. And insulated steel doors can increase a home's energy efficiency, too.

For most homeowners, steel garage doors offer the best solutions to their particular needs. For your own home, consider all the variables, including aesthetics, the climate where you live and how you expect to use the garage and the garage door.

For more information on garage doors and on choosing, buying and installing them, call 1-800-2CLOPAY and ask for your copy of a helpful brochure called A Guide To Garage Doors. It's free from Clopay Building Products Company, Cincinnati.

Cicero showcases vintage movie house now a 900-seat "live" Theater

By Anita Anderson

If Dante Orfei, director of theater at Morton College for the past 18 years and Christopher Eck, real estate developer have their way and realize their dream than the vintage Olympic Theater at 6134 West Cermack Road in Cicero will reopen as a "live" 900-seat theater Oct. 14.

"The Olympic opened for movies in 1926 and closed last year. We've kept some of the more important architectural pieces including a mural of a music muse," Orfei said.

The musical "Metropolis", a 22-song musical with a cast of 35 will be the Olympics first venture into live theater and the pair plan a gala opening night and ribbon cutting.

"The musical originally was a German film and deals with the visions of a German film director in the 20s who sees how man destroys the ecology of the world 100 years ahead of his time. Many of the predictions have come about," Orfei continued.

"In the 'Metropolis' production we have two societies. One lives below the earth to supply the needs of the privileged group who live above the earth. Joe Brooks who wrote the hit song, 'You Light Up My Life' did all 22 musical numbers and I feel one song in particular, 'It's Only Love' is as good as his hit," Orfei added.

The musical will run through Nov. 30. The theater caters to senior citizen groups and other organizations. Call 708-652-6200 for more information about tickets. The theater will be open from Thursday through Sunday with a matinee Sunday at 3 PM.

'Burned-out-teacher' turns to acting to 'torch' former career

By Anita Anderson

Talk about a change of careers in what some might call a mid-life crisis period.

Actress Sharon Carlson, formerly a 23-year resident of Chicago Heights, wife and mother of three children taught for 16 years in suburban schools.

"I just got 'burned out teacher syndrome'. In college I was a music minor and studied piano. I graduated from Northern Illinois University," Sharon explained.

"When I was 37, I took classical piano and joined a gym so as to stay in shape. I was able to travel to Denmark to take part in the U.S. Women's Gym Team and toured all over the world. My kids were all gymnasts so I suppose this aspect of our lives was an influence on my taking gymnasts," Carlson continued.

"Getting back to my singing, my first voice coach said I should just decide to stay in the suburbs and be a 'housewife' with three kids and a husband. Thank goodness her negativity didn't last too long and I found another coach who said I had a very good voice so I took classical voice lessons doing satire and comedy on opera," Carlson added.

What happened next was history and a fulfilling career.

The actress who now plays Mrs. Walker in the energy-filled revival of the Kaufman and Hart comedy classic from the 20s through Oct. 30 at the Court theater in Chicago will then appear as Mrs. Paroo in "Music Man" at Lincolnshire.

"I like to refer to myself as a 'latent gifted adult' who came into her own when she was 50."

"I get up every morning thinking something wonderful is about to happen. How you approach life is so important. Being perfect is too much of an obligation," Carlson said.

Her husband, Richard Carlson also has a part of his life in the arts. He is a fiscal officer with the Illinois Arts Council.

Carlson's career credits are impressive and include parts in film, theater, commercials in such productions as "Lost in Yonkers," "Gypsy", "Annie", and commercials for major companies like Jay's Potato Chips just to name a few.

Court Theater located on the University of Chicago at 5535 S. Ellis premieres Charles Newell as its artistic director. "Once in a Lifetime" is a fresh new departures from some of the classical productions Court Theater is known by.

The production recounts the zany adventures of a three-member vaudeville team and their adventures in Hollywood at the onset of talking pictures. Many of the actors whizz through their "spoofy" lines while on roller skates adding to the insane fun.

Parking is free. Call 312-753-4472 for tickets.

Moraine Valley Community College will present a student recital featuring the college's voice and piano students as well as the Moraine Valley Jazz Ensemble and the Southwest Community Band Woodwind Ensemble at 7:30 PM Friday, Oct, 28, at the college's Fine and Performing Arts Center. This event is open to the public free of charge.

And now for a couple of events completely different

The Oak Lawn Park District will hold its Fourth Annual Haunted Hay Ride from 3 to 9 PM Saturday , Oct. 29, at Stony Creek Golf Course, 5850 W. 103rd St. in the village. This event is much more fun than you might expect, as, of course are all haunted houses and their ilk. It's especially nonsensical fun for kids. Tickets are $2 for them, $3 for others whoever they might be. For more information call (708) 857-2200.

St. Xavier University holds its annual Octoberfest today (Saturday, Oct. 15) from 11 AM until 1:30 PM in the school's West Quad. Music, children's games, entertainment, beer and bratwurst—what more could your ask for? Then Saturday night dance the night away to music by the Hello Dave rock band, 7 PM until crystal slipper conversion time, and for just four bucks. It's the Student Activities Board's Homecoming Dance, but, hey, think about it young at hearts.

Do you like to go dancing? Or sit at a bar or cabaret table and listen to a local chanteuse? Or maybe the Southwest Symphony Orchestra is more to your liking? Or hot jazz?

We have it all in or near the neighborhood here--for the young set, for we who are a little more mature(hah!). Give local venues a try.

Next time: Entertainment in the darker corners of local rooms.

Jamaica, a lush, green country with heritage

By Anita Anderson

Flying from Montegio Bay, Jamaica in a small turbo prop, German-made plane recently was a pleasant experience during the 25-minute ride.

Besides sitting across from a young lady who had her pet parrot named "birdie" on her shoulder during the trip —a stunning rainbow was viewed, crystal blue water below, white beaches and the lush, green tops of the hills could easily be seen from our plane since we flew quite low.

Kingston was our destination—the Wyndham Hotel located in the newer section of Kingston—a sprawling city of 809,000—the commercial and capital city of Jamaica. The hotel was lovely and had an exceptionally friendly staff.

A large, Olympic-style immaculate pool was below our sixth floor room with balcony and two double beds. Price was about $110.

That afternoon, we lunched at Chelsea's—a fast food jerk chicken and pork restaurant which can only be described as superb.

Price for an order of jerk chicken was 225 Jamaican dollars (about $7 which feeds 3 people).

The homemade sauce which we asked for, brimming with onions and local spices was outstanding. The sauce was laced with black bonnet pepper.

After a swim back at the hotel, we decided to walk one block and had dinner later at the Sea Witch because downstairs, at a place called the Godfather, was apparently a jumping place for locals and of course live Reggae music.

I can't recommend Sea Witch—we arrived at 7 PM and were the only dinners.

Service was "turtle" slow although I admit my grilled red snapper wasn't bad. We were so tired when we finally got out of there after almost begging for the bill, about $25, we went back to the hotel because the Godfather didn't open until 10:00 and we found out many night lifers from Kingston go out to dance about midnight.

Next morning a friend, Dollis Campbell from the Jamaican Tourist Board met us for brunch at Boone Hill Oasis Restaurant, only open on Sunday for a typical Jamaican brunch for about $9.

We ate buffet style under a covered veranda, near a flowing river.

The "Blue Blazers," a lively group of musicians strummed out calypso music.

Fastina Sherman, one of Jamaica's few women chefs prepared.

Sherman also has cooked for an English family for 11 years and learned her expertise from her mother.

She also worked in the kitchen of the girl's school she attended.

"I love to cook and don't use recipes. I guess it's in my blood," she said.

We enjoyed what locals eat which was Ackee, the Jamaican national dish, cooked in boiling water and seasoned with salt and lots of fresh onions, salted fish, pepper and tomato. Ackee is actually a fruit, yellow and similar to hominy. It must be served with salted fish.

Then we sampled grilled barbecue chicken, grilled liver, mackerel, steamed calaloo, (similar to chopped broccoli and spinach), roasted breadfruit, boiled green bananas, Johnny cakes (like biscuits or boiled dumplings), roasted yam and sweet potato or cornmeal pudding for dessert.

All this was accompanied by a sweet limeade. It was a feast and we loved it.

Stephen Jones is managing director of the place and has a garden of exotic plants which he sells. Orchids grow everywhere. Jones said it takes five years from seed for an orchid to grow to maturity and they require little care but lots of humidity.

Jamaica is a lush, green country. The outskirts are lovely with rolling hills, especially outside of Kingston.

After the brunch Dollis invited us to one of her friend's home in Kingston where several friends and relatives from England were being hosted at a buffet party.

Host were Clara and Harillal and their daughter, Persha.

Again, another wonderful Jamaican buffet was served but we could only eat a tiny portion to be polite. I tried curried goat.

The people we met at the party from Kingston were so friendly and polite. They want the same life Americans want, security and a good family relationship.

Interesting was the front yard of the home. Completely walled in instead of grass. The huge so-called front yard was painted cement.

In back, covered by a roof was the house and living quarters. In back of the living room was a sun room and outside area where the family had a garden.

Next day we visited a mansion built in 1881 by a black man named George Stabel. He made his money in Venezuela and returned to Kingston to build the showplace now maintained by the government.

Also worth the visit was the local market and art gallery with works done by skilled Jamaican artists.

Dollis said Kingston also has a public beach where you can enjoy fresh fish at several small open eateries.

Later that afternoon we headed for Port Royal to lunch at Morgan's Harbour.

Port Royal was called the richest, wickedest city in the world because of the occupation of the English soldiers who robbed and pillaged every boat in sight.

There is also a small, interesting naval museum at Fort Royal.

The city was destroyed by an earthquake in 1692 and sank to the bottom of the sea nearby Morgan's Harbour Hotel which by the way offers good rooms at about $98 with breakfast, and all rooms overlook the sea. It is managed by Brian H. Shiels, a Scottish gentleman.

What's also interesting besides the fact of the sunken city which by the way was filmed by a crew from Ted Turner Network.

Gary Casson, an expert diver from London who lives at Morgan's Harbour Hotel has visions of developing the diving and scuba industry at Port Royal which as yet is known by a very few, maybe the world's best keep secret.

Casson raved about nearly crystal clear Five Key Island with pure white beaches and a reef which can be reached in his special boat in 20 minutes.

Casson manages the Buccaneer Scuba Club of Port Royal.

The Harbor is located on the former headquarters of the fleets of Captain Henry Morgan and Admiral Horatio Nelson. You can see their memorabilia in the small museum at the fort.

If you're a product of the fifty's and sixties and a fan of the now-deceased Bob Marley who died of brain cancer at the age of 36, you might find his former Victorian home in Kingston, now a museum, quite interesting.

He only lived in the modern home six years. Marley was born in what we call the poor inner city. He has a total of about 11 children with several women, but married Rita, his childhood sweetheart who lives in splendor outside of Kingston.

They had four children-now known as the Ziggy Marley Group.

Since our ultimate destination was Port Antonio on Jamaica's unspoiled East coast we left by car with Dollis after spending three nights in Kingston. She drove a sturdy Nissan car which easily made the 62-mile journey in about 2 1/2 hours.

One stop was Navy Island which is a gorgeous 64-acre island once owned by Erroll Flynn.

It's now a hotel and villa complex with beautiful beaches and can be reached from Port Antonio by ferry in about five minutes.

It also houses a small photo gallery of Erroll Flynn's pictures located upstairs near the bar.

Hotels on the outskirts of Port Antonio with its 50,000 population include the five-star Trident Hotel where some James Bond films have been made.

The Trident has gorgeous villas on the sea, its own private beach and pool by a gazebo is very good and of course the service is impeccable.

It's owned by the Levy family who reside in a private castle.

Peacocks and birds roam the manicured grounds.

We met Suzanne Levy, manager of the Trident who lives with her parents Earl and Gloria Levy in the castle next door to the hotel.

I saw pictures of the interior of the black and white turreted structure which overlooks the sea. It's incredible.

Suzanne said she loves birds and brought two all-white peacocks both on the plane after her studies concluded in Rochester, New York.

The peacocks now have a baby. Levy calls the her "white chickens."

An etheral, magic appearance as each tree is shaped and rounded off.

Everyone from actress Glenn Close to Tom Cruse have been guests along with plenty of "common folk." The Trident is a five-star and of course more expensive.

If you decide to go to Port Antonio, there are plenty of villas and hotels to rent, not all as expensive as the Trident.

Don't miss the two-hour rafting trip down to Rio Grande.

You depart just outside of town and these tours can be arranged through your hotel or a local tour company.

Juta tours managed by Donald F. Jackson president are extremely reliable.

All of the above information about local hotels can be arranged by your travel agent or more information can be obtained from the Jamaican Tourist Board located in Chicago.

Arts and Entertainment

by Ron Rehfeldt

Where do you go for your entertainment? Downtown? The North Side? Or to one of the numerous performances in the southwest metropolitan area?

We encourage readers to give all three locales a shot, but our first priority will be arts and entertainment south of 55th Street west of the lake and our focus will be the southwest suburbs and environs.

Arts and entertainment are our themes: art exhibits, such as those at Moraine Valley Community College, Trinity Christian College, St. Xavier University and the Beverly Art Center; theaters in Summit, Showcase in Blue Island, Struggles in Merrionette Park; and music, orchestral and pop, in concert halls and bars.

On with the show....

Moraine Valley Community College will present Meredith Willson's "The Music Man" two long weekends Thursdays through Sundays, Oct. 20-30, in the Dorothy Menker Theater in the college's new Fine and Performing Art Center on campus at 10900 S. 88th Ave, in Palos Hills. Curtain times are 8 PM, 3 PM on Sundays.

Tickets are $9, $8 for senior citizens and students. Call (312) 735-6027 or (708) 385-7682 for tickets.

If it's a bit of serious drama you have a mind for, catch the Illinois Theatre Centre's production of William Inge's "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs" directed by Steve S. Billig in Park Forest. The play closes Sunday, Oct. 16, with performances at 2:30 and 7:30 PM Sunday and at 8:30 PM Friday and Saturday. For more information, including directions to the theater, call (708) 481-3510.

Several art exhibits have recently opened or are continuing at St. Xavier University and the Beverly Art Center, particulars about which we regret to say we are not informed at this time. We exhort readers interested in art, however, to visit these institutions' galleries, as well as the Robert F. DeCaprio Art Gallery in the new Fine and Performing Arts Center at Moraine Valley Community College in Palos Hills.

Joyce Porter, a MVCC doyenne of theater, will direct a cast of more than 40 including Beth Gillis of Bridgeview, Ernie Kopp and Jim Lichon of Burbank, Kate Alberts, Georgean Fitzgerald, Don Boland, Craig Dziedzic and Matthew Kamien of Chicago; Tiago Velho of Evergreen Park; and Nick Zebio, John Baird, John O'Mara, Robbie Mallon and Lindsay Foreman of Oak Lawn.

Tickets are $10.25, $8.25 for senior citizens and $6.25 for children, with tickets purchased in advance of the night of the performance discounted $2. For more information call (708) 974-5500.

The Beverly Theatre Guild will present Tim Kelly's "The Canterville Ghost" at 8 PM Friday and Saturday, Oct. 28-29, and at 2 PM Sunday, Oct. 30.

Directed by Glen Herling of Beverly, local members of the cast include Susan Giampaolo of Burbank; Steve Fassl of Evergreen Park; Mary Jane McNamee, Elizabeth Moran and Pam Stoffregen of Oak Lawn; and Kevin Cosgrove, Janis Dignan, Ethel Eaton and Mark Eaton of Chicago.

Oak Lawn Honors Public Servants

Rick Techman

About 25 senior Oak Lawn public servants received honors from the mayor and the village hall board at the October 25 board meeting at city hall.

Village President Ernie Kolb individually awarded city employees of the police and fire departments, public works, senior citizen commission and the legislative department senioriority recognition awards for from ten to 25 years service.

Following the ceremony three current city vacancies were voted to be filled through established hiring procedures.

Two village board members displayed concerned with the Oak Lawn Park District when it was announced by their constituents for missing community forums sponsored by the park district in their areas.

Both trustees insisted that a lack of communication existed between the park district and the village board arguing that they had never been informed of these meetings.

Both Trustees insisted that they would have attended if they had been invited.

Trustee William Keane said, "If you're going to invite the police department than why not invite the trustees."

"No one," Trustee Ronald Stancik said, "told me about it. I think that's bad business."

The entire board agreed that the Oak Lawn Park District is an independent body and functions effectively in its responsibility to the public. The village board also agreed the channels of communication must be improved between the two government bodies.

"I'm just seeing some very bad judgment here," Stancik concluded.

In other news village manager Joseph Faber announced the purchase of several new squad cars from Steel City Ford in Indiana. When the board asked why the cars were not being purchased locally, Faber explained this purchase included more than a $68,000 confirmed savings.

Faber said since the cars are Fords, Hawkinson Ford in Oak Lawn will honor the companywide guarantee. He explained the competitive bidding process allowed all automobile dealerships ~~interested~~ in ~~doing~~ business with Oak Lawn an opportunity.

Considerable discussion arose at the meeting about whether village board meetings should be

Looking to make a difference as State Treasurer

Upon first meeting Nancy Drew Sheehan, one can not help but notice how impassioned she is about the issues that surround state government. Sheehan, the Democratic poised to become this state's first woman treasurer explains: "Running for State Treasurer is a natural fit for me. The work that I have done at the Water Reclamation District is a blueprint of success for what can be done at the state level.

Sheehan who describes herself as "independent", and "motivated", offers a no-nonsense approach when speaking of the issues that surround the Treasurer's office. Equipped with a long list of impressive credentials which include studying at the London School of Economics, she exhibits an obvious affinity for financial matters and a command of even the smallest details. Her is a fresh approach to state government that includes new investment strategies designed to provide more income for the state.

"There is a taxpayer revolt," stresses Sheehan. "You can't fund all government entities through the taxpayers; we must be more proactive in making money for the state.

Nancy Drew Sheehan

When asked about the role of the Treasurer's Office, Sheehan offers that the duties of the Treasurer has been too politicized. She argues that the Treasurer's job is really good sound money management. "There is no such thing as Democrat or Republican money," quips Sheehan. If elected, she plans to concentrate on making sound business decisions that will make more money for the state. Then she adds "Let the politics come in later, on how to spend the money best for the people of Illinois."

Sheehan has a wealth of ideas on how to make the Treasurer's Office more efficient and profitable-by investing state funds more expediently and changing outdated technology which will translate into a better yield on funds.

If elected, Sheehan also plans to seek out the advice of a broad spectrum of investment managers from both the public and private sectors to modernize the investment techniques of the Treasurer's Office. Sheehan will also work to establish a Cash Management Team comprised of the Governor, Treasurer, and Comptroller's office to implement the coordination between units.

Sheehan will also be looking to enhance the state's economic development by offering discounted loans to help business start-up or expand as well as becoming involved in lending securities as an additional investment tool to make more money for the state.

Southwest suburban family life lecture

Encouraging good school habits while allowing children to assume responsibility for their own work can be difficult for parents. Helping parents find the middle ground in reacting to report cards is the goal of "Parenting and Report Cards," a lecture offered by a cooperative network of southwest suburban service agencies.

Part of a series of lectures on family life, this program will be presented on Tuesday, November 15, from 7:30 PM to 9 PM at Peace Memorial Church, 10300 131st St., Palos Park. The lecture will be led by family therapist Christopher Higgins, Ph.D., of the EHS Family Care Network, an Oak Lawn counseling service.

Admission to the lecture is free. For more information, call the EHS Health Care behavioral health referral service at 708-456-4444.

Howlett for County Clerk
Howlett's plan for Cook County

By Rich Techman

Edward G. Howlett, son of the former Illinois Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett, Sr., declared his candidacy for the position of Cook County Clerk earlier this year.

Howlett views his role as Cook County Clerk as a chance to establish a courteous and efficient system bringing state-of-the-art technology to a presently archaic operation.

According to Howlett, the office of county clerk is instrumental to a thriving and productive community.

Oversight of the election process, including voter registration and candidate filing, is one of the primary responsibilities of this office Howlett said.

Howlett, whose professional involvement in politics began with Cook County Sheriff Richard Elrod in 1970, and he believes fervently in the necessity to maintain the election process.

He also said he want to develop a strong sense of teamwork in order to create a more dedicated and proficient level of staff support.

After the 1972 election, when Michael Howlett, Sr. became IL. Secretary of State, Ed received the appointment to serve on the "Task force was a consolidation of 22 office divisions into six departments, escalating overall efficiency with a 12 percent workforce reduction.

Howlett then asked to join the staff of lieutenant governor Neil Hartigan as it was transformed into a full-time executive position due to the amended Illinois Constitution. Howlett managed and oversaw the administrative aspects as well as participating in all executive matters.

During the early 1980's, Howlett served in the administration of the Chicago Department of Public Safety on several projects.

Ed Howlett has made a private industry career of public relations and communications and has served in the capacity of governmental liaison for the firm of Arthur Anderson. He has worked for Arthur Anderson since 1991 and is presently a consultant to Anderson Consulting.

Howlett's ongoing interaction with both Democratic and Republican parties led to a decision that became publically known on June 21, 1988. He declared his allegiance to the Republican cause as he had become increasingly aware that the Democratic party no longer represented that which it did when his father was in office.

The GOP reflects Howlett's concern for a more conservative approach to government.

Veterans Day observance Sunday, November 6th 11:00 AM

The Veterans Memorial Park and "Eternal Flame" Monument on 111th and Harlem, Worth, IL, was built and constructed as a loving remembrance to those brave heroes, men and women, who served, fought, and died in all of the United States Wars.

The land was purchased from the Illinois Highways Department, and now it is the Veterans Memorial Park. The "Eternal Flame" Monument is now built, but there is a debt of $12,000 to be paid to the sculptor.

The Veterans Memorial "Eternal Flame" Monument was built and constructed for one purpose only, and that was for the veterans and the public to get together annually at the Veterans Memorial "Eternal Flame" to lay the wreaths twice each year on Veterans Day and on Memorial Day, and to pay respect in tribute to those men and women who won the peace and saved the world's people from the tyranny and from the oppression. This Memorial also serves as a good history lesson and class tour for teachers, girl and boy scout leaders.

Al Grajek, Designer Artist, of the Tricentennial Chapter #84, 6435 West 111th Street, Worth, IL, is the organizer of the resolution and was named as the permanent executive chairman for designing the Veterans War Memorial, and a general contractor, also fund raiser for the Veterans Memorial Monument. When completed, his is to unveil and dedicate the Southwest Metropolitan's newest War Memorial.

Those who wish to donate money or gifts to the completion of the Veterans Memorial "Eternal Flame", please send your contributions to: Worth Bank and Trust, 6825 West 111 Street, Worth, IL 60482. Make all checks to: Veterans Memorial Foundation of Worth.

Saint Xavier offers Biblical workshop

The Pastoral Ministry Institute of Saint Xavier University is hosting a two-day winter workshop, "Biblical Spirituality: Sisters and Prophetesses" from 7 to 9:30 PM on Friday, Nov. 11 and from 9 AM to 4 PM on Saturday, Nov. 12 in the University's Main Reception Room of the main campus located at 3700 West 103rd St., in Chicago. Dr. Troy Martin, Ph.D., an Associate Professor of Religious Studies at Saint Xavier, will be the workshop presenter.

The weekend seminar will provide participants with an exploration of the spirituality of women in the Hebrew and Christian Scriptures. The portraits and stories of women such as Eve, Shiprah, Miriam, Deborah, Jael, Hannah, Mary, Anna, Mary Magdalene, Martha, Lydia, Eunice and the women of the Passion will all be addressed. In particular, this seminar will examine the spiritual expressions of these women in relation to moral decision-making, social activism and defiance, social status, emotional distress, conversion, as well as prejudice and discrimination in early church politics.

The fee is $35; special discounts are available. For further information, or to register for the program, contact Dr. Avis Clendenen at Saint Xavier University's Pastoral Ministry Institute at 312-298-3440 or 312-298-3441.

The Emancipation Proclamation of 1863 declared slaves free in the Confederate states still in rebellion. It wasn't until the ratification of the 13th amendment in December of 1865 that slavery was entirely abolished throughout the United States.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Entertain casually but with Panache

When friends come to dinner on a weekend, it's nice to make the evening casual. One way to give everyone a chance to unwind from a hectic week is to set up an easy buffet in the family room next to the fireplace.

In keeping with the season, scatter a few colored leaves around the buffet, and use napkins in autumn colors. Let the food serve as part of the decor, too. Hollowed out bell peppers, mini pumpkins or acorn squash are sturdy enough to hold appetizer dips and sauces. Even the main dish can be served from a vegetable "bowl". A pumpkin shell filled with Mexicali Beef Stew will impress guests, and it's easy to do.

When making a stew, brown the beef slowly in batches

Since beef prices are their lowest in seven years, you might want to stock up for future meals. When properly wrapped, boneless beef chuck or round (frequently used for soups and stews) can be frozen up to six months at 0° or lower. Heavy-duty aluminium foil or resealable freezer bags are good wrapping materials. Don't forget to label and date each package.

Mexicali Beef Stew in a Pumpkin Shell

- 2-1/2 lbs. beef for stew, cut into 1 to 1-1/2 pieces
- 2 tbsp. vegetable oil
- 2 lg. onions, chopped
- 4 cloves garlic, crushed
- 2 cans (13-3/4 to 14-1/2 oz. each) ready- to-serve beef broth
- 1 cup mild or medium prepared picante sauce
- 2 medium zucchini, thinly sliced
- Prepared pumpkin shell
- 4 tsp. cornstarch, dissolved in 1/4 cup water
- 2 small tomatoes, each cut into 8 wedges
- 1 can (2-1/2 oz.) sliced ripe olives, drained

In dutch oven, heat oil over medium heat until hot. Add beef, onions and garlic (1/2 at a time); brown beef evenly, stirring occasionally. Pour off drippings, if necessary. Then stir broth and picante sauce into beef. Bring to a boil; reduce heat to low. Cover tightly and simmer 1-1/2 hours. Add zucchini to stew. Cover and continue cooking 10 minutes until beef and zucchini are tender. Meanwhile prepare pumpkin shell. Cut off a 5 to 6-pound pumpkin. Scrape out seeds; discard. Pour boiling water to fill pumpkin shell at least three-quarters full; cover and let stand 10 minutes. Remove water before filling with stew. Stir in cornstarch mixture. Bring to a boil over medium heat; cook and stir 2 minutes or until thickened. Stir in tomatoes and olives, Remove from heat; cover and let stand 5 minutes. To serve, ladle stew into pumpkin shell.

The Fruitcake Hater's Fruitcake

The Fruitcake Hater's Fruitcake will please

The Fruitcake

- 3 lg. navel oranges
- 1 cup dried cranberries
- 3/4 cup raisins
- (2 sticks) butter
- 1/2 cup EACH: currants, dried apricots, chopped
- 2 cups sugar
- 4 eggs
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 3 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- 1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 1/4 tsp. EACH: ground ginger, ground nutmeg
- 1 cup EACH: buttermilk, chopped walnuts

Icing:

- 1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese, at room temperature
- 6 tbsp. confectioners' sugar
- Dried fruit (for garnish, optional)

Preheat oven to 325°F. Butter and flour 10-inch tube pan. Grate the zest from oranges to make 3 tablespoons for cake and 2 teaspoons for cake and 2 teaspoons for icing. Squeeze oranges to yield 2/3 cup juice for cake and 1/4 cup for icing.

Set aside. In medium saucepan, combine dried cranberries, raisins, currants, apricots and 2/3 cup orange juice. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes or until fruit is plumped. Drain well; set aside.

In large mixer bowl, cream sugar and butter until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time; beat well. Add 3 tablespoons grated orange zest and vanilla; beat well. Alternately add combined dry ingredients and buttermilk to creamed mixture, beginning and ending with flour mixture. Stir in walnuts and fruit.

Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake about 1 hour and 15 minutes or until golden brown and a wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Remove to wire rack; cool completely.

Oysters: Romans felt they were aphrodisiac

By Anita Anderson

Since Roman time many people have believed oysters to be an aphrodisiac. There is no scientific basis for this belief however but therapists treating patients for sexual disorders do recommend eating oysters because of their high iron content.

Tim Smith of the Pacific Oyster Growers Association spoke at Shaw's Crab House in Chicago recently about oysters that come from the Puget Sound, Tacoma and Seattle, Washington area.

According to Smith oyster farming began in the 1800's and by 1895 two laws were passed in Washington to protect the future of the fresh oyster industry and conveyed title to private tide lands to farmers.

Smith said water quality is of utmost importance and the shellfish industry is regulated by a strict standard. He said the highest oyster yield in the country comes from the South Puget Sound where the warm water is shallow which allows a higher nutrient buildup.

An interesting sidenote Smith conveyed was the fact that oysters change sexes when they produce their larvae that swim and seek a rock or shell on which they grow.

Some other oyster facts found in a booklet Smith handed out included the fact that oysters have a fat content of less than 2 per cent; one-half pound of oysters totals about 150 calories and oysters can be frozen.

Angels on Horseback

- 1 jar (12 oz.) fresh oysters, drained
- 2 tbsp. chopped parsley
- 1/2 tsp. lemon pepper
- 10 slices bacon, cut in thirds

Place an oyster on each piece of bacon and sprinkle with parsley and lemon pepper; wrap bacon around oyster and secure with a toothpick.

Place oysters on a broiler pan. Broil about 4 inches from source of heat for 8 to 10 minutes or until bacon is crisp.

Turn carefully.

Broil 4 to 5 minutes longer or until bacon is crisp. Makes approximately 30 hor d'oeuvres.

Oak Lawn Chamber sponsors Holiday Parade

Businesses, organizations and community groups are invited to help the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce kick off the holiday season with HOLIDAY MAGIC, a parade on 95th St. set for Sunday, Nov. 20.

Arrangements can be made with the Chamber of Commerce office to enter or to sponsor floats, bands, marching units, television coverage and other parade essentials.

Co-chairman of the event are Rick Herpich and Gene Mondello who staged and developed the successful parade last year. Chamber committee members are Brian Anderson, Jim Brady, Joan Kennedy, Marie Napolillo, Laura Shallow, Edsvadlenka, Sue Kramer, Mary Green and Mary Nelson.

Entry forms and additional information are available at the Chamber office, 6060 W. 95th St. phone: (708) 424-8300.

Chicago Artist to exhibit

Artist Matt Lamb will have his recent paintings on display through Nov. 27 in the Robert F. DeCaprio Art Gallery in the Fine and Performing Arts Center at Moraine Valley Community College, 10900 S. 88th Ave. in Palos Hills.

A reception will be held from 3 to 5 PM on Sunday, Nov. 13, in the gallery.

Lamb spent more than 35 years as partner and chairman of the board of Blake-Lamb, Inc. and in 1985, decided to divide his time between his business interests and painting, his second career. He now devotes most of his time to painting.

Lamb terms his process "generational," a technique he initiated in paintings in 1988 where "shapes in one stage of completion become the ancestor for new forms on the same canvas."

His work has been exhibited at numerous Chicago galleries including Gallery Renata, Carl Hammer Gallery, St. Xavier University and Sangamon Gallery, as well as in Germany and France.

Hours for the Robert F. DeCaprio Art Gallery are 9 AM to 4:30 PM Monday through Friday.

Whitney's Restaurant will offer a breakfast buffet from 7 AM to 2 PM. A buffet lunch individually priced items will be served from noon until 4 PM in the Tower Room.

Children may have pictures taken with Santa Claus from 11 AM to 2 PM.

More than 125 exhibitors will feature their handmade items.

Shuttle bus service will be provided from surrounding parking lots.

No strollers please.

For more information, call (708) 513-7622.

MVCC News

Moraine Valley Community College, along with a consortium of six additional colleges from across the country, has been awarded a two-year $1.5 million grant from the U.S. Department of Education through the Cooperative Demonstration Program in Manufacturing Technologies. The Program is authorized by the Carl L. Perkins Vocational and Applied Technology Education Act and was one of only two such demonstration project grants awarded in the country.

The project, named the Machine Tool Advanced Skills Technology (MAST) program, will include the design, development, testing and dissemination of a national training model for certificate and Associate in Applied Science degree options in machine tool and metals-related technologies.

Moraine Valley is known nationally for its training programs in advanced manufacturing, including related areas such as computer aided design, computer numerical control, plant floor applications, and programmable controls. The college's Center for Contemporary Technology opened in 1988 and has become a national model for support to business and industry.

Fruit cake already

Perhaps no food has been the brunt of so many jokes as the fruitcake—that's laden with nuts and candied fruit, and appears only during the holiday season—you know, the one that will last for years?

"Indeed, properly stored, traditional fruitcakes can be kept for 10 years or longer," says Betty Rosbottom, author of First Impressions and Betty Rosbottom's Cooking School Cookbook.

Hence, her Fruitcake Hater's Fruitcake was born. It has all of the pluses of a great fruitcake—it's full of nuts and fruit. And it can be made ahead if necessary, but is also great when eaten right away.

This is a cake for the 90's. Dried fruits like cranberries, currants and apricots are complemented by the flavor of fresh orange juice and subtle spices — cinnamon, ginger and nutmeg. Buttermilk contributes to the light, tender texture, pure butter to its delicious flavor and good keeping qualities. Crowning the cake is a swirl of orange-cream cheese icing.

Rosbottom tells the students in her cooking classes to keep a few tips in mind to ensure great cakes; the same ones apply to her fruitcake.

•Always use the best ingredients—pure butter, high-quality fruits, large eggs, pure extracts.

•Have ingredients at room temperature. Remove ingredients from the refrigerator about 30 minutes prior to mixing.

•Preheat the oven for about 15 minutes prior to baking. Use an oven thermometer to check the oven temperature.

•Be sure to beat the butter and sugar as specified in the recipe to produce an even texture cake with good volume. If underbeaten, the cake can have a coarse texture and heavy volume.

Old-fashioned fruitcakes came in tins, but contemporary cakes call for new presentation ideas. Tie sheer ribbons around the cake and fasten with a festive sprig of holly or other holiday decoration—it's very festive, and easy to do. Simply remove the ribbon at serving time.

For additional holiday recipes and cooking tips from Betty Rosbottom and the American Dairy Association, send 50 cents and a self-addressed stamped envelope to: "America Entertains...Holiday Traditions," American Dairy Association, P. O. Box 760, Rosemont, IL 60018-5616.

Colonial Oyster and Ham Pie

1 pint fresh oysters
1/2 cup butter, melted
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup dry white wine
1/2 cup milk
1 medium onion, chopped
1 1/2 cup diced, cooked ham
1 1/2 cups canned or frozen green peas

Drain fresh oysters. Reserve 1/2 cup oyster liquid. Melt butter in pan and add flour, slowly, stirring constantly until butter-flour mixture is creamy in texture. Add oyster liquid, wine and milk. Cook until thick, stirring all the while. Remove from heat. Cook onion until soft in a little butter. Add cooked onion to liquid mixture and add drained oysters, ham and peas. Pour into 2-quart casserole dish and bake at 400 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes

Letters to the Editor

The Board of Directors of the Southwest Symphony Orchestra would like to publicly thank the Southwest Symphony Mayoral Concert held Sept. 24th at the Moraine Valley Performing Arts Center. Acknowledgment for its success goes to the Mayors and guests who attended from Bridgeview, Burbank, Evergreen Park, Chicago Ridge, Crestwood, Hickory Hills, Justice, Lemont, Oak Lawn, Orland Hills, Orland Park, Palos Hills, Palos Park, Tinley Park and last but not least, the venerable Mayor of Worth for his additional contribution to the evening's entertainment. It was a perfect example of cooperation between government and the arts.

Appreciation also goes to the local livery companies who contributed their limousine services for all the mayors—they provided an aura of glamour that added to the excitement; Sid's Greenhouse, Matt Summers Flowers and Country Squire who donated the floral arrangement that made the reception a wonderland; Mario's Catering in Worth for all the tables and linens, plus innumerable generous donations. The concert's purpose was to raise funds for the volunteer orchestra to insure continued cultural entertainment for the Southwest side. Community leaders now agree The Mayors' Concert Benefit and Champagne Reception should be an annual gala. Because of this support for the Southwest Symphony Orchestra by all the Mayors, the entire community will benefit.

Finally, the Board would especially like to thank Jane Passaglia. The Mayors Concert was not only her conception, but she single-handedly carried out the gargantuan task of bringing it to its overwhelming successful completion. Thank you, Mayors, but particularly Thank you, Jane.

videotaped and televised.

Arguing against videotaped meetings, Trustee William Keane and Cyril Holesha said the village board meeting is just a summation of decisions that are made throughout city government day by day.

With this in mind, they both insisted that residents would not be able to reach a decision on taped sessions without knowing what led to the board decisions through individual committee meetings.

Both trustees agreed that newspaper coverage was adequate. At least three community newspapers covered the October 25 meeting.

Trustee Marjorie Joy told the board that a resident in another village recommended videotaping all intergovernmental meetings and making all tapes available for public viewing at the community library.

The board deferred further discussion on videotaped meetings until it can be determined how successful the village of Oak Forest will be with videotaped meetings on a local cable channel.

A Personal Letter From JIM NALEPA

My name is Jim Nalepa and I am the Republican candidate for U.S. Congress. With election day just around the corner, I'm writing to you to clear up a few things.

By now you have probably heard my opponent, Bill Lipinski, accuse me of all sorts of nonsense. The way I see it, name calling has no place in the political process. As a West Point graduate, duty, honor and country are words I live by.

When you walk into the voting booth next Tuesday, you will make an important choice. That choice will have a direct impact on your future, the future of our children and on the direction our country will take.

Before you make that choice, you deserve to know the truth— about me, where I stand, and how I would represent you in Congress.

I believe that the ruling class in Washington takes too much money from us, and most of what they take from us ends up wasted. I am convinced that the professional politicians in Congress do not know the value of a dollar, and do not know how to spend our money as if it were their own.

As I got into the campaign, it became clear that most of you agree with me on the basic issues — the need to cut spending, get tough with criminals, make our tax system more fair, get government off our backs and take our Congress and our country back from self-serving professional politicians.

My opponent has said that he thinks term limits are un-American. I disagree. To me, nothing could be more American than having the citizen legislature our founding fathers intended for us.

That's where I stand.

If you think that an insider, someone who has spent a lifetime on the public payroll or in elected office is the best person to represent you, then you should vote for Bill Lipinski. On the other hand, if you think it is time for a common-sense approach, time to elect real people who understand the way we have to live every day, then I hope you will vote for me.

You must make the decision.

I believe you will choose someone who will fight to change our Congress.

No matter how this election turns out, I want to thank you for taking the time to consider my candidacy. It has been my privilege to share my views with you during the campaign.

Jim Nalepa

PUNCH 82

P.S. - Only you have the power to change things for the better. Please exercise your right to vote on Tuesday, November 8th. And punch #82, for a real change.

Trustees turn down added coin games Cagney's gets no vote from village board

By Rick Techman

The Oak Lawn Village Board unanimously turned down a coin machine vendor seeking to add coin operated pool tables at Cagney's youth arcade in Oak Lawn at the board of trustees meeting Nov.8.

The added pool tables would have increased the number of coin operated machines to eight from the six present coin games in use requiring an arcade license.

The vendor told the board Cagney's presently has several coin dart games, one video bowl game and one video hockey game in use. He also said these coin games add revenue to the city and provide entertainment for the patrons.

Originally the trustees softly explained that a zoning law, on the books for the past 15 years, prevented them from immediately issueing an arcade license.

Shortly before the board reached an interim agreement with the vendor to add pool tables, the matter of an ongoing string of serious complaints involving violence among Cagney's patrons, particularly on weekends, raised serious doubts.

Following review of recent complaints of disturbances at and around Cagneys, the board unanimously voted to retain the present ordinance prohibiting further coin machines at Cagneys.

Also in village business, the board voted to accept an $18,000 one time bid to repair some city maintenance machinery. Though the price tag covers a one time only service call, Oak Lawn's public works will be prepared to keep streets clear for the winter.

Trustee Ronald Stancik added a copy of the bill would be forwarded to the federal government for possible full reimbursement. He explained present mandates obligate the federal government to pick up the bill.

Village Mayor Ernie Kolb encouraged all board members to continue to submit any village expenses reasonably covered by federal mandates for reimbursement.

Finally, the board concluded that a street lights replacement, project begun in 1986 should finally be completed by 1995. All parties involved in the street light project have reached a definite agreement on an effective means of completing the project by next year.

Marist Moms plan upcoming events

The officers of the Marist Mothers' Club (left to right) Lee Ann Grens Membership Secretary (Alsip), Eileen Madden Treasurer (Oak Lawn), Sandra Ceretto Recording Secretary (Alsip), Elise Farrell Vice President (Oak Lawn), Anita Sommerfeld President (Oak Forest) and Brother Michael Marsan Moderator (Blue Island), recently welcomed new moms to the Annual Freshmen Mothers' Tea. The officers and committee members have many other enjoyable activities planned, this year, for all the Marist mothers.

On February 26th the moms host their sons at the Annual Mother and Son Bowl, at Oak Forest Bowl, at 12:15. On March 19th the Moms and Sons will spend the afternoon and evening together with a Mass at St. Terrence Church, followed by a Dinner Dance at the Rosewood West.

Throughout the year the moms sponsor the monthly Market Day, and host a variety of receptions including the Open house, The Junior Ring Ceremony, and the Graduation reception. For more information on the Marist Mothers' Club, call Bro. Mike Marsan, Moderator at (312) 881-6360.

Publisher's Pen

By Annette Dixon

Another newspaper issue has come and gone and written. This past week I have been reminded that my Publisher's Pen had not been in the paper. I have also been reminded that my spelling of Art Garfunkel was incorrect! Thanks! I know now that someone is reading my column and misses it.

This week's issue is about a column I had written more than 5 years ago. I was complaining about the streets and the neglect of the property by residents.

Recently, Add Flyer Delivery Service received a job from the judges to deliver 15,000 flyers in Oak Lawn, Worth and Bridgeview. Over 10,000 were delivered in Oak Lawn. It was my privilege to supervise some Evergreen Park and Worth gentlemen in the delivery. While traveling through Oak Lawn I have noticed an increase in the renovation and revitilazation of various styles of homes. Not only were the homes improved by new roofs, siding and additions, but the residents also had a keen awareness of landscaping. It surely appears the residents of Oak Lawn are again proud to be in this fine village! With the help of our new Police Chief Houk and the many dedicated police officers, my hope will be that crime will be on the decline.

We do deserve a great community and it will be so with the help of all citizen participation in village government, park district participation, and library board participation. Most importantly, our village would not exist if we didn't pay taxes or buy in Oak Lawn.

Love lights for fund

1994 Love Lights a Tree Campaign Committee members pose in front of the Oak Lawn Village Hall official tree to begin the 1994 Love Lights a Tree Campaign. The purpose of the program is to raise money for the American Cancer Society through the purchase of lights or ornaments for the offical village tree. The tree lighting ceremony will be held on Dec. 9. Committee members are Joan Arquilla (Joan Arquilla Design), Lindy Vandersteeg (Louis Overbeck and Furman), Roxanne Murtaugh, committee chair (Evergreen Park), Jane Powers (Oak Lawn Village Clerk), Ernest Kolb (Oak Lawn Mayor) and Jeanette Renzetti (Amerian Cancer Society Representative). Committee Members not pictured are Joan Kennedy (Executive Director Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce) and Mary Nelson (Oak Lawn Public Library).

Is this a feline dilemma

by Frank Soczek

Mama Cat and Princess Caraboo live in my bathroom. Before someone suggests that I promptly check into rehab, please allow me to explain....

The squirrels have been a problem this year. Really. Those into gardening can attest to the fact that a bumper crop of these critters can cause major league havoc on one's horticultural endeavors.

After many a morning finding a tender $3.95 perennial maliciously uprooted, it was time to take action. Resisting the urge to retrieve my trusty Daisy repeater from the closet, I got out the Havahart trap.

For those unfamiliar with this wondrous device, it is truly a humane method of ridding one's home or yard of unwanted "guests."

The target critter is captured alive and well, albeit somewhat "ticked". (remember, this is a family publication!) within a wire cage. "Relocation" is limited only by the creativity of the "hunter." On occasion, I've released a twenty pound woodchuck near Joe's Pond in the Forest Preserves. One particular errant squirrel now has a South Holland mailing address...

Anyway, to make a long story short, I caught a Cat.... Seems Mama Cat had been residing next to my garage beneath a Park's Big Boy tomato plant; complicating matters was the fact she was not alone. Tangled within the vines, a tiny blue-eyed ball of fur reluctantly emerged shivering and searching desperately for lunch (i.e., Mama Cat.) After a reunion of fervent licking and grooming my dilemma was about to begin.

Releasing them to fend for themselves was out of the question. On more than one occasion I found it necessary to get out the coal shovel and inter the remains of some hapless woodland creature from the killing fields otherwise known as Central Ave.

Mama Cat had no collar or ID tag and the little one was barely the size of my hand. They appear to be a Siamese-mix with cream colored fur, dark markings about the face, paws and tail and beautiful blue eyes. I could at least wait until the kitten was weaned as I searched for their owner. My dog Rocky wouldn't mind. Or so I thought.

After surveying the house to determine where the least amount of "damage" might occur, the bathroom was selected and quickly "catproofed." I'm sure there will be some who will say it's cruel to confine the cats to a rather small space; given the alternatives of a tiny cage in the shelter or rummaging through garbage cans outdoors, this rationale becomes a bit more comprehensible.

The Holiday Magic Parade, sponsored by the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce, is getting bigger and better. Approximately 75 units will kick off the festive holiday season at 1:30 PM Sunday, Nov. 20. The parade route is west on the north side of 95th St. from 51st Ave. to Oak Lawn Community High School, 94th and Austin. Parade watchers are invited into the high school for free hot chocolate and cookies. Santa and Mrs. Claus will visit with children and give out candy canes. Parents are invited to bring their cameras for Santa photos.

Gene Mondello and Rick Herpich, parade co-chairman, reported that there will be spectacular winter floats, several high school bands, marching units and a variety of unique entrees representing local businesses, organizations and schools.

A reviewing stand with representatives from Park Lawn School, Chamber of Commerce and the Village of Oak Lawn will be set up at Cook Ave. Prizes will be awarded for the best floats. The entire parade will be videotaped by a special production crew including professional commentary for viewing on Multimedia at a later date.

Chamber committee members are Brian Anderson, Jim Brady, Joann Bushbach, Joan Kennedy, Marie Napolillo, Laura Shallow, Ed Svadkenka, Sue Krammer, Mary Green and Mary Nelson.

Organizations or businesses interested in entering the parade or contributing sponsor fees should contact the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce Office, 6060 W. 95th St. Phone: (708) 424-8300. All sponsors will be recognized in the parade.

Stamping demo at Country Shoppe

Betty Sievertsen, owner of the Country Shoppe at 8824 S. Cicero Ave., introduced a stamp demonstration for the months of Oct., Nov. & Dec. Stamping is becoming most popular in Oak Lawn. It started in California more than 10 years ago, but is just catching on here. You can create your own cards, tags and decorate wrapping paper for Christmas. I guess the answer to stamping is embellishing something personal.

Donna Jackson, demonstrator of stamping, became interested more than four years ago. She started her business presenting gift shows and home parties, also selling products at her husband's business. Donna stated there are three ways to use a simple stamp.

1. Use a dye ink pad and markers or pencils.
2. Pigment ink or embossing.
3. Embossing pad with embossing powder (this procedure does require heat).

A simple demonstration will help you use the stamp creatively and not just a stamp.

There are stamp kits glitter, paper, ink pads embossing powders and markers and all the information and products are for sale at Donna Jackson's craft booth in the Country Shoppe!

Stamps can be used on glass, wood, paper, plastic, etc. "It's the ink that makes the difference",said Donna. Non-porous ink is used for glass, wood and paper. The dye ink is used only on paper and fabric ink on fabric.

The stamps are easy to clean. You can wipe them with non-alcohol wipes or just plain water.

To see a demonstration, come out to the Country Shoppe on Nov. 25 & 26 from 11:00 am to 3:00 pm and learn to do all your decorations for this Christmas Holiday.

Mama Cat proved to be an extremely graceful and gentle animal. Upon my visits to their room, Mama Cat would make a flying leap onto my lap and proceed to fall asleep if given the chance....unfortunately that option did not occur very often. Caraboo wanted her share of the attention.

While yet unable to perform the aerial acrobatics of Mama, Caraboo made efficient use of her four-paw drive, needle-like claws to climb up my pants leg to join Mama Cat. At first it was cute to observe this tender act of maternal bonding; but when Caraboo once tried to scale my bare leg, I was not amused to say the least .

Almost a month has gone by and still no sign of their owner. Local shelters were called and classifieds were checked...If I survive until the next issue, I'll continue my feline saga with Rocky's Dilemma, Caraboo Goes For A Swim, Mama Cat's Wake-up Call and Psst, Anyone Wanna Free Cat?.....

White water rafting for Richards

On October 12 and 13, 32 students from Richards Outdoor Education classes, accompanied by four faculty members, experienced the thrill of white-water rafting on the Wolf River in Northern Wisconsin. Students hit the rapids in two-person rafts for an afternoon of adventure in the outdoors. They negotiated their rafts through moving water and around boulders, getting very wet along the way. After the rapids, the students, who were responsible for planning and preparing their own meals, cooked everything from hot dogs to Gyros to Picrogics.

This is part of the opportunities available to juniors and seniors at Richards High School. Last semester's campout included rock-climbing on the bluffs overlooking the Mississippi River.

OPENING LINES. Under the artistic direction of Susan Pagels, Struggles Dinner Playhouse in Merrionette is trying something moderately different: a battle of rock bands. Struggles experimented with the idea last month, and Pagels reports that the event was a success, so another band battle will be held starting at 7 PM Saturday, Nov. 26, with admission $5. Otherwise Struggles will present Lerner and Lowe's "My Fair Lady" on weekends, Nov. 18 through Dec. 4. Call (708) 385-1445 for details.

LOCAL THEATER. Mother McAuley High School will present its production of Rogers and Hart's musical comedy "Babes in Arms" at 8 PM Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 17-19. and 3 PM Sunday, Nov. 20. High school theater, so-called, is never better than under capable direction of Pat Haynes at McAuley, and when she is stirring the musical comedy ingredients, you can expect a gourmet repast seasoned with vitality, vivaciousness and verve. Tickets are $7. Call (312) 881-6512.

Showcase Theater at 12757 S. Western Ave. in Blue Island will stage "The Wizard of Oz" two weekends beginning Friday, Nov. 26. Tickets purchased in advance are $8. Call (708) 841-7396.

LIVE MUSIC. St. Xavier University Band will present a "Concert for the Hungry" at 2 PM Sunday, Nov. 20, in McGuire Hall on campus, 3700 W 103rd St. Admission is a few non-perishable food items. Call (312) 298-3421.

St. Xavier University Chamber Singers will perform a concert at 7:30 PM Sunday, Dec. 4, at McGuire Hall. Admission is $5, $4 for students and senior citizens.

ROCK AND POP. We bumped in Bridgeview resident Jim Bobel recently at Riley's Daughter in Oak Lawn, and he told us that his band Old-Dogs, New Tricks will perform Friday night, Dec. 2, at Connolly's, 8434 S. Kedzie Ave.

Riley's Daughter at 111th Street and Pulaski Road features different live bands on weekends for mostly the barely post-teen crowd. Janz Place in Chicago Ridge puts different live bands on stage Friday nights. Ric Davis is about as laid back at the organ at the Royal Palace Restaurant in Chicago Ridge as anyone can bear. The Beverly resident plays and sings from 8 PM to 1:30 AM Fridays and Saturdays.

Mount Greenwood resident Janice O'Hara Pavich sings a couple sets of golden oldies accompanied by her mentor Bob Duffy on Saturday and Sunday nights at Summer West Restaurant, 10234 S. Western Ave. Pavich is a natural you have to see and hear to believe.

CLOSING LINES. Congratulations to local theater veteran Carol Kearney on her directorial debut with Larry Shue's "comedy" "The Foreigner" performed the last few weekends at Theater II on St. Xavier University campus. Kearney has been around the block a couple of times in local theater, especially with Theater II and The Beverly Theater Guild, and it was with the latter that she was on stage in the Shue Play. Now she is much smitten with directing, did an exquisite job with "The Foreigner" if we can judge from the performance, and we hope to see other productions under her histrionic baton. Every one of the actors, by the by, were excellent; Theater II is a local treasure.

Oak Lawn resident Mary Jo Williamson is reprising her roll as Fraulein Schneider in a production of "Cabaret" by Stage Right Productions at Georgio's Banquet Hall in Wood Dale. Williamson, who will be remembered for her performance of the role with the Oak Lawn Park District a couple years ago, comments that she is playing the role this time, her third, according to her interpretation of the character. "Which means I will have played it three different ways," no mean feat for an actor, though she says she always tries to make fresh a role she has played before, no pun intended. "Cabaret" has weekend runs through Dec. 11. Call (708) 595-2044.

Thanks to Polly Nichols for her help with this column and for good vibrations. We're starting out slow here, but we will accelerate.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Cheesecake: The ultimate gift

For the dessert lover on your holiday gift list, send an Eli's Cheesecake—a favorite of President and Mrs. Clinton, Frank Sinatra, Roger Moore and a host of other discriminating celebrities. You can send it anywhere in the United States and it will arrive picture perfect.

Choose from more than 40 different all natural, non-preservative cheesecakes. Festive holiday varieties include Eggnog, Candy Cane, Pumpkin, Cranberry Streusel and Tira Mi Su. Samplers cakes featuring four of Eli's most popular varieties are also available for the undecided.

To sweeten that special someone's heart year-round, a membership to Eli's Cheesecake-of-the-Month Club is the ultimate gift that keeps on giving.

These cakes are 3 1/2 pounds and cost $25-$35 plus shipping and handling. Orders can be taken until Dec. 20 by calling (800) 999-8300.

In 1980 Eli Schulman opened Chicago's Finest cheesecake Bakery which has become the world's largest specialty cheesecake supplier in the nation at 6510 W. Dakin

Here are other cheesecake enhancers if you prefer to buy one.

My favorite Candy Bar Cheesecake

Pour about 3/4 cup warmed prepared fudge topping on top a whole 9 inch Eli's Original or Chocolate Chip Cheesecake leaving a 1/2 inch border around the edge. Hand pipe rosettes of whipped cream within the outside border on each slice...cut miniature candy peices in half and place onto each rosette.

Caramel Pecan Cheesecake

Spread heated caramel sauce on top an Eli's Original Plain Cheesecake, the continue towards the center to create rings of pecans and on edge of the cheesecake.

Fresh Strawberry

Start with a whole Eli's Cheesecake..whisk 3/4 cup strawberry jelly in a small saucepan to boiling and until jelly coats a spoon. Brush surface of cheesecake with jelly and arrange whole fresh strawberries on top. Liberally brush strawberries arid side with hot jelly. Press crushed cookies crumbs on the side of the cheesecake.

Look to Finland for cooking on holidays

By Anita Anderson

When was the last time you saw a cookbook with Finnish recipes, especially mouth-watering, kitchen tested goodies for those special holidays when you want to create something special?

Beatrice Ojakangas of Duluth, Minnesota, has written "Great Holiday Baking Book" with more than 250 recipes for more than 20 holidays throughout the year.

Ojakangas was home in Duluth when I called her. She was preparing for a trip to Chicago where she was guest chef appearance at the corner bakery which featured selections from the book.

She has written more than 12 cookbooks including one on pot pies and quick breads. She and her husband, Richard, a Geology teacher who has his doctorate, spent one year in Helsinki, Finland several years ago and the author introduced the Finns to American recipes.

"I did my first book on Finnish recipes in 1964 and it's still in publication," Ojakangas said.

"When the Finns came to this country, expecially to Minnesota and Michigan, their original recipes like smelt pie with stone ground rye flour or fish soup became Americanized," Beatrice said.

Caraway-Beer Burger Buns

4 cups all-purpose flour
1 tbsp. sugar
1 tbsp. caraway seeds
1 1/2 tsp. salt
2 pkgs. (6 1/2 tsp.) active yeast or rapid-rise yeast
1 1/2 cups (12 ozs.) beer
1/4 cup vegetable oil

Measure the flour, sugar, caraway seeds, salt, and yeast into the work bowl of a food processor with a dough blade or into a large bowl. Process or mix with an electric mixer just until blended.

Heat the beer in a saucepan over medium heat to 130°F. Turn on the machine or mixer. Pour the warm beer and the vegetable oil into the dry ingredients. Mix until the dough is soft, pliable, and just slightly sticky. If the dough feels too dry and stiff, add warm water a tbsp. at a time while mixing, if the dough is too soft and sticky, add additional flour a tbsp. at a time.

Cover the dough in the bowl or the processor and let stand for 5 minutes.

Cover a baking sheet with parchment paper or coat lightly with non-stick spray. Turn out onto a lightly oiled surface. Shape into a long roll and cut into 12 equal peices and shape into balls or oblongs. Place each ball or oblong of dough onto the baking sheet inches apart and flatten to 1/2-inch thickness. Cover and let rise in a warm place for 10 minutes.

Preheat the oven to 425°F. Bake for 1 hour 15 minutes, until golden brown, Slide parchment with the buns onto the counter top to cool or remove the buns to cool on wire rack.

Makes 12 buns.

Evergreen Park teen wins the big prize

Michelle Litak, a senior student at Mother McAuley High School, was the envy of 1,984 girls at the high school when she won THE BIG PRIZE—a 1994 Nissan Sentra. The drawing for the car culminated the 1994 Calendar Drive, the major annual fundraising event which supplements revenues from tuition and fees enabling Mother McAuley High School to continue its tradition of execellence in education. Over the last 13 years, this annual drive has generated approximately $3,800,000. The car raffle, along with other incentive prizes, encourages students to participate in the drive and rewards them for their efforts.

Michelle Litak is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Litak of Evergreen Park.

Overeater Anon at Christ Hospital

Overeaters Anonymous meets at EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center, 4444 W. 95th St., Oak Lawn, every Wednesday, from 11 AM to noon in the Harbor Room. For more information, please call EHS Christ Hospital Health Advisor at (708) 346-5691.

Overeaters Anonymous is a support group for those who are compulsive eaters. The group began in 1960 in California through the efforts of three people who met to help one another with their eating problems. It is patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous. The only requirement is a desire to stop eating compulsively.

Crime, pollution reach Oak Lawn Village board

District II seek remedies

By Rick Techman

An adult male known for his destructive behavior and long criminal record in Oak Lawn and a small area of polluted ground behind the new Walgreen drug store at 6201 W. 95th Street gained the consent of the Oak Lawn Board for accelerated action at the board meeting Nov. 22.

District II Trustee Ron Stancik told the board that an adult male in his district, who has been known for violent crimes and drug offences, disrupting his community, continuously gets soft treatment from the courts through plea bargains and rarely spends any measurable time in prison.

Following a community action meeting held by Stancik, attended by 28 residents, a targeted plan of joint community and police activity is expected to bring the suspect to court again soon. Stancik stressed his concern for a fair trial remained at the top of the list though outweighed by his concern for all of the residents of his district who have been vandalized by the suspect in past years.

Stancik then asked the board to deny any further plea bargains for the suspect and allow him to go through the court system with a constitutionally guaranteed fair, speedy trial and swift permanent imposition of justice.

A small area of polluted ground in Oak Lawn was discovered by Midwest Property Group, the owners of the new Walgreen store building in Oak Lawn.

According to Jay Javers, project manager at the sight, about thirty years ago that location housed an auto repair shop where discarded auto fluids were dumped behind the building then at that site.

Javers agreed that thirty years ago a common means of discarding used chemicals was by the dumping method. He explained that today his organization, owners of the building, must pay the price to clean this polluted area up.

"This is," Javers said, "something that mother nature would have done by itself but this is just helping things move along a little faster."

He told the board that the polluted site is at least six feet underground covered by concrete and no danger to anyone or anything. He also emphasized that this was a voluntary cleanup.

He said since this problem will reverse itself in time the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency did not require any action.

"Walgreens and the bank," he said, "wanted it done sooner rather than later. That's just standard procedures."

The board approved the construction of a standard remediation shed behind the store to house material used in the cleanup. The cleanup should be completed within 8 months according to Javers.

Last month's general election included three issues on the ballot affecting Oak Lawn residents directly. Senior housing in Oak Lawn was approved by 8,208 yes and 5,869 no votes. No action will be immediately taken in Oak Lawn to install senior housing until an appropriate site is selected.

School funding passed by almost 9,000 votes but unreliable government mandates still make financial sources questionable.

The citizens of Oak Lawn defeated an attempt to construct an interchange near 103 and Central Avenue. The final count remains 7,507 yes votes to stop the interchange construction to 6,232 no votes to allow construction.

As of November 8 there were more than 34,000 registered voters in Oak Lawn. Only 18,430 Oak Lawn voters cast ballots last month.

The proposed 1995 Oak Lawn Village budget will be displayed during business hours every day at the Oak Lawn Village hall until final passage of the budget takes place at the December 13 board meeting. The budget is on display at the service desk at the front door and can be read by any interested parties at their leisure.

Christ Hospital and Medical Center community and physician leaders

Four south suburban community leaders were honored recently for their volunteer work and dedication to medicine at the Auxiliary of EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center's "Salute to the Stars" dinner-dance at the Stouffer Riviere Hotel in Chicago.

At its first annual dinner dance celebrating the hospital's progress, outstanding Community leaders awards were presented to Evergreen Park resident Martin Ozinga, Jr., and to Oak Lawn residents Jim and Joann Buschbach. Also presented was the Outstanding Physician Leader Award to retired internist John F. O'Brien, M.D., of Oak Lawn.

Abundant contributions to the community and to the hospital earned Ozinga his community leadership award. Besides having run three area businesses—the First National Bank of Evergreen Park, Ozinga Brothers, Inc. in Alsip and Clearing Bank in Chicago; having reared a family; having sat on the boards of several Evergreen Park community organizations, including the chamber of commerce, the police and fire commission and the Lions Club; and having served as a church leader, Ozinga found time to serve on a number of EHS Christ Hospital committees and councils. In 1970 he served as a delegate for the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

From managing a little league team to organizing fund-raisers for the Oak Lawn-Hometown School District 125, the Buschbachs together demonstrate their community commitment.

Owners of J. Buschbach Insurance and World Travel Mart. In addition, Jim is president of the Oak Lawn Parks Foundation and has sat on the American Cancer Society board. The treasurer of the Oak Lawn Library Board, Joann Buschbach is also a member of the Oak Lawn Educational Summitt and is president elect of the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce. Both serve on various advisory councils for the hospital.

Thirty years of treating EHS Christ Hospital patients only begins to account for the contributions Dr. O'Brien has made. Not only has he served as mentor to the hundreds of medical

Was there an analogy between Nov. 26th homily at St. Bernadette Church by Rev. Pok and the newly elected Congress? The homily was a significant reminder of the several conversations I had with businessmen since the Nov. 8th election.

It was stated that the Republicans had the majority vote in Congress, which was the first in 40 years. Of course, it has been the first time in my history that the disgruntled American voter helped with this victory!

The conversation between a customer and I was that the people were discontented with party politics and only knew they wanted change! I disagreed because many Republican incumbents were elected into office also, not only new GOP's.

My statement was that the people are fed up with the violence in the streets and the drugs which takes over the families and communities. We wanted a change!

The customer stated "the people wanted a change and it didn't matter who was elected. He also felt the middle class was sick of increased taxes!"

The taxes will continue to increase regardless which party is in office! I remember Gov. Edgar stating after his first election "in order to save the Public Education System we will have a tax increase!" The taxpayers of America got on the phones and contacted the Governor, and consequently, our taxes were not increased!

We are being told that schools will be functioning with less money and the children are victims once again from our cutbacks. The administration doesn't suffer, it's usually the teachers and students.

As a substitute teacher, I must say in a suburban school, Jr. High, I was told by several teachers that chalk was a premium! There could be many reasons for this problem, but regardless, it was a problem. Have you ever been in a classroom where you see children enjoying the creativity of color and yet art and music was in discussion at a board meeting regarding it's discontinuation. Children will suffer once again because of decreased budgets.

Crime is the most evident problem amongst seniors, families and children. We need a serious government agency patrolling our waterways, borders, airports, customs, etc.

So how did today's homily remind me of these political problems. when the priest, who could hardly speak English stated, "We should not worry about all the violence or sex on T.V. We should worry about the happy endings of a boy and girl walking into the sunset hand in hand. This leaves the young people to believe that love and marriage will be forever happy and that there will never be any problems. It's an injustice to the young people!"

Well if you haven't caught the analogy yet, it goes like this, "we cannot expect change and there still will be problems regardless if the Republicans walk hand in hand in the sunset!

As a voter we did learn something and that is a vote does make a difference!

students from Rush Medical College for more than 25 years, he is also an advocate for the elderly for whom he has set the pace for a proposed geriatric assessment clinic at the hospital. A champion of the hospital's philosophy and mission—upholding the rights of patients both ethically and legislatively—Dr. O'Brien won the support of the medical staff to incorporate them as hospital policy.

Besides providing a forum to honor these community servants, "Salute to the Stars" serves as the first event in a campaign to raise $10 million for EHS Christ Hospital's $25 million children's hospital, expected to open in 1996. Plans for the children's hospital include 45 private rooms and a 15-bed intensive care unit.

Woman Small Business Exchange

"Survival of the fittest" takes on a whole new meaning for Cheri Pittman. Ms. Pittman is the director and founder of the Women's Small Business Exchange (WSBE), a not for profit organization founded in June 1993. She has dedicated herself to the WSBE using personal funds. Due to her purpose, philosophy, creativity, uplifting and motivating style, along with her drive for success and persistence, WSBE has become a well recognized organization.

Pittman is also the owner of House Magic Cleaning Services. Being a micro business owner of a janitorial service, she found her need for advertisement was constantly increasing. She started he company on a shoe-string budget and was doing very well until the recession. Ms. Pittman believed she needed another avenue to help spread the word about her company. Determined not to fold, Pittman decided to start a network of business people, a process that would take longer than immediate advertisement, but would be less expensive.

With the single question "How can I get others to help?", the Women's Small Business Exchange (WSBE) was formed. After researching and attending numerous networking affairs, Ms. Pittman discovered there was a real need to help start up businesses, as well as provide guidance and support to existing small businesses.

Pittman states that WSBE offers an avenue where business people can network, gain new leads and contacts, show their products/services and offer a support system to its members. Their goal is to become the most powerful networking group of the 90's by offering inner circle loans to its qualifying members, offering piggyback bulk mail service, holding annual fundraisers, holding positive networking functions on a regular basis, and holding two major annual events.

Throughout the year, the Women's Small Business Exchange (WSBE) has designed a successful and positive program to bring its members in contact with other people in the business. Monthly chapter meetings are held in Southwest Chicago and Northwest Indiana. At the meetings, WSBE members are allowed to showcase their product/service for purchase. WSBE also features evening mingle and mix networking affairs.

In addition, WSBE offers workshops and seminars on "Building Steps Toward Success", a program designed by Director Pittman, in addition to seminars on "Me/Myself - Positive Self Esteem and Confidence", "Turn Your Hobby into a Money-Making Business" and more.

Slightly over one year old, WSBE's membership is over 30 members. Annual membership dues are $60 and members are allowed to attend other chapter meetings at no additional cost.

For more information on this organization, write to Cheri Pittman, Women's Small Business Exchange, P.O. Box 368042, Chicago, IL. 60636-8042 or 10300 S. Cicero, Suite 158, Oak Lawn, IL 60453. You may also phone Ms. Pittman directly at (312) 925-0150.

Library joins "Toys for Tots" campaign

The Oak Lawn Public Library will participate again this year in the "Toys for Tots" campaign sponsored by the Marine Corps Reserve. A large container will be placed in the first floor lobby near the library's Christmas tree. New toys or "look like new" used toys will be collected and distributed to needy children before Christmas. Children are selected in cooperation with several social service agencies in Chicago and the suburban areas. The gifts should not be wrapped.

The kick off of the campaign is the Chicago-land Toys for Tots Motorcycle Parade which will leave Dan Ryan Woods at 10:30 AM Sunday, Dec. 4, and proceed to the Fourth Marine Corps Center, Foster Ave. and Troy. The motorcyclists are the top suppliers of toys to the United States Marine Corps Reserve in the entire Chicago metropolitan area.

Plans are to install the container the weekend after Thanksgiving Day. The library is located at 9427 Raymond Ave. (5300 W. 95th St.)

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I would like to extend my heartfelt thanks and appreciation to the voters of the 48th District for their overwhelming support in last Tuesdays election. I would also like to thank my many friends and my family who so generously volunteered their time, talents, and efforts that helped to make this victory possible.

I sincerely appreciate the privilege of serving the people as State Representative for another term.

Again, thank you.

With warm regards,

Anne Zickus

Teens biggest pregnancy center clientele

By Rick Techman

The Oak Lawn community last month, seeking practical solutions for teen pregnancies and all local crisis pregnancies, secured the new Southside Pregnancy Center Office at 5450 West 95th Street.

The SPC offers a wide variety of pregnancy related services, for women of all ages, all confidential and free of charge to it clients.

SPC statistics show more than 1,500 clients were at the center in Chicago in 1993 with 51 percent of them being between 15 to 19 years old. Statistics also show at least 49 percent of the expectant teens reached found their needs addressed through the center.

More than 4,000 callers were helped on the 24 hour hotline and more than 1,100 teens took part in the teen abstinence program. The center reached almost 8,000 people in 1993 according to the SPC statistics.

The SPC brochure, stated "The Center's purpose is to provide meaningful alternatives to abortion for women with unplanned pregnancies. Because the difficulties involved in a crisis pregnancy are usually multi-layered and complex, the center offers a wide variety of services, all confidential and free of charge to its clients."

"The Southside Pregnancy Center," the brochure continued, "is strongly committed to the sanctity and dignity of all who are affected by a problem pregnancy; the mother, the child, and all in relationship with them."

"The Southside Crisis Pregnancy Center is a Christian, not-for-profit, volunteer organization dedicated to ministering to women in crisis pregnancy situations through the application of Biblical truths," the brochure continued.

"While the center views abortion as a destructive and inappropriate solution," the brochure added, "to a crisis pregnancy, its staff and volunteers are committed to providing emotional support to every woman they serve, even if she chooses to have an abortion. Our door will never close to her."

"What a woman needs with an unexpected pregnancy does not need," the brochure explained, "are accusations, lectures, or simplistic advice to 'solve your problem and get on with your life.' What she needs is compassion and practical help, perhaps extending for weeks, months, even years.

The Southside Pregnancy Center will be holding a Grand opening of the new Oak Lawn facility on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, December 2, 3, and 4, 1994 between 1 PM and 5 PM. For more information call 346-9070.

BENRUS WWII COMMEMORATIVE
50TH ANNIVERSARY OF D-DAY 1944-1994

During World War II, Korea and Vietnam, Benrus supplied millions of watches to the U.S. military. All of these watches conformed to the rigorous specs of 1942-GX1432001 and became a reliable companion to American servicemen throughout the world.

The all steel water resistant case, and its 17 jewel Swiss movement with second hand stop feature, was built to last a lifetime and many have.

Oak Lawn Library news

Library circulation up slightly

Library circulation for October increased slightly over October last year, according to Dr. James Casey, Oak Lawn Public Library Director. In his report to the library board at its regular monthly meeting, he indicated that circulation has risen in the last few months, but final statistics may show a decrease over the peak year, 1993.

During the meeting, the board held an annual review of several library policies including reference services, data base searching, fines and fees and library service fees.

Also reviewed was the progress of the library in implementing its long range plan. This plan was developed during a January, 1993, meeting of the library staff and community representatives for the period from 1993-1996. The review shows that the library is on target in meeting the goal of the plan.

In regular business, the board approved payment of $29,625 for library materials; $22,179 for operating expenses; and $153,061 for personnel.

Board meetings, which are open to the public, are held at 7:30 PM on the third Tuesday of each month in the library's lower level Rotary Room, 9427 Raymond Ave.(5300 W. 95th St.) Board members are Lois Gasteyer, president; Marian Sullivan, vice president; Robert Ilonkisz, secretary; Joann Buschbach, treasurer; Shirley Barrett, Nancy Czerwiec and Robert Thompson, trustees.

Voices of the Valley Concert at Library

The Voices of the Valley of Moraine Valley Community College will present a Christmas concert, A Time for Caroling, at 2 PM Sunday, Dec. 18, at the Oak Lawn Public Library, 9427 Raymond Ave., (5300 W. 95th St.) The group is directed by Alice Maguire and accompanied by Marilyn Sobbe.

Carols of England, France, Spain, Ukraine, and the 20th Century composer, John Rutter, will be included as well as audience participation.

Soloists are Marilyn Keblusek, Lyle Lake, Larry Lefaiver, Florence Sklenar, Jean Smoots, John Schneider and Janet Wohlgemuth.

The concert, which is open to the public, will be held in the lower level meeting room B. Seating will be on a first-come, first-seated basis.

Library hosts open mike short story reading

An Open Mike Short Story Reading has been scheduled at the Oak Lawn Public Library, 9427 Raymond Ave. 9:30 - noon, Saturday, Dec. 10. Writers of all kinds are invited to participate. Although holiday stories are encouraged for this meeting, all stories are welcome.

The morning will be divided into two segments. Those who wish to read can register at the door as they arrive. They will read during the first segment. Each reader will have ten minutes. Following the break, those who did not register but would like to read will have an opportunity in the second segment. Time permitting, all readers will have a chance to read again.

Short story readings give writers in the area a place to share with others who have similar interests and to find support for their creativity.

You are cordially invited to attend

Moraine presents classic opera

The Academic Theater Department at Moraine Valley Community College presents the holiday classic opera "Amahl and the Night Visitors."

There are just three performances of this production on Friday, Dec. 9 and Saturday, Dec. 10 at 8 PM, and Sunday, Dec. 11 at 2 PM. Performances will be in the Dorothy Menker Theater located in the Fine and Performing Arts Center, on campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills.

Braun will speak at conference

U.S. Sen. Carol Moseley-Braun will be featured speaker at the annual Minority and Women's Participation luncheon during the Illinois State Bar Association's Midyear Meeting on Thursday, Dec. 8, at 12 noon at the Sheraton Chicago Hotel and Towers, 301 E. North Water.

A graduate of the University of Chicago Law School and former federal prosecutor, she was elected to the Illinois House of Representatives in 1978 and became the first woman and first black to serve as assistant majority leader.

Before her Senate election victory in 1992, Moseley-Braun served four years as Cook County recorder of deeds—the first woman and first African American to hold executive office in county government.

Cost of the luncheon is $10 per person. for further information, contact the ISBA at (800) 252-8908.

St. Nicholas Lives Santa Claus story

By Rick Techman

Santa Claus Lives! The legend of Santa Claus is based upon the 4th century life and rule of St. Nicholas, Bishop of Myra in Lycia of Ancient Turkey.

The life of St. Nicholas inspired the Santa Claus tradition and even present name was corrupted from the original Dutch "Saint Nikolaas" according to Fr. Stanley Drewniak, associate pastor of St. Camillus Parish in Chicago.

Fr. Stanley explained that gift giving was established when St. Nicholas, during his own lifetime, received recognition for his personal charity particularly to the poor and to children.

"This is the day of St. Nicholas. We celebrate it on the 6th of December," Fr. Stanley said.

According to the New Standard Encyclopedia, a reference guide, the New York English associate St. Nicholas gift giving with the traditional Christmas holiday and since that time gift giving has taken place on Christmas day.

The encyclopedia also pinpointed St, Nicholas gift giving with the traditional generosity beginning when, "legends tell of St. Nicholas tossing bags of gold into homes facing starvation, and of his aid to poor servant girls, to lost sailors and to penniless prisoners.

"One of the most popular legends tells of three bags of gold he threw into the home of three maidens to save them from a life of shame," according to the encyclopedia. From this legend arose the custom of giving gifts to children on the feast of St. Nicholas, December 6.

Fr. Stanley explained that the traditional "Santa Suit" mirrors the clothing worn by the jolly old elf himself. Fr. Stanley described how from the hat down, every piece of cloth has meaning.

First, he said, the "stocking cap" worn by Santa Claus represents the Bishop's mitre hat, a liturgical headdress worn by bishops of the church. Furthermore, the red in a Santa suit represents the winter season.

St. Nicholas served as Bishop in the Eastern Church according to Fr. Stanley and he said St. Nicholas is the primary patron saint of Russia.

"Many, many time." Fr. Stanley said, "he is put together with paintings of St. Francis of Assissi." Fr. Stanley added that the two saints lived several centuries apart.

A decree on St. Nicholas' Pastoral Office read, "In order to be able to consult more suitably the welfare of the faithful according to the condition of each one, a bishop should strive to become duly acquainted with their needs in the social circumstances in which they live...He should manifest his concern for all, no matter what their age, condition or nationality, he they natives, strangers, or foreigners.

Metra, Morrison Knudsen seek ways to reach minority- and women-owned firms

More than 40 local companies, which are Minority Business Enterprises (MBEs) and Women Business Enterprises(WBEs), recently learned how being certified as a DBE (Disadvantaged Business Enterprise) could make more contract opportunities available through the Metra transit system and Morrison Knudsen.

An outreach conference co-sponsored by Metra and Morrison Knudsen enabled companies operating within a six-mile radius of Morrison Knudsen's Chicago facility to learn how they reap the benefits of contracts and subcontracts over the next few years for the design and manufacture of 173 new gallery transit cars and the rehabilitation of 140 Highliner cars.

The assembly is being performed in Chicago with support services provided by Morrison Knudsen's Hornell, N.Y., Facility.

"A survey of M/WBEs in attendance showed that more than half were not certified by Metra as Disadvantaged Business Enterprises (DBEs)," said Sandi Llano, DBE director for Metra.

Robert Nixon, DBE coordinator for Morrison Knudsen, said: "We want to make certain that businesses which qualify can take advantage of this opportunity."

DBEs are needed to provide a broad range of services including electrical supplies, gases, general supplies, janitorial, metals, painting supplies, safety supplies, signage, and welding supplies, according to Joseph Williams, president of Target Group, the consulting firm that advises Morrison Knudsen on its affirmative action efforts.

Williams praised Metra and Morrison Knudsen for their outreach efforts and "exemplary action to helping disadvantaged businesses and the community as a whole."

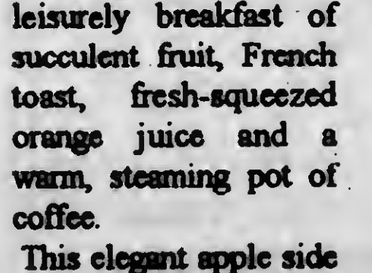
FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Classic Lasagna never goes out of style

A classic never goes out of style. Like a strand of pearls, or an antique armoire, many foods are classics, too. Take lasagna, for example. You probably ate it when you were a kid, and it's still a favorite.

No wonder, because lasagna make a great family meal, and it's perfect for informal entertaining as well. It needs few accompaniments. It's forgiving—you can make it in advance, and it will hold for a short time before you serve it.

Lasagna is economical, too, but even more so right now while ground beef prices are a seven year low. So, now's the time to revisit this classic if you haven't made it in a while. Contemporary No-Fuss Beef & Spinach Lasagna is easier than most.



Holstein cattle produce the most milk.

Convenient prepared spaghetti sauce and already-seasoned tomatoes are combined to make the hearty meat sauce. Simply brown the ground beef to make the hearty sauce. Simply brown the ground beef until it's no longer pink, then add the sauce and tomatoes. Layer the lasagna noodles in the casserole uncooked! That's right. Just make sure to press the noodles down into the sauce so they're completely covered during baking. The best part about this convenient 90s lasagna is that it doesn't sacrifice taste for convenience; the traditional flavors are still there.

Toss a salad and heat up some crusty garlic bread to complete this classic meal.

No-Fuss Beef & Spinach Lasagna

- 1 lb. lean ground beef
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1 jar (26-30 ozs.) prepared spaghetti sauce
- 1 can (14-1/2 ozs.) Italian-style diced tomatoes undrained
- 1/4 tsp. ground red pepper
- 1 carton (15 ozs.) part-skim ricotta cheese
- 1 pkg. (10 ozs.) f frozen chopped spinach, defrosted and well drained
- 1/4 cup grated parmesan cheese
- 1 egg, beaten
- 10 uncooked lasagna noodles
- 1-1/2 cups shredded part-skim mozzarella cheese

Spinach Lasagna

Heat oven to 375°. In large nonstick skillet, brown ground beef over medium heat 8 to 10 minutes or until no longer pink. Pour off drippings. Season with salt; stir in spaghetti sauce, tomatoes and red pepper; set aside.

Meanwhile in medium bowl. combine ricotta cheese, spinach, parmesan cheese and egg.

Spread 2 cups beef sauce over bottom of 13 X 9-inch baking dish. Arrange 4 lasagna noodles lengthwise in single layer. Place 5th noodle across end of baking dish, breaking noodle to fit dish; press noodle into sauce. Spread entire ricotta cheese mixture over noodles; sprinkle with 1 cup mozzarella cheese and top with 1-1/2 cups beef sauce. Arrange remaining noodles in single layer; press lightly into sauce. Top with remaining beef sauce.

Bake in 375° oven 45 minutes or until noodles are tender. Sprinkle remaining mozzarella cheese on top; tent lightly with aluminum foil. Let stand 15 minutes; cut into 12(3 X 3 - Inch) squares.

Holiday Dessert

Caramel Apple Pie

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 2 tsp. sugar
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 cup (1 stick) unsalted butter, chilled and cut into pieces
- 2 to 4 tsp. ice water
- 6 large Granny Smith apples (about 3 pounds)
- 5 tbsp. unsalted butter
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 2tsp. ground cinnamon

In a bowl or in a food processor, combine the flour, sugar, and salt. Process or cut in the butter until the butter is in pea-size pieces. Turn the mixture into a large bowl if using a food processor. Add 2 tbsp. of the ice water and stir with a fork until the dough gathers into a ball. Add more water if needed. Turn onto a floured surface and lightly knead once or twice. Wrap in plastic wrap and chill at least 1 hour.

Preheat the oven to 375°F.

To make the filling, peel, core, and slice the apples into quarters. Butter a 10-inch pie pan and dust with sugar. Combine the butter and sugar in a saucepan over medium heat and stir until the sugar dissolves. Pour the syrup into the pie pan, covering the bottom evenly. Arrange the apples in concentricles, leaving no open spaces. Sprinkle with the cinnamon.

Roll out the pastry on a lightly floured surface to fit the top of the pie. Transfer and cover the apples, tucking in the edges of the pastry down between the apples and the sides of the pan. Slash the top of the pastry to make air vents.

Bake for 50 to 55 minutes or until the pastry is golden and juices bubble through the slits. Cool about 5 minutes on a wire rack. Invert onto a serving platter. Do not cool in the pan too long or the caramel will harden and stick to the pan.

Makes 8 servings.

Elegant and simple breakfast dish

Elegant Apple Dish

Whether entertaining overnight guests, treating the family or indulging yourself, what better way to say "good morning" than with a leisurely breakfast of succulent fruit, French toast, fresh-squeezed orange juice and a warm, steaming pot of coffee.

This elegant apple side dish, created by Fritz Sonnenschmidt, Culinary Institute of America in Hyde Park, NY, could steal the show at any meal. But, on the breakfast menu, Apple Salad Hudson Valley takes center stage. The secret ingredient? Horseradish, of course!

Apple Salad Hudson Valley

- 1 1/2 lbs. (approx.5) apples(yellow delicious and Macintosh)
- juice of 1 lemon
- 3 to 4 tbsp. prepared horseradish
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 6 ozs. (1 and 1/2 cups) walnuts, chopped and toasted
- dash Applejack (if not available, substitute whiskey

Cut apples in quarters, remove core (do not peel), and slice paper thin. Sprinkle with lemon juice, and arrange in a shingled fashion into a round casserole or quiche dish. Combine sugar, horseradish and heavy cream; pour over apples.

Marinate for 30 minutes. Sprinkle with applejack and garnish with toasted walnuts and serve with warm French toast and maple syrup.

MVCC News

The Academic Theater Department at Moraine Valley Community College presents the holiday classic opera "Amahl and the Night Visitors."

There are just three performances of this production on Friday, Dec. 9 and Saturday, Dec. 10 at 8 PM, and Sunday, Dec. 11 at 2 PM. Performances will be in the Dorothy Menker Theater located in the Fine and Performing Arts Center, on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills.

The opera by Gian Carlo Menotti is based on his own childhood celebrations of Christmas in Italy where the Three Kings bring the children's gifts, not Santa Claus. The opera exemplifies the spirit of the Christmas season and can be enjoyed by the entire family.

Professional guest artists are playing the lead roles.

Kate Wulle, director of the Academic Theater Program and professor of Humanities/Theater at Moraine Valley, will direct this production, and Robert Reifsnyder, associate professor of music, provides the musical direction.

Tickets are $15.25 for adults and $12.25 for senior citizens and children. A dinner theater performance will be offered Dec. 10 for an additional $20 for each ticket.

The dinner theater features fare from Northern Italy and will be prepared and served by students enrolled in Moraine Valley's Culinary Arts Management Program. The dinner is served at 6 PM in the College Center Moraine Rooms and the play starts at 8 PM.

For tickets or more information, contact the Fine and Performing Arts Center box office at (708) 974-5500.

Art Exhibits at Moraine Valley

Moraine Valley Community College will host an opening reception recognizing the work of Carole Hughes Hennessy on Sunday, Dec. 4 from 3 to 5 PM in the Robert F. DeCaprio Art Gallery, located in the Fine and Performing Arts Center on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave. Palos Hills.

The college will present an exhibit of watercolors by Hennessy from Dec. 1 through Jan. 3 in the gallery.

Hennessy is the owner and operator of Art Endeavors, a gallery and frame shop in Downers Grove. She has also developed and taught a number of children's and adult art classes for the Naperville Art League, the Downers Grove Park District, and Downers Grove Elementary School District 58.

Hennessy's art work has been exhibited in the Chicago area, as well as in Colorado, Georgia, Indiana, New Mexico, New York, Texas, and Wisconsin. She has received a number of awards for her work.

"My work is an ongoing experience combining reality, fantasy, memories, and dreams... I attempt to find new combinations of objects and places," Hennessy said in an artist's statement.

Hours of the gallery are 9 AM to 4:30 PM Monday through Friday.

Chicago Chamber Brass performs holiday concert at Moraine Valley

Enjoy the sounds of holiday music by the Chicago Chamber Brass at Moraine Valley Community College.

The concert will be Saturday, Dec. 17 at 8 PM in the Dorothy Menker Theater located in the Fine and Performing Arts Center, on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills.

The Chicago Chamber Brass is widely recognized as on of the finest brass quintets in the world. Their style and spirit add warmth and wit to their performances.

Tickets are $12.25.

To purchase tickets or for more information, call the Fine and Performing Arts Center box office at (708) 974-5500.

Mass in Polish at St. Camillus

By Rick Techman

Fr. Stanley, originally from the Archdiocese of Lublin, Poland spent two years in South America working for the Holy Father and the Holy See before moving to the St. Camillus Parish on the southwest side of Chicago in 1988.

As associate pastor at St. Camillus Parish of the Chicago Archdiocese, Fr. Stanley and the parish serve two distinct groups of local Catholics. The fifty year old parish, which includes a church, grammar school and community room next door to Chicago's Midway Airport, offers seven masses every weekend and two every weekday morning. Five masses in English every weekend serve the parish senior citizen and family population which founded the church.

Two masses in the Polish language every weekend serve the devout Polish Catholic, immigrant community recently seeking a new life in America since the fall of communist oppression in 1990.

"I left Poland in 1980," Fr. Stanley said, "I studied for six years in Rome. In Rome I made two doctoral diplomas in Canon Law and in Catholic Diplomacy." Fr. Stanley founded the St. Camillus children's choir and is the presiding judge of the marriage metropolitan tribunal of the Chicago Archdiocese.

Father Stanley also serves as the parish liaison to the Polish community.

Benedictine luncheon

Rev. James Saul, Director Benedictine Chinese Missions invites all to a special luncheon at Patsby's Restaurant at 103rd and Southwest Highway, Chicago Ridge, IL, on December 9th, Friday, 11:30 AM.

No ideas is so outlandish that it should not be considered with a searching but at the same time with a steady eye.

—Winston S. Churchill

P.S./WASHINGTON

a column by
U.S. Senator Paul Simon of Illinois

Is A Career in Public Service Worth It?

Shortly after announcing that I will retire from the Senate after 1996, a gentleman approached me and asked a simple question: "Should I encourage my 10-year-old to consider entering political life?"

In the quick, passing conversation he added something about the bitterness of politics.

My answer to him and to all parents of 10-year-olds is that if they are talking about non-career participation, then the answer should be a clear yes – and the best way to encourage 10-year-olds is by example: participate yourself.

Political participation is the way we determine the future of our free government, whether those 10-year-olds will be saddled with a huge debt because of our shortsightedness and cowardice; whether those 10-year-olds will have quality educational opportunities; whether those 10-year-olds will grow up in a world of peace and stability.

But I believe the gentleman meant whether he should encourage his son or daughter to make a career of political life, and the answer to that is a little more difficult. My answer is, "Yes, if ..."

• If that 10-year-old shows a real interest in current events, including politics or in history. Children should not be shoved into a profession. People generally do well at what they enjoy.

• If that 10-year-old shows an ability to get along with people well. I met a young man from Decatur, Ill., 11-year-old Howard Buffett Jr., who some day could make a very successful politician. He is an extrovert. He mixes with people naturally. We are not all suited for every profession, fortunately. Some people can spend a day in a chemical lab and be thoroughly excited by it. For others it would be a chore. The same is true of political life.

• If that young person shows an interest in doing something other than making money. If his or her goal in life is primarily making money, then choose another profession; political life will be a disappointment.

• If there is a genuine sense of wanting to help people. If that gives satisfaction, a political career may be right for him or her. But it is wrong if the person simply wants to be a senator or governor or county commissioner or hold some other office – if the office is sought solely because of the title and honor, rather than for what can be done in that office.

• If the person is willing to take criticism and some abuse. More than most professions, political life is an area where many people believe strongly they know the right answers and they let you know. That's the way it should be in a democracy. But frequently those who are the most certain are the least informed.

In reading over what I have written, I have made it sound too grim. What I have not added is the great satisfaction a person receives from getting something done that helps people, usually things that do not receive public attention.

If I were to start over, would I enter public service again?

You bet.

U.S. DIAMOND FACTS AND FIGURES

(NAPS)—Perhaps the best known diamond in the U.S. is the Hope Diamond —44.5 carats—at the Smithsonian. But that's only a glimmer compared to the world's largest diamond ever offered for sale (which was cut in the U.S.)—407.48 carats (about the size of a tulip).

* * *

The magic of diamonds makes more than just engagements bright. Even though engagement pieces made up 11 percent of diamond jewelry sold in the U.S. in 1993, over 30 percent was for Christmas and 15 percent for no special reason at all.

* * *

The value of a diamond is not always in its size. In 1987, a .95 carat diamond sold in New York for $880,000, that's $926,000 per carat.

Many people think most diamonds in the U.S. were mined in South Africa. Actually, South Africa accounts for less than ten percent of the diamonds mined in the world, while Australia accounts for nearly 40 percent by weight, by far the largest source of diamonds.

* * *

The United States imports diamonds from 50 nations. Imports of loose, polished diamonds from Belgium, India and Israel make up 90 percent by value of all U.S. polished diamond imports.

* * *

For more information about diamonds, write to the American Diamond Industry Association, 589 Fifth Avenue, Suite 901, New York, NY 10017.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Creativity and holiday tips with Anita

Let these ideas spark you own imagination and creativity for presenting holiday food.

Line tins or wicker baskets with antique lace napkins or tea towels. Add freshly baked muffins or breads and top with a sprig of baby's breath. Tuck in a ramekin of flavored butter.

Bring added warmth and comfort to a holiday spread. Cover a buffet table with a star quilt sprayed with a protective coating to guard against spills.

Holiday cookie cutters or small grapevine wreaths can double as napkin rings at individual place settings. A simple bow tied through each one will add a festive touch.

For a touch of spice, sprinkle sweetened whipped cream with ground cinnamon, nutmeg or allspice—a great topper for eggnog, hot chocolate or coffee.

Cover boxes or coffee cans with decorative paper or twine and line with colored tissue, cellophane or foil. Tuck favorite butter cookies inside and tie with a pretty plaid ribbon.

Decorate a tree with edible ornaments. When baking cut-out cookies, poke a hole near the top with a drinking straw. Bake and decorate as desired. Thread a narrow ribbon through a hold and tie a knot at the end.

No time to frost a single layer cake or brownies? Place a doily on top of the cake. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar over the top and carefully remove the pattern.

A large, buttery shortbread cookie can become the centerpiece for a holiday dessert table. Bake dough in a round cake pan, cool and place on a decorated round plate. Tie a ribbon around plate for a festive look.

Make a simple buttercream frosting and spread between two butter cookies to form a sandwich cookie. If desired, roll edges in finely chopped nuts, grated semisweet chocolate or colored sugar.

Quick buttercream—combine 2 cup confectioners' sugar and 3 tbsp. softened butter. Add milk or cream, 1 tablespoon at a time, to reach desired consistency for spreading or glazing. Stir in extract and/or food coloring, if desired.

Spray the tips of pine cones lightly with gold paint. Scatter them among holiday offerings on a buffet table.

Unusual containers such as an antique fan-shaped vase can be used for serving sauces, fruit preserves or whipped cream.

Dress up a pitcher of eggnog or sparkling apple cider by adding a few fresh or silk flowers. Tie the flowers to the bottle or handle with a piece of decorative twine or ribbon.

Garnish holiday fare with edible seasonal flowers or fresh herbs such as thyme, rosemary or purple basil. Butter pats look especially festive adorned with a tiny blossom or sprig.

Dress up the base of a holiday cake. Wrap shimmering ribbon around the bottom and tie in a simple bow. Add a shiny ornament or holly sprig for the finishing touch.

Place wedges of assorted cheese on fresh lemon or grape leaves. Accompany with clusters of grapes, apple slices and chutney.

Weave holiday ribbons through a grapevine wreath and nestle a favorite holiday cake such as buttery cranberry pound cake in the center.

Warm up guest with a mug of hot mulled cider. Float clove-spiked apples in a large earthenware bowl or crock filled with warm cider.

Create a centerpiece all your own. Stack an heirloom cake pedestal with miniature pumpkins, squashes, gourds, pomegranates and dried artichokes. Tuck small twigs, dried leaves or fresh sprigs of fragrant herbs between vegetables and fruits.

An array of glass candlesticks of differing heights makes an interesting centerpiece. Add fresh flowers, fall foliage or Christmas greenery at the base.

Holiday Hints

Baking Bread For Christmas

(NAPS)—Delicious home baked treats can be yours to enjoy throughout the New Year to come if you're lucky enough to find an easy-to-use bread and dough maker under your tree this holiday season.

The new Deluxe Bread and Dough Maker from Oster makes better bakery-fresh bread using a state-of-the-art baking process—an innovative baking cycle that seals in flavor and finishes crust to perfection. The advanced technology provides a taller rise; larger loaf; finer texture; a softer, airy inside and a crisper crust outside.

The Deluxe Bread and Dough Maker offers more features than any other bread machine in its class, including a small or large loaf option; 13-hour bake time delay; viewing window; special baking cycles; light, medium and dark crust selections; rapid bake; fruit and nut beep; cool down fan; and a cast aluminum, Teflon-coated bread pan. The convenient control panel features a big liquid crystal display, extra-large buttons and it works the way people think.

Here's a terrific holiday recipe you can prepare with the Deluxe Bread and Dough Maker—a Swedish Christmas Crown loaf that can double as a festive centerpiece:

SWEDISH CHRISTMAS CROWN

Dough

3/4 cup water
2 eggs
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) margarine or butter, softened
Pinch of saffron,* crushed (1/16 to 1/8 teaspoon)
4 cups Gold Medal® Better for Bread™ bread flour
1/3 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons bread machine Yeast, quick-acting active dry yeast or regular active dry yeast

Mix-ins

1/3 cup chopped citron
1/4 cup chopped blanched almonds
2 teaspoons grated lemon peel

Topping

Glaze (below)
Green and red candied cherries

1. Place all Dough ingredients in bread pan in the order listed. Select SWEET DOUGH cycle. Add Mix-ins when bread maker beeps 3 times (about 15 minutes after starting).

2. Grease large cookie sheet. Divide dough in half. Roll each half into 30-inch rope on lightly floured surface. Place ropes close together on cookie sheet. Twist gently and loosely into a circle. Press ends together to fasten. Cover; let rise in warm place 45 to 60 minutes or until double.

3. Heat oven to 375°. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown; cool. Make holes for 5 or 6 candles in bread. Drizzle with Glaze; garnish with cherries. Insert candies.

2 or 3 drops yellow food color can be substituted for the saffron.

Glaze: Mix 1 cup powdered sugar and 1 tablespoon water until smooth. If glaze is too stiff, mix in few drops water.

Free Booklet

A free recipe booklet containing money-saving coupons, "Bake With The Best This Holiday Season," is available by calling 1-800-526-2832; or by writing Sunbeam-Oster Household Products Company, 1501 Woodfield Rd., Suite 400N, Schaumburg, IL 60173.

Delicious and easy-to-make, Swedish Christmas Crown loaf can double as a festive centerpiece.

Your Guide To Fine Dining, Entertainment & Other Activities Around The Area!

Babe's Farm House Inn located in Blue Island

With lights aglow like a scene from a Kincaid painting, Babe's Farm House Inn and Antique Shop in Blue Island offers a nostalgic "Step into the past" to holiday visitors to this historic nineteenth century farmhouse.

Painstakingly restored by the Aggen family, the oldest standing farmhouse in Blue Island opened as a restaurant and antique shop in 1985. The Aggen's were certainly no strangers to the restaurant business, as Babe owned a nearby truck stop for twenty years and her young son Victor literally grew up in the kitchen, learning "hands on" the cooking and baking skills that make Babe's Farmhouse Inn a down home culinary delight.

A sensual odyssey begins as droll, life size images of old friends Ed and Frank from Bartles and Jaymes offer a toast to visitors as they pass through the French doors into the first of many cozy dining areas that follow the original configuration of the house. Literally every nook and cranny is filled with festive holiday decorations that Babe will keep on display till well after the season ends to accommodate her many out of state regulars yearning for a memory of Christmases past.

A gallimaufry of antiques and collectibles personally collected by Babe adorns every room and overflows into an upstairs gift shop. Hundreds of colorful collector plates often compete for visual attention with period light fixtures and Victorian wall covering, giving each room an eclectic personality of its own. Sepia-toned images of the farmhouse as it looked in yesteryear can be viewed as one ascends the narrow stairway to the second floor.

Upstairs, it is hard to imagine not discovering at least one knicknack or collectible (whether a souvenir ashtray or parlor lamp like grandmother once used) that does not evoke a unique and personal memory of another place in time.

Country Style Cooking is the description that most aptly describes the cuisine at Babe's. If a three inch portion of Moist lechon with bean laced rice and garlic-topped yucca served on a fifteen inch platter and garnished with nasturtium petals is your idea of gustatorial nirvana, perhaps a trip to the Northside is in order.

Hearty meat and potato dishes are the staple here, and Pritikin notwithstanding, massive portions that go begging for a doggie bag will find many a Spot or Rover casting furtive glances as the microwave door is closed.

During our recent visit, we enjoyed a delightful appetizer of Jalapeno peppers stuffed with sharp cheddar cheese, lightly breaded, deep fried and served with a tangy fruit sauce created to offset the bite of the peppers. The sweet and sour combination indeed provided a pleasing complement to the vegetable dumpling soup, fresh biscuits and dinner salad served with a special house ranch dressing. Along with a glass of soft, mellow Cabernet Sauvignon, the latter was certainly a feast in its own right!

My entree consisted of a hearty melange of chicken,beef and gravy served within a ring of fluffy mashed potatoes and topped with melted cheese. I finished half of the huge portion; my companion, who enjoyed an old-fashioned dinner of tender sliced pork, dumplings, gravy and sauerkraut certainly had one less meal to plan for the next day!

Sitting near the dessert cooler certainly didn't help matters much, but the temptation of chef Victor's decadent homemade German Chocolate Cake was simply overwhelming--moist chocolate cake heavily laden with rich coconut infused frosting. Along with a good cup of coffee, it was a grand finale to a meal that gave new meaning to the term Heaven Can Wait!

News Of Local Servicemen

Marine Sgt. Anthony Garcia, son of Frank Garcia of 9116 S. Massasott, Oak Lawn, IL., recently completed the Basic Engineer Equipment Mechanic Course.

The 1980 graduate of St. Lawrence High School of Burbank, IL., joined the Marine Corps in November 1984.

Marine Cpl. Keith J. ORourke, 1988 graduate of Marist Iligh School of Chicago, recently completed a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific and Indian Oceans with Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron 163.

He joined the Marine Corps in July 1990.

Navy Fireman Apprentice Kenneth J. Crosby, son of Charles L. and Linda S. Crosby of 5408 W. Kimball Place, Oak Lawn, IL., recently completed operations off the coast of Haiti on board the aircraft carrier USS America.

The 1990 graduate of Oak Lawn Community High School joined the Navy in August 1993.

Navy Airman Apprentice William A. Scanlon, a 1992 graduate of Harold L. Richards High School of Oak Lawn, IL., recently returned to the Persian Gulf aboard the aircraft carrier USS George Washington in response to yet another crisis in Iraq.

Scanlon is one of more than 5,000 Sailors and Marines assigned to the carrier and its air wing. He recently traveled from the Mediterranean Sea, through the Suez Canal and Red Sea, to the Persian Gulf.

He joined the Navy in June 1991.

Air Force Senior Master Sgt. Charles E. Langdon, a 1975 graduate of Richards High School of Oak Lawn, IL., recently graduated from the Senior Enlisted Academy at the Naval Education and Training Center, Newport, R.I.

Course studies include leadership and management techniques, communication skills, national security affairs, management of Navy resources, Navy topics and physical readiness.

Expert speakers from various fields provide students with insights on contemporary issues such as defense economics, stress management and international relations.

He joined the Air Force in May 1979. Langdon is a 1991 graduate of Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University, Daytona Beach, Fla., with a MBA degree.

Consider Richard's

Why consider Richards High School for your student? Of the 100+ teachers in the building, 86% have received at least one Masters degree in their specialized area. In addition, over 98% of the faculty have participated in a district-wide computer training program in order to better utilize the latest in computer technology and innovative programs available in every classroom or computer lab in the building.

Richards also offers over 190 courses in 15 different departments. In addition to the core classes of Math, English, Science, and History, Richards offers a wide variety of electives geared towards both the college bound student and the vocational education student. Richards students enrolled in a college-preparatory curriculum, on average over the last four years, have improved their ACT scores nearly 13% since 1989. For the dame period of time, all students have improved their ACT scores nearly 10%.

In one year, the Counseling Department secured over 2.5 million dollars in scholarship money for the graduating seniors. Over 30% of the class received scholarship money. 2.1 million dollars were academic scholarships. 42 different colleges and universities gave scholarships and grant monies to Richards students. Scholarship money also came from private foundations, church groups, clubs/organizations, corporations, ethnic groups, local business, and professional organizations. In addition, scholarship money was awarded as a direct result of Richards students winning local, state, and national competition/awards.

Richards students are actively encouraged to participate in school activities or sports. Over 60% of the students are involved in at least one extra curricular activity.

For more information concerning the school, or if you wish to take a tour of the facility, please call the Counseling Department at 499-2550, ext. 119.

Garden Center requests help

Winter/Spring bowling for the mentally and physically handicapped.

Hang out in the alley this Winter/Spring. A bowling alley, that is, and head for the strike zone with many new friends. No previous skill or knowledge is required, as our instructors will provide each bowler with as little or as much attention as needed, according to individual ability. Fee includes two games each Friday, shoes, instruction when needed, and awards to be presented at our banquet. Class will begin on January 20, 1995 for 15 consecutive weeks from 4 to 5:50 PM at Arena Bowl in Oak Lawn. Bowling ramps will be available for those needing assistance. To register, mail name, address, phone number, and $35 fee before January 5, 1995 to Garden Center for the Handicapped, ATTN: Special Events, 8333 South Austin, Burbank, IL 60459 or, for more details, call 708-636-0054 on Monday mornings and ask for the Special Events office.

Supplies and volunteers needed for handicapped

Garden Center for the Handicapped is in need of new and used toys, games, arts & craft supplies, records, costumes, bingo prizes, baskets & trimmings, other holiday decorations, and sports equipment. Put them in a box, make your name and address (Attn: Special Events) on the box and drop off between 9 AM and 3 PM at 8333 South Austin in Burbank, IL. Why not make your junk our treasure?

Volunteers are also desperately needed

Why not make use of your leisure time by helping others? We are looking for senior citizens, housewives, househusbands, high school and college students, and internships. No experience necessary. You may volunteer as much as you like or just one hour of free time each week. Join now! Volunteers are needed for bowling, swimming, office work, social club, special events, and trips - days and evenings. For more information, call Diane in the Special Events Department at 708-636-0054 on Monday mornings.

Social club for the developmentally handicapped

Why not make use of your leisure time this winter/spring by joining our Social Club. The primary function of this club is to provide a social outlet.

An array of activities are planned for the winter/spring session which begins on January 19, 1995 for 15 consecutive weeks. We welcome young adults from 16 and up who have special needs. The Social Club meets on Thursdays evenings from 6:30 to 8:30 PM. Why not be a part of our group and join today? The fee is $35. You may register before January 5, 1995 by mailing your name, address, and phone number with the fee to Garden Center for the Handicapped, 8333 South Austin, Burbank, IL 60459, Attn: Special Events. When we receive your registration fee, we will confirm it by sending you a registration form to fill out.

Holiday message tips for party goers

As you gather with family and friends this holiday season remember to think before you serve a drink.

St. Francis Hospital & Health Center in Blue Island offers a few tips to help keep the life in your party...

•Have non-alcoholic beverages available for your guests. Some of your guests may not drink alcoholic beverages because they are under 21 years of age or take certain medications. Have soft drinks, coffee or other non-alcoholic beverages available.

•Serve exciting, tempting non-alcoholic drinks. Try non-alcoholic marguerites or daiquiris. Take advantage of non-alcoholic beverages on the market, such as alcohol-free beers and flavored waters. Provide guests with desirable alternatives.

•Don't force drinks on your guests. Under normal circumstances, the body can absorb about one drink an hour. Don't rush to refill their glasses the minute they become empty.

•Always serve food with alcoholic beverages. Tasty snacks are not only a delicious addition to any party, but also can slow the rate at which the body absorbs alcohol.

•Stop serving alcohol about an hour before the party is to end. During the last hour of your party, have coffee or some other non-alcoholic beverage available and to top the evening off, a special food feature. This gives your guests extra time for their bodies to absorb the alcohol they consumed.

•If you observe a guest drinking too much, engage him in conversation to stop him from drinking, offer food, offer a non-alcoholic beverage and provide safe transportation home for your guest or allow him to stay overnight.

St. Francis Hospital & Health Center is a member of the SSM Health Care System, one of the largest Catholic health care systems in the country.

Letters To President Clinton Urge Commission on Status of Women

by Jeannine Faubion
International President,
General Federation of Women's Clubs

(NAPS)—Although the United States is a world leader in establishing equal rights for women, our country has for more than a dozen years been without a National Commission on the Status of Women. Having returned recently from a planning meeting in Vienna, Austria, for the United Nations' 1995 Fourth World Conference on Women, to be held in Beijing, China next September, I am more acutely aware than ever of the need for such a commission.

Jeannine Faubion

If we want to assure that the voices of women from all segments of our society are heard and represented in the official report to the 1995 World Conference, the United States must have a Commission on the Status of Women. In the long-term this commission would report to the President on the impact of various policies on American women.

President Kennedy first authorized the National Commission on the Status of Women in 1961, and succeeding presidents followed with some version of a national women's commission. Now it's time for President Clinton to take steps to fill the void.

To this end, the General Federation of Women's Clubs has initiated a drive to generate thousands of letters by December 31, 1994, appealing to the President to reinitiate a multipartisan National Commission on the Status of Women. We announced our campaign at a press conference in Washington, DC in October, urged our 300,000 GFWC members to write to the President and requested support from dozens of other women's organizations and women leaders.

It is my hope that women (and men, too) reading this column will write to President Clinton as well. The message is clear: we want the President to endorse the preeminence of the United States in the fight for equal rights and join approximately 100 other nations that have national commissions on the status of women, a policy advocated by the United Nations and other international institutions.

Send your letters to: General Federation of Women's Clubs, Letters to President Clinton, PO Box 77958, Washington, DC 20013.

Holiday Decorating Hints

(NAPS)—'Tis the season to be jolly, so families everywhere are busy planning year-end parties and celebrations. Before guests arrive, why not give your house a festive look? Get started with some simple decorating tips from the experts who make VELCRO® brand hook and loop fasteners:

• Gift-filled stockings are a holiday tradition. To hang them over the fireplace without using damaging nails or hooks, use VELCRO® brand Sticky Back® coins. Attach coins to the mantel and to stockings and press together firmly.

• Spruce up your holiday table with a homemade appliqued tablecloth. To start, lay out the cloth and position pre-made holiday appliques made of colorful felt or fabric. Then, sew VELCRO® strips onto the appliques and tablecloth where they will be attached. Press appliques into place. You can give your tablecloth a new look by applying different appliques for every special occasion.

For a free holiday craft booklet write to: Velcro USA, P.O. Box 6441, Dept. H, Riverton, NJ 08077-6441.

CONSUMER ALERT

by Attorney General Roland W. Burris

Q. Last year, I had holiday gifts stolen out of the back seat of my car. What information can you provide to help shoppers avoid being robbed at this time of year? And what about those phony sales pitches that sound too good to be true?

A. I know that you've learned never to leave your packages on the car seat where they can be easily seen. Shoppers also need to be alert to the possibility of a car jacking so keep purchases locked safely in the trunk of the car and keep purses off the seat and out of sight.

We all need to be extra alert and cautious when shopping for holiday gifts. Remember that pickpockets, purse snatchers and other thieves are out in full force at this time of year. Guard your purse or wallet in crowded stores, and on crowded trains, buses, sidewalks and elevators. Keep your purse in front of you and keep a firm grip on it. A wallet should be kept in an inside pocket, not in a back pocket where it could be easily lifted.

When choosing gifts, be wary of new, previously unknown businesses that appear on the scene. They may offer prices that seem unbelievably low, but the merchandise might not be of a good quality. They also may no longer be in business if you need to return or exchange merchandise after the holidays.

Avoid street sellers altogether. A slick street seller may show you some merchandise, such as a piece of jewelry, take your money, and then give you a package that contains something else or nothing at all. It is better to buy gifts from established retailers that offer warranties, refunds and exchanges. Take the time to compare values at several stores to get the lowest price and remember to save your receipts.

With a little extra thought and caution, your holidays won't be spoiled by a consumer scam.

Holiday Hints

Stocking Stuffing Suggestions

From video game enhancers to CD storage units to video game locks, local electronics shops offer great gift ideas for all ages this holiday season.

(NAPS)—Many gift-givers, reluctant to put their foot in it when it comes to filling stockings, seek solutions at the electronics store.

If you are planning a trip to the electronics store here are some gift ideas from the Electronic Industries Association.

For Computer Users

• A vest, created by an aerospace company, that plugs into the audio output of a video game and vibrates with each sound so players can really get into the game.

• Multimedia upgrade kits, available from a number of CD-ROM and sound card manufacturers. They usually consist of a CD-ROM drive, sound card, a pair of speakers and software.

• An automatic CD-ROM laser lens cleaner which plays music as it cleans.

• Zippered CD-ROM files for storage without jewel cases.

For CD Enthusiasts

• A 100 disc CD player.

• A portable CD player that can connect to a car's FM system.

• A new 12-page, vinyl CD album.

• A CD storage unit of heavy gauge steel shaped like a guitar—electric or acoustic.

• A black steel combination cabinet for cassettes and CDs.

• Rotating towers that can hold hundreds of CDs, cassettes or video tapes.

• Transparent colored CD storage cases and a plastic CD indexing system.

• A two-in-one carrying case for CDs and cassettes.

For Video Lovers

• High quality photo and video equipment carrying bags.

• A video game locking system many parents may appreciate..

• A newly-patented cleaning brush and other video cleaners.

As you can see from this sampling, local electronic shops can help you put your best foot forward when it comes to filling those stockings this year.

POWERFUL PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You Who solves all problems, Who lights all roads so that I can attain my goal. You Who gives me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life You are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank You for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from You even and in spite of all material illusion. I wish to be with You in eternal glory. Thank You for Your mercy toward me and mine.

The person must say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. After 3 days: the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mentioning the favor, only your initials should appear at the bottom.

M.W.R.D Awards contract

Commissioner Kathleen Therese Meany of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago, who is also Chairman of the Committee on Purchasing, has announced that the Water Reclamation District has awarded a contract to Kenny, Kiewit and Shea, a joint venture for the next segment of the Deep Tunnel Project. The Kenny, Kiewit and Shea joint venture bid was for $141,120,000, the lowest of the five bids submitted to the District.

Commissioner Meany stated that the 8.7-mile tunnel will run under the Des Plaines River from Fullerton Avenue in River Grove to Prairie Avenue in Des Plaines.

The tunnel will prevent polluted stormwater from entering the Des Plaines River and will benefit 14-square miles in parts of Chicago, Des Plaines, Franklin Park, Park Ridge, River Grove, and Schiller Park.

Meany further advised that the people should be aware of the tremendous environmental benefits. More fish are living in all the inland waterways compared to 20 years ago. Water quality has improved in all the areas where the Deep Tunnel has been completed. With the capacity of 110 million gallons, the Deep Tunnel is intended to prevent sanitary sewage from overflowing the sewer system into creeks and rivers in Des Plaines, Park Ridge, Franklin Park, Schiller Park, River Grove, and parts of the northwest side of Chicago.

While newer suburbs have separated stormwater and sanitary sewer systems, there exists only one combined sewer system in older sections of Cook County.

Commissioner Meany stated that in some areas, without the Deep Tunnel to collect the overflow, heavy rains overload the combined systems sending a combination of sewage and stormwater into the local rivers.

Lipinski wins influential seat

By Rick Techman

Congressman Lipinski (D-3) won a seat on the influential and prestigious Democrats Steering Committee in the next session of Congress beginning in January. Lipinski's district includes parts of Oak Lawn, Burbank and the southside of Chicago.

The House Congressional Democratic Leadership chose Lipinski to serve as the Illinois representative recognizing the need for more conservative voices in the new Republican Congress.

For the first time in forty years the Speaker of the House, House majority leader, House whip and all house committee chairmen will be selected by a Republican majority vote.

Some democrats will still hold influential seats on committees according to interparty cooperation and long-standing rules of the U.S. House of Representatives.

Oak Lawn gets business incentive

By Rick Techman

A spirited discussion on a proposed amendment for a village code ordinance that will make it easier for new entrepreneurs to receive business loans to open stores on 95th Street highlighted the Oak Lawn village board meeting of December 13.

While the proposed amendment would allow the Village of Oak Lawn to determine who meets the criteria for a small business loan while local banks actually provide the money at a floating interest rate 3 points below prime, activist Trustee Robert Streit objected to the proposal.

Trustee Michael Walsh said, "No village money will be loaned." He also said this program should be viewed as an investment for the village to see what new stores will add to the business community.

Trustee Marjorie Walsh said, "I am going to vote against this because I feel this should be done by banks."

Walsh added, "The banks don't care who borrows money from them. They only care if you pay it back. We're not loaning our own money."

"This," Trustee William Keane explained, "is needed in this community. It's an investment."

"I just don't support the terms of this program," Streit concluded.

The motion to amend the ordinance passed 4 to 2 following the debate.

Also in business news at the meeting the board agreed to allow a 22,000 square foot store expansion at the K-Mart at 4101 W. 95th Street and a 4,000 square foot addition at the nearby Jewel Food Store.

Business news closed with the unanimous approval of the village board to allow the southside village of Hometown to purchase diesel fuel from Oak Lawn in much the same way that Hometown presently purchases gasoline.

The 1995 city budget passed with only Trustee Streit voting no.

Trustee Ronald Stancik responded to Streit's objections by adding, "Less than one percent increase as we go into a new budget year, not bad."

Street lights will be up and operational on Central avenue between 87th street and 111th street by the new year according to a village engineer.

This is the holiday season for spending, giving, standing in lines and traveling. Many times one would like to relax but of course the hustle and bustle of the season dictates our harried behavior.

Maybe in our churchs and spiritual songs one might hear a message of the Christ Child and we could bring a relaxed love into our lives once again.

This season, Village View Newspaper will give a special certificate to anyone who is recommended for the best decorated-outdoor religious display for the holidays!

Send in those letters with names and addresses and I personally will go to view the display!

Burbank gets ten cents to the dollar

By Rick Techman

Seventeen taxing bodies receive income from Burbank property tax bills while the city gets simply 10.2 percent or about ten cents on every dollar.

"Since becoming your mayor," the Honorable Klein said in a recent public service bulletin, "I have instituted a number of cost-saving measures to keep spending down."

He explained that although 90 percent of each tax bill goes primarily to schools and Cook County entities, he still keeps Burbank public services running effectively.

Klein said three major steps he's taken to keep city taxes low include the privatization of the 9-1-1 system, a city hiring freeze and the loss of employees through attrition without new hires.

Mayor Klein said that "for your dime". Burbank residents get police, fire and paramedic service, new streets, curbs and a healthy city infrastructure. He also said a building department, crossing guards, a children's drug program, public works and a senior citizen building are among the public services offered by Burbank.

"I work hard every day," Mayor Klein said, "to keep costs down and to encourage business to locate within our city. I will try my very best to give you responsible and honest local government at the lowest possible cost," Mayor Klein concluded.

Stickney issues more than 44,000 I.D.'s

By Rick Techman

A little more than 44,000 Stickney Township photo identification cards have been issued to residents since the start of the photo I.D. program about ten years ago.

Stickney Township Administrator Bob Peters said all residents of Stickney Township, regardless of whether they are homeowners or renters, can apply for a photo identification card that can be used anywhere as an effective form of identification.

"It's flexible," Peters said, "and there is no charge. I would guess we probably have between 12,000 to 15,000 active cards. This is not computer based." Peters continued, "but it is very well accepted."

Peters said residents can apply for and receive a laminated township I.D. card, that will enhance availability of township services for the beneficiary, at any township office during business hours Monday through Friday.

"The photo I.D. card is your ticket to admission," Peters described, "being analogous to a library card."Peters explained the photo I.D.'s are done in-house, between 25 percent to 35 percent of residents currently hold an active card and the I.D.'s help considerably to protect township programs that only residents are entitled to.

Each year, starting the day after thanksgiving, until the day before Christmas the cans come out...

Meaning, that at the Oak Lawn Post Office two cans are placed on the counter, in hopes that they will be filled with donations by the very kind and generous customers that pass through the doors during the holiday season.

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor:

At this time of year, our thoughts focus on the many blessings of God for which we are thankful. We are grateful that we can continue to spread the Good News of the gospel to a hurting world. In addition to the many services and activities we offer weekly, Stone Church presents special events throughout the year to let the community know that we care about their spiritual needs.

For your help in publicizing these events, we are thankful. Hundreds of visitors recently attended our Christmas production and heard the message of God's love for mankind. You had a part in blessing them.

Thanks again for your help. May you and your staff enjoy a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Sincerely,
J. Phillip Epperson
Senior pastor

Dear Ms. Dixon:

I want to thank you for your recent article about our agency that appeared in the Village View News written by reporter Rick Techmen. Whether one agrees with our pro-life position or not is a decision that each must make for themselves. However, the unobjective reporting in the way that the article was presented certainly speaks well of the Village View News as a newspaper that will not hold a bias one way or another and will simply present the facts.

Keep up this type of journalism!

Sincerely,

As Governor of the State of Illinois, it is my pleasure to wish you a very joyous holiday season.

During the holidays, we enjoy time spent with family and friends, reflecting upon the year that has passed, and looking toward the future. We also remember those less fortunate, especially those whose countries are torn by war, natural disaster or other hardships.

Please accept the Edgar Family's best wishes for a safe and happy holiday and a new year filled with peace and prosperity. Jim Edgar

Tapas: Ultimate in snack dining

Crispin Plata has been named head chef of Emilio Gervilla's newest restaurant - Emilio's Tapas, 444 W. Fullerton in Chicago. Plata says he decided to go directly to the "King of Tapas" when he was first turned on to the possibilities of the appetizer-sized portions of Spanish cuisine. "Emilio pioneered tapas cooking in this country. I wanted to learn from the source...the best."

Plata began his culinary career at Banquet by Brigantes in Des Plaines, but after two years felt he needed a change of scenery; he wanted to work with food that he himself enjoyed. His employer at Banquet by Brigantes recommended a tapas restaurant in the city. It was here where Partner/ Executive Chef Emilio Gervilla first offered Chicago a taste of the "little food" so popular in his native Spain.

"I liked the food, so I asked if I could talk to the chef," recalls Plata. "Emilio talked with me for a while and the next day I started working there as a cook."

Plata, a 26-year-old native of Michoacan, Mexico (just south of Mexico City) now residing in Westchester, made several trips to the United States for vacations and visits to his two brothers before making it his permanent home nine years ago. At the time, his primary reason for embarking north was to learn the language.

His ambition grew with his mastery of English, and with Emilio's help, he acquainted himself with nearly every facet of running a professional kitchen. In Emilio, Plata had found a gifted and concerned teacher, a man who would provide him with ample opportunities to grow and learn.

"Sure, there are a lot of tapas restaurants in Chicago now. But what makes us different is the fact we get our seafood and produce fresh everyday," he says. "We offer a lot of flavor. Everything is homemade."

Among the advantages of working for Emilio Gervilla are the opportunities that are available for ambitious young chefs such as Plata. Perfecting the various flavors matches of the multiple tapas dishes, which range from simple bread and cheese combinations to such exotic dishes as eel and beef tongue, calls for creativity, patience, and a willingness to experiment. Gervilla has been long admired for his ability to combine interesting flavors and textures into something wonderfully unique. And while Plata admits he didn't know much about tapas when he first began working with Emilio, he has since mastered the culinary style and relishes the creative possibilities they offer him as a chef.

Other locations are 4100 West Roosevelt Road, Hillside and also in Naperville.

A few easy appetizer recipes follow for New Year's entertaining.

Cream cheese appetite teasers

1 pkg. 8 oz. cream cheese, softened
2 tbsp. picante sauce
1/3 cup chopped green chilies (if canned, drain)
1/3 cup chopped black olives
1/3 cup chopped green onion
1/4 tsp. seasoned salt
1/8 tsp. garlic salt
1/8 tsp chili powder

In bowl, combine cream cheese and salsa, mixing until smooth. Add chilies, olives, onion, seasoned salt, garlic salt and chili powder; mix well. Spread 1/2 cup cheese mixture on one tortilla. Place second tortilla over cheese mixture. Spread with 1/2 cup cheese mixture. Top with third tortilla. Repeat with three remaining tortillas and cheese mixture to make second appetite-teaser stack; cover with plastic wrap; chill thoroughly. Cut each stack into 8 triangles. Serve with additional picante sauce, if desired. makes 16.

Chick'n'Chiladas

1 cup chopped onion
1/3 cup chopped green pepper
2 tbsp. vegetable oil
2 cups chopped cooked chicken
1 1/2 cups shredded colby and monterey jack cheeses, divided
1 can (4oz.) chopped green chilies
1 can (10 3/4 oz.) condensed cream of chicken soup
1 cup (8oz.) sour cream
1/4 tsp. ground coriander
1/8 tsp. ground cumin
6 tortillas

Preheat oven to 350°. In skillet combine onion, pepper and oil. Cook over medium heat 5 minutes or until vegetables are tender, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat. Add chicken, 1/2 cup cheese and chilies to vegetable mixture. Set aside. For sauce, in saucepan combine soup, sour cream, coriander, cumin and 1/4 tsp. salt, if desired. Cook over low heat just until warm, stirring frequently, DO NOT BOIL. Stir 1/2 cup sauce into reserved chicken mixture among tortillas. Roll up tortillas and place seam side down in a 13 X 9 X 2-inch baking dish. Pour remaining sauce over tortillas and sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake 25 to 30 minutes or until cheese is melted and sauce is bubbly.

Shrimp stir-fry in wraps

3 tbsp. vegetable oil, divided
1 medium green bell pepper, cut into 1-inch pieces
1 medium red bell pepper, cut into 1-inch pieces
1 cup sliced green onions
1 cup sliced mushrooms
1/2 cup coarsely chopped celery
3/4 pound medium shrimp, peeled and deveined
1/3 to 1/2 cup stir fry sauce
6 tortillas

In skillet over medium to high heat combine 2 tbsp. oil, peppers, onions, mushrooms and celery. Stir-fry 2 minutes. Remove from skillet. In same skillet combine remaining 1 tbsp. oil and shrimp. Stir-fry over medium to high heat 3 minutes or until shrimp turns pink. Return vegetables to skillet. Pour stir fry sauce over shrimp and vegetables. Cook 1 minute, stirring constantly. Warm tortillas according to package directions. Divide mixture among tortillas. Roll up tightly. Makes 6.

Apple Baskets

1 can (21oz.) apple pie filling
1/3 cup raisins
3 tbsp. chopped pecans
2 tbsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
5 tortillas
2 tbsp. margarine, melted

Preheat oven to 400°. Coat baking sheet with no stick cooking spray. In bowl combine pie filling, raisins and pecans. In separate bowl, combine sugar and cinnamon. Warm 1 tortilla according to package directions. Brush both sides of tortilla with margarine. Place 1/2 cup filling mixture in center of tortilla with margarine. Place 1/2 cup filling mixture in center of tortilla. Bring edges of tortilla together over filling and gather to form a pouch. Tie top together with heavy cotton string or twine (do not use synthetic string). Sprinkle 1 tsp. cinnamon/sugar on outside of tortilla. Repeat with remaining tortillas. Place on baking sheet. Bake 15 to 18 minutes or until golden brown and crispy. Place on baking sheet. Bake 15 to 18 minutes or until golden brown and crispy. Place on wire rack to cool., Filling will be very hot; cool 15 to 20 minutes before serving. makes 5.

Meat spreads are great-tasting products that can be served straight from the can on crackers and bread, or as a recipe ingredient in dips, appetizers and salads.

Curry Chicken Stars
1 can (4-1/4 oz.) Chunky Chicken Spread
1/4 cup sliced almonds
1/4 cup sliced red bell pepper
2 tablespoons sliced green onion
1 tablespoon apricot preserves
1/4 teaspoon curry powder
1 can (8 oz.) refrigerator crescent dinner rolls

1.) Preheat oven to 350°F. In small bowl, combine all ingredients except crescent rolls.

2.) Unroll crescent roll dough, fold in half and then roll into a 10-inch square, cut into 16 (2-1/2-inch) squares. Make 1-inch cuts diagonally from the corners of each square toward the center of each square.

3.) Place 1 heaping teaspoon filling in the center of each square. To form stars, fold in every other dough tip toward center. Insert wooden toothpick into center of each star to hold dough. Bake on greased baking sheet 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 16 appetizers.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Beef Tenderloin-a easy, elegant delicious choice

A beef tenderloin roast is a favorite during the holidays because it's easy, elegant and delicious. Serving is extra easy because it's a boneless roast.

Herbed Beef Tenderloin with Garlic-roasted Vegetables makes a very festive and elegant presentation; a four-pound roast will serve eight to 10 holiday appetites. Dress it up with a rub of Italian seasoning and cracked black pepper prior to roasting; after roasting, finish with a light sprinkling of grated Parmesan cheese. Potatoes, onions, tomatoes and zucchini, also tossed with Italian seasoning and pepper, roast in the oven with the tenderloin. For a fabulous flavor twist, roast a whole bulb of garlic with the beef and vegetables to impart the sweet, mild flavor characteristic of roasted garlic.

By purchasing a whole beef tenderloin you'll have enough for two meals—a roast and the tip portion. Cut the tip portion into strips for Updated Beef Stroganoff, a perfect dish for casual entertaining during the holidays—delicious and quick. The tenderloin strips are stir fried, then combined with mushrooms, onion and a beef broth-based sauce. Dollop sour half-and-half on each serving of Stroganoff, and serve it over bow-tie pastry for a contemporary presentation.

Tenderloin with Garlic-roasted vegetables

4-pound well-trimmed beef tenderloin roast
2 tbsp. grated Parmesan cheese
salt

Seasoning:
1 tsp. dried Italian seasoning
1/2 tsp. cracked black pepper

Heat oven to 425°. Combine seasoning ingredients; press evenly into surface of beef roast. Place roast on rack in shallow pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb is centered in the thickest part, not resting in fat. Do not add water or cover. Roast in 425° oven approximately 45 to 50 minutes for medium-rare to medium doneness.

Meanwhile prepare garlic-roasted vegetables.

Remove roast when meat thermometer registers 140° for medium-rare, 155° for medium; sprinkle cheese over top. Let roast stand 15 minutes. (The temperature will continue to rise about 5° to 145° for medium-rare, 160° for medium.)

Carve roast into 1/4-inch thick slices; season with salt, as desired. Serve with vegetables.

Armchair Football Fare

Football Fans Love No-Fumble Snacks

Football fans will love (l to r) Parmesan Cheese Sticks, Hot Sticks and Spicy Mustard Sticks.

(NAPS)—If you want to score a touchdown with your hungry football fans without running yourself ragged, here are some ideas for easy-to-prepare hot appetizers. The main ingredient is Bread du Jour® breadsticks. All you do is mix up different toppings, brush on and bake. The result is three crowd pleasing snacks that take only minutes to make.

HOT STICKS
1 tablespoon taco seasoning mix
1/8 teaspoon dried basil

In a small bowl, add any of the combinations listed to 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Brush top surface of original or sourdough Bread du Jour breadsticks with butter mixture. Bake at 400° for 6-8 minutes or until golden brown. Serve hot.

PARMESAN CHEESE STICKS
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese
1/8 teaspoon garlic powder

SPICY MUSTARD STICKS
1 teaspoon Dijon mustard

If the crowd decides to stay for dinner, Bread du Jour can help there, too. Great main dish recipes from some of America's premiere restaurants are contained in "A Celebration of the Home-Cooked Meal." To order your copy send your name and address to: Bread du Jour Recipe Book, 1230 N. First Street, St. Louis, MO 63102.

(NAPS)—During football season, fresh-faced rookies and time-tested veterans alike are always looking for an edge—especially when it comes to snack chips. A balanced attack on any hungry fan's appetite calls for Mr. Phipps snacks—pretzel chips, Tater Crisps and Tortillas Crisps are irresistibly crispy and are perfect right out of the box or with dips.

Nothing makes for better dips than cheese. Football fans will love this hearty Cheddar Salsa dip whether it's served cold for the Miami game or warm for the Minnesota game.

Spicy Parmesan Snack Mix is a whole new way of snacking with chips. A bold array of seasonings are combined with chips, Oriental noodles and mixed nuts for a baked bonanza of unforgettable goodies.

Go for the extra points with your armchair quarterbacks; serve all your favorite party dips with these great tasting Mr. Phipps snacks.

CHEDDAR SALSA
Makes 3 1/2 cups

1 cup sharp Cheddar cold pack cheese
1 (8-ounce) package reduced-calorie cream cheese
1 1/2 cups thick and chunky salsa
1 cup pitted ripe olives, coarsely chopped
1/2 cup minced scallions
2 to 3 tablespoons chopped fresh cilantro, optional
MR. PHIPPS* Pretzel Chips, Tater Crisps or Nacho *Tortilla Crisps

In bowl, with electric mixer at medium speed, beat cheeses until creamy. Blend in salsa, olives, scallions and cilantro if desired. Cover and chill for at least two hours before serving. Serve as a dip with chips.

Warm Cheddar Salsa: Prepare as above; spoon cheese mixture into a 1-quart casserole. Bake at 375°F for 20 to 25 minutes or until browned and bubbly; let stand 5 minutes. Serve as dip with chips.

SPICY PARMESAN SNACK MIX
Makes 7 cups

2 tablespoons margarine, melted
1 tablespoon liquid hot pepper seasoning
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon dried onion flakes
1/2 teaspoon dried basil leaves
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
2 cups MR. PHIPPS Pretzel Chips
2 cups MR. PHIPPS Nacho Tortilla Crisps
2 cups Oriental medium wide noodles
1 cup unsalted mixed nuts
Sour cream, optional

Combine margarine, hot pepper seasoning and Worcestershire sauce. In separate bowl, mix cheese, onion, basil and oregano. In large bowl, combine pretzel chips, tortilla chips, Oriental noodles and mixed nuts. Stir in margarine mixture and Parmesan mixture, tossing to coat well.

Spread mixture onto baking sheet. Bake at 325°F for 12 to 15 minutes or until golden. Cool completely. Store in airtight container. Serve with sour cream for dipping if desired.

Mexicali Snack Mix

1 tablespoon margarine
1 teaspoon chili powder
1/2 teaspoon ground cumin
1/8 teaspoon garlic powder
2 cups reduced fat cheese crackers
2 cups pretzel sticks
1/3 cup lightly salted dry roasted cashews
1/2 cup seedless raisins

In 300°F oven, melt margarine in 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking pan. Remove from oven; stir in chili powder, cumin and garlic powder. Add cheese crackers, pretzels and cashews; toss until well coated with margarine mixture. Bake for 15 minutes, stirring twice; remove from oven. Stir in raisins; spread on paper towels to cool.

Brother Rice Volleyball team wins academic award

The Brother Rice High School varsity student-athletes who competed in volleyball through the completion of the academic year. The Brother Rice volleyball team compiled a cumulative G.P.A. of 3.66, well above the minimum requirements.

According to Brother Rice head volleyball coach, Brother Paul Ickes, this award, while an honor, is indicative of the overall 2-year old program. "As head coach, I strongly believe that one of my primary tasks is to set the tone in regard to emphasizing the tremendous importance of successful academic performance for my players in the classroom. Since our program began two years ago, I have taken this responsibility very seriously and have tracked my players and their progress throughout the academic year—whether in season or out," he said.

Ickes noted that even before a player makes the team, he knows what will be expected of him in the classroom. "In any literature I give to players or potential players, I state very clearly what the academic expectations and demands are for members of the Brother Rice Volleyball Program. We expect nothing but the best from them always, no matter where they are. In school or out, schoolwork, grades and discipline should never be a problem. They are also expected to treat everyone-coaches, teammates, opponents, referees—with respect. If not, they are shown the door. Anyone who is a discipline problem in school will be cut from the team immediately."

In addition to volleyball, this year's fall sports teams have also excelled in the classroom. The Crusader football team, with 160 participants, had a cumulative G.P.A. of 2.88. The cross country team, with 20 participants, had a 3.54 G.P.A. The soccer team, with 60 players, had a 3.62, and the golf team, with 20 participants, had a 3.47 G.P.A.

Overeaters anonymous

Overeaters Anonymous meets at EHS Christ Hospital and Medical Center, 4440 W. 95th St., Oak Lawn, every Wednesday, from 11 AM to noon in the Harbor Room. For more information, please call EHS Christ Hospitals Health Advisor at (708) 346-5691.

Overeaters Anonymous is a support group for those who are complusive eaters. The group began in 1960 in California through the efforts of three people who met to help one another with their eating problems. It is patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous. The only requirement for attendance is a desire to stop eating compulsively.

Oak Lawn Library

Library meeting rooms are available for use by community non-profit groups on a first-come, first-served basis. Applications are taken for six months at a time. For example, those who want to use the rooms from Jan. 1 through June 30, 1995 may apply on or after Dec. 15. Those who want to use the rooms from July through Dec. 31 1995 may apply June 15 or later. None will be accepted in advance. Applications, which must be picked up in person, are available at the information booth, first floor, near the Cook Ave. entrance.

Applicants should understand that library meetings and programs have a priority. The Oak Lawn Rotary Room has a seating capacity of 40; meeting room B seats 100 maximum. Only limited seating arrangements are available.

Those who are interested but are not familiar with the rooms should call Mary Nelson, public relations and development officer, for additional information, (708) 422-4990.

Library Audiovisual Circulation Up

Audiovisual materials circulation for November was up by five percent over last November, Dr. James Casey, Oak Lawn Public Library director, reported to the library board at its meeting of Dec. 20.

He noted that youth book circulation remained the same and adult book circulation was down slightly. Overall, however, circulation was down about 800 circulations.

During the meeting the board conducted annual policy reviews of Conventions, Conferences and Memberships; Staff Association Fund; Staff/Board Committee. The board approved a contribution of $100 to Illinois Author's Day, South Holland Library, March 4, an annual event sponsored by south suburban libraries.

In regular business, the board approved payment of $35.659 for library materials; $20,786 for operating expenses; and $153,637 for personnel.

Board members are Lois Gasteyer, president; Marian Sullivan, vice president; Robert Honkisz, secretary; Joann Buschbach, treasurer; trustees Shirley Barrett, Nancy Czerwiec and Robert Thompson.

Regular meetings are held at 7:30PM on the third Tuesday of each month in the lower level Oak Lawn Rotary Room, 9427 Raymond Ave. (5300 W. 95th St.) All meetings are open to the public.

Oak Lawn Park District news

Park District announces auditions for "Gypsy"

The Oak Lawn Park District announces auditions for "Gypsy," 7:30 PM, Wednesday and Thursday, January 11-12 and call backs on Friday, January 13, at Oakview Center, 4625 W. 110th Street. Those auditioning should come prepared to sing and dance. Adults and children 11 years and up are welcome to audition. Performance dates for Gypsy are March 1-12 and March 17-19 at Oakview Center. Park District honors "volunteer of the year"

Jim Moran from Oak Lawn was named the Oak Lawn Park District "Volunteer of the year," at the annual Thank You Volunteer Christmas party, Dec. 5 at Oakview Center. Moran is a charter member of the Oak Lawn Environmental Task Force, and he has been organizing and educating local volunteers since the first Stony Creek Clean-up in 1991.

Over the past years, Jim has worked to involve the Oak Lawn community in a wide range of environmental projects including bird surveys, hazardous household waste collection, natural areas field trips, native prairie seed collection, wetland planting, tree protection from beavers and water quality monitoring. Moran has attended many seminars and workshops on behalf of the environmental Task Force, not only to learn more himself, but to publicize the environmental projects in Oak Lawn.

Recently, Moran became one of the site stewards at Wolfe Wildlife Refuge, where he helps to monitor the site and works to manage and restore the wetlands alongside other environmental volunteers at monthly workdays. Moran encourages local residents to get involved in environmental projects and to put the motto "think globally-act locally" into action.

100 gifts given to children

The Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau and its members donated over 100 Christmas gifts to Aunt Martha's Youth Service Center, Inc. The gifts were recently collected at the 1st Annual Holiday Party at the Hilton Oak Lawn Hotel and Conference Centre.

"We are all so gratefully blessed that this was just one small way we could give back to our communities, and to those who have a need. Children should be loved and nurtured - They are our future; " commented Richard Gartrell. "There seems to be so much pain in our world that we wanted to help some feel loved."

Bureau members were asked to bring new toys or clothing donations for Aunt Martha's. Aunt Martha's is a 22-year-old private, not-for-profit, licensed child welfare agency.

Adopt-a-family project served families

The Adopt-A-Family project is sponsored jointly by the Saint Xavier University Campus Ministry and the Service Club, an organization of students who volunteer their time and services to assist the less fortunate in a number of Chicagoland communities. It is part of the eleven-year-old Adopt-A-Family movement, founded by Maureen Cronin-Kraczewski and her family of Chicago's south side

The Adopt-A-Family movement began in 1983 when the mills on the southeast side closed, casting many breadwinners into unemployment, including the husband of Adopt-A-Family founder—Maureen Cronin-Kraczewski.

"The holiday season can be a very difficult time for families who have very little," Cronin-Kraczewski added. "By Saint Xavier volunteering to take care of the children this year, the University is enabling less fortunate parents to still provide a special Christmas for their children.'

POWERFUL PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You Who solves all problems, Who lights all roads so that I can attain my goal. You Who gives me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life You are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank You for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from You even and in spite of all material illusion. I wish to be with You in eternal glory. Thank You for Your mercy toward me and mine.

The person must say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. After 3 days: the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mentioning the favor, only your initials should appear at the bottom.

Just between you and me

by Julie Barker

It has often said that women can not keep a secret. As a matter of fact I have known one or two myself that can spread news faster than the information network. But come on, you would think that Connie Chung would be better than that, after all she is a professional journalist with a reputation to uphold. On the other hand aren't journalists suppose to tell all they know, to spread the news, and is not their goal to be first with the news? Granted, but was it news or gossip what Ms. Chung was seeking, when she encouraged Mrs. Gingrich in confidence to tell what her son, the new speaker of the house thought of Mrs. Clinton.

In fairness to Connie Chung lets look at 4 different scenarios and analyze the possibilities:

1. Connie Chung deletes the entire portion about Mr. Gingrich's opinion about Mrs. Clinton. The controversy would have never taken place. She would have done a private good act of kindness.

2. She keeps her promise. How would the viewers respond to the question in their own mind? Worse, better or the same? I would not be surprised if many of them thought something worse, since the initial response from Mrs. Gingrich implied the Mr. Gingrich had said something unspeakable. The speculations over it could be more damaging than the truth in this case.

3. Connie Chung gives a public apology to Mrs. Gingrich. She even goes further and also apologizes to Mr. Gingrich and Mrs. Clinton. What would that do? Probably bring the issue back to life perhaps to a larger audience. Some people would see it as a good gesture, others would see it as a sign of weakness under pressure.

4. Connie Chung goes on and does not apologize, at least not publicly. She could do it later on when she writes a book. Any way by now most people must have forgotten, besides to err is human and to forgive is divine.

The terrible truth

by Frank Soczek

It was a cheap,crudely written tract not unlike the type handed out by street corner evangelists downtown. Instead of predicting an impending apocalypse, it intimated another foreboding revelation, one that touched the lives of at least two local men. It promised The Terrible Truth About Edgar Funeral Home.

Unsigned and bearing a Teamster Local 727 return address and Non-Profit postage, the mailing was recently sent "To the folks at" 23,000 Oak Lawn area homes.

Edgar Funeral Home director David Ruzich was repeatedly impugned for what was stated as anti-union sentiment following the discharge of employee Timothy Landgrebe "because he would not resign his Union membership even though it is his legal right to be a member of a union."

The letter notes a failed NLRB appeal by Landgrebe and the union and urges readers not to patronize Edgar funeral Home, hinting at a possible picketing of the Edgar establishment.

St. Xavier student named recipient of award

Saint Xavier University student David Nance has recently been named recipient of the Sister Mary Paulita Service Award, an award given annually to a student best exemplifying merciful service.

The Sister Mary Paulita Morris Service Award, established in 1985, honors the memory of Sister Paulita who served on the Board of Trustees from 1960 to 1984—longer than any other trustee.

"David is a remarkable young man who was chosen for this award because he represents all that it stands for," said his nominator and Resident Hall Supervisor Father Ben Berinti. "He is responsible, caring and generous with his time and resources.

As a sophomore, David has already served many organizations of Saint Xavier University, both as an officer and as a volunteer. He is a member of the Varsity Football team, Student Activities Board Finance Committee and volunteers for many programs through the University's Student Ambassador Organization. David also works for the University as a Resident Assistant and Front Desk Attendant in Pacelli Hall.

"In addition to all of these responsibilities, David also serves as a student representative for Saint Xavier's Board of Trustees Student Life Committee and the Faculty Religious Affairs Committee," said Steven Murphy, Vice President of Student Services for the University.,

Nance has also been very involved in his church and other organizations, a member of St. John's Christain Youth Council, he also served as Vice president of Students Against Drunk Drivers, active in Campus Ministry and a Lector and Eucharistic Minister.

"David Nance is the kind of person everyone looks to for comfort," added Murphy. "He is devoted to his family and sensitively responds to the needs of others in the University, the local community and the world. David Nance is indeed a leader in every sense of the word.

Saint Francis Xavier Day ceremonies is special event to recognize a number of exceptional individuals who help make Saint Xavier University a leading institution in higher education.

Oak Lawn collects cancelled postage stamps

Oak Lawn Library patrons are invited to join with the staff in collecting cancelled postage stamps for a program which helps needy African children. The program is coordinated by Oxfam, an organization in Oxford, England, which collects and bags used stamps for sale to stamp collectors. The monies raised go for food, education, and efforts to aid African improve their economy.

Susan Baird, patron services department head, introduced the program to library staff in 1990. She discovered the project through an article written by Carolyn G. Hart, well-known mystery writer. After conducting some research, Baird confirmed the fact that the cancelled stamps really do furnish items for the needy. She serves as chair of the Oak Lawn Library efforts.

Stamps can be ripped off letters (neatness is not a factor) and deposited in a marked container on the circulation desk.

President Clinton talks to school children

By Rick Techman

St. Camillus grammar school principal, Sr. Lenore, a school board executive officer, shared a letter she received from President Clinton to the parish schoolchildren. The letter, on government funding for soundproofing the school, was also read by Pastor Norman Czajka and school board president Steve Rossberg at the January school board meeting.

In his letter, President Clinton said, 'I'm very pleased that the Airport Trust Fund is expected to help pay for the soundproofing."

"With God and the people of St. Camillus," Sr. Lenore said, "nothing is impossible." She added she secured approval from the Chicago Archdiocese recently to implement the sound abatement program and has taken a leadership role in parish fundraising efforts to raise the private obligation.

St. Camillus School is located north of Midway Airport at 5434 S. Lockwood. Currently the school houses 240 students grades pre-school -8 and has been open since 1920. Midway Airport became a municipal airfield in 1927! (Photo, caption by Rick Techman)

Sisters of St. Casimir sponsor excellence Holy Cross Hospital satisfaction rise

The Sisters of St. Casimir, the sponsoring organization of Holy Cross Hospital, 2701 W. 68th Street, shared the honor of attaining one of the most dramatic turnarounds in patient satisfaction with the team effort of physicians, employees, volunteers and the Board of Trustees.

Recently the hospital's patient satisfaction rating dipped considerably according to Press, Ganey and Associates, a private satisfaction measurement firm from Indiana.

However, a more recent survey by Press Ganey showed that, with the help of the Sisters, patient scores on their individual care brought patient satisfaction to a greater improved level.

Sister Marilyn Kuzmickus, S.S.C., general superior of the sisters, received the "Great Comebacks" award with hospital president Mark Clement.

Director of extended care, Sister Grace Carol Wastak, S.S.C., led employees in a cheer following the news of the award.

Irwin Press, founder of the measurement firm, said, "Patient satisfaction at Holy Cross represents a dramatic improvement over the last two years."

Hospital and Health Networks magazine, the flagship publication of the American Hospital Association, bestowed the award.

FUN FACTS

What A Doll!

(NAPS)—Do you know what's the most popular toy for girls? If you know any little girls you probably know the answer: the Barbie doll. In fact, a Barbie doll is sold every two seconds.

More than 775 million Barbie dolls have been sold since she was introduced in 1959. They're found in over 150 countries.

* * *

The average American girl owns eight Barbie dolls and 90 percent of girls aged three to ten have at least one.

Over 300 licensees worldwide create Barbie licensed products and Barbie, the magazine for girls has one of the largest circulations of all children's magazines, at 600,000.

* * *

Now, little girls can dress up with Barbie: Barbie tights that is. For the first time, Barbie for Girls™ tights have been created by Little L'eggs®, a division of L'eggs products. The tights are available in grocery stores, drugstores and mass merchandising retail stores.

* * *

They come in two styles: Funshine Tights in white and pink and Honeycomb Texture Tights in white; and three sizes: small, medium and large. A distinctive feature is the familiar Barbie signature and pink hearts on the waist.

A call to the Teamster office in Chicago gave a sobering picture of "a hard-working, conscientious ten-year employee who was discharged solely because he refused to give up his union membership."

A similar inquiry placed to David Ruzich at Edgar Funeral Home literally echoed the work ethic of Landgrebe noted by the union, but stated the dismissal was "simply a business decision and that the latter had found suitable employment elsewhere."

Although both parties claim significant community support for their respective positions, a troubling mystery remains. Does the tract reveal The Terrible Truth about an anti-labor individual "motivated solely by money" with "no respect or compassion for working people" or was Landgrebe's dismissal simply an excercise of Employment at Will , a common and legitimate business practice that occurs every day across the country?

Former Oak Lawn resident becomes a producer

By Tracy Hayden, Producer: Sheridan- Jennings, Ltd.

Until I was a sophomore at Mother McAuley High School, my goal was to be a pediatrician. However, Career Night put a halt to this idea after I sat and listened to a very disillusioned female doctor go on about how your life is totally consumed with medical school; no dates; lots of science classes, a lot of debt and from her point of view a pretty desperate existence.

The next person who spoke was a reporter who was extremely enthusiastic about her profession. She painted a picture of meeting exciting people, being where the action was, a lot of writing and non-stop adventure.

Well, from then on I decided journalism was the career for me. One day my dad was listening to the radio and Wally Phillips mentioned that Ithaca College in Ithaca, New York was well known for its broadcast journalism program. We went there to visit and I fell in love with the school.

While pursuing my undergraduate degree at Ithaca College in Ithaca, New York, I spent a semester in London working for Fox Television.

In 1992, I received my Masters in Broadcast Journalism from Northwestern University's Medill School of Journalism. During the last quarter of graduate school, I worked in Washington, D.C. as a correspondent for the ABC affiliate in Fargo, N.D. My responsibilities included reporting, producing and editing news packages for the TV station.

When I graduated from Northwestern, I decided the small town television market was not the avenue I wanted to pursue so I went a different route. I free-lanced in the Chicago corporate television market as an Associate Producer and Productions Coordinator. I worked for Fortune 500 clients such as McDonald's Corporation and Waste Management Technologies. This past summer, I joined Sheridan - Jennings Ltd. Full-time as a producer.

Sheridan-Jennings is a Chicago-based production company that produced corporate videos and multi-media conferences. They have been in the area for over 20 years. We go on location for shows to such places as Maui, Hawaii and Seattle, Washington. My next goal is to start producing children's programs for some local clients.

Looking back, this career path has been very exciting although I certainly don't make as much money as I would have as a pediatrician and yet I still have the debt from grad school!

Mid-Career Crisis

by Penny Hempen

Can you remember when we were young, we had a dream, and our parents also told us...go to school, get a degree, find a good paying job. With a secured career we'd be set for life. As long as we work hard, the pay raises would come, a new car, a nice home, and an assured retirement. Today, it seems like a fantasy, life today is not like "The adventures of Ozzie and Harriet." Today, for may of us our dreams have been replaced with fear, job stress, and even unemployment.

Our ideal career may have gotten lost and we end up in a mid-career crisis, replacing all our dreams.

It seems that a mid-career crisis hits most of us who have worked fifteen plus years at a job, but yet we feel we just cannot face another fifteen years doing the same job.

Many questions pop into our minds, if we quit, we go back starting over, if we've lost our job, the same occurs. Yet, there are still the mortgage payments, doctor bills to be paid, groceries to feed our family.

Mid-career crisis can cause one to go into depression. Yet, most who suffer from mid-career crisis had a career they enjoyed, or some part of the career they enjoyed, and feel they should be satisfied with what they have. This feeling of not being satisfied, makes you feel guilty, and this can inten-

Individuals who restore the mid-career crisis with a positive attitude can learn how to see an impending change as an opportunity to make a healthy start. A vision of a chance for a new beginning to the second half of our life, and even become determined to do better and succeed at a new opportunity.

One sure cure can be going back to school, whether for college credits or just to update your thinking. Our junior colleges offer a wide variety of adult classes. From Arts & Crafts, Career Advancement and career planning, up to Writing and Communication skills.

Most likely when you think of going back to school you think, "I can't, I don't have the time, or money." But you know

"I've always wanted to..."

Beth Gierach had a college degree and she enjoyed her teaching job. But for 20 years, she dreamed about getting her masters degree in English. So she enrolled at Saint Xavier University.

The reasons? "Saint Xavier has everything I was looking for. The professors and seminars are extraordinary. I am earning the advanced credentials I need to get ahead — and have found new reasons to love what I'm doing. Saint Xavier's flexible schedules made going back to school so easy, I wish I would have done it sooner."

The Goodness of Grief

By Julie Barker, Bereavement Training/Consultant

The ultimate gift one receives for loving another human being is the agony of journeying through grief. Only those who love experience the emotional, physical, spiritual and mental anguish that only grief can cause. Brief numbs our senses, shakes our world, shatters our dreams and sends darts of overwhelming sorrow into our hearts and souls. So, what's so good about grief? The journey, the companioning who travel with us, and the acceptance to be participants in the healing process. In addition the gift of faith brings renewed strength to, in time, chart a new journey of hope.

A few years ago Father John Power wrote an article on Extension magazine entitled "On Enjoying God's World" wrote that "Many of us have only a diminished capacity for enjoyment" he goes on to say that we can go out and eat a delicious dinner, attend a great play, drive home on a beautiful summer evening and go to bed unhappy because we had to play $12 for parking. In grief is natural and normal that the person experiences the pain, but in grief that diminished capacity for enjoyment that Fr. Power spoke about can be beneficial if at the end of each day, the grieving person can name at least one small positive experience. As time goes on this diminished capacity for enjoyment will increase and evolve into an increased capacity for life and hope.

The next good thing about grief is coming out of it, and sharing that experience to support, to affirm, to walk with the newly bereaved in their own grief journey. Good grief is a dynamic process, is personal, unique to each individual and an irreversible journey that changes from moment to moment, day in and night out. C.S. Lewis described sorrow as history to be chronicled every day. To him grief was a long winding valley in which every new bend revealed a new landscape. Lewis was able to explain his grief only after he went through it. His gift to us was the legacy of his journey in grief, on his book, Grief Observed, written after the death of his wife.

If we could know about grief before it strikes, perhaps when it does we would be better prepared to understand, to accept, and to move through the experience. Unfortunately grief invades most people's lives often unexpectedly, and even when expected, most of the time at the "wrong time". The good thing about grief is that this wrong time is also the right time for grief to begin its course.

Good grief is grief that is knowledge, accepted, attended, walked through and released. Good grief is a way to discover God as compassionate companion who in time will help the grief person recover his/her courage, hope, and dreams. It brings the opportunity to undergo inner conversion, to ask ourselves, Who are we?, What do we value?, what is the purpose of life? Good grief refines our inner self, it carves out a space in out hearts to be sensitive to the pain of others so that we can become a better source of comfort to them. It also allows others to enter into our lives.

Attended grief gives us wisdom, makes us kinder, less demanding, more tolerant and less judgmental. Good grief strengthens our appreciation of simpler things in life. Keeping on with the Joneses for the sake of keeping up is no longer important. Grief is the ultimate proof of the preciousness of life. Without death life would not be precious. Grief lead us to love life again and those who are in it with us. For they are precious jewels, delicate flowers, unique and irreplaceable gifts from our Creator to us. Perhaps this is the real goodness of grief.

Crestwood woman make success story from chaos

By Anita Anderson

Denise McLean of Crestwood was a career woman who had successfully toiled at AT&T for ten years always in the position of an executive, when suddenly, as is the familiar story in so many businesses these days, McLean was caught in the downsizing in her area of work.

"I guess I could have sat back and cried, poor me," she said. "Instead I had the support of my family and friends and decided to take what marketable skills I had and open my own at-home business," said McLean which is named Design & Type.

" I went into business with a partner and now lease a digital color printer on which I can reproduce any size sketch or color print up to three foot by four foot reproduction. It's a neat technology, seeing life-size reproductions come to life" she added.

"I have a list of clients ranging from AT&T, to people in the food service industry, lawyers, dentists to travel agents. I recently enlarged a huge reproduction of the Supreme Court building in Washington, D.C. for a client," she said.

"I love working with and talking to my clients. This is the best part of my work and its idea exchange. There is a certain discipline a person must acquire when they work out of their home. At 6 A.M. each day I open the door to my office and forget the rest of the house" she added.

"I will work for anyone. My color reproductions are especially useful for people affiliated with trade shows since we can blow up their logo which is eye-catching for any display," McLean added.

"We can even send entire color files over the phone lines," she continued. "It's rewarding to look back at the time when I was laid off. I managed to land on my feet." she concluded. Call McLean at 371-9578.

Women in the work force

How competitive is it for women today? We have always known that men in the work force were paid better than women for doing the same job. It's not that way today.

Joan Kennedy: At home in Chamber matters and kitchen creations

By Anita Anderson

It doesn't take an executive order for Joan Kennedy, to create tasty dishes for the most discriminating of appetites.

"I love to cook and still fix one of my mother's favorite Irish recipes, Hamburger with Stewed Tomatoes. It sounds simple but it is very good," she added. She also made all of the desserts one New Year's Eve for the VFW Post in Oak Lawn.

Kennedy is the executive director of the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce and its 400 plus membership.

She has attended a series of six courses and tests over the years relating to Chamber work at Notre Dame University to further her credibility in running a successful Chamber.

"My husband (deceased) and I were totally immersed in Chamber of Commerce work when we lived in Orange County, California," Kennedy explained.

Careers with local Chamber of Commerces for 21 years of their working life.

"The main purpose for a prospective member to join a Chamber is to better their business," Joan added.

"I help design programs for our members for our members and also work on legislative committees," the busy executive said. Under her guidance, a new program, The Ambassadors which consists of about 24 Chamber members, participate at ribbon cutting and other special Chamber events. The program is "people-friendly and its members wear a special beige jacket.

Vince Mosquera is chairman of the Ambassadors.

Following are a few recipes from the Park Lawn School cookbook, a fundraising cookbook project Kennedy also initiated as a means of helping the area school.

Ricotta Cookies

1 c. butter or margarine
3 eggs slightly beaten
1 tsp. baking soda
1 lb. Ricotta cheese (drained)
1 tsp. almond extract
Red food coloring
2 c. granulated sugar
4 c. flour
Pinch of salt
2 c. powdered sugar
milk

Cream together butter and sugar until light. Add eggs and mix well. Sift together flour and baking soda. Alternately add flour mixture and ricotta cheese to butter mixture. Mix in salt and blend well. Drop on greased cookie sheet placing 1 tbsp of mixture about 1-1/2 inches apart. Preheat oven 350°. Bake 10-12 minutes.

Frosting: Mix together powdered sugar, almond extract and enough milk to a spreading consistency and a few drops of red food coloring to make it pink. Cool cake and frost.

Old fashion cookies

1 c. granulated sugar
1 c. brown sugar

Lots new at oldest cruise line

The oldest U.S. flag line, The Delta Queen Steamboat Co. is waving Old Glory on the cover of its 1995 Deluxe brochure in honor of the American Queen, the company's upscale new paddlewheeler that is scheduled to begin passenger service in June.

"While the American Queen is the 30th that the company has owned in our 105-year history," said Jeffrey Krida, the line's president. "She's also making history as the first steamboat built in America in decades and the largest overnight vessel to come out of a U.S. shipyard in a generation."

The company's full color deluxe brochure offers the first look at the American Queen and introduces new itineraries and themes for the line's existing paddlewheelers, the Delta Queen and Mississippi Queen. Among the highlights of the 75 - page book: American Queen.

When the New Orleans-bound American Queen pulls out from Pittsburgh on June 27, 1995, beginning her inaugural season, she will be the first cruise ship to retrace the first trip of the very special inaugural cruises. The American Queen will parade the Ohio/Mississippi system cruising as far North as St. Paul and calling on port cities of Cincinnati, Memphis and Chattanooga, Tenn.

Pineapple upside down cake

2 c. sifted cake flour
1 tsp. baking powder
3/4 tsp. soda
1/4 tsp. salt
1 c. milk plus 1 tbsp. lemon juice
1/2 c. shortening
1 c. sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
2 eggs

Cream shortening and sugar together until light and fluffy. Add vanilla. Add eggs one at a time beating well after each. Sift dry ingredients together. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk to which you have added the 1 tbsp. of lemon juice, beginning and ending with the dry ingredients. Beat after each addition. Spread

Everyone loves a barbecued beef sandwich. Serve in crusty rolls or tortillas

Football fans tackle beef sandwiches

Football season means a house full of hungry fans. Deli trays and sandwiches are always great choices, but for a change of pace as the cooler weather sets in, wouldn't the armchair quarterbacks in your house appreciate a hot sandwich?

Beef prices are at their lowest in seven years, so if you stock your freezer with great beef buys, you'll have the makings for great sandwiches and other meals all the way through Super Bowl Sunday. In fact, steaks and roasts (tightly wrapped in heavy-duty aluminum foil or freezer bags) will keep up to 12 months at 0°; ground beef can be frozen up to four months. Be sure to label and date each package.

Serve-A-Crowd Beef Steak will bring cheers from football fans with hearty appetites. Seasoned with a sweet-spicy combination of chili powder, brown sugar, garlic and hot pepper sauce, then topped with onions and chili sauce, a boneless beef top round steak braises in the oven until fork tender. It cooks about 1-1/2 to 2 hours, but once it's in the oven you don't have to attend it until it's cooked. By wrapping the beef and seasonings in aluminum foil, you're assured a clean oven and easy clean-up.

For a savory sauce to serve with the sliced beef, reduce the pan juices until slightly thickened.

Serve-a-crowd steak

3-pounds boneless beef round steak, cut 1-thick
2 tbsp chili powder
2 tbsp packed brown sugar
3 cloves garlic, crushed
1 tbsp hot pepper sauce

2 medium onions, sliced, separated into rings
1 bottle (12 oz) chili sauce
10 crusty rolls, split or 20 medium flour tortillas, warmed
Toppings: thinly sliced lettuce, julienne-cut jicama, chopped onion, chopped cilantro (optional)

1. Heat oven to 325°. Place 28 X 18-inch piece of heavy-duty aluminum foil in shallow roasting pan; place beef steak in center of foil. In small bowl, combine chili powder, brown sugar, garlic and pepper sauce, mixing until well blended. Spread on both sides of steak; top with onions and chili sauce. Bring two opposite ends of foil to close. Bake in 325° oven 1-1/2 to 2 hours or until beef is tender.

2. remove onions and juices to medium saucepan. Bring to a boil; cook and stir 3 minutes or until slightly reduced. Meanwhile trim fat from steak. Carve steak crosswise into thin slices; arrange on serving platter. Top with onion mixture. Serve beef in rolls or tortillas with choice of toppings, if desired. Makes 10 servings (serving size: 1/10 of recipe).

Sweet treats for 1995

cake batter over topping and bake in 350° oven for 45 minutes. Invert on a platter after 10 to 15 minutes.

Topping

1 1/4 sticks butter
6 sliced canned pineapple
Maraschino cherries
1 c. brown sugar

Melt butter in a 9 X 11 inch glass baking dish. Sprinkle brown sugar over whole pan. Arrange pineapple on top of butter and sugar, then add cherries in and between

Fresh strawberry tart

2 1/2 c. vanilla Wafer crumbs

3 c. fresh sliced strawberries
1 stick butter, melted
4 oz. strawberry liqueur
Whipping cream
1/2 sugar

Combine vanilla wafer crumbs with melted butter, mixing well, and form into a pie shell, pressing with the back of a spoon and fingers. Bake in 350° oven for about 8 minutes. Cool and set aside. Slice strawberries and sprinkle sugar in layers. Layer Strawberries in vanilla wafer shell, sprinkle with 4 oz. strawberry liqueur, and top with whipping cream.

C consumption

A 25-year follow-up of a group of men by University of Texas investigators found that those who consumed 145 mg of vitamin C daily were 28 less likely to die of any cause and 49% less likely to die of cancer than men who consumed only half that amount.

Chicken protein may ease arthritis pain

Researchers at Harvard University Medical School report that a collagen solution made from chicken cartilage appears to lessen the pain and swelling of rheumatoid arthritis.

A solution of the protein was given to research patients with morning orange juice for three months, according to a report in the Science journal. Twenty-four of the 28 patients in the study reportedly got relief from the disease and the other four went into remission. For 31 control patients who received a placebo, the arthritis condition worsened, according to the report.

Arthritis Foundation officials cautioned that the findings need to be verified in larger studies but said "it does show promise."

This applies not only to those who are obese (20% heavier than ideal weight), but also to those who are moderately overweight. According to Dr. Allan C. Gelber, a Johns Hopkins School of Medicine rhumatologist, each extra twenty pounds increases a persons' chance of developing painful arthritis of the knees and hips by 50%. The excess weight apparently sets in motion a process of steady deterioration of cartilage in weight-bearing joints. The effect may not be felt until the cartilage finally wears out in a person's 50s, 60s or beyond. One third of American adults are obese and 63% are over the recommended weight for their build. In addition, 21% of children ages 12 to 19 are overweight.

Use the broth left from simmering chicken as liquid for cooking vegetables, pasta or rice, the National Broiler Council suggests. It can also be used in making soups and sauces.

The National Broiler Council points out that chicken ranks third in fast food sales, after hamburgers and pizza. Chicken represents 8.9 billion dollars in sales of fast food restaurants.

Americans averaged 100 pounds of fresh fruit a piece in 1993, up from 74 pounds in 1972. Vitamin C-rich citrus consumption reached a 10-year high of 26 pounds. University of California at Los Angeles researchers found that men who consumed 300 mg of vitamin C daily (about half from food) lived five to six years longer than men who are only 25 mg daily. Women who consume 300 mg daily may add two years to their lives, the research suggests.

Chicken salad appears on 68 percent of all menus, up from 45 percent reported five years earlier, and has replaced chef salad

Males Only

Moraine Valley Community College will offer a course during the spring semester for adult men who want to explore their lives and their relationships.

The Male Experience (PSY-100) will meet Mondays from 6:30 to 8:45 PM from Jan. 23 to April 24 in the College Center, Room 209 on the Campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills.

This two-credit hour class, designed for men 25 and older, helps men explore personal goals and values, communication styles and their impact on men and women; men's roles as sons, brothers, husbands, and father's; personal relationships with family and friends; and the experience of being male in today's society. The class format consists of lecture, group discussion, and experiential activities.

The class will be taught by George Ortenzo, a counselor and professor at the college. The tuition is $78 plus fees.

For more information, call Ortenzo at (708) 974-5722. To register, call the College Service Center at (708) 974-2110.

Community Scholarship

Community organizations who award academic scholarships to Moraine Valley Community College students are invited to help the college by providing information on the scholarships they award.

The college would like to recognize students who have received scholarships from community organizations during the 1994-95 year at an academic scholarship ceremony in the spring.

"We know that many community organizations present academic scholarships to our students, and these are students we would like to recognize at a special ceremony," said Laurie Anema, director of Financial Aid at the College.

Those with information should contact Laurie Anema, Director of Financial Aid at the college.

Those with information should contact Laurie Anema, director of Financial Aid, at (708) 974-5343, or Barbara Wilcox, director of Public relations, at (708) 974-5375, no later than Feb. 15.

Care Givers

For those caring for elderly relatives or friends, it's easy to think there is nowhere to turn for assistance.

There is help. Moraine Valley Community College and Family Health Services Southwest is offering a non-credit workshop titled Caring for the Elderly: The Role of the caregiver.

The class meets Mondays for two weeks starting Jan. 23 from 6:30 to 8:30 PM on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills, in Building B, Room 204.

The workshop offers educational resources, information, and support for anyone who cares for or about elderly person.

The cost is $15.

To register, call (708) 974-2110. For more information, contact Community and Continuing Education at (708) 974-5745.

Take a one hour mini-vacation from the stress in your life- experience a therapeutic massage

by Kathleen Fitzgerald

Massage therapy has been around for many years. Stress has been in people lives even longer. We do not always know how stress will effect us, but we do know there are several ways to try to eliminate the tension and the stress that we sometimes feel after a long, hard day at work.

It is a known fact that there are many more women in the work place today than there were 20 years ago. A lot of these women are not only working a full time job but also raising a family and running a household. In turn, there are also many men who work a long, full day and return home to a busy, sometimes hectic , household. There are only 24 hours in each day and we sometimes run out of time to take care of ourselves. A therapeutic massage could be the one hour mini-vacation from the stress in our lives that we are looking for. Everyone can benefit from a professional massage.

Massage therapy can help relieve stress and anxiety; increase blood supply to the tissues; aid in the recovery of pulled muscles; improve energy and alertness; encourage general relaxation and improve immune system functioning.

During a therapeutic massage, tight muscles tend to relax and chronic tension and pain are relieved. As the circulation is increased, the body will supply more nutrients and oxygen to the muscles and help them get rid of metabolic waste. Once an area is unblocked, it will be able to respond to sensory input again. Massage therapy can also stimulate the release of endorpins the body's own natural pain killer.

A good massage therapist will have you fill out a client information form and spend some time talking with you about things going on in your life before your session begins. It is important for you to be up front and honest on the client information form because there are certain times when massage therapy would be contraindicated. Massage therapists do not diagnose any medical problems or prescribe any medications.

You should also make sure that your therapist is qualified to work on you. You may want to ask some of the following questions: Are you nationally certified? Do you belong to a professional organization? How long have you been in practice? Where have you studied? Where have you worked in the past? When you experience a massage, you should find a very warm, peaceful and comfortable atmosphere. You should keep the line of communication open with your therapist. Feel free to let the therapist know if you are uncomfortable in any way, if the room temperature is ok, or if the volume of the music is to your satisfaction. This is your hour to relax, unwind and forget about the outside world — simply enjoy!

For more information, call Kathleen Fitzgerald at (312) 239-5300.

Adult Women

For many adult women, the decision to return to college is a difficult one. Moraine Valley offers ways to make the transition back to college an easier one.

The Returning Woman's Program offers educational experiences to challenge women to grow personally, socially, and academically. It is designed to meet the special needs of the adult woman student and helps students improve writing skills, and develop self-confidence and self-direction through a series of courses taken with other women in similar circumstances.

In the Returning Women's Program, special sections of Composition I, Introduction to Sociology, and Human Potential are offered Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 9 AM to noon. Some evening classes are also available. The courses can be used to fulfill basic requirements for many programs of study.

Moraine Valley also offers two sections: meets over two weekends and the other meets evenings. The weekend section meets Friday, March 24 from 7 to 9 PM; Saturday, March 25 from 9 AM to 4 PM; and Sunday, March 26 from 9 AM to 3 PM; Saturday, April 8 from 9 AM to 4 PM; and Sunday, April 9 from 9 AM to 3 PM. The evening section meets Tuesdays for 15 weeks from 6:30 to 8:25 PM.

For more information about the Returning Women's Program, call (708) 974-5722.

English a Second Language (ESL)

Moraine Valley Community College will offer several English as a Second Language (ESL) classes in Burbank and Justice beginning in January.

ESL classes are offered to improve listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills for adults whose native language is not English.

For more information, including registration information, call Moraine Valley at (708) 974-5340.

Theatre Audition

The Prairie Dog Theater Company, a non-equity, professional company based at Moraine Valley Community College, will hold auditions for its production of the play "Da."

Auditions will be Monday, Jan. 30 and Tuesday, Jan. 31 from 7 to 10 PM in the John and Angeline Cremus Theater, located in the Fine and Performing Arts Center, on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills.

Roles are available for five men and two women. Monologues should be limited to no more than two minutes. For the production, an Irish Brogue is required.

"Da" received the Tony Award for Best Play and the Drama Circle Award in 1978.

For more information, call the Fine and Performing Arts Center Box Office at (708)974-5500.

Frontier founder of Midway runs for Alderman

By Rick Techman

A leading businesswoman, Anita Cummings continues to work as a small business consultant and Midway area advocate. She worked with other businessmen as a founder of the original Midway Airlines in 1979 and is presently an independent candidate for 23rd Ward Alderman.

She began her career about 30 years ago as a substitute schoolteacher at St. Renee parish and continued as a full-time schoolteacher with the Chicago Public Schools through 1970s.

By the late 1970s Anita realized the Midway community could use a significant boost, especially at Midway Airport, once known as the busiest airport in the world.

With this in mind, Anita joined the core group of airline executives in founding the original Midway Airlines in 1979.

By August of 1979, Anita took her position as the personnel manager.

Following the successful opening of Midway Airlines, Anita continued her airline development career with multifaceted consulting for two more prospective airlines at Midway.

Aside from her role on Midway Airport, Anita founded the United Business Association, an association designed to promote the economic growth and development of the Midway Airport area. Anita also served as a committee member of the Midway Airport Noise Abatement Study.

Anita moved to the 23rd Ward 27 years ago, has four children, and is married to a lifetime Chicago Police Officer.

As an independent candidate for alderman, Anita said she wants to work quickly to get more police patrols in her 23rd Ward community and initiate a community policing strategy.

"You," Anita said, "Just can't leave law enforcement to police." She added that an effective community policing strategy will allow residents to know their local beat officers, see them often and be willing to cooperate them in any difficulty.

Anita also said keeping property taxes affordable remained an important issue to the 23rd Ward. She said she could see how local residents are being taxed out of their homes because of abusive and irresponsible handling of taxpayers' money at city hall.

Anita concluded that a strong community consists of cooperation between local business, local government and the homeowners and taxpayers.

Cents or sense of security

By LBM Security System

Security Systems seems to be the most scrutinized purchase in the buyers market today. Affordable becomes more important than the purpose, "Security". People want the most reasonable price but are willing to give up security. When purchasing a system and comparing prices you must make sure the more reasonably priced system provides the same level of security as the other estimates you get. Many people are taken in by ads that offer you a system for $199. These are referred to as "Door Openers".

Questions you should ask when purchasing a system are: Can you supply references? (references are the most important). Will I own or lease this system at this price? What kind of warranty and service agreement is included with the purchase of the system? What is your false alarm rate? (Many companies will not install an alarm unless you have it monitored). What is the cost for monthly monitoring? Are all the areas in my home secure with this system? Can I add extra protection to this system at a later date? When do I need glass break protection? When do I need motion detectors? What if someone comes in an open window and I have no motion detectors?

These and many more questions you should ask before you sign the bottom line.

Word of mouth seems to be the way most people buy systems today simply because they usually trust the judgment of the person who gave them the name of the alarm company. Unless you are sure of who you are doing business with here are a few tips to consider before you make your final decision.

Get at least 3 estimates.

Make sure the company that you are dealing with is licensed with the State of Illinois. Make sure all the equipment is U.L. listed. Call the Better Business Bureau.

Some people believe that "bigger is better" when choosing a company - that is not always true. Most small companies are usually owned by someone who has worked in the field themselves, so they are more interested in the quality of the product they install as well as having a sales force who will take the time to answer all your questions and tell you exactly what each piece of protection will or will not do for you. There are also less people to deal with when you need to have a problem solved.

A wise person once said "The least amount spent can mean the most in the end."

Chicago Southland appoints manager

The Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau announced the appointment of Joyce M. Hall of Oak Lawn, Illinois as the bureau's new Convention Services Manager/Sales Assistant. Joyce will be responsible for the coordination and delivery of all convention services as requested by groups hosting their meetings in the Chicago Southland area.

Joyce, lifetime Chicago Southland resident, recently graduated from Purdue University in West Lafayette, Indiana where she studied in the Restaurant, Hotel, Institutional & Tourism Management program.

Richard Gartrell, CAE, President/CEO of the Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau, adds "We are thrilled to have Joyce on Staff and know her talents and client-oriented service attitude will be of great benefit to the Chicago Southland."

The Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau is the second largest bureau for tourism in the state of Illinois representing 58 South and Southwest Chicago Suburbs, an area of approximately one million population. The Bureau promotes the Chicago Southland as a travel destination and convention site.

$1 million offer to qualified businessmen

By Rick Techman

Implementation of the village revolving loan program and discussion of the construction of an apartment building at 52nd Avenue and 95th Street highlighted the January 10 Oak Lawn Village Board meeting.

Gail Paul, Director of Administrative Services, explained that the village receives four proposals for participation in the revolving loan program and that Evergreen Bank offered the most aggressive proposal.

The village board awarded Evergreen Bank the opportunity to implement the program. Using $1 million of the village's money, Evergreen Bank will pay the highest rate on the village's deposit for both the unloaned portion and the outstanding principal balance.

Paul explained Evergreen Bank will pay the money market rate plus one percent on the unloaned portion and will pay the loan rate minus 1.5 percent on the deposit relating to the outstanding principal.

'I'm very pleased," Village Treasurer Blase Olivares said, "with the rates we're getting. We have to keep our businesses here," he added, "because they are the life blood of Oak Lawn."

Trustee Michael Walsh, who made the motion to accept Evergreen Bank, said, "I'd like to thank Mrs. Paul and Blase Olivares who were very instrumental in adding their expertise."

While the village sponsored revolving loan program continues to gain understanding throughout city hall, the role of local government as landlord to a major apartment complex still raises eyebrows and voices at the village meetings.

"We are not," Trustee Robert Streit said, "embarking on a project local government participates in."

Following this remark he motioned to put the building proposal on the April ballot as a referendum. When no other member of the board would second his motion, the motion automatically failed.

The apartment complex the board accepted as planned consists of 75 units in six stories. The ground level would be businesses.

A group of local residents lobbied the village board to put the issue of a village owned apartment on the April ballot as a referendum but the mayor and board refused their request as well.

Finally, discussion between the residents and the village board became heated over whether the voters or the village board would decide whether the complex should go up under local government landlord.

Editor's note: 5,600 petitions were filed on January 16, 1995 to have the referendum on the ballot regarding the 75 unit six story apartment complex in Oak Lawn.

Evergreen Park gets new zip code after 20 years

By Rick Techman

On January 19, U.S. Congressman Bobby Rush (D-1) announced a new zip code for Evergreen Park that the village first applied for almost 20 years ago.

The purpose of the new zip code is to distinguish Evergreen Park from the zip code designated for the City of Chicago.

In a letter to Mayor Anthony Vacco of Evergreen Park, Congressman Rush said, "I am pleased to inform you that today I was notified by Mr. Rufus Porter, the Postmaster for Chicago, that effective July 1, 1995, the Village of Evergreen Park will receive a new three number zip code prefix designation of 608."

He continued to add that the postmaster will, in the coming months, take steps to inform the residents of the change in accordance with standard U.S. Post Office policy.

In his letter, Congressman Rush also said, "I have worked hard to obtain a new zip code designation for Evergreen Park. Over the past two years, I have sent numerous requests to the U.S. Postmaster General on your behalf.

"It has been I long, bumpy road," Rush added, "for the Village and its residents. But our hard work has finally paid off."

"Mr. Mayor, I am very pleased to have been able to assist you and the residents of Evergreen Park in this endeavor," he concluded.

EPA awards grant to Water Reclamation

President Thomas S Fuller, of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago, and Commissioner Gloria Alitto Majewski, accepted a check for $25 million dollars from the United States Environmental Protection Agency. The check was presented by Corps of Engineers Lt Colonel Robert Stockbower, of the United States Army.

Commissioner Majewski who is also Chairman of the Finance Committee, stated that the money will help pay for the next section of the Deep Tunnel Project to be built under the DesPlaines River from River Grove to DesPlaines. The Deep Tunnel Project has been doing a superb job in keeping pollution out of the waterways during periods of heavy rain.

Chicago's police initiates new strategy

By Rick Techman

Since the beginning of the year, the Chicago Alternative Policing Strategy has become a modern tool for fighting crime in Chicago's 8th Police district.

A Chicago Police Department spokesman, Neighborhood Relations Officer Keim, explained that CPD 812, recently initiated the Community Alternative Policing Strategy with a community orientation January 17 and the distribution of cellular phones to resident volunteers.

CPD beat 812 extends from 65th street to 59th street and from Harlem Avenue to Cicero.

He explained the residents were selected from qualified community organizations to act as police observers phoning all disturbances to the 8th district and keeping touch with police throughout the ordeal.

Officer Keim explained the difference in the new strategy allows citizens and police to work together by remaining in contact with each other using modern technology during a disturbance.

Until now, police have taken calls from a citywide switchboard and responded to disturbances without community support.

He said a formal training class on the use of the cellular phones, donated by Ameritech, was conducted at the 8th district January 19.

He said this class taught users the appropriate resident procedure to take while reporting the actual commission of a crime.

"It's a good program," Officer Keim said. "Your tax dollars are paying for these technologies. Basically, we're trying to take back the streets."

Now that CAPS has become a citywide program, CPD beat 811, which extends from 59th Street to the Stevenson Expressway and from Harlem to Cicero, will soon have in place an identical program.

At least five cars cover both beats throughout the day according to Keim, including a primary beat car and response car in each beat. He also said the heaviest police coverage begins during the afternoons and evenings when most crimes occur.

He added there are also narcotics investigators, detectives and other officers on duty who cover this area while not assigned to a specific beat. He concluded there are 1000 new police recruits waiting to fight crime and the 8th district expects to get at least 40 new officers this year.

Bridgeview Burbank prepare for storms

By Rick Techman

The village Emergency Services and Disaster Agencies of Bridgeview and Burbank are preparing themselves and their communities for the seasonal storms of Northern Illinois.

Bridgeview E.S.D.A. Director Don Billig stressed the rapidly changing weather in our area poses a potential danger for everyone. He encourages all Bridgeview residents to be prepared for freezing temperatures and heed all winter storm warnings.

Burbank E.S.D.A. Deputy Director Bill Legge, Sr. said his computerized department has 14 volunteers ready to work in numerous emergency services capacities in the wake of a heavy storm.

"We," Legge said, "track tornadoes. We have two sirens in town. We warn the people."

"We work," he added, "very closely with the police and fire department and we do crowd control and traffic control."

"We relieve public works to do their jobs and we don't charge a dime," Legge concluded.

He said his office receives weather reports from Kansas City weather station or Marseilles as much as 30 minutes sooner than the general public.

Flash flood and other natural disasters that could put residents and their homes at risk are addressed in the information handouts distributed by E.S.D.A. throughout the year Legge explained.

"We have training classes here," Legge also said. He explained classes in CPR and emergency medical training are available for Burbank E.S.D.A. members.

Religious Zealotry Can Turn Good Into Evil

There is much that is good about people who have religious beliefs and practice their religion, however imperfectly we all do it. But religion can be abused when people are too zealous — and can be abused when there is a shell of religion that translates into hostility to others.

Almost all religions, if not all, suggest that we should be concerned about those less fortunate. According to a poll conducted for the Center for the Study of American Religion at Princeton University, those who attend religious services weekly in the United States are significantly more likely to think seriously about their responsibilities to the poor.

Many other examples of the good that religious belief provides our society should be given.

But when people are so zealous that they kill people at abortion clinics, or try to impose their beliefs on others, then what is good can become an evil. Many of the most bloody wars have been conducted in the name of religion, usually simply used as a tool by ambitious rulers, but sometimes out of genuine belief by the leaders.

"The genuine practice of religion is wholesome...but extreme caution is in order when leaders try to impose their beliefs on others through government."

There is also the problem where faith has almost diminished to nothing, except hostility to others who do not share the same religious heritage.

My impression is that most of those involved in the violence of the Protestant-Catholic struggle in Northern Ireland are not necessarily people of deep religious commitment, but people who have grown up with one heritage and have learned to hate the other side.

During my years in the Army I was stationed in Germany, and I remember the young German who told me with great pride that no one in his family had married a Roman Catholic for over a century. I asked what church he attended, and he told me that while he was proud of being a Protestant, he didn't attend any church.

But he had learned to hate.

Hitler had only nominal Christian ties. He believed little, and practiced nothing in the way of religion, but his religious heritage somehow left him with a hatred of Jews.

In Bosnia, nations with strong Orthodox ties are generally much more sympathetic to the Serbian cause than other nations, not for genuine religious reasons but for heritage reasons. Serbia is largely Orthodox Christian.

Muslim countries believe that the reason Europeans and Americans have not responded more to the plight of the Bosnian Muslims is precisely because they are Muslims. I do not believe that is true for the United States, but unfortunately it contains some truth for the more tradition-bound European nations, even though the actual practice of religion is much less evident in Western Europe than in the United States. The empty shell of Christianity too often only has hostility toward non-Christians.

One of several good things about what we did in Somalia (incorrectly labeled a disaster by those who look at it superficially), in addition to preventing starvation by hundreds of thousands of people, is that a nation labeled by the world as Christian/Jewish, the United States, came to the rescue of a people almost totally Muslim. How would we have looked if the world's most powerful nation had done nothing about massive starvation in a desperate country! But many Muslim nations were permanently surprised that we responded.

The lesson of history is that the genuine practice of religion is wholesome, good for the individual and good for a community and nation. But extreme caution is in order when leaders try to impose their beliefs on others through government.

And the "stop" sign should go up when political leaders who share a heritage call on others to hate or kill those who do not share the same faith.

Recipient of the McAuley award

Sister Rosemary Connelly, R.S.M., Executive Director of Misericordia/Heart of Mercy, is the worthy recipient of the Catherine McAuley Leadership Award. The award will be presented at Mother McAuley High School's annual Celebration '95 Dinner Party that will be held April 28 at the Martinique Restaurant in Evergreen Park.

Oak Lawn resident wins at money machine

By Rick Techman

The Drury Lane "Money machine" at 2500 West 95th Street in Evergreen Park made Oak Lawn resident and season ticket holder Ann Lampl-Thanos $600 richer on Wednesday night January 17, when she was picked to participate from almost 70,000 names.

For exactly 30 seconds, Ann stood in a clear plastic enclosed cube about 10 feet high and five feet wide reaching for one hundred $100 bills, released into the surrounding air and moved by compressor.

The Drury Lane policy allowed Ann to remain still and grab as many bills as she could as long as they remained airborne. Any bills stuck against the plastic walls or on the floor could not be retrieved.

"Nothing can be put in your pockets," Ann said before she entered the booth. She added, "All these people get me nervous."

About 50 people, including Evergreen Park Mayor Anthony Vacco, attended the event.

Drury Lane CEO and Producer John Lazzara explained he's had steady customers attend his establishment for at least 40 years. He said the money machine is an event designed as a way of saying "thank you" for coming.

"We built it," Lazzara said, "for the Drury Lane. Customers come to us," he added, "and it's a little something to give back."

Following Ann's 30 seconds in the money machine, she chose one bill for its serial number. Ann's number did not match.

20 years of community service for Techman

The Village View's Political and Village news reporter, Rick Techman, celebrates 20 years of service, in various capacities, with local religious and community groups this month.

A city resident, Rick attends traditional Catholic services regularly and continues to serve as a health care advocate and community spokesman. He became active in his community in 1975 as a search and rescue volunteer with the Civil Air Patrol.

Throughout the 1980's, Rick volunteered with church and civic groups as a newsletter editor. Active in new reporting for the past five years, Rick graduated from Columbia College in 1992.

He completed an Associate of Arts degree, with honors, in journalism at Richard J. Daley College in 1989 and served in the John F. Kennedy battalion JROTC during high school in the early 1970's.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I would like to extend my sincere appreciation and gratitude to everyone who signed my petition as a candidate in the First District of Oak Lawn. It is because of their support that will enable me to be victorious on Tuesday, April 4, 1995.

Without their support, I would not have been able to accumulate a record number of signatures in a relatively short time. I also urge everyone to continue playing an active role in my campaign and look forward to meeting them as I walk throughout the District discussing their concerns.

Again, I thank everyone for signing my petition as a candidate for First District Trustee in Oak Lawn.

Sincerely,

John 'Jay' Walker

Candidate, First District, Oak Lawn

Park District

Start and grow a successful business

Sara Shifrin, director of Entrepreneurial Training for the Women's Business Development Center, 8 S. Michigan Av., Chicago, leads workshops and does individual consulting for prospective, new, and established business owners, says it can take as little as three months to get a new business off the ground. For those interested in pursuing entrepreneurship, she offers the following advise:

Prepare a written personal assessment of your skills, interests, and current financial situation. It helps to get focused on your strengths, she says. Then, meet with other business owners or take a course or workshop to get more information on starting a business.

Conduct market research on the type of business you plan to start. Research the industry, the customer, buying patterns, payment history, then prepare a business plan, she says. This plan will include sales projections and expenses. "A written business plan is valuable, even if you don't use it to seek financial initially," she adds.

Set up a support system. You need to open a business account, separate from your personal account. "Sit down with a loan officer, tell them about your plans, then regularly meet with them to update them on your progress," she advises. "If you eventually need a business loan, you'll already know your banker."

Establish a relationship with an attorney. While many business owners are quick to hire an accountant, many postpone developing a relationship with a lawyer. A good small-business attorney will protect you from legal troubles.

Record-keeping should be done on a monthly basis. Spend more time analyzing sales rather than expenses, she says.

Have a marketing plan and be prepared to revise it on a regular basis. You can market a business without spending alot of money, according to Shifrin. "The key is to get your customers to think of you first," she says.

The Women's Business Development Center offers a four-workshop course called "Take the FastTrack to Business Ownership" that explores market research, financial analysis, and the business plan. The series begins with a workshop called "Before You Start" which is designed to help a person decide whether to become his or her own boss.

The "FastTrack" series is conducted monthly with times scheduled during the day or after work hours.

To obtain more information or to register, call (312) 853-3477, or write to the center at 8 S. Michigan Av., Suite 400, Chicago 60603.

The Women's Business Development Center, a small business development center of the State of Illinois' Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, is a nationally-recognized nonprofit business assistance organization devoted to providing services and programs that support and accelerate business ownership.

Oak Lawn Public Library news

Members of the Oak Lawn Library Board are examining plans for some changes that would make more effective use of library space. An area on the lower level, formerly occupied by the Suburban Library System's reference center, has been vacant for more than a year. During that time, staff members have been working on suggestions for using that area by reassigning some library functions and activities. The result would be more room and better service in the area which serve the public. Specific plans and options have been presented to the board. Decisions may be made in the next couple of months.

Board member Robert Thompson announced that he will not be running for a full term on the board in the April election due to business commitments. He was appointed by the board in Dec. 1993 to fill the unexpired term of Dave Gallagher who resigned.

In regular business, the board approved payment of $48,679 for library materials; $31,846 for operating expenses; and $153,631 for personnel.

The board meets at 7:30 PM on the third Tuesday of each month. The meetings, which are open to the public, are held in the lower level Oak Lawn Rotary Room, 9427 Raymond Ave.

United Way needed

United Way of Oak Lawn is seeking volunteers for their Board of Directors. The responsibility of the board is to attend regularly scheduled monthly meetings and help determine what agencies are to receive United Way funding.

Each year United Way raises money to distribute to over 21 social service organizations in the Oak Lawn area. Take an active part in your community by volunteering your time to help those in need.

All applicants must be 18 years or older and need not reside in the Oak Lawn area.

Call 312-881-8608 for more information.

Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce officers installed

Officers of the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce are Klem Brzuszkiweicz, president; Joan Buschbach, first vice president; Laura Shallow, treasurer; and Tony Calderone, secretary. Not pictured is Jim Brady, second vice president. The officers were installed recently at the organization's annual installation dinner dance at the Oak Lawn Hilton Hotel. The officers will serve a one-year term.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Cold weather supper - casual and chic

Cozy dining by the fireside is a great way to entertain and to relax with good friends and good conversation during the winter months. Casual yet special fare is in order.

Sauteed Veal Cutlets with Mushrooms & Polenta is a perfect meal for entertaining. Made with readily available veal leg cutlets, this meal can be prepared and served in about 30 minutes, so there's plenty of time to spend with guests

Veal cutlets are purchased ready to cook, needing no extra preparation at home. You can saute them in less than five minutes. Add extra special flair to the menu with a combination of mushrooms, such as brown, shiitake, or portabello instead of the basic button variety. They, too, can be sauteed in just a couple of minutes A dash of Italian seasoning and black pepper adds flavor to both the cutlets and mushrooms.

If you thought making polenta was too time consuming, this easy three-ingredient microwave recipe is for you. I needs stirring only once during the cooking, and the results are foolproof and delicious — creamy, soft polenta is guaranteed. And it's delicious with the veal and mushrooms. Just add a green salad to round out the menu. Purchase assorted biscotti(Italian cookies) to serve with coffee for dessert.

Sauteed veal cutlets with mushrooms & polenta

1 pound veal leg cutlets, cut into 1/8 to 1/4 inch thick
3 cups sliced mushrooms (one or a combination of brown and shiitake or portabello), approx. 8ozs.
3 tsp. olive oil
1 tbsp. water
Seasoning:
2 tbsp. minced parsley
1 tsp. Italian seasoning
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. cracked black pepper

Pound veal cutlets to 1/8 inch thickness, if necessary Combine seasoning ingredients. Rub both sides of veal cutlets with 1/2 of seasoning mixture; set aside. Toss mushrooms with remaining seasoning mixture; set aside.

Meanwhile prepare Polenta.

In large nonstick skillet, heat 1 tsp. oil over medium heat until hot Place veal (1/2 at a time) in skillet and cook 2 minutes on each side or until cooked through. Remove veal; keep warm. Repeat with remaining veal and 1 tsp. oil. In same skillet, heat remaining 1 tsp. oil over medium heat until hot.

Add mushrooms; sprinkle with water. Cook 2 minutes or just until mushrooms are tender, stirring frequently. Spoon Mushrooms over veal. serve with Polenta.

Polenta

1 can (approx. 14-1/2 ozs.) ready-to-serve vegetable broth
6 tbsp. yellow cornmeal
1/4 cup shredded fontina or moz zarella cheese

In 1-quart microwave-safe dish, combine broth and cornmeal. Microwave, covered, on HIGH 9 to 10 minutes or until smooth and thickened, stirring once.

Remove from microwave; stir in cheese. Let stand, covered, 2 minutes. Serve immediately or let stand, covered, up to 10 minutes

Snow White is a 'ComeBack Kid'

Karen Preston, who skates the title roll in Walt Disney's World on Ice -- Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, was just four minutes away from capturing the 1991 Canadian national ladies' figure skating championship, her second in three years. The previous year she had spent recovering from an injury. This moment represents countless hours of practice and training.

To regain her title, Karen practiced six hours a day, avoiding all outside interests and concentrating on nothing but her skating. All she had to do now was finish her final routine without incident. She was introduced. The crowd roared. The music started. She fell.

Karen skidded on the ice three times that night and the national championship slipped away. Later, alone at home, she decided to change her entire life. No more days filled from dawn to dusk with skating. No more isolation, even if it meant she would never win another championship. Her life would be more than skating.

"My fanatical devotion to skating was so bad that I even stopped going to school in 1991. I did nothing but skate, skate, skate. I rarely saw friends and had absolutely no life outside of the rink. I did it because I thought I had to in order to be a champion again. I was consumed by the desire to win it again," says Karen.

"After I lost that championship, I suddenly realized that I had nothing in my life, not even the skating. I changed everything. I cut back skating drastically and enrolled in college. I began to read every book I could get my hands on and surround myself with old friends. I had matured enough to realize that a life of nothing but skating was no life at all."

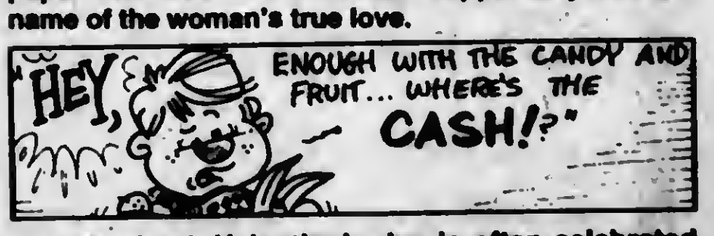
The new Karen, living a balanced life and skating for the enjoyment of it, not just the trophies, raced back in 1992 and won the national championship again. The same year she finished eighth in the Winter Olympics in a stellar performance which included six triple jumps.

In the spring of 1994, Karen signed a contract to portray Snow White in the latest Walt Disney's World on Ice spectacular.

The show runs through Jan. 29 at the Rosemont Horizon and Jan. 31 - Feb. 12 at the United Center. Tickets are $10.50, $15.50 and $18.50.

Snow White

In the 1700's, Englishwomen celebrated Valentine's Day by writing men's names on pieces of paper and dropping the paper into water. The first paper that rose to the surface supposedly had the name of the woman's true love.



In England, Valentine's day is often celebrated with gifts to children of candy, fruit and money.

Your Guide To Fine Dining, Entertainment & Other Activities Around The Area!

Blueberry Hill is not just the run of the mill

"You hold the key--Your ideas unlock new doors for our staff. We value your comments!"

Clearly, the comment cards placed on each table at Blueberry Hill Pancake House reflect the prevailing quest for quality in this new Bridgeview restaurant. Since its opening last September, owner George Nikolopoulos has paid meticulous attention to the little, often overlooked details that make dining truly special.

The decor is light, airy and tastefully appointed. Gourmet Irish Creme, Mocha and Amaretto coffee creamers are attractively arranged on the table with care, along with a selection of fine, premium Smuckers, Dickinson and Knots Berry Farm jams and preserves. Four different kinds of sugar complement the aromatic 100% Columbian coffee served piping hot with frequent refills!

There is one problem, however--choosing a selection from the extensive menu can be frustrating due to the sheer variety of breakfast and lunch offerings. For those who so prefer, a "custom" create your own omelette can be ordered with what seems like an infinite number of ingredients.

Seven different kinds of cheese and an equal number of meats and fresh vegetables can be added to the base omelette, which is served with hash brown potatoes, Greek toast or two buttermilk pancakes.

I ordered a scrambled egg omelette with chorizo (Mexican sausage) which is seldom found on local menus. Served on a scalloped, frosted glass platter with a garnish of fresh orange, the visual appeal was striking, particularly when complemented by the buttermilk pancakes lightly dusted with powdered sugar and served with whipped butter and real maple syrup.

For those with more willpower than this writer, Egg Beaters or egg whites are available at a small extra cost for a low-fat, low cholesterol meal.

Considering the overall value offered, prices are modest,particularly when you realize George personally selects his fruits from Michigan farms and orders his sausage and hamburger specially made from a family recipe---avoiding the pre-made, portion controlled servings that have become an anathema to contemporary dining.

Although I neglected to fill out a comment card, I can only offer one suggestion concerning the service, presentation and quality of Blueberry Hill Pancake House.... Keep up the good work!!! by Frank Soczek

Local resident goes overseas

Navy Seaman Apprentice John M. Taylor, a 1992 graduate of Oak Lawn High School of Oak Lawn, IL., recently departed for a six-month overseas deployment to the Western Pacific Ocean with the destroyer USS Kinkaid, as part of the USS Constellation Battle Group.

Taylor's involvement in the deployment is an example of how the Navy and Marine Corps team is designed to operate overseas and respond quickly when needed. Whether delivering humanitarian assistance, cargo, or troops from the sea, these highly trained naval forces provide a unique crisis response option, which can be withdrawn quickly when no longer needed.

A power packed festival

The Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau, South Suburban Mayors and Managers Association and the Southwest Conference of Local Governments will team up to host the 3rd Annual Festivals & Events Workshop, Wednesday, Feb. 8, 1995 from 8 AM to 5 PM at the Best Western Homewood Hotel.

The workshop is designed for those responsible for the planning, management, operation and support of special events including, but not limited to, professional/volunteer event managers, governing board members and members of organizations that support the industry.

Call the Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau at (708) 503-1800 to receive a registration form. Early registration is recommended as space is limited. The registration fee for the workshop is $40. The fee includes a continental breakfast, lunch, educational sessions, admission to the vendor expo and workshop materials.

9-1-1 Save time

By Rick Teehman

As of January 1, the Village of Bridgeview entered the 9-1-1 system into service for all emergency calls for police, fire or ambulance assistance.

Any immediate danger to life or property warrants emergency assistance. Under this circumstances, call 9-1-1 and obey all of the information the Bridgeview emergency telecommunication operator gives you.

Do not hang up on the emergency operator! Follow through with the emergency call giving the operator all of the information possible about the situation while remaining factual.

9-1-1 operates continuously in Bridgeview, 24 hours a day. No coins are needed when dialing from a pay phone. Specify whether it is a police, fire or medical emergency.

If you are not in immediate danger but still need to contact the police or fire department, dial the non-emergency numbers.

Generous dinner offer for "caregivers"

Are you taking care of a terminally ill relative or friend? Are you feeling exhausted and just too tired to cook dinner for yourself and your family? Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers Hospice Volunteer Program has a new program that can make meal planning easier for you, the caregiver.

"Caring For The Caregivers" is a new project initiated by Little Company's Hospice Volunteer Program designed to give you a brief respite once a month with your meal preparation.

As part of this project several local restaurant establishments have generously contributed a meal for four people — once a month for 3 months. Little Company's Hospice Volunteers pick up the meals and deliver them to hospice families.

"Our patients and their families cannot express enough how touched they are by the thoughtfulness of these local restaurants," said Mary Jo Quick, R.N., Hospice Volunteer Coordinator. "There has been a genuine willingness and enthusiasm to participate in this project."

A special thank you to the following restaurants for their generous contributions: Ken's Guest House in Oak Lawn, Papa Joe's in Oak Lawn and Orland Park, Greco's in Evergreen Park and Willow Springs.

Little Company's Hospice program feels that this project exemplifies the Hospital's mission, one that provides respite, support and a demonstration of the genuine concern the Hospital feels for patients and their families.

For more information or to make a restaurant meal donation, contact Mary Jo Quick, R.N., Hospice Volunteer Coordinator at 708-422-6200, extension 5367.

The Living Sea

The Museum of Science and Industry will present the World Premiere of "The Living Sea," a motion picture which explores humanity's relationship with the ocean, at the Museum's popular five-story Omnimax Theater beginning Saturday, Feb. 11, at 10 AM. A "Sneak Preview" screening, hosted by the Museum's Auxiliary Board, will be held Thursday evening, Feb. 9 at 6 PM.

Featuring a soundtrack with original music by Grammy Award winning artist, Sting, and narration by Academy Award - winning actress, Meryl Streep, "The Living Sea," is a breathtaking 40-minute film highlighting spectacular under- and above water-footage.

Viewers are taken on a journey of discovery to learn how the world ocean waters are linked by currents, tides and water cycles. Audiences feel the power of the ocean as they surf thundering waves in Hawaii and ride in a Coast Guard Rescue boat with cadets training to save lives at Cape Disappointment, Oregon, home to some of the roughest surf in the world. You follow a Remotely Operated Vehicle 3,000 feet down through the ocean depths to view exotic creatures (one half the length of a football field!) which live where sunlight never penetrates; come face-to-face with humpback whales, lifesize on the giant Omnimax screen; swim among thousands of golden jellyfish; witness the bizarre spawning behavior of giant clams; and travel to the seas surrounding Palau, a string of Central Pacific islands featuring breathtaking wildlife found nowhere else on earth.

Utilizing Omnimax technology with its 72 speakers and 20,000 watts of sound, the soundtrack of "The Living Sea" features Sting's musical artistry-a unique blend of pop, modern jazz, and world beat influences-marking the first time in Omnimax history that a Grammy-winning pop star has contributed original music to a non-concert film.

Marist brothers survive quake

The Marist Brothers International School in Kobe, Japan was devastated in the January 17th earthquake. The quake hit while the five Marist Brothers, from the Poughkeepsi Province of the United States, were asleep in their living quarters on the top floor of the school building. All escaped without harm, but the school building is damaged beyond repair. The Japanese government has ordered the building to be demolished since it poses a threat to the neighboring structures.

Brother George Fontana, FMS, Principal of the Marist International School in Kobe was a founding brother at Marist High School in Chicago.

Brother Fontana telephoned from Kobe to say that most of the students from their school have been accounted for.

The cost to demolish the devastated structure has been estimated at 1 million in an area where there was a major fire.

At one point, the Marist Brothers in Kobe housed 1200 homeless in the gym, while awaiting Japanese relief efforts. They are presently housing 600 in the same capacity. Japanese authorities have given orders that the gym will remain a shelter a bit longer.

Coastal's ANR Corp of the Year

The Coastal Corporation's subsidiary ANR Freight System, Inc., has been honored by National Logistics Corporation (NLC) with its 1994 Award of Excellence and has been named Freight Carrier of the Year.

NLC recognizes seven of its carriers with the Award of Excellence each year, but the Carrier-of-the-Year award is presented to the one carrier that embodies the kind of high-quality service NLC wants.

"The award went to ANR Freight because they helped us with several major and difficult projects while providing first class service and suppor," said Jack Staton, NLC president.

Bob Sobczak, who resides in Oak Lawn, is Director of Assembly and Distribution for ANR, accepted the award stat-ing that, "ANR's standards de-mand nothing less than excel-lence."

ANR has 39 terminals serving 15 states and is a subsidiary of The Coastal Corp.(NYSE:CGP), a Houston-based energy holding company with consolidated as-sets of more than $10 billion.

Benefit restriction notice to be sent

The Social Security Administration (SSA) will mail notices in Feb. to 158,670 individuals who are receiving SSI disability benefits based on drug addiction and or alcoholism.The notice will inform beneficiaries of changes in the law that affect the way payments are made to them. If the individual is currently receiving benefits through a representative payee, SSA will also send a copy of the notice to the payee.

The following changes will take effect in March 1995.

All individuals who arereceiving disability benefits based on drug addiction on alcoholism must receive payment through a representative payee. The payee may be an organization or other person whose duty it will be to manage the individual's payments and see that his/her needs are met.

Drug addicts and/or alcoholics must go for treatment for their addiction when it is available, and must make progress in treatment or their payments will be stopped.

An individual whose disability results from drug addiction and/or alcoholism may receive benefits for no more than 36 months. Social Security disability insurance beneficiaries, months in which treatment is not available are not counted in determining the 36 month period.

The disability beneficiaries may connect their local Social Security office at the telephone number provided in the notice or they may call SSA's toll-free telephone number 1-800-772-1213.

Happiness is winning $82,000 on Illinois Instant "Riches". Saturday, Feb. 11, Sgt. Robert Biggers, Chicago Ridge, won just that amount. Congratulations Bob!

Congratulation to Mr. and Mrs. Kirkwood, but our Oak Lawn residents know Beth McElroy Kirkwood. Beth delivered a 9lb.15oz. beautiful baby boy on January 14th. Baby Michael can just about play basketball with grandfather Ed.

Happy 25th anniversary to John and Mary Stella on Feb. 14th.

Many extraordinary events took place in my life both memorable and then again not so memorable. One recent event was being invited to Israel Jan. 14th through the 24th. There will be a story regarding that trip in the March 1st issue.

Also on March 8th, the Women's Federation for World Peace invited me to Washinton, D.C. as a delegate. This will give me an opportunity to meet business and executive women from Japan and hear keynote speakers such as Ambassador Jeanne Kirkpatrick, Barbara Walters, Jerry Falwell

I'm looking foward to meeting and being with people who can demonstrate a peaceful unity and ending the hostilities that occurred 50 yrs. ago between Japan and the US.

F.O.P backs Cummings for 23rd ward

By Rick Techman

Anita Cummings re-received the endorsements of the Fraternal Order of Police in the race for 23rd Ward Alderman amid her continued work to fight crime locally.

Cummings, the wife and mother of police officers, received an appointment last year to the Chicago Alternative Policing Strategy where she worked to increase and improve police protection in the 23rd Ward.

"My experience with C.A.P.S.," she said, "taught me that any crime fighting strategy must include the development of a partnership with all elements of the community."

She said that schools, parents, churches, senior centers, corporate leaders, small business owners and neighborhood beat watches all should be involved in fighting crime both in the 23rd ward and throughout Chicago.

"Fighting crime said Cummings, "is everyones business."

A spokeperson from Citizens for Cummings explained the F.O.P. takes a lot of different aspects of a candidates qualifications into account when endorsing a candidate for alderman and explained Cummings past three decades of involvement in the community made her the most qualified to run.

Pandering On Tax Cuts Under The Deficit Cloud

In Washington, D.C., and in state capitals from New York to California, leaders of both political parties are talking about tax breaks for people like me who are relatively well off, and cutting programs to help poor people.

There is hardly a trickle of opposition.

At the federal level, to enact tax cuts when we have huge deficits is bad government. It is pandering to the worst in all of us. President Clinton is in a bidding war with Republicans on this.

Totally aside from reducing help for the nation's needy, if we can sensibly cut other programs and reduce the deficit, we should. But to give me a small tax break and impose a further deficit burden on my three grandchildren does not make sense, and Americans who understand this know it.

However, we're not talking primarily about reducing the deficit, but imposing burdens on the poor.

"To enact tax cuts when we have huge deficits is bad government. It is pandering to the worst in all of us."

No one is crude enough to say, "Let's beat up on poor people." Sometimes when leaders talk about welfare reform, that's what they mean. Sometimes when they talk about welfare reform there are not-so-subtle hints of racism.

I favor genuine welfare reform. No one wants it more than the people on welfare. When a Pizza Hut in Massachusetts opens with 10 minimum wage jobs and 1,000 people apply, those people want to work.

Welfare reform must have a jobs component or it will not be genuine reform. It will be a shifting of boxes on an organizational chart, enough so that political leaders can claim that they did something, but nothing will happen to get poor people out of poverty.

We now have 23 percent of our children living in homes below the poverty level, and one recent study puts the figure at 26 percent. No other Western industrial nation has anywhere near that figure.

President Lyndon Johnson started what he called a "war on poverty." It was not a war, but at least a battle, a skirmish.

We reduced the number of children in poverty to 16 percent, not a good figure but much better for millions of children than 23 percent.

The irony of all this is that the American people would be pleased to respond positively, with something like the old Works Progress Administration program, for example, that would cost a few dollars initially and save money in the long run. It would pay people for being productive rather than nonproductive.

Under the WPA, people worked four days a week, and the fifth day they had to be out trying to get a job in the private sector. We did great things for the nation and people had pride in what they did. No one takes pride in sitting at home, collecting a welfare check.

Four days a week at the minimum wage is $535 a month, not much, but better than the average family's welfare check of $366 a month.

To move to such a jobs program, the President has to ask us and explain the situation, and/or Congress has to lead.

People want to improve the lot of others; they are willing to sacrifice for a noble cause. Helping the poor as a way of helping the nation would appeal to them, if it is properly presented.

An author I usually don't quote, Rush Limbaugh, wrote: "We were never required to make the kind of sacrifice that the World War II generation was asked to make. Things came too easy for us."

Or listen to the great Supreme Court Justice Louis Brandeis, appointed by Woodrow Wilson: "There is in most Americans some spark of idealism, which can be fanned into a flame ... but when found, and that means often, when disclosed to the owners, the results are often most extraordinary."

They are right.

The governors, the Presidents and the people in both political parties who are asking for tax cuts and then chopping programs for the poor, are appealing to the greed in us. We all have it.

What these leaders should be doing is appealing to the idealism that is a little less visible, but is also in all of us.

The Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau, South Suburban Mayors and Managers Assoc. and Southwest Conference Local Government teamed up to host the 3rd annual festivals and events workshop, Wed. Feb. 8 from 8 a.m. to 5p.m. at the Best Western Hotel.

The festival and event planners in attendance also had the opportunity to meet with 23 festival vendors during the workshop's Fest Expo. Included in the vendor exhibition was AnnetteDixon, VillageView Newspaperand DeniseMcLean, Design and Type. The expo was designed to allow the planner to gather vital vendor information in a matter of hours.

The Bureau recognizesthe ecomomic impact of festivals and events and therefore provides educational opportunities for festival and event planners each year. "The State of Il. has thousands of festivals and events each year. It is our goal to keep the festival and event planners in the Chicago Southland up-to-date on current trends new promotional ideas and areas of concern. We need to keep our festivals competitive in the industry to attract our share of visitors," comments Kim Kislowski, Marketing /Communication Manager of the Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Independent candidate speaks out

Independent candidate for 1st District trustee, Jerry Vahl assured the voters his greatest goal as a prospective member of the village board will be to return integrity and responsibility to the voters.

Vahl said time and again the village board has moved along with programs that have cost Oak Lawn taxpayers millions of dollars while never seeking the consent of the residents before going through with their proposals.

He cited the proposed new city hall, modification of the present public works building and the proposed construction of a city run apartment building all as projects that should have been brought to the voters, particularly through referendum, to gain their approval.

"I'll be open," Vahl said, "to the people. They can just come and knock on my door."

Vahl said, as a member of the village board, he would encourage board openness to Oak Lawn taxpayers. He also said he would do

Keeping the dream alive

University Park-

To keep the dream of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. alive, Americans must be willing to step forward and work for betterment, his daughter, Yolanda King, told an audience at Governors State University.

"I beg of you. We can move our country forward again, but all of us must work to make it a bit better and bit brighter, " she told young and old in the gathering of nearly 400 people who conducted a King birthday celebration Wed. Jan. 25th.

"Through his leadership, people were compelled to get up and do somthing, and we altered some things," she said referencing the Civil Rights Act and the Voting Rights Act, the breakdown of segregation and the hiring of minorities into top positions.

Her father, who would have been 66 years old this year, is not here to lead, but that doesn't mean his dream should be deferred, King stessed. This generation can and must do something to keep alive his dream of a better life for all Americans.

Much has changed in the last 30 years, she said. And her father's words--that Americans didn't learn to reverse its priorities, humanity would suffering true.

Some would say the problems have gotten more difficult, King said, as we worry about a growing national deficit, violence in our streets, an epidemic drug problem, the inability of all to get decent jobs, poor quality schools and a dilapidated housing stock.

But King laments the breakdown of the American fabric not only because of these harsh problems, but also because society has become so splintered and inattentive. "When I was a kid," she told the audience, "I was raised by the community. If I was bad, everybody knewit, but when I did right, everybody shared it. The insured the survival of the community."

Today Americans again need to "support the nurturing of young people if we are going to turn things around," she stressed.

Too often, Americans complain yet they do nothing to change the situation. Non-violence, as was advocated by her father, doesn't mean being complacent. "Wet dish rag behavior," as King called it, doesn't help. Things get done because people organize, and if you work with politicians and nothing happens, "then you work on them," she stressed.

King recalled a quote of her father's "Everybody can be great because everybody can serve." That she said, is the true wish the family shares for the King holiday. "We want it to be a time to service--to fight drugs, AIDS, crime in all forms and reach out to each other. The Martin Luther Kind holiday should be a day on, not a day off. It should mean service, not shopping; not words, but deeds."

We must get up off our apathy and get to work," King added. Dreaming may seem senseless to many, but King said she will continue dreaming.

"My parents always would say to us, 'It (dreaming) may be crazy, it may be somewhat foolish, but to live without it would be a nightmare."

"Once upon a time when we were colored"

University Park--Pulitzer-prize nominee Clifton L. Taulbert, whose compelling stories of life in rural Mississippi in the 1950's have been read and dramatized, will give a free 7:30 p.m. lecture Feb. 17 at Governors State University as part of the university's celebration of African-American Heritage Month.

Joining Taulbert will be Frances Callaway Parks, an interactionary poet who will read for Taulbert a poem she has written in commemoration of his achievements.

Taulbert first gained national recognition for his book "Once Upon aTime When We Were Colored," a collection of vignettes that tell of his life through his high school years. His Pulitzer-prize nomination was for "The Last Train North," the second in his triology that tells of his experiences moving to St. Louis.

Today Taulbert is a successful businessman in Tulsa and is a part of management of Spike Sports Drink, the nation's first company.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Cooking with cocoa assures goodness

Cocoa seems to make bake goods so much better, no to mention the convenience of powdered cocoa and not the messy melted stuff. You can store cocoa on your shelf with no loss of quality or appearance. And it's a money saver and a natural food. Coca has the lowest fat content of any chocolate product be-cause all of the cocoa butter has been removed.

BUTTERSCOTCH BROWNIES

Vegetable oil spray
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/4 cup margarine
1/4 cup Second Nature
1/3 teaspoon butter flavoring
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
3/4 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 cup chopped pecans

Preheat oven to 350 F°. Lightly spray an 8-inch square baking pan with vegetable oil. In large mixing bowl, cream sugar and margarine together. Add Second Nature, butter flavoring and extract. Blend well. In another bowl, sift flour and baking powder together. Add to margarine mixture and mix well. Stir in nuts. Spread evenly into prepared pan. Bake 20-25 minutes. Cool slightly and cut into 32 bars.

▲COCOA KISS COOKIES

1 cup butter or margarine, softened
⅔ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1⅓ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup Hershey's Cocoa
1 cup finely chopped pecans
1 package (9 ounces) Hershey's Milk Chocolate Kisses (about 54)
Confectioners' sugar

Cream butter, sugar and vanilla in large mixer bowl. Combine flour and cocoa; blend into creamed mixture. Add pecans; beat on low speed until well blended. Chill dough about 1 hour or until firm enough to handle. Meanwhile, unwrap kisses. Shape scant tablespoon of dough around each chocolate kiss, covering kiss completely. Shape into balls; place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 375° for 10 to 12 minutes or until set. Cool slightly; remove to wire rack. Cool completely; roll in confectioners' sugar. Roll in sugar again before serving, if desired. About 4½ dozen cookies.

COCOA PRESS COOKIES

1 cup butter or margarine
⅔ cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
2¼ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
⅓ cup Hershey's Cocoa
½ teaspoon salt

Cream butter, sugar, egg and vanilla in large mixer bowl. Combine flour, cocoa and salt; blend in. Fill cookie press with dough. Press cookies onto cool ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 350° for 5 to 7 minutes or until set. Remove from cookie sheet; cool on wire rack. 4 to 5 dozen cookies.

▲WACKY COCOA CAKE

3 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 cups sugar
⅓ cup Hershey's Cocoa
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups water
¾ cup vegetable oil
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 teaspoons vanilla

Combine flour, sugar, cocoa, baking soda and salt in large mixer bowl. Add water, oil, vinegar and vanilla; beat 3 minutes at medium speed until thoroughly blended. Pour batter into a greased and floured 13x9x2-inch pan. Bake at 350° for 35 to 40 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool; frost as desired.

COCOA PARTY CAKE

1 cup butter or margarine, softened
2¼ cups sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
2¾ cups unsifted cake flour
⅓ cup Hershey's Cocoa
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups buttermilk or sour milk*

DEVIL'S FOOD FILLED COOKIES

½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1¾ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
½ cup Hershey's Cocoa
1¼ teaspoons baking soda
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk*
Creme Filling (below)

Cream shortening and sugar in large mixer bowl. Add egg and vanilla; beat well. Combine flour, cocoa, baking soda and salt; add alternately with buttermilk to creamed mixture. Drop by tablespoonfuls 2 inches apart onto lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375° for 8 to 10 minutes or until cookie springs back when touched lightly in center. Cool. Prepare Creme Filling. Spread bottom of one cookie with 1 tablespoonful of filling; cover with second cookie. Repeat with remaining cookies. 16 to 18 filled cookies.

*To sour milk: Use 1 tablespoon vinegar plus milk to equal 1 cup.

Creme Filling: Cream ¼ cup butter and ¼ cup shortening; gradually beat in 1 cup marshmallow creme. Blend in 1½ teaspoons vanilla and 1¾ cups confectioners' sugar; beat to spreading consistency.

Cream butter and sugar in large mixer bowl. Add eggs and vanilla; blend well. Combine flour, cocoa, baking soda and salt; add alternately with buttermilk to creamed mixture. Pour into three greased and floured 8-inch layer pans or a 13x9x2-inch pan. Bake at 350° for 30 to 35 minutes for layers, 55 to 60 minutes for oblong cake or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pans. Cool completely; frost.

*To sour milk: Use 2 tablespoons vinegar plus milk to equal 2 cups.

Yugoslavia alive and well at Rada's Inn

Anita Anderson

We all, at one time, look for the perfect ethnic restaurant that's not too pretentious or over-priced just because owners want the eatery to appear "trendy".

Rada's Inn at 2824 N. Ashland, in Chicago answers many needs for diners looking for something different.

The food will not disappoint you, especially its prices. The decor is a charming old-world Yugoslavia just what you'd imagine a place small place would be like in what's now known as Herzogovina.

Rada's is owned and managed by George and Rada Gudovic, Rada is the chef and George, is her right are who waits tables, greets diners and played a big part in designing and redoing the restaurant

He and Rada worked 16-hour days putting in the huge skylight installing wooden floors, painting and designing the cozy restaurant.

"We like to think that when a customer walks in here he feels he is in our home," George said.

Rada began cooking in her native Yugoslavia when she was 15 in Zagreb and eventually was chef of a large hotel in that city. In 1980 she moved to Chicago and Rada was chef at the Skokie Hilton. Rada's menu reflects traditioal European favorites. A typical meal begins with complimentary fresh bread and a puree of peppers and vegetables, three blended cream cheeses and chopped liver which is exceptionallly creamy and good.

Rada and George offer grilled shish-ka-bob for $12.75; grilled chevaps, a Yugoslavian spiced-beef, veal or lamb sausage for $10 or, Pljeskavica, a gourmet round steak for $10.

Outstandiing was the Gypsy Platter for two for $25 which could easily feed a party of four. The platter included chicken, chevaps, rice, shish-ka-bob and vegetables.

Other house specialties are pileca snicla, breast of chicken breaded and sauteed for $10 or natur snicla, prime veal natural juice for $14.

All of the meats Rada orders are prime as are her vegetables which are the freshest availabe.

Desserts are available and there is a full bar.

Rada says the secret of success in managing any business, whether its a restaurant or an at-home-endeavor is organization. Without it she said, all would be lost.

"I do certain jobs on certain days and then everything doesn't p ile up," the chef said.

Assisting Rada and George is their son, Danny and his girlfriend, Corinne Pollock who is the hostess and sometimes waits tables.

"And one more thing," she added, "You have to love what you do."

NUTRITION NEWS

Healthful Hint: Pickin' Chicken

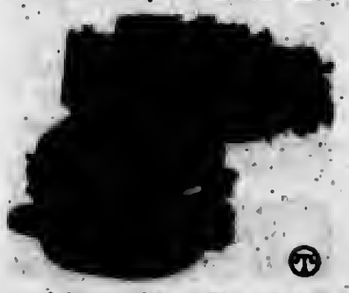
(NAPS)—If you've made the bold decision to lose weight, watch fat and eat healthy foods in the year ahead, you may get some help from a chicken.

A Marinated Chicken Grill Sandwich with only 10 grams of total fat is now available from the world's fourth largest restaurant company. It offers a tasty and nutritious alternative to a typical fast food sandwich.

The sandwich, offered at Hardee's restaurants, features a whole chicken breast, lightly marinated with special seasonings and grilled. It's topped with fresh sliced tomato, crisp lettuce and a reduced calorie mayonnaise, all served on a toasted bakery bun. It has 71 percent less fat than Hardee's Frisco™ Grilled Chicken Sandwich.

"While Hardee's is generally known for its hamburgers, fresh fried chicken and Made From Scratch™ biscuits, we saw a real need to appeal to those customers seeking something lower in fat," explains Nancy Abram, the chain's vice president of marketing. "What's exciting about this product is that we are able to provide that lower fat alternative and, at the same time, provide customers with a great-tasting sandwich."

For people who want a meal that will fill them up, but not out, the sandwich



A lower fat, grilled chicken sandwich will start your new year off right comes in a "light side" combo including a fresh tossed side salad with fat-free dressing and a medium diet soft drink.

This new sandwich is the restaurant chain's latest response to an increasing awareness of and interest in health and nutrition. In 1988, Hardee's set the industry standard by becoming the first major restaurant company to completely switch to 100 percent all-vegetable oil to cook all of its fried products, including french fries. Its breakfast menu features pancakes and syrup that are low fat. There's even a frozen yogurt cone with only two grams of fat.

Tips On Trips

Planning Ahead Is Key To Comfortable Vacations

(NAPS)—The winter get-away has been planned for a year. With all the preparation, endless talk and growing excitement, why is packing always left until the last minute? A vacation can be spoiled when clothing and accessories are uncomfortable or inappropriate. The key to an enjoyable vacation is feeling comfortable.

According to Consumer Expert Elysa Lazar, deemed "the world's smartest shopper" by Redbook magazine, travelers should keep in mind the following for a successful, enjoyable, and comfortable winter vacation: "Knits pack and travel like a dream and along with belts, underwear and socks, can be rolled and stowed in your shoes; clothes, along with shoes and accessories, should be versatile for mixing and matching; pack in sequential order, layering items based on when you will wear them; pack gradually, as much as two weeks prior; lastly, check weather reports of where you are going."

Versatile and comfortable items are key when packing the bags. This includes accessories as well. Hats, sunglasses, jewelry and footwear are just as important and require just as much thought; choose one-to-two items of each that mix and match best with all the outfits. Footwear is pivotal in completing an outfit fashion-wise, but for vacations it must also be comfortable, supportive and flexible. Remember, vacations involve long walks, touring, standing in lines, waiting for tables...Sore feet are almost always inevitable. Choose your shoes wisely. One choice in footwear is Keds' new ahh...Keds line. True to classic Keds styling, ahh...Keds provide additional comfort, benefits, and versatility. They are even machine washable making them a great traveling companion.

Town meeting allows residents to voice opinions

By Rick Techman

1st District trustee candidate John "Jay" Walker responding to the Worth Township Democratic Committeeman's announcement of a town meeting last month agreed everyone should attend the meeting to express their concerns about local issues.

"This is a first step in allowing village residents a voice in government decisions," Walker said. He said there should be more meetings with local, state and federal representatives.

He also said the next step should be for trustees to encourage referenda on major decisions, such as the demolition of the existing village hall.

"There was absolutely no," Walker said, "communication from my opponent on whether residents were in favor of tearing down the existing village hall."

Walker said the village board never sought approval of Oak Lawn residents on the construction of a six story, 70 unit apartment building in the center of town.

By having town meetings, the people are heard and trustees can make decisions based on their input according to Walkeer. He said it is not an effective government when trustees take it upon themselves to make decisions that have such an impact on the community.

Walker will be running against incumbent trustee Cy Holesha and independent candidate Jerry Vahl.

Chicago Southland appoints new convention sales exec

The Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau announced the appointment of Benjamin Benson of Aurora, Il. as the Bureau's new Convetion Sales Executive. Ben will be responsible for the development and processing of sales accounts, from identification of prospects to generation of leads and/or definite booking notices. Specifically Ben will perform his sales function through telemarketing,site inspections and/or familiarization tours, attending trade shows, communicating with prospective clients and writing bids for presentations to clients. Ben will be pursuing convention business in the association, government, social, military educational, sports, religious, fraternal corporate markets.

Ben received his Bachelor's of Science Degree from Western Il. University with a major in Tourism Administration and a minor in Business Management.

Prior to returning to Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau, Ben was formerly the Convention Sales Manager for the Tacoma

Pierce County Visitors & Convention Bureau in Tacoma, Washington handling the association, corporate, sports, military and government markets.

"The convention field requires an individual who has an understanding of the markets and networks," comment Richard Gartrell, CAE President. "Ben brings tothe Chicago Southlandthe experience we have sought that will allow us to be productive in the pursuit of business for our meeting facilities."

Saint Xavier business students study international business

Chicago--Seven-teen St. Xavier University students traveled to England during the month of Jan. to study Inter-national Business in London, the financial nerve of the European community. The British Edition course was offered by the Graham School of Management at St. Xavier.

The one week trip was the culmination of a series of classes that was devoted to studying the difference and similarities of American and British business cultures. "By Studying the European methods of operation, the students had a better feel of what to look for, and better yet, what questions to ask when they would be actually visiting the sites."

Upon returning to the United States, the St. Xavier students were required to write a comprehensive evaluation of the business operations of one of the firms visited and relate it to the growth of the European market. St. Xavier hopes to offer another such trip this summer to Hong Kong.".

"These international trips host one more way St. Xavier can help prepare our students to work within a global market," said Dr. Clott. "The competion in the business world is intense, and students who have experienced other cultures and business climates will have a distinct advantage."

St. Xavier University Graham School of Management has developed its own international presence in the early 1990's with opening of business school programs in Paris, France and Milan, Italy. Both international centers offer the American-style MBA program.

SERVING OAK LAWN AND SURROUNDING SUBURBS

Oak Lawn accepts loan applications for business

Gail Paul, Finance Director of Oak Lawn explained to Village View Newspaper that the thirteen applications for loans were looked at and the first eight will be approved by the village!

All thirteen applicants do have an opportunity to receive a loan, even though it may not be immediate.

How the system works is very simple. On January 16th 1995, applications were received by business people and no one could submit them until January 31st. There were six people waiting in line for the door of the Village to open. A lottery was in effect for selecting loan applicants.

The first part of the process is to define the needs of the applicant and if it applies to the ordinance the village voted on. "New and/or real property which is purchased and/or built for the purpose of increasing local taxes in real estate and/or sales tax and increasing the number of employees within the company " are some of the criteria of the program.

First National Bank of Evergreen Park issues the loan at 3 % points below prime, which is now 9 percent.

Oak Lawn's 1 million is not touched! It is not a collateral; it is an interest bearing account. When the loans exceed the deposited amount, no other loans can be transacted until the businesses pay the principal of the loan which is equivalent to the amount loaned out, hence the deposit is like a revolving loan.

Among the businesses that applied are two restaurants, (I HOP and Paragon) a telemarketing company and a proposed new auto repair business in the old Firestone store. Freshline was also included as one of the 13. Landeraphic Landscaping requested a loan for purchases.

A list of the recipients from the 1st National Bank of E.P. will be available from Gail Paul after March 15th.

Youth Service Bureau continues

Hank Zwirkoski, Chicago Ridge Youth Service Bureau Executive Director, told the village board his fourth quarter results for 1994 showed his office continued to effectively address local youth problems while private donations significantly helped keep his office open.

He said he's been working with boy and girls, mostly between the ages of 12 and 18 with family, school, police and interpersonal problems and achieving a high rate of success in addressing their issues.

Zwirkoski said, "we provide counseling, training and resource information for young people, parents and family. It's not easy," he added, "to anchor the families in this environment. There's a lot of factors that pinch the family

"Not all counseling is going to solve the problem," Zwirkoski continued.

He said training, skill development, education and resource management are all tools available at his office to make growing up manageable for kids.

He also said his office provides a variety of counseling and related services. He reminded the board that Chicago Ridge is just one of a few communities in this area that have a full time youth counselor.

He said private donations help keep his office open and are usually made available by thankful family members and friends who found his office effective in meeting their needs.

He also said his office does not have a long waiting list of prospective clients. According to Zwirkoski, he usually has time to see a new client within a day or two after receiving the request for assistance.

He also explained that while teenagers are the bulk of his work, he's also worked with children as young as six and also provides related services for parents and significant adults.

He said the most satisfying part of his job is being able to have several months work done in a few hours by taking quick and effective action in addressing an issue.

Tragedy for Oak Lawn family

Oak Lawn residents have not forgotten the devastating fire which took the lives of Aric, age 6 and Anthony, age 4 at 9938 S. McVicker on February 15.

Fire also leaves scars mentally on the survivors. Mr. & Mrs. Michalski and their surviving two children, ages 11 and 13 need your help!

A fund has been set up by Father Quinn from the St. Louis DeMontfort parish where the children attended school. Temporary quarters were set up by Tom Cusack of Oak Lawn, as neighbors began collecting money and clothing to help the family.

Donors can write checks to "The Michalski Family Fund" Midland Federal Savings Bank, 8929 S. Harlem, Bridgeview, Il. 60455 All proceeds will be turned over to the Michalski family for restructuring their personal losses, property and home.

Good news for anyone who supports our military and who has not forgotten!

Ron Eubank finally can be elated about the progress that has been made by the U.S. Postal Service. After 12 years of lobbying for a P.O.W./M.I.A. postage stamp, the U.S. postal service will issue the stamp on May 29th, 1995.

Bridgeview just hired two police officers from their list and they will be going to the police academy on March 12, 1995. President Oremus appointed Jeff Guidish as a member of the zoning board of appeals in Bridgeview.

Remember the last day to register to vote is March 7th.

Happy Birthday to Margaret Hopkins who will celebrate her 80th birthday on March 6th.

Congratulations to Karen & Brian Smith on the birth of their son, Benjamin Matthew born Jan.26th. Karen is the public information coordinator for the Oak Lawn Park District.

Happy retirement to Norbert Smith, chief of Evergreen Park police.

Our condolences to the family of Arthur Bliss, Evergreen Park resident who died of complications from lung cancer recently. The funeral Mass was said Feb. 28th at Most Holy Redeemer Church. Art was a member of E.P. American Legion Post, Fraternal Order of Police and Worth Township Regular Republican Organization. Mayor Vacco stated Art Bliss's greatest accomplishment for the village was his organizing of the yard waste recycling program. He helped formulate the pickup program with the village's scavenger company. He also was Evergreen Park's representative for the council of South Suburban mayor's recycling and energy reclamation which was started in 1983.

The state of Israel-the Mecca of the world

by Annette Dixon

Israel is a land of fertility, a land of Old and New Testament references, a land of milk and honey and a land of new beginnings.

What more can be asked for when traveling outside the U.S.A.- mountains, caves, steep cliffs, valleys with rivers, archaeological and historical as well as religious sights. Among the latest trends are Israel's health spas offering climatotherapy, Balneological treatment and natural oxygen enrichment for their clients.

Israel is the Mecca of the world and rightly so, since for almost 48 years, the Israelis patiently waited for their promised land to flourish, and God has blessed them for the work they accomplished in their search for peace.

The journey on Alitalia Air Lines was fabulous because it was the first time I flew business. The leg and foot room was enough to be comfortable and the food was the elegant dining of Italy's finest.

Upon arrival in Tel-Aviv, which is a commercial city, we were greeted by the assistant of the Holiday Crown Plaza Hotel, which is located on the beach of the Mediterranean Sea.

The next day we visited Tel-Aviv and the Museum of the Jewish Diaspora. The name of the museum is Beth Hatefutsoth which presents the story of 2500 years of Jewish dispersion as a living stimulating experience.

We also visited Jaffa which is a beautiful architectual city with delightful buildings being renovated in it's original 160 year old Turkish structures. The city of Jaffa has a Christian religious sight, which impressed our tour. It was the sight were Peter raised Tabitha from the dead. The Zacherin family has owned the home of this miracle for over 400 years.

While driving north through the Sharon Valley with its green splendor to Caesarea, the archaelogical excavations are evident.

Where ever you travel in Israel you see historical and religious sights, whether Jewish or Christian or Arabic,they are most prevalent. History is there in Caesarea for we were fortunate enough to see the artifacts the Phoenicians and Romans left behind.

Towns, statues and rooms are being erected. The collossal statues are breath taking.

There will be a continuation of the journey to Israel in the next issue of Village View Newspaper.

Moraiane Valley Faculty ratify five-year contract

The Moraine Valley Community College Faculty Association and the Moraine Valley Board of Trustees are please to announce the ratification of a new five-year contract for the Faculty Association.

The Faculty Association ratified the contract by a vote of 107 to 19 on Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 22, and 23, and the Board of Trustees ratified the contract at its regular meeting on Thursday evening, Feb. 23.

"This contract serves the interest of the college and the community. It represents a true understanding by the faculty of the economic implications that are facing the college in light of recent state legislation which is what a contract should do," said Dr. Vernon .O. Crawley, president of Moraine Valley.

Chamber of commerce

The Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce will host its third annual Business Extravaganza from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Thursday, March 9, at the Oak Lawn Hilton Hotel and Convention Center. Business people are invited to participate by sponsoring a table at $40. This enables them to showcase their services and products, network with other businesses and get to know the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce.

Deadline to reserve a display table is Thursday March 2. For more information contact the Chamber office at 708-424-8300.

Moby-Dick takes Pegasus by storm

Through March 19 at the Truman College O'Rourke Theatre (1145 West Wilson), Pegasus Players and Redmoon Theatre present "Moby-Dick", Herman Melville's monumental classic. Originally presented on the shores of Lake Michigan as a workshop production, this mammoth multi-media extravaganza replete with sea-blown actors and colossal puppets-redefines the mythological dimensions of the towering American masterpiece.

Co-produced with Pegasus Players, Redmoon Theatre's cosmic "Moby-Dick was conceived and designed by Redmoon artistic director Blair Thomas, and co-adapted by Jeff Dorchen and Thomas with original music by Michael Zerang. Jim Lasko directs the company's fantastic puppetry of prodigious scale, restoring this turbulent tale of tails through a wildly variegated tapestry of ancient Japanese bunraku manipulation, shadow puppetry, and masked performances. Call 312-271-2638 for information.

Swiss steak piperade-a classic revisited

Do you sometimes long for those dishes that Mom and Grandma used to make? They filled the house with such tantalizing aromas that you could hardly wait until dinnertime.

These days we do so much quick cooking that we don't often get a chance to savor those aromas. The weekend is a perfect time to enjoy an updated classic like Swiss Steak Piperade. It requires very little attention while it simmers in the oven.

Beef round steak is less tender cut, so it needs to cook slowly- "under cover"- until fork tender. Mom would tell you that you can't rush the cooking process--boiling makes beef tough. So, relax, brown the beef, season it and simmer tighly covered in the over until it's tender.

Adding color and flavor to this updated classic is piperade, a blend of tomatoes and sweet bell peppers. Rice or pasta and a green vegetable are simple accompaniments.

Round steak is an economical cut but even more so right now while beef prices are at their lowest in years. Take advantage of the savings and fill the freezer so you can enjoy the aromas of simmering beef often this winter. Also remember that beef cuts with "round" in the name are among the leanest choices in the meat case.

1. Heat over to 325 degrees. In large oven-proof skillet or Dutch oven, heat oil over medium-high heat until hot. Place beef steak in skillet and brown on both sides. Pour off drippings, if necessary. Season steak with salt, thyme and pepper; top with onions and jalapeno pepper. Add water. Cover tightly and simmer in 325 degree oven 45 minutes.
2. Add tomatoes and bell peppers. Cover and continue cooking 30 minutes or until beef and vegetables are tender. Remove beef to warm platter.
3. On stove top, cook sauce over high heat 8 to 10 minutes or until reduced and slightly thickened, stirring frequently.
4. Trim fat from steak. Cut steak into serving-size pieces; return to sauce mixture. Serve over rice or pasta; garnish with parsley.

Swiss Steak Piperade

Total preparation and cooking time: 2 hours

1 3/4 pound boneless beef round steak, cut 3/4 inch thick
1 tblsp vegetable oil
3/4 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. dried thyme leaves
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 large onion, chopped
1 to 2 medium jalapeno peppers, cut into 1/8 inch thick slices
1/4 cup water
4 medium tomatoes, chopped
1/2 green bell pepper, cut into 1 inch pieces
1/2 yellow bell pepper, cut into 1 inch pieces
3 cups cooked rice or pasta
1 tbsp. chopped fresh parsley

Swiss steak piperade

Spicy Skewered Chicken with Peanut Dip

Peanut Sauce

- 1/4 cup peanut butter
- 1/2 to 3/4 teaspoon crushed red pepper
- 1/8 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 teaspoon finely chopped lemon grass*
- 1 tablespoon chili sauce
- 1 tablespoon peanut or vegetable oil

Dip

- 3/4 cup LAND O LAKES® Light Sour Cream or No-Fat Sour Cream
- 2 to 3 tablespoons coconut milk or milk
- 2 to 3 tablespoons peanut sauce, from above

Chicken

- 1 pound boneless skinless chicken breasts, cut into 16 (6x1/2-inch) strips
- 1 tablespoon firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons finely chopped lemon grass*
- 2 tablespoons peanut sauce, from above
- 2 teaspoons peanut or vegetable oil
- 1 teaspoon soy sauce
- 16 (6 to 8-inch) wooden skewers
- 1 small cucumber, seeded, cut into 16 chunks

In food processor bowl fitted with metal blade or 5-cup blender container, combine all peanut sauce ingredients. Process until smooth (30 to 60 seconds). Set aside to use in dip and chicken. In small bowl stir together all dip ingredients. Cover; refrigerate until ready to use. Prepare grill. In medium bowl, combine chicken, brown sugar, lemon grass, 2 table spoons peanut sauce, oil and soy sauce; toss to coat chicken. Thread 1 strip chicken on each wooden skewer. Grill chicken skewers about 4 inches from medium coals, turning once, until golden brown (6 to 10 minutes). To serve, thread 1 chunk cucumber on each skewer. Serve warm with peanut dip. YIELD: 16 appetizers.

*1 teaspoon finely chopped chives and 1/4 teaspoon grated lemon peel can be substituted for 1 teaspoon lemon grass.

The original Gino's East of Chicago looks to Oak Lawn

For nearly 30 years, the Original Gino's East of Chicago has been synonymous with Chicago-style deep-dish pizza and has been recognized from coast to coast. Oak Lawn will boast a location at 6152 West 95th St. this year.

Tried and true favorites at Gino's East include the thick cheese, hearty sausage, spicy charred pepperoni, spinach, fresh vegetarian (loaded with onions, green peppers, mushrooms, zucchini, asparagus, red peppers, yellow squash an eggplant) and the Supreme (sausage, green pepper, onions, and mushrooms) pizza.

A comfortable, upbeat setting of stucco ceilings, red and white checkered tablecloths and dim lighting is surrounded by another Gino's East trademark...graffiti adorned walls. Gino's East brings out the kid in everyone, as adults and children alike search for secret spots to decorate or mark special memories.

Pizza fans are invited to indulge in the new thin-crust pizza, boasting in own flavorful, crispy crust and the same farm fresh ingredients as our famous original Chicago-style pizza.

Similar to the original, the thin-crust is also available with cheese, cheese and sausage, pepperoni and other plentiful ingredients

Satisfying soup and pleasing dip rate raves

The homey, hearty, prize-winning chowder is a family-pleasing meal-in-a-bowl that goes from start to serving in about 15 minutes. Boasting flavors that taste like they simmered for hours, it owes its special appeal and streamlined preparation to combination of canned soup, fresh vegetables, milk, cheese and the cook's choice of fat-free crab or lobster surimi seafood. Fully cooked and ready to use right from the package, the versatile seafood, which looks and tastes like crab and lobster, is made from steam baked Alaskan fish, so it bypasses the hassles of shellfish.

And because it's refrigerated, no frozen, it always has superior seafood texture and flavor.

Quick 'n Creamy Seafood-Spinach Dip will kick off any party or satisfy a crowd of television sports watchers in style. Deliciously different and surprisingly simple to prepare, it combines a choice of Louis Kemp Crab Delights or Lobster Delights with thawed frozen spinach souffle', grated parmesan cheese and savory-spicy seasonings. Serve it warm with a selection of crackers, melba toast, toasted French bread slices or other favorite dippers, then sit back relax and enjoy the compliments.

Easy cheesy crab-corn chowder

1/2 cup chopped onion
3/4 cup chopped red bell pepper
1 tbs. margarine
1-1/2 cups skim or low-fat milk
1 can (10-3/4 ozs.) condensed golden corn soup
1 pgk. crab or lobster flakes or chunks
4 ozs. pasteurized process cheese spread, cubed 1/4 to 1/2 tsp. hot pepper sauce, as desired.
Garnish: chopped chives

Cook onion and bell pepper in margarine in medium saucepan, stirring frequently, until onion is tender but not brown. Add remaining ingredients; cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until cheese is melted and soup is hot. Ladle into soup bowls; sprinkle with chives. Makes 3 to 4 servings, about 5 cups soup.

Quick creamy seafood spinach dip

2 garlic cloves, minced
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon dried basil, crushed
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
1/8 tsp. ground red pepper or to taste
1 pkg. (12 ounces) frozen spinach souffle', thawed
1 pkg. crab or lobster flakes or chunks, shredded
1/4 cup grated parmesan cheese

Cook garlic in margarine in saucepan over medium heat 1 minute; stir in basil and peppers. Add remaining ingredients. Heat through, stirring frequently. Serve warm with crackers or melba toast. Makes about 2-1/2 cups dip.

"Friend of Physician, and Praise of Cooks"

Father Dominic Garramone, a Benedictine monk and teacher from St. Bede Abbey in Peru, Illinois recently gave a talk on the lore and legend of Medieval herb gardens to the Southernwood Herb Guild in Frankfort.

Father Garramone entered the monastery after finishing college in 1983. Although he has enjoyed gardening since childhood, his current interest in herbs began after reading a book about medicinal herbs and discovering a legacy of knowledge preserved by the monks in the 5th and 6th centuries.

Part of the plan for community life required self-sufficiency and the priority of caring for the sick necessitated the cultivation of medicinal herbs. For the old and infirm, brewer's herbs such as yarrow, elder and dandelion were often prescribed, sometimes in secret and complex blends that ultimately evolved into liqueurs such as Benedictine and Chartreuse which are still made (with carefully guarded recipes!) today.

One of the more functional applications was the strewing of aromatic herbs on the floor where the rushes used for covering often hid vermin and decaying food and vegetable matter. It was also thought the sweet smelling herbs would repel the Black Death.

Father Dominic related how the children's nursery rhyme Ring Around the Rosey has Medieval origins. The word rosey describes the blotchy red patches that appear on the skin of the plague victims; Pocket full of posey refers to the practice of carrying pouches of flowers to ward off the Black Death. Ashes, ashes signifies the deathly gray pallor caused by the disease; all fall down unfortunately requires little further explanation.

Certainly not all of Father Dominic's talk dwelt on doom and gloom. Initially a simple fence of woven waddle protected the monastic herb garden. Eventually these walls evolved into elaborate, meticulously sculpted enclosures of clematis, rose and lily of the valley. Although intended for restorative and contemplative purposes, these beautiful hortus enclosus or inner gardens were often shared by local nobility and became the ideal location for lover's trysts, much to the chagrin of the devout religious community.

Easy ways to use ground beef

Take advantage of the lowest beef prices in years. With ground beef as the starting point, it's easy to create great family meals that require minimum time and preparation, but are high on taste and enjoyment.

Cooked ground beef--To cook ground beef, place in skillet and brown over medium heat 8 to 10 minutes or until no longer pink; stir occasionally to break up beef. Pour off drippings, if necessary. If recipe call for crumbles, stir to break ground beef into 1/2 ti 3/4 inch pieces or "crumbles."*

Pizza
Use cooked ground beef* as a topper for your favorite pizza. Don't forget the great array of pizza crusts available-Italian bread shells, refrigerated pizza crusts and dough, French or Italian bread (split Lengthwise), English muffin halves and tortillas.

Beefy Mac 'N Cheese
Stir cooked ground beef * into ground prepared macaroni and cheese.

Beef 'n Rice Dinner
Stir cooked ground beef* into favorite prepared rice side dish and transform it into a main dish.

Beef 'n Pasta Dinner
Toss together your favorite cooked pasta side dish, cooked ground beef crumbles* and vegetables cooked crisp-tender. Sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese.

Quick Beef Soup
Stir cooked ground beef crumbles* into a favorite canned or prepared soup such as vegetable, black bean or lentil.

Sloppy Joes
Brown 1 pound beef and 1 small onion, chopped, over medium heat 8 to 10 minutes or until no longer pink. Pour off drippings. Season with salt and pepper to taste; stir in 3/4 cup barbecue sauce and heat through. Serve in hamburger buns

Spaghetti Sauce
Brown 1 pound ground beef and 1 small onion, chopped, over medium heat 8 to 10 minutes or until beef is no longer pink. Pour off drippings. Stir in prepared spaghetti sauce and heat through.

Good news for anyone who supports our military and who has not forgotten!

Ron Eubank finally can be elated about the progress that has been made by the U.S. Postal Service. After 12 years of lobbying for a P.O.W./M.I.A. postage stamp, the U.S. postal service will issue the stamp on May 29th, 1995.

Bridgeview just hired two police officers from their list and they will be going to the police academy on March 12, 1995. President Oremus appointed Jeff Guidish as a member of the zoning board of appeals in Bridgeview.

Remember the last day to register to vote is March 7th.

Happy Birthday to Margaret Hopkins who will celebrate her 80th birthday on March 6th.

Congratulations to Karen & Brian Smith on the birth of their son, Benjamin Matthew born Jan.26th. Karen is the public information co-ordinator for the Oak Lawn Park District.

Happy retirement to Norbert Smith, chief of Evergreen Park police.

Our condolences to the family of Arthur Bliss, Evergreen Park resident who died of complications from lung cancer recently. The funeral Mass was said Feb. 28th at Most Holy Redeemer Church. Art was a member of E.P. American Legion Post, Fraternal Order of Police and Worth Township Regular Republican Organization. Mayor Vacco stated Art Bliss's greatest accomplishment for the village was his organizing of the yard waste recycling program. He helped formulate the pickup program with the village's scavenger company. He also was Evergreen Park's representative for the council of South Suburban mayor's recycling and energy reclamation which was started in 1983.

The state of Israel-the Mecca of the world

by Annette Dixon

Israel is a land of fertility, a land of Old and New Testament references, a land of milk and honey and a land of new beginnings.

What more can be asked for when traveling outside the U.S.A.- mountains, caves, steep cliffs, valleys with rivers, archaeological and historical as well as religious sights. Among the latest trends are Israel's health spas offering climatotherapy, Balneological treatment and natural oxygen enrichment for their clients.

Israel is the Mecca of the world and rightly so, since for almost 48 years, the Israelis patiently waited for their promised land to flourish, and God has blessed them for the work they accomplished in their search for peace.

The journey on Alitalia Air Lines was fabulous because it was the first time I flew business. The leg and foot room was enough to be comfortable and the food was the elegant dining of Italy's finest.

Upon arrival in Tel-Aviv, which is a commercial city, we were greeted by the assistant of the Holiday Crown Plaza Hotel, which is located on the beach of the Mediterranean Sea.

The next day we visited Tel-Aviv and the Museum of the Jewish Diaspora. The name of the museum is Beth Hatefutsoth which presents the story of 2500 years of Jewish dispersion as a living stimulating experience.

We also visited Jaffa which is a beautiful architectual city with delightful buildings being renovated in it's original 160 year old Turkish structures. The city of Jaffa has a Christian religious sight, which impressed our tour. It was the sight were Peter raised Tabitha from the dead. The Zacherin family has owned the home of this miracle for over 400 years.

While driving north through the Sharon Valley with its green splendor to Caesarea, the archaelogical excavations are evident.

Where ever you travel in Israel you see historical and religious sights, whether Jewish or Christian or Arabic,they are most prevalent. History is there in Caesarea for we were fortunate enough to see the artifacts the Phoenicians and Romans left behind.

Towns, statues and rooms are being erected. The collossal statues are breath taking.

There will be a continuation of the journey to Israel in the next issue of Village View Newspaper.

Vahl pursues open door for O.L. taxpayer

By Rick Techman

1st District trustee candidate Jerry Vahl assured the citizens of his district an open door policy to local government as he blasted his foes Jay Walker and incumbent Cy Holesha for withholding the key to government from Oak Lawn citizens.

Vahl said Walker did not go far enough by inviting citizens to regular town and village board meetings while Cy's call to read the newspapers did not go far enough in informing the 38,000 plus voters and taxpayers of Oak Lawn current government activities.

"Historically," Vahl said, "attendance is limited at these meetings. Unlike Mr. Walker, I'm not willing to wait to here the voice of the people."

He also said, "we're just going to have an open door policy. They can come and knock on my door and I will talk to them."

Vahl said he does not believe Trustee Cy Holesha has done anything credible to inform 1st district voters and taxpayers of village board activities other than to encourage them to attend board meetings and read the newspaper.

As a point in fact, Vahl said Oak Lawn residents lack basic information on both of the current major projects he adamently opposes, the building of a new city hall and the construction of a village owned apartment complex at 52nd avenue and 95th street.

"It makes," Vahl said, "no sense to tear down this village hall. The building is only 42 years old."

He also said, "I don't believe this village belongs in the real estate business. Vahl explained the rooms at the city owned apartment building would go for $600 to $1,200 and anytime the building does not meet or exceed capacity the taxpayers will have to foot the bill.

Vahl will be conducting an open house at his home, 8712 S. Austin, from 6:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. March 1-3.

Oak Lawn library

Oak Lawn Public Library board approved renewal of the Blue Cross/Blue Shield group health insurance plan for library employees with the exception of the vision coverage which will be discussed at a later date. Group insurance had been reviewed and recommended by a board/staff committee.

Several policies were given their annual review. Included with no changes were Bylaws of Trustees, Use of Metting rooms, Community Use of Bulletin Boards and Display Cases, Delinquent Patrons Policy and Library Credit Card Policy. Youth Service Programming Policy was revised making it mandatory for children registering for programs to have a valid library card.

In regular board business, the board approved payment of $21,884 for library materials, $31,854 for operating expenses and $161,827 for library personnel.

Board meeting, which are open to the public, are held at 7:30 p.m. on the third Tuesday of each month.

Board members are Lois Gasteyer, pres.; Marian Sullivan, vice president; Robert Honkisz, Sec.; Joann Buschbach, Treas.; and trustees Shirley Barrett, Nancy Czerwiec and Robert Thompson.

The Marist High School Drama Club will present "Back to Broadway", a showcase of broadway musical numbers from the 1920's until the present. Performances will be on Thurs., Fri., and Sat., March 30, 31, and April 1 at 8:00 p.m. and a matinee performance on Sun., April 2nd at 3:00 p.m. Tickets will be sold at the door for $7.00 with students and senior citizens paying $6.00.

Ms. Phyllis Dickinson, Social Studies teacher at Oak Lawn Community High School, has created a unique learning experience for her World History class students.

In studying the Renaissance and early explorers (Columbus, Magellan, etc.) she has collected and incorporated products into her class which were the key elements to trade and exploration by Europeans.

In their original form, many of these items are things that most people never see. Being around living history reenacts the past to support the concepts and facts learned in class.

The Bridgeview Chamber of Commerce and Industry will again be awarding college scholarships in 1995. Scholarship winners will be chosen by residential requirements, financial need and academic performance.

Applications are due at the Bridgeview Chamber office by April 28th. Contact the Bridgeview Community Center or Bridgeview Public Library.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I am a plaintiffs' personal injury lawyer. I know that I work a 60-70 hour work week, like many of my colleagues, and I have represented individuals in very substantial, as well as very small cases. I have earned both large and small fees, and sometimes no fees from my clients. I have never received a complaint from a client that my fee was excessive.

I am writing to speak out at the recent bouts of lawyer bashing, this time coming in the names of "Court Reform" and "Tort Reform." Those cute and witty commercials mocking the agony suffered by an elderly lady who suffered 3rd degree burns to her legs and genitals, mocking the system that corrected the jury's passion and outrage at McDonalds, who had said to be--with safety. Would they run the same ads if that lady were a small child? would they smirk and joke if that same coffee had splashed across the face of a pretty little girl?

And if they wuold, don't you know they would misrepresent the facts, as they've done now, and tell us about the verdict for millions of dollars over"spilled coffee," and conveniently forget to tell us that the verdict was reduced to a few hundred thousand dollars, and that McDonalds agreed to the reduction. Don't you know that, while they say that lawsuits are being filed every 30 seconds, they forget to let you know that less than 8-9% of those suits are brought for injury cases. And whose lawsuits are the rest? Business's big and small. Collection cases, foreclosures, etc., etc., etc.....

"Tort Reform" or "Court Reform" is bought and paid for primarily by insurance companies. Where plaintiffs and plaintiffs; lawyers receive large awards and settlements, it is because the plainniff has been devastated. His/her/their lives have been virtually destroyed. They have been sentenced to lifetimes of pain, of disability, of isolations, and often of broken families and hosts of other emotional losses. These are the sort of things over which the legislature is considering limiting damages to a set figure for all cases, regardless of the facrs of the individuals or losses involved, and without consideration of evidence.

"Tort Reform" is, in my opinion, the insurance industry's way of saying "To Hell with you! You are all alike. Your losses are all the same, and we don't want to pay for it, even if we caused it!" Each of the "reforms" introduced affects only meritorious cases. For example, caps on damages won't apply to any case except those where the defendant's wrongdoing has devasted the plainniff to the extent that a jury and the trial court both find that the injury is so severe the consequences so extraordinary, that the plaintiff should recover substantial damages in an amount which exceeds the arbitrarily determined cap.

Curiously enough, noone of the "reform" measures being sought addresses the question of frivolous lawsuits, although many of the ads campaign in the guise of "Citizens Against Lawsuit Abuse" and the like. None of the measures being sought suggests any way of improving safely in workplaces, products or medical care, but that is not really surprising.

The insurance industry has spoken, loud and clear. They have rammed and continue to ram anti-victim legislation down our throats at a break-neck speed. What's the rush? Where are the hearings? Why won't they take time to listen?

The answer is obvious. They are doing it because they can do it. This is not exercising Might for Right. As long as they can get away with it, it's Might is Right.

Legislators have been told that "Tort Reform" is the desire and hope of most of our citizens. This is not true. Surveys indicate that most people are satisfied and don't favor change. If we all fail to speak out, we will be the silent majority, and we will lost out. There is no time to lose. People msut call their legislators and tell them that a vote for "tort reform" is saying To Hell with me.

And tell them that if they do, you'll say to Hell with them, next election.

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor:

Since being appointed as the Trustee of the 1st district in Oak Lawn on May 11, 1992, I have made every effort to service the needs of not only my constituents but also those in the entire village during all deliverations concerning village business. In recent weeks, references made by other candidates cite the need of "Town Hall" approach to each major matter coming before the Board of Trustees or the need to go out and solicit the input of the people of each district. If we are to make progress, it is mandatory to implement plans on a timely basis.

As a result of my tenure as Trustee of District One, I can state that each of the committee meetings is truly an open forum to discuss all facts of programs, both ongoing and anticipated, and serve as a means to express oneself in any area of specific concern. The "Town Hall" meeting concept would only serve a need when regular meeting schedules do not exist. Since it is much more efficient to reach the majority of the residents through the twice monthly Board of Trustees meetings, I feel that all such scheduled meetings best serve the public in the dissemination of all information of concern to the residents of Oak Lawn.

During the past 22 months, the benchmark of my office has been to service the daily needs of the 1st district residents through my accessibility and a quick response to all questions asked and services requested by residents. When residents from other districts have contacted me, I have made every effort to respond to their needs.

In order to be informed, one must make it a must to regularly attend the various committee, as well as board of trustees, meetings. In addition, we must read the many local newspapers which regularly carry the results, though in many cases not the entire stories of the proceedings. If residents truly want to be involved in village decisions, they must make their wishes known through contact with their trustee or through attendance at the various village meetings.

In closing, I must refer to the mention of the other candidate's opposition to certain on going major projects in Oak Lawn. All such "Johnny's Come Lately" must account for their lack of concern until the last five or six weeks-the beginning of the election campaign. Neither of the 1st District opposition candidates displayed the initiative or just took the time or made an effort to participate in any of the committee, commission or board of trustee meetings to become informed as to the reasons and logic used to reach the final decisions.

I will gladly compare my months of service to any and all such candidates, for it is in the best interests of the residents of the 1st district as well as the residents of the entire village that I have a genuine conern. We will continue to respond immediately to the needs and answer any and all inquiries during my tenure in office.

It is my firm desire to carry on the job which I feel has been the hallmark of my office as Trustee of the 1st District of our fine village.

Moby-Dick takes Pegasus by storm

Through March 19 at the Truman College O'Rourke Theatre (1145 West Wilson), Pegasus Players and Redmoon Theatre present "Moby-Dick", Herman Melville's monumental classic. Originally presented on the shores of Lake Michigan as a workshop production, this mammoth multi-media extravaganza replete with sea-blown actors and colossal puppets-redefines the mythological dimensions of the towering American masterpiece.

Co-produced with Pegasus Players, Redmoon Theatre's cosmic "Moby-Dick was conceived and designed by Redmoon artistic director Blair Thomas, and co-adapted by Jeff Dorchen and Thomas with original music by Michael Zerang. Jim Lasko directs the company's fantastic puppetry of prodigious scale, restoring this turbulent tale of tails through a wildly variegated tapestry of ancient Japanese bunraku manipulation, shadow puppetry, and masked performances. FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Swiss steak piperade-a classic revisited

Do you sometimes long for those dishes that Mom and Grandma used to make? They filled the house with such tantalizing aromas that you could hardly wait until dinnertime.

These days we do so much quick cooking that we don't often get a chance to savor those aromas. The weekend is a perfect time to enjoy an updated classic like Swiss Steak Piperade. It requires very little attention while it simmers in the oven.

Beef round steak is less tender cut, so it needs to cook slowly-"under cover"- until fork tender. Mom would tell you that you can't rush the cooking process--boiling makes beef tough. So, relax, brown the beef, season it and simmer tighly covered in the over until it's tender.

Adding color and flavor to this updated classic is piperade, a blend of tomatoes and sweet bell peppers. Rice or pasta and a green vegetable are simple accompaniments.

Round steak is an economical cut but even more so right now while beef prices are at their lowest in years. Take advantage of the savings and fill the freezer so you can enjoy the aromas of simmering beef often this winter. Also remember that beef cuts with "round" in the name are among the leanest choices in the meat case.

1. Heat over to 325 degrees. In large oven-proof skillet or Dutch oven, heat oil over medium-high heat until hot. Place beef steak in skillet and brown on both sides. Pour off drippings, if necessary. Season steak with salt, thyme and pepper; top with onions and jalapeno pepper. Add water. Cover tightly and simmer in 325 degree oven 45 minutes.

2. Add tomatoes and bell peppers. Cover and continue cooking 30 minutes or until beef and vegetables are tender. Remove beef to warm platter.

3. On stove top, cook sauce over high heat 8 to 10 minutes or until reduced and slightly thickened, stirring frequently.

4. Trim fat from steak. Cut steak into serving-size pieces; return to sauce mixture. Serve over rice or pasta; garnish with parsley.

Swiss Steak Piperade

Total preparation and cooking time: 2 hours

1 3/4 pound boneless beef round steak, cut 3/4 inch thick
1 tblsp vegetable oil
3/4 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. dried thyme leaves
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 large onion, chopped
1 to 2 medium jalapeno peppers, cut into 1/8 inch thick slices
1/4 cup water
4 mediums tomatoes, chopped
1/2 green bell pepper, cut into 1 inch pieces
1/2 yellow bell pepper, cut into 1 inch pieces
3 cups cooked rice or pasta
1 tbsp. chopped fresh parsley

Swiss steak piperade

Spicy Skewered Chicken with Peanut Dip

Peanut Sauce

- 1/4 cup peanut butter
- 1/2 to 3/4 teaspoon crushed red pepper
- 1/8 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 teaspoon finely chopped lemon grass*
- 1 tablespoon chili sauce
- 1 tablespoon peanut or vegetable oil

Dip

- 3/4 cup LAND O LAKES® Light Sour Cream or No-Fat Sour Cream
- 2 to 3 tablespoons coconut milk or milk
- 2 to 3 tablespoons peanut sauce, from above

Chicken

- 1 pound boneless skinless chicken breasts, cut into 16 (6x1/2-inch) strips
- 1 tablespoon firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons finely chopped lemon grass*
- 2 tablespoons peanut sauce, from above
- 2 teaspoons peanut or vegetable oil
- 1 teaspoon soy sauce
- 16 (6 to 8-inch) wooden skewers
- 1 small cucumber, seeded, cut into 16 chunks

In food processor bowl fitted with metal blade or 5-cup blender container, combine all peanut sauce ingredients. Process until smooth (30 to 60 seconds). Set aside to use in dip and chicken. In small bowl stir together all dip ingredients. Cover; refrigerate until ready to use. Prepare grill. In medium bowl, combine chicken, brown sugar, lemon grass, 2 table spoons peanut sauce, oil and soy sauce; toss to coat chicken. Thread 1 strip chicken on each wooden skewer. Grill chicken skewers about 4 inches from medium coals, turning once, until golden brown (6 to 10 minutes). To serve, thread 1 chunk cucumber on each skewer. Serve warm with peanut dip. YIELD: 16 appetizers.

*1 teaspoon finely chopped chives and 1/4 teaspoon grated lemon peel can be substituted for 1 teaspoon lemon grass.

The original Gino's East of Chicago looks to Oak Lawn

For nearly 30 years, the Original Gino's East of Chicago has been synonymous with Chicago-style deep-dish pizza and has been recognized from coast to coast. Oak Lawn will boast a location at 6152 West 95th St. this year.

Tried and true favorites at Gino's East include the thick cheese, hearty sausage, spicy charred pepperoni, spinach, fresh vegetarian (loaded with onions, green peppers, mushrooms, zucchini, asparagus, red peppers, yellow squash an eggplant) and the Supreme (sausage, green pepper, onions, and mushrooms) pizza.

A comfortable, upbeat setting of stucco ceilings, red and white checkered tablecloths and dim lighting is surrounded by another Gino's East trademark...graffiti adorned walls. Gino's East brings out the kid in everyone, as adults and children alike search for secret spots to decorate or mark special memories.

Pizza fans are invited to indulge in the new thin-crust pizza, boasting in own flavorful, crispy crust and the same farm fresh ingredients as our famous original Chicago-style pizza.

Similar to the original, the thin-crust is also available with cheese, cheese and sausage, pepperoni and other plentiful ingredients

Satisfying soup and pleasing dip rate raves

The homey, hearty, prize-winning chowder is a family-pleasing meal-in-a-bowl that goes from start to serving in about 15 minutes. Boasting flavors that taste like they simmered for hours, it owes its special appeal and streamlined preparation to combination of canned soup, fresh vegetables, milk, cheese and the cook's choice of fat-free crab or lobster surimi seafood. Fully cooked and ready to use right from the package, the versatile seafood, which looks and tastes like crab and lobster, is made from steam baked Alaskan fish, so it bypasses the hassles of shellfish.

And because it's refrigerated, no frozen, it always has superior seafood texture and flavor.

Quick 'n Creamy Seafood-Spinach Dip will kick off any party or satisfy a crowd of television sports watchers in style. Deliciously different and surprisingly simple to prepare, it combines a choice of Louis Kemp Crab Delights or Lobster Delights with thawed frozen spinach souffle', grated parmesan cheese and savory-spicy seasonings. Serve it warm with a selection of crackers, melba toast, toasted French bread slices or other favorite dippers, then sit back relax and enjoy the compliments.

Easy cheesy crab-corn chowder

1/2 cup chopped onion
3/4 cup chopped red bell pepper
1 tbs. margarine
1-1/2 cups skim or low-fat milk
1 can (10-3/4 ozs.) condensed golden corn soup
1 pgk. crab or lobster flakes or chunks
4 ozs. pasteurized process cheese spread, cubed 1/4 to 1/2 tsp. hot pepper sauce, as desired.
Garnish: chopped chives

Cook onion and bell pepper in margarine in medium saucepan, stirring frequently, until onion is tender but not brown. Add remaining ingredients; cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until cheese is melted and soup is hot. Ladle into soup bowls; sprinkle with chives. Makes 3 to 4 servings, about 5 cups soup.

Quick creamy seafood spinach dip

2 garlic cloves, minced
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon dried basil, crushed
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
1/8 tsp. ground red pepper or to taste
1 pkg. (12 ounces) frozen spinach souffle', thawed
1 pkg. crab or lobster flakes or chunks, shredded
1/4 cup grated parmesan cheese

Cook garlic in margarine in saucepan over medium heat 1 minute; stir in basil and peppers. Add remaining ingredients. Heat through, stirring frequently. Serve warm with crackers or melba toast. Makes about 2-1/2 cups dip.

"Friend of Physician, and Praise of Cooks"

Father Dominic Garramone, a Benedictine monk and teacher from St. Bede Abbey in Peru, Illinois recently gave a talk on the lore and legend of Medieval herb gardens to the Southernwood Herb Guild in Frankfort.

Father Garramone entered the monastery after finishing college in 1983. Although he has enjoyed gardening since childhood, his current interest in herbs began after reading a book about medicinal herbs and discovering a legacy of knowledge preserved by the monks in the 5th and 6th centuries.

Part of the plan for community life required self-sufficiency and the priority of caring for the sick necessitated the cultivation of medicinal herbs. For the old and infirm, brewer's herbs such as yarrow, elder and dandelion were often prescribed, sometimes in secret and complex blends that ultimately evolved into liqueurs such as Benedictine and Chartreuse which are still made (with carefully guarded recipes!) today.

One of the more functional applications was the strewing of aromatic herbs on the floor where the rushes used for covering often hid vermin and decaying food and vegetable matter. It was also thought the sweet smelling herbs would repel the Black Death.

Father Dominic related how the children's nursery rhyme Ring Around the Rosey has Medieval origins. The word rosey describes the blotchy red patches that appear on the skin of the plague victims; Pocket full of posey refers to the practice of carrying pouches of flowers to ward off the Black Death. Ashes, ashes signifies the deathly gray pallor caused by the disease; all fall down unfortunately requires little further explanation.

Certainly not all of Father Dominic's talk dwelt on doom and gloom. Initially a simple fence of woven waddle protected the monastic herb garden. Eventually these walls evolved into elaborate, meticulously sculpted enclosures of clematis, rose and lily of the valley. Although intended for restorative and contemplative purposes, these beautiful hortus enclosus or inner gardens were often shared by local nobility and became the ideal location for lover's trysts, much to the chagrin of the devout religious community.

Easy ways to use ground beef

Take advantage of the lowest beef prices in years. With ground beef as the starting point, it's easy to create great family meals that require minimum time and preparation, but are high on taste and enjoyment.

Cooked ground beef--To cook ground beef, place in skillet and brown over medium heat 8 to 10 minutes or until no longer pink; stir occasionally to break up beef. Pour off drippings, if necessary. If recipe call for crumbles, stir to break ground beef into 1/2 ti 3/4 inch pieces or "crumbles."*

Pizza
Use cooked ground beef* as a topper for your favorite pizza. Don't forget the great array of pizza crusts available-Italian bread shells, refrigerated pizza crusts and dough, French or Italian bread (split Lengthwise), English muffin halves and tortillas.

Beefy Mac 'N Cheese
Stir cooked ground beef * into ground prepared macaroni and cheese.

Beef 'n Rice Dinner
Stir cooked ground beef* into favorite prepared rice side dish and transform it into a main dish.

Beef 'n Pasta Dinner
Toss together your favorite cooked pasta side dish, cooked ground beef crumbles* and vegetables cooked crisp-tender. Sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese.

Quick Beef Soup
Stir cooked ground beef crumbles* into a favorite canned or prepared soup such as vegetable, black bean or lentil.

Sloppy Joes
Brown 1 pound beef and 1 small onion, chopped, over medium heat 8 to 10 minutes or until no longer pink. Pour off drippings. Season with salt and pepper to taste; stir in 3/4 cup barbecue sauce and heat through. Serve in hamburger buns

Spaghetti Sauce
Brown 1 pound ground beef and 1 small onion, chopped, over medium heat 8 to 10 minutes or until beef is no longer pink. Pour off drippings. Stir in prepared spaghetti sauce and heat through.

For an enchanting downtown Chicago dining experience, The Signature Room at the Ninety-Fifth is at the "top" of the list. Elegant, romantic, and costly. You can expect a $100 bill or more for a couple, with wine. However, if a cherished evening is what you're looking for, it's worth every penny.

Located on the 95th Floor of the John Hancock Building, The Signature Room offers a splendid view of the entire city. There is no bad seat in the restaurant, but my preference is the southern view. From my table, I was looking eye to eye at the top of the Sears Tower and looking down upon some of the tallest features of Chicago's famous skyline. This is to say my dinner at The Signature Room was an event to remember.

As the elevator opened, I couldn't help but notice the magnificent chandeliers providing the proper glow to compliment the candlelight shining from the tables. Low music surrounded me, such mood-setters as Sinatra and Louis Armstrong. Whispers from the tables filled the air, "This view is just incredible!"

Settled at my table, I was pampered by no less than four different people taking my order, filling my water, and replenishing my bread. The wine list was extensive to say the least, with selections from across the globe. Deciding what to order took about 20 minutes, as the menu simply captivated me. Absolutely anyone could find one or more of their favorites on this menu, ranging from vegetable dishes to classical steak. The most interesting was the Signature Selection, where you could choose from a list of appetizers, salads, main courses, and desserts for a fixed price. What's more is The Signature Room donates 10% of all Signature Selections to a charitable organization.

For an appetizer, you could choose from several hot and cold items. I had chilled scallop sausage with blue corn tortilla chips, served with smoked caviar gazpacho. I passed up some of the more interesting appetizers because of my curiosity, which turned out to be a poor choice. Next time, I think I'll go for one of the mushroom dishes.

From then on, however, the meal was incredible. I went on to enjoy a delightfully dressed salad. This was not the typical salad, I think the goat cheese made the difference. Still reeling from the salad, I glanced out the window as a plane descended upon the city.

My main course came soon after, marinated and grilled swordfish with avocado sorbet, served with cilantro. This swordfish bested any I've had at some well known seafood restaurants. The taste and texture combined to create the most palatable seafood dish imaginable. Grapefruit oil and avocado sorbet added a glorious touch to a grilled swordfish which could stand proudly alone. There's nothing more to say, except that on my next visit, I will again have the swordfish.

Now, shall we discuss dessert? I believe we must. I had the pleasure to enjoy a white and dark chocolate mousse cake that actually made me smile. Enclosed in a chocolate sauce and encircled by a variety of fruit sauces, this cake exploded on my tongue.

When you visit The Signature Room at the Ninety-Fifth, bring a camera, not only to capture the breathtaking view, but also to cherish the dishes brought to the table. The food is presented in an aesthetically pleasing manner. My dessert for instance resembled a fireburst with the multi-colored sauces delicately patterned on the plate.

General manager T. Sean Sheridan can certainly be proud of the food and staff of The Signature Room. It definitely lives up to it's motto, "The Reataurant Chicago Looks Up To." I think it would be looked up to even if it was on the first floor of the Hancock, but as it is, it's magnificent.

SERVING OAK LAWN AND SURROUNDING SUBURBS

New nutritional services offered in Oak Lawn

Free nutritional support services are more accesible and convenient for eligible area residents with the recent opening of a new WIC office on the campus of Christ Hospital and Medical Center in Oak Lawn. WIC (Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children) is a government-sponsored program designed to ensure that infants and children receive the nutrition they need for normal, healthy development.

The new WIC office, located at 9332 S. Kilbourn, is the first hospital associated WIC site in the Chicago area. It was established through the joint efforts of Christ Hospital and CEDA (the Community and Economic Development Association of Cook County, Inc.), the agency that oversees WIC services in the Chicago area.

Ms. Pat Doherty applied over one year ago and wrote and presented the application. It is state services that provides that space. Christ hospital recognized the need within this service area. Christ hospital spokesperson,Roberta Richardson stated that the WIC nutrition services are expecting to serve 600 to 1000 in a month but for now they expect to serve 1000 families within a year.

Oak Lawn resident Mozelle Turner is among area residents who rely on WIC's nutrition services. Her association with the program began about two years ago when in addition to caring for her own children, she took on the added responsibility of raising her infant granddaughter, Asia. At the time, that meant bundling up the baby for long bus rides to Chicago's Englewood community, the nearest WIC site

Like other WIC parents, Turner brings her baby to the local WIC office every three months for a free health screening, nutritional counseling and food vouchers. She also attends free classes at the WIC office on topics such as nutrition, cooking methods, childcare and parenting.

According to Pat Doherty-Wildner, director of health and nutrition for CEDA, the WIC program has long been considered the "gateway" to other social services and health care programs offered to low-income families. "The design of the program provides the unique opportunity to reach women early in their pregnancies and infants only days old." she says. "This opportunity allows up to identify potential problems, help seek appropriate intervention and make a positive impact on the outcome of a pregnancy or improve a child's health and growth."

The Oak Lawn CEDA WIC office is open Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. For more information, call 708423-1131.

Women of the Church

Rick Techman

As much as the Catholic Church has historically been known by traditional Catholics as the "Mother Church," so too has the Blessed Virgin Mary, symbol of spiritual motherhood, been known as the "Mother of God," or the "Mother of the Church."

Millions of Christians since the first century recognize the Virgin Mary as the woman who gave birth to our savior, Christ the Lord, on the first Christmas Day.

But the Blessed Mother, affectionately known as "Our Lady," is by no means the only woman of prominence in the Bible. Women, despite ancient circumstances hold significant roles throughout Jesus' ministry!

Our Lady told the Lord Jesus, the Son of God, when to begin his ministry when he, at his mother's request turned water into wine at the wedding of Cana. Jesus' initial reply to his mother was that his time had not yet come.

Not only did Our Lady strongly influence Jesus' entire life but Jesus' ministry remained, through his death and resurrection, guided by women and men.

March 8th, was the day of Women's World Peace. The Women's Federation for World Peace had invited this publisher to be a delegate in Chantilly, Virginia.

There were 6 sessions, some in Washington, D.C. other sessions in Virginia.

The purpose of this triumphant historical event was to help erase wounds carried on from 50 years ago.

"Women of America and Japan carry tremendous potential as cultural reconcilers, moral leaders and problem solvers. Our two affluent nations face similar moral problems. Fostering cooperation and friendship between Japanese and American women may be a crucial step in building true world peace," stated Josette Shiner, managing editor of The Washington Times.

There were a total of 4000 Japanese women within the 6 day sessions. On March 8th, Ms. Elayne G. Bennett spoke on the "Best Friends" orgainization which she started 10 years ago.

Entertainment for the day included excerpts from The Nutcracker performed by the Kirov academy of Ballet. Performer Jennifer Holliday shared an hour of Gospel and Pop songs. But more importantly the bridge of hope climaxed the reason we were there.

Mayumi Takahashi of Kamogawa-Shi-Chiba-Ken 296 Japan and I shared our sisterhood pledge by stating we will build a bridge of peace and reconciliation between our two nations. In order to do this, we will be a peacemaker and harmonizer in our family, community, society and between nations.

SXU women's business expo

The Women's MBA Association of St. Xavier University is hosting its second annual "Minding Her Own Business" Expo on Saturday, April 1 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Formal Reception Room of the University located at 3700 W. 103rd St. in Chicago. The event will feature a variety of businesses, owned and operated by professional women of the community, as well as guest speakers and prize drawings. Admission is free. The public is welcome to attend.

The 1995 Business Expo will feature nearly 20 area businesses who will display their market products or services, distribute free gifts and literature and provide a demonstration of their products.

Bus receives a gavel

President Thomas S. Fuller of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago, pictured on the right, presented a gavel to commissioner Harry "Bus" Yourell for the many years of dedication to public service. The presentation took place recently.

Commissioner Yourell has served as an Oak Lawn Trustee, a member of the Illinois House of Representatives for twenty years, Cook County Recorder of Deeds and last November was reelected commissioner to the district.

As a former Marine hero of WWII, Yourell served for three years in the U.S. Marine Corps and was awarded the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart.

Israel Mecca of the world

Experiencing a continuation of the story of Israel is liken to a seed planted in the fertile soil sprouting up inch by inch from the ground and within weeks the stem appears and becomes a new sight.

The stem in this case is the road to the top of Mount Carmel and the panoramic view is breath taking.

A tour of the city of Nahariya gave us the picture of the industrious Israelis with fertile land and the abundance of fruit, vegetables and water. New beginnings are occurring for Jordan and possibly the West Bank. There is a new future for Palestine, Jordan, Syria and Israel in the year 2000.

Our visit of Old Akko gave us a tour of the Knights Hall and Al Jazaar Mosque and Fishing ports.

While driving through the Galilee region we traveled to Vered Ha Galil (Rose of Galilee) for a tour of a dude ranch. If you like horseback riding, a trained guide is available to take you through the fertile fields of Galilee.

On the sea you can experience a sailboat that is a replica of a boat that was used during the time of Jesus.

From the miracle of the fishes to Capernaum and Magdala, Tarichea, the birthplace of Mary Magdalene, has scenery of unbelievable beauty.

The northern drive along the Sea of Galilee took us up to Hamat Gader Hot Springs, a park containing an alligator farm. We left there to proceed south through Bet Shean, the Jordan Valley, and Jericho to a resort called En Bokek in the Dead Sea region.

Health conscious individuals use the springs of Hamat as a health spa, where the Dead Sea water is reputed to have a therapeutic effect. Patients from Germany and other European countries often come to this region for treatment of lung disease and chronic hypoxia.

Because the Dead Sea region is the lowest altitude on earth, it has a barometric pressure of 800 mm Hg. The water from the Dead Sea is very relaxing.

Many inspirational thoughts occurred to me on the drive to Massada, particularly when viewing the many caves and wondering how many biblical figures crossed these paths.

Forty cold nights and hot days is a journey few would forget. These journeys are now made on foot, on camels, in dune buggies, on horseback and by auto.

The Massada is the largest and highest mountain range in the region. What was once Herod's fortress palace built by the sweat of the brow of the Jews, this fortress became the last strong hold in the Jewish revolt against the Romans.

Kibbutz life is still evident in En Gedi Oasis. The community owns shares within the Kibbutz and encourages the young to explore other countries, but if they show interest in Kibbutzim they are encouraged to join the community.

Within the desert is the fertile land of this kibbutz with fruit trees, flowers and water. Lunch was served in the guest house cafeteria.

After sightseeing the Kibbutz, a drive via the Judaean Desert to Jerusalem brought us to a view of the city from Mt. Scopus and the Mt. of Olives. We saw the trees that were there during the time of Jesus.

The Hyatt Regency in Jerusalem was a hotel which really impressed me because of its architectural design. The food was excellent and service was great.

Jerusalem is such a unique city that a description is difficult with such limited space.

Hopefully other newspapers will be able to support my descriptive journey by publishing my travel story in the future. I will announce the publication and time within publisher's pen.

Any information regarding this story or the issue of March lst, can be obtained from Michelle Lewis, Israel Government Tourist Office 312-782-4306 or Annette Dixon, 636-4331, Ext. 22.

Mucker addresses on going controversy

Addressing the ongoing controversy over the development of village-owned Brandt property, Planning and Development Committee Chairman Quinn Mucker recently called for the formation of an additional committee to formulate ideas and explore alternative suggestions to the "Brandt Proposal."

"Everyone concerned would like to see those vacant businesses returned to their once vital and productive use." Mucker noted. He further expressed "The Village of Oak Lawn will remain stable and viable because of the positive energy of concerned residents and Village officials."

Valentine's Candy

How lucky can a person be! We had just celebrated Valentine's Day on Sunday, February 12th with dinner and exchanging cards. Even though we have not missed one-not one- Saturday night in a year and a half, we limit our dates to weekends because of his working six days a week. And now, Valentine's Day (Tuesday) brought a surprise delivery of a floral basket with orchids, roses, daisies tulips and flowers I could not even name! So then when the phone rang at 6 pm with the questions "What are you doing?" and "How about going out later?...I have a taste for pizza..." Disbelief mixed with anticipation coursed through my veins while a got together an appropriate red outfit for this unexpected occasion--dinner during the week with the love of my life.

Ten pm could not get here soon enough. I felt like a teenager going on a date. We had the usual "Hello" hug and kiss upon his arrival, yet something was different. He never, I mean never celebrates holidays with much flair. In compromising, we get through them and go onward, creating our own traditions, and not those of some card company or set date on a calendar.

"How cute." I thought. He's writing me a love note. Without a word, I opened the note to read "Will you marry me?" After I composed myself from the emotional shock, I looked at him and he said "You don't have to answer me right now." Not knowing what to do (cry, scream) I just told him that I thought the note was a piece of coconut candy. Upon which he replied "I think there is one here. Move some of the candies around; I know I saw one in this area."

On the front seat of the car, between us, was a brown bag. Before you knew it, we were at the restaurant. I was in a hurry to get in, get out and send him on his way for Wednesday's workday ahead. After parking, he slid the bag next to me with the words "This is for you...open it." I asked if I could open it inside, since I felt time was essential here, but was told that we had plenty of time and to just open it.

After thanking him and telling him again of how much he had already done--weekend's dinner, cards, today's flowers and now this unexpected get together, I proceeded to peek in the bag. There was another card and a heart-shaped box of candy. I thought "Candy before pizza?" but he nudged me to open the box...and so I did.

Still being in a state of disbelief from the note, I started fingering the chocolates, not really knowing what I was doing. One piece of candy, in the area he pointed to, stood out over the others. I picked it up and turned to him and said "Oh, a cherry cordial." In the same instant, I noticed a flash of light from under the candy. "Be still, my heart!" It was an engagement ring! I put the candy down, after a bite and picked up the ring in my sticky fingers.

My second thought was "No cellophane wrap on the box?" Oh well. His sister (who introduced us and is a definite 'chocoholic') probably did a "sample" picking. Good! Less for me to eat. In taking the cover off, I noticed in the poor lighting that all of the candies were in place. All of this time, nothing is being said between us. Then, as my eyes adjusted to the light, I noticed something white in the upper left corner.

A piece of coconut candy. My favorite. Thoughts of pizza went out of my head. Reaching for the white piece of candy, my fingers felt, instead, a piece of paper.

How gorgeous, beautiful, fantastic and surprising! Of course we love each other, but rings and papers didn't cover what we held in our hearts. On Valentine's Day! Then he spoke, and asked me, now, to give him my answer.

"You know what the answer is—Of course I will!"

To this day, he laughs about how he completely surprised me. After a warm hug and kiss, I had him put the ring (with a heart-shaped diamond, picked out by him) on my finger. Being on another planet, still, I had the ring on my right hand for an hour before I realized it was on the wrong hand! Candy will never be the same again.

A dear girlfriend of mine asked me how I felt, since she was married a long time and forgot the initial engagement feeling. Let me say that when a person wants only you in their life—no matter who comes into it as far as richer, thinner, younger or prettier—it is truly overwhelming and awesome. How lucky can a person be!

Postscript: The "He" in the story is Jerry Toigo and the "I" is Chris Weingart. Both in wheelchairs, but with a love that has no boundaries.

her to announce the Good News in her Arabic village. Until that moment, Jesus' ministry included only Old Testament followers.

When the wealthy people at the temple gave of their abundance, Jesus showed everyone how the poor widow, with only pennies in her hand, gave much more.

Jesus was anointed by a young woman who washed his feet with expensive perfumes and her hair and we must not forget it was the women of the church who saw Jesus die.

When the women of the congregation returned to his tomb in the pre-dawn hours of the first Easter Sunday, they discovered, before the whole world, that he has risen.

Remembering his words that he would come again, the women returned to the village to announce the triumph of his ministry and to seek him in his teachings.

Jesus made his glorious ascension in the early hours of the first Easter morning without an audience, even the Roman guards abandoned their post!

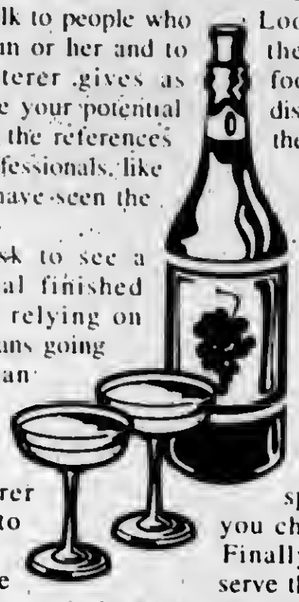
How To Choose A Caterer

The best way to select a caterer for your reception is to talk to people who have worked with him or her and to past clients the caterer gives as references. Investigate your potential caterer's record with the references and other wedding professionals, like photographers, who have seen the caterer at work.

Brides should ask to see a sample of the actual finished product rather than relying on photographs. That means going to the location of an actual reception that the caterer under consideration is doing.

A reputable caterer should be willing to invite potential clients to a reception site one hour before the party to judge the overall appearance.



Everything should be exactly right. Look at the tablecloths to see if they're clean and fresh. Inspect food presentation setups (chafing dishes, punch bowls, etc.) to see if they're shiny or tarnished.

Be sure you know what's included in the cost: When it comes to the wedding cake, don't rely on a price-per-serving quote until you find out what's included. Some professionals charge extra for the top layer, price per separation, flowers, borders and other elements.

Have a list of specific questions ready. What you spend will depend on the food you choose and how it's presented. Finally, make sure enough staff to serve the food properly is included in the cost.

Choose A Caterer To Match Your Wedding Style

Weddings vary all across the nation, from very simple to extremely lavish. Catering costs and styles vary as well. Couples should shop around to find the caterer that suits their needs, style and budget.

Menu possibilities have also changed. Sit-down dinners or simple hors d'oeuvres are traditional, but some weddings now include a number of buffet stations set up throughout the room. Each station serves different types of food, and guests can choose what they would like.

Your caterer will be more qualified to match your wedding style if you successfully communicate the details of the reception. You should make clear the exact type of party you have in mind. You should feel comfortable with the catering manager and communicate your understanding of the reception details with him or her. It is also important to discuss the type of atmosphere you wish to create—from simple to extravagant.

Photograph courtesy of Earl Wagler

Many people do not realize the capabilities of most caterers. They can do as little as you wish, or they can organize and carry out the entire event. This could include transportation, flowers, entertainment and accommodations for guests. Available services will vary, so be sure to check with your local caterers to get a good idea of your choices.

It is usually easier if you approach the caterer with definite ideas. You should have a firm commitment on date, time and place of the reception. You should also consider how you would like the food served and what style of food you prefer. Another consideration is whether you plan to have dancing, since a larger space will be needed.

With proper planning and communication, your caterer can work with you for a reception that's a sure success.

World of food opens many doors for caterer

By: Anita Anderson

Richard Lyter of Hoffman Estates makes no secret of the fact that the way to his financial success and mental well being is through the palates of his customers.

Lyter owns My Favorite Place For Catering and has been in business for the past 17 years with the assistance of less than ten people.

"The secret to success in the catering field is to be organized. One day last summer we did eight parties. This means going in different directions and making sure, this is the most important factor, that everything is clean." Lyter said.

My Favorite Place For Catering handles corporate parties, grand openings, weddings and private parties for a minimum of ten people.

The largest party Lyter said he and his staff catered was for 2,000 people. Then the food is a picnic fare, with finger foods like chicken, ribs and hot dogs.

Lyter said he encourages his customers to try new pasta sauces. Using different herbs, a variety of unique fresh sauces can be served over fresh pasta. Sauces like oil and garlic, Alfredo, pesto, white or red clam sauce and Arrabbiata, a red sauce with olive oil, garlic, pancetta sausage, tomatoes, red pepper flakes and fresh basil are among those available.

"Wedding food is still traditional. Many clients like the stuffed boneless chicken breast with sage dressing and perhaps a second meat entree." Lyter explained.

The caterer recalled the posh party he once catered on a private yacht on Lake Michigan for 100 guests. He served the exclusive group goodies like wild duck sausage with plum sauce and mini-crab cakes, just to name a few foods.

Lyter's catered desserts might range from fresh strawberries served with a variety of sauces from chocolate marshmallow to fresh fruit sauces.

To keep on top of his trade Lyter reads cookbooks and goes out to eat at new restaurants.

He is experimenting with a mail-in food guide. His first venture revolves around pasta. To receive an in-depth pasta guide, how to cook ideas and tips for new, fresh sauces and recipes, send $3.00 to R. Lyter, P.O.Box 957704, Hoffman Estates, Il. 660195. Include a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Write It Right

(NAPS)—Our handwriting is a lot more important than many of us realize. The next time you walk into a pharmacy and are kept waiting for a prescription, illegible handwriting may be the culprit.

Sloppy handwriting is more than an annoyance. It causes some serious and costly problems in the real world.

In a new survey conducted by Parker Pen and Zaner-Bloser, the nation's leading publisher of handwriting texts, 85 percent of pharmacists say poor handwriting can cause prescription errors. Large majorities of pharmacists say poor handwriting can also cost them time (93 percent) and money (76 percent).

Customers are kept waiting while staff phones doctors, hoping to clarify illegible prescriptions. Pharmacists also say problems reading prescriptions cost them the confidence of their customers. "If a pharmacist cannot read a prescription, he looks stupid," says one frustrated pharmacist. Indeed, more than half (55 percent) say poor handwriting caused them embarrassing situations.

Standing left is her youngest son, Brian Julian who announces his engagement to Candiss Hogan. Both presently attend Northern University, with Brian graduating in May, and Candiss continuing on for her nursing degree.

Seated right, her oldest son Jamie Julian announces his engagement to Mellody Chancey. Jamie is an executive in the family owned business, Julian Services. Mellody is a mother of two, Vanessa & Jordan, and a entrepreneur.

Kathy humorously remarked, "Two down-two to go", meaning her two middle children, Robert Peshak and Jennifer Peshak are still unmarried.

Walk Down the Aisle in Personal Style

Last year, women spent more than $1.8 billion on bridal gowns. With the ever-rising cost of planning a wedding, many brides find it extremely difficult to stay within their budgets, especially when it comes to purchasing a wedding gown. One way to take control of the situation without having to make any creative sacrifices is to hire a dressmaker.

Unlike buying at retail, a dressmaker is able to sew the bride's dream dress using materials that stay within the bride's budget. A dressmaker also has the necessary sewing skills and experience needed to create the bride's fantasy dress, allowing her to concentrate on other aspects of the wedding. Additionally, a skilled seamstress will be able to combine the bride's ideas with the perfect fabric and silhouette, guaranteeing her the fit, color and fabric that she desires.

Before hiring a dressmaker, you should determine what style of gown best flatters your shape. To do this, try on several different styles of dresses at a bridal retail store. This also will give you a better idea as to what the different fabrics look like and how they drape on your body.

The Sewing Fashion Council offers the following tips:

• Make sure that the dressmaker is recommended by several reliable sources, such as a fine fabric store, tailor, dry cleaner and, best of all, a satisfied customer.

CREATE A FANTASY wedding by designing your own gown. This style is a division of Simplicity Patterns No. 2066.

• Before hiring a dressmaker, make an appointment to meet with him. Ask to see samples of his work and for client references and phone numbers.

• Ask the dressmaker if he has experience in sewing wedding gowns. Wedding gowns use special fabrics in special ways.

• Ask yourself if this is someone you can communicate with. Your rapport with the dressmaker is just as important as the quality of the work. Can he envision exactly what you want? Remember, you'll be spending a lot of time together on this project.

• Ask if the dressmaker will suggest patterns and fabric. Will he shop with you for the materials? A good dressmaker will do all of the above, although he may require an additional fee for the shopping service.

• Choosing a dressmaker strictly by price is a mistake. A fine dressmaker is a skilled professional and his price reflects experience, design and sewing skills, a sophisticated fashion sense and an enormous investment of time.

• Make sure that the price estimate is based upon the pattern and fabric you've selected and includes all of your fittings. The price will vary depending on the number of fittings needed and the difficulty of the dress.

Remember, even though you are hiring a dressmaker to sew your dream gown, you are still the designer. And your reward for hiring a dressmaker? The dress of your dreams created especially for you.

Winning Strategies For Newlyweds

When most women approach the commitment of marriage, they talk about where they will live, whether they will work, whether they will have children and how many. Rarely do they consider money — one of the most significant factors in divorce — to the depth that it requires. Who will manage the money? How will it be invested? For what goals?

Most women of previous generations chose to yield or abdicate responsibility for the personal investing decisions and activity to their husbands. Did they think that men were born with an abundance of knowledge in this field? Men were forced to listen and learn on their feet. Pity the woman who assumed her husband was good at that sort of thing and found out too late that he wasn't! Today, the men who do have the knowledge and interest to manage this aspect of the relationship usually do not have the time to do so adequately in addition to the demands of their jobs.

So, what is the answer? Should women rush out and demand hands-on control of all the accounts? Not according to Alexandra Harris, editor of the magazine, Winning Strategies™. Alexandra believes the answer is one of balance, where both parties discuss openly and honestly their knowledge, their fears, their goals and ideas pertaining to money. As a couple, she says, the emphasis is on two people joining together to share a life. It would be a wise move to consult with a financial planner early in the relationship to establish a long-term financial plan with which both are comfortable.

Neither one should make all the decisions without the input of the other. Even if the husband does not believe his wife knows anything about money, he may be surprised. Men often point to a woman's wardrobe and say she can't possibly manage money because she never has any left after shopping! They forget that for years women have had to plan their expenditure on clothing, makeup and skin care — necessary items that are exceedingly over-priced — according to their limited incomes. They have run expanding households on contracting incomes, fed and clothed hordes, for generations.

Today, despite the gender-biased expenses and salary gap, women often already own property when they meet their husbands, have their own cars and have money in the bank. "We're not dumb," Harris says, "as a group we just lack confidence with money."

Winning Strategies™, published quarterly, is designed to bring information, education and inspiration to women who are interested in obtaining financial security. You won't find any sex, fashion or weight-loss articles in Winning Strategies™.

Why do we need Winning Strategies™? Harris points out that 80 percent of women will outlive their husbands by 20 years. "If he has done all of their personal financial management," she says, "the wife is left in both emotional and financial crisis. In addition, women traditionally started on lower salaries, worked for shorter periods, and therefore start with a lot less to invest, a lot later in life. It is important for them to be able to make informed decisions with confidence.

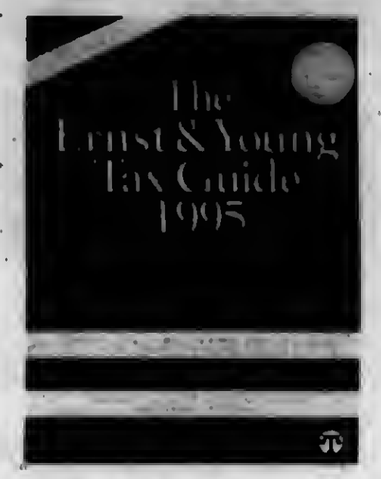
"With the other money magazines declaring 'what's hot this month,' implying we should all go out and buy the same thing, it can be confusing. The fact is, what you need and what I need are two different things. An investment choice should be based upon your current income, family situation, age and goals. More importantly, it should be a decision you are comfortable with for a long time. Having that level of comfort only comes with knowledge and experience. And that's what I hope to convey to women of all ages and backgrounds through the pages of Winning Strategies™."

Alongside the magazine, Harris has started an organization called The Women's Investment Network™ to provide readers with free seminars and educational forums nationwide.

Winning Strategies™ is only available by subscription. You may call 1-800-501-0550 or send complete details, together with a check for $48, to Harris Media, P.O. Box 118007, Chicago, IL 60611. WB943270

Tax Tips That Can Save You Money

(NAPS)—Millions of Americans are unaware of the many ways to save when it comes to filing their tax returns.



For example, you may be able to deduct:

• Depreciation on your home computer.

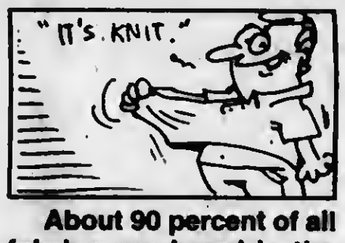
• Your cellular phone.

• Your eyeglasses or contact lenses.

• Any mortgage pre-payment penalties.

• The cost of removing lead paint from your home.

To find out if you qualify for these deductions, and for more information on ways to save, pick up a copy of the Ernst & Young Tax Guide 1995 published by John Wiley & Sons and available at your local bookstore, or call 1-800-225-5945.



About 90 percent of all fabrics produced in the United States are made by weaving or knitting.

Former employee takes the plunge

Michele Gartman, featured bride and former Oak Lawn resident. Michele was the former employee of Village View Newspaper and Americana and Oak Lawn Nursing Care Facilities.

Matt Gilbert, the groom was also from Oak Lawn. His mother and brothers currently live here. Matt is currently working for the Hammond News.

Michele and Matt were married March 11, 1995 at St. Germaine Church with family and friends in attendance.

Michele was wearing a satin gown with victorian puffed sleeves. The bow encompassing the 5 foot train made this dress most impressive; it matched the bows on each shoulder.

At the point where the puff ended started a tight fitted sleeve armed with pearls and rinestones decorating every focal point of the arm.

The lace on the arms and the lace on the scalloped edge of the floor length dress matched beautifully.

Michele's petite figure was enhanced by the tight bodiced waistline and extra material the gown had in the train. She was exquisitely beautiful.

Michele's gown appeared to hold up nicely for when Matt and Michele danced the evening away, the gown was as though she just walk out of the house.

Tips To Help You Look Your Bridal Best

Begin your bridal beauty regimen months before the big day. This will give you time to set up visits with a makeup artist, dentist, hairstylist and even a dermatologist as soon as possible.

Choose your makeup artist beforehand to guarantee a polished look for your wedding day. Discuss the best shades for you as well as any likes or dislikes. This will also give you plenty of time to practice prior to the big day.

Makeup shades should be kept subtle, and an attendant or parent can carry supplies so you can touch up throughout the day. Dust your entire face with transluscent powder to minimize shine in photos.

A dentist can inform you of the latest techniques to whiten as well as straighten your teeth. A bleaching gel can be applied in three to four sessions for a whiter smile. Porcelain bonds called veneers can be affixed to the front of teeth to fill in gaps or hide stains. If teeth are too damaged for veneers, porcelain crowns can be used. Both procedures require two to three visits over several weeks.

You should decide on a hairstyle months before the wedding as well. You can keep your current style with only minor changes or you can go for a completely new look. If the style requires a new cut, perm or color, you should have these done at this time. If you start your new technique several months before the wedding, you'll have time to make corrections and get used to the new style.

Etiquette Tips Make Wedding Planning Easier

Question: My youngest sister is too old to be a flower girl, but too young to perform bridesmaid duties. How can I include her in the wedding party?

Answer: You may have junior bridesmaids, ages 9 to 14. They precede attendants down the aisle, with or without parents.

Question: Who chooses her dress for the wedding first, the bride's mother or the groom's mother?

Answer: The bride's mother may discuss what she plans to wear with the groom's mother, and she chooses her dress first.

Questions, questions and more questions. Getting engaged and planning a wedding opens up an entirely new world — a most confusing world of constant decision-making and emotionally-charged situations. BRIDE'S & Your New Home offers every bride-to-be insight into what she should know about wedding etiquette.

THE ENGAGEMENT

• After the question is "popped," arrange for parents to get together to visit (or meet one another) for brunch, drinks or dinner. The groom's mother should call the bride's mother first.

• Begin shopping for a gown nine months before the wedding. Because wedding dresses are custom-made, most take at least four months to arrive, once they've been ordered.

• The bride's immediate family should not host the shower. If they do, it appears as if they are asking for more gifts for the bride.

• Bridesmaids and groomsmen traditionally pay for their own wedding apparel and travel expenses.

THE INVITATION

• Order 50 extra invitations for keepsakes and late additions to the guest list; 100 extra envelopes in case of addressing errors. Anticipate a 25-percent refusal rate.

• Fold invitation across middle of engraved double sheet, insert in inner envelope with folded side down, engraved side facing up. Slip inner envelope inside larger envelope so handwritten guests' names (Mr. and Mrs. Jones) are visible. Mail invitations six to eight weeks before the wedding.

THE CEREMONY AND RECEPTION

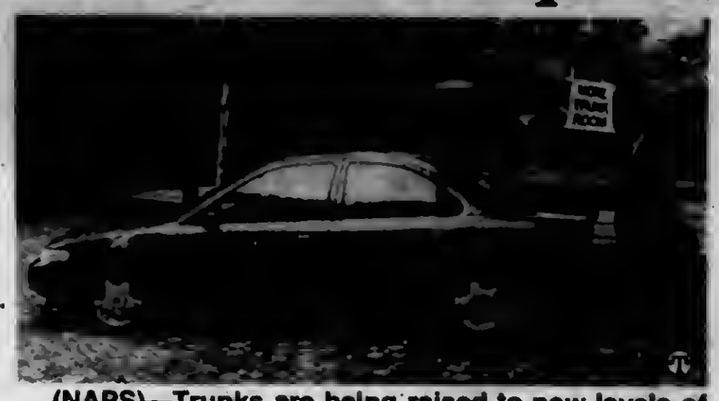
• Ceremony seating depends on religious preference. In a Christian wedding, as you face the altar, the left side is reserved for the bride's family and friends, the right side for the groom's. The reverse is true for Jewish weddings.

• The maid or matron of honor may be your mother, aunt, grandmother or other special person in your life — even a close male relative or friend!

• In the case of divorced parents, seat each parent with his or her own family and friends at the reception. Seat the groom's parents with the parent who raised the bride.

Etiquette is about the subtle kindnesses that ease relationships between families and friends. Becoming aware of others' feelings will lead to better communication with family members throughout married life.

The Race For Space



(NAPS)—Trunks are being raised to new levels of spaciousness. A leader in following consumers' request for more trunk room is the all-new 1995-model Mercury Mystique shown here. The midsized sedan has 13.9 cubic feet of cargo space, or nearly as much as the luxurious Lincoln Mark VIII. With its fold-forward split back seat, Mystique can carry passengers and their skis and can even carry a small load of lumber. "More trunk room helps buyers get the most out of a midsized car," explains Chuck Stevens, Mercury marketing coordinator for the Southeast Region. Shown with him is Starlet O'Hara, a well-known resident of Zoo Atlanta.

Champagne Adds to the Celebration

Champagne wines add an elegant, romantic atmosphere to a wedding. By serving champagne at your wedding, you will create an everlasting, wonderful memory for you and your guests.

Try a champagne rose, long considered the wine of lovers and romance. It's especially attractive and sensual and is a perfect choice for your wedding. Remember, champagne wines only come from France; anything else makes for half a celebration.

Work with your caterer to ensure that the champagne will be served properly. The following tips may be helpful.

• For the traditional toast, one bottle will serve five people. For a champagne aperitif at cocktail hour, one bottle will serve three to four guests. During the meal, allow one bottle for two to three people.

• Chill the champagne well, for 30 to 40 minutes in a bucket of ice and water, before serving.

• Serve the champagne in tall flute or tulip glasses. Pour a small quantity into each glass to allow it to settle, then fill the glasses only two-thirds full to keep it cool and fresh.

• Refill the glasses when they are almost empty, making sure they are always two-thirds full.

Topping Your Cake Off Right

Merchandise provided by K's Merchandise

The trends in topping off a wedding cake have changed throughout the years. The traditional bride and groom figures are no longer the standard on cakes. In recent years most brides have chosen to use fresh flowers.

The most commonly used flowers are roses, gardenias, carnations and lilies. The flowers are placed on top, along the sides and between the tier dividers of the cake.

Some decorating trends in the last few years have included doves, sugar bells with satin ribbons, and butter cream flowers. Precious Moment figures and porcelain figures of children dressed in wedding attire have also been popular.

However, an all-white cake still seems to be the standard.

An average cake for 200 to 300 guests generally has four tiers and costs between $200 and $250.

Village board not for barnstorming

By: Frank Soczek

Waving a copy of an "unauthorized" "Public Meeting" announcement, a visibly upset Ernie Kolb drew a line in the sand and prepared for a confrontational tone at the Oak Lawn village Board meeting on March 28th.

In a quivering voice, Mayor Kolb announced "This is a board meeting, not a public hearing...I don't want any booing, heckling or speaking out of turn." Numerous times, he intoned "I'm going to clear the room" further adding "I don't want anybody to get hurt..."

It soon became apparent the subject of his preemptive admonitions, the controversial "Brandt Project," was simply not going to go away.

Among the items on the meeting agenda, a brief dialog began concerning the re-zoning of a 100 by 250 foot parcel of Park District owned land at 90th and Oak Park. It was recommended by the Park District board that the property revert back to residential use, as it was considered no longer essential. While Trustee M. Joy motioned to deny the approval, Trustee C. Holesha noted the abundance of parks and rec-recreational property in the surrounding areas and supported the change.

Trustee M. Walsh concurred with the approval, not desiring to "second guess" the Park board's decision. The motion was passed 4-2, with M. Joy and R. Streit dissenting.

A re-zoning request from Christ Hospital for a height variation for their new 25 million dollar Children's Hospital was unanimously approved following a discussion by trustee Walsh concerning parking availability on Kilbourn Ave. Walsh noted the 1950's vintage parking regulations were seriously outdated in light of the increased use of same day and outpatient surgeries at the hospital and required review.

Trustee R. Stancik concurred, adding a village-wide study should be investigated, noting his professional observations as an area Realtor. Members of Christ Hospital agreed to pay for their share of this expensive parking study.

A request by the hospital for permission to establish a deli-style dining facility to accommodate families, visitors and employees of the new Children's Hospital won unanimous approval.

A request for a class "D" liquor license by Always Open deli on 9601 Southwest Hwy. was approved by a 5 to 1 vote, with R. Streit dissenting.

The "excitement" anticipated by Mayor Kolb developed quickly following trustee Streit's implication that Kolb intentionally canceled numerous village committee meetings in recent months. While the mayor vehemently denied the implications, Streit took the floor and began setting the stage for the taboo discussion of the Brandt Project. "I move to have the residents heard." Streit announced. Tension in the crowded room increased as sporadic comments erupted from the audience.

"What are you afraid of, Mayor Kolb?" one voice implored. "Roger, you're out of order." the mayor shot back, addressing his adversary on a first name basis. "In June.." the mayor exclaimed, attempting to reiterate plans for future discussion of the embroiling Brandt proposal.

Another voice intoned "Let's move to the parking lot," sensing the mayor's threats to clear the room were rapidly nearing fruition. As Streit exclaimed "Since you don't want to allow discussion at a public meeting..." trustees Walsh and Keane rocked back in their chairs in obvious indifference to Streit's verbal fusillade.

After accusing his fellow trustees of "Systematic and intentional deception," Streit launched a series of demands for reforms of village Enterprise Fund proposals, "sweetheart" deals, ethics ordinances and urged the televising of Village Board meetings.

When Streit proclaimed a motion to "Terminate the Brandt development immediately.." a rousing applause echoed through the room. As the perfunctory inquiry to "second" Streit's motion was proffered, the nervous board assumed an air of stoic silence.

Bolstered by the support of the audience, Streit began to "cross examine" Village Manager J. Faber about the specific time he learned about the "low income" provisions of the proposed Brandt Project funding.

"October, 1994..." Faber coolly responded, before proceeding with a calm, coherent "explanation" of the formal definition of "low income." Using a figure of $26,000.00 per year annual income, "Forty percent of the population of Oak Lawn would be eligible..." Faber concluded. He further added the 15 "efficiency" apartments would be best utilized by seniors or young singles.

Faber then noted negotiations were underway with Heritage Bank to investigate alternative funding methods, stressing that the controversial State funding was by no means formally approved.

Streit then challenged Faber to "Consider resigning your position as Village Manager." When the desired response failed to materialize, the rogue trustee focused his attack on Village Attorney Lucansky, issuing a similar demand. When confronted with Streit's inquiry of why he (Streit) was not appraised of the "low income" provision of the proposal, Lucansky weakly responded "You never asked me..." An exceptionally bitter argument ensued regarding who "did or did not" read the available material on the project funding.

Trustee R. Stancik accused Streit of having a "Lack of passion for the Village of Oak Lawn." and "Scaring the Hell out of people." When the subtle racial undertones of the issue were finally brought to the surface, a voice from the audience intoned "We're not scared, we want answers."

Robert Striet, Trustee

After Streit's urging of his fellow officials "Wake up and smell the stuff you're shoveling." A disgraceful folly of "government in action" ensued with malicious name calling and veiled threats replacing logic and reason.

As an almost ironic epilogue, Trustee Joy announced a program where teenagers would be allowed to take an interactive role in local government, participating in various committees and functions. Based on the overall behavior exhibited at this meeting, perhaps full time involvement by our youth might certainly be in order.

Alumnus to become principal

The Board of Director of Brother Rice High School has announced that Brother Daniel Casey will be the next principal of the school. Br. Casey, a native of Evergreen Park and a 1969 graduate of Brother Rice, will be the first alumnus to head the school since it opened in 1956. He will take over as principal August 1.

Br. Casey, who last year celebrated his 25th anniversary in the Congregaton of Christian brothers, holds a bachelor of arts degree from Lewis University in Romeoville, Il, a master of education degree from the University of San Francisco and a master of arts degree from the University of Notre Dame.

Brother Casey will succeed Brother Michael S. Segvich, who is currently completing his second three-year term as principal.

OL budget passed

By Rich Techman

Oak Lawn police, fire and public works account for about $24 million of the $53,575,804 1995 village budget recently approved by a 5-1 vote by the village board.

Only Trustee Robert Streit voted against a budget that showed less than a one percent increase from 1994 because he argued the budget could have been trimmed even further.

Water, sewer, refuse disposal services amount to about $16.5 million and the remaining $13.4 million will be used for capital improvements, debt services, pensions and special projects including an enjanced 911 system according to a village newsbrief.

Total revenues include 36 percent in sales taxes and 23 percent in property taxes while total expenditures include 26 percent for police and 23 percent for fire protection.

Brandt building on 95th and 51st avenue has been there for years. For those who can invision a future in Oak Lawn may want to see changes in structure for 95th street businesses., but not necessarily when it means putting up another apartment building.

Beautiful condo units would be welcomed for it would pay the revenue needed for Oak Lawn in the way of tax dollars; plus give the stability of the neighborhood that the residents need in Oak Lawn.

According to the Star Newspaper. March 30, issue, Mr. Welcome of the Illinois Development Finance Authority stated, "his agency has yet to receive a request from the village or its developer, Matanky Realty Group, for multi-family housing bonds.

It is well noted that there is a referendum on the ballot for April 4th election regarding the proposal for the Brandt apartments.

Surely the taxpapers cannot be stupid and over look this voting procedure. We can make a difference as long as we realize that the betterment of Oak Lawn is at stake.

We surely need something there instead of empty stores but apartments are not necessarily the answer.

As stated in the past, we need to look at other villages and seek out answers. LaGrange is a prime example of what can take place for businesses. It was just within the last 10 years that the businesses have revamp their downtown look. They too were spouting vacancies.

Answers are there and they are free. No one knows more than this writer how flattering it could be when someone asks the question, how?

95th street business is importment to me for a very selfish reason but not so selfish that I would risk my voting rights by not voting.

The recent video of one of the canidates does not draw a conclusive picture of what could happen along 95th if apartments went up in that location.

The video implied that deteriated buildings, left abandoned would happen in Oak Lawn. When the truth of the matter is that Oak Lawn residents and apartment dwellers do not do this. We have a sound community except for our small businesses.

Mr. Streit's video did do some good and that is to remind us that we must vote the apartments out and keep anopen mind for future building.

My concern has always been better business in Oak Lawn. The reason as I said is purely selfish, for I lived in Oak Lawn for 24 years and pay taxes in Oak Lawn.

I do not have school age children, but I know as a substitute teacher in Evergreen Park and Alsip that the enrollment is going up each year and overcrowding is taking place in classroom again.

We do need more revenue in Oak Lawn, so let us ask for answers from our candidates and if they have not proven themselves or do not have the answer you are looking for , well you know what to do.

Oak Lawn resident named Brother Rice national merit finalist

Brother Rice High School senior Michael Stancik of Oak Lawn has been named a finalist in the 1995 National Merit Scholarship program. Stancik is one of 14,000 high school seniors chosen nationwide who will vie for 6,700 scholarships worth more than $26 million to be awarded in April and May. Stancik is the only finalist among all-boys schools in Chicago.

He is ranked first in his class and is a member of the sectional champion Brother Rice swim team and the 1994 state champion water polo team.

The National Merit Scholarship competition is a privately-financed, not-for-profit corporation whose scholarships are supported by about 600 sponsor companies organizations and institutions each year.

More than 1 million juniors in more than 19,000 U.S. high schools took the 1993 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/ National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. The he highest scorers in each state were designated semifinalists in the 1995 National Merit Scholarship program.

March 14 village board meeting for Oak Lawn

by Rick Techman

Before 50 Oak Lawn voters and taxpayers, Mayor Ernie Kolb ended the March 14 village board meeting abruptly when several concerned residents began asking questions of the board without a spot on the agenda for citizen input.

Residents expressed concerned over the handling of the Brandt project and other local government services.

A proposed six story municipal apartment complex near city hall, the Brandt project is supported by a majority of the board but allegedly lacking citizen consent.

When the mayor and village board appeared willing to give the taxpayers a little board time but were not able to adequately respond to the citizens, Trustee Streit spoke briefly on their behalf to help the board understand the voter's concerns.

Kolb adjourned the meeting as it became stormy when citizens could not get satisfactory answers on the lack of public education and consent for the project before municipal election day April 4 and clear taxpayer expenses for the project.

Village Manager Joseph Faber, responding to Streit and the voters present, explained that the Brandt project received board support because it was planned out at length between business and local government and seems to be a genuine upgrade for the village.

During the meeting Trustee Ron Stancik identified Springfield state legislators as singularly responsible for supporting local public schools this year and in the years to come.

He said, "There should be no excuse for education funding in Illinois. The legislators," he continued, "know what to do."

"It's just a matter of doing party has it all."

Critics of the mayor received a loud round of applause during the question and answer period after the meeting.

Following the close of the meeting an anonymous resident exclaimed, "we need some independent voices."

Hidden Taxes

(NAPS)—Where can you find hidden taxes in America? Under bridges. Lying on the road. Lurking in airports and seeping out of sewers. These hidden taxes take the form of higher personal costs, lost productivity, high costs to communities and a lower quality of life, all created by bad infrastructure.

It will cost this country $137.1 billion to meet federal sewage treatment requirements by 2002.

The American Society of Civil Engineers calls this "taxes that keep on taxing." Bad roads, the engineers say, cost each driver over $100 a year in wasted fuel, added tire wear and extra repairs. Gridlock costs taxpayers nearly $40 billion annually. Every third bridge needs major repairs.

Many people ask their legislators to tap into the money already in trust funds to make needed repairs; to privatize maintenance where possible and to invest in our infrastructure before costs rise even more. Concerned citizens should write Congress at the U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510 and the House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

Letter to the editor

The Keating/Barth/Rogers/ families won a battle with the help of Friends of the Prairie. We are cautious about it..still battling for openness in government, as well as salvaging percious little remaining open space, and here is why..

Back to June '93, officials denied there was a plan to build in our lovely Prairie and condemn property. However, residents got calls and visits about selling their land, surveyors appeared in our yards claiming they were "on City business". We told Alderman Foy and Mayor Klein who voiced concern.

How do residents benefit from 11 houses being stuffed into a proposed housing development when surrounding areas have 6 on similar ground? Burbank officials seem unmoved by mounting concern and research from Friends of the Prairie on issues of US Army wetland status or density issues like these. Unwittingly, they took a baseball bat to a beehive.

Curiously, we got a call depicting a very puzzling scenario that was recently corroborated. The proposed Luna Development includes land formerly owned by the Busenbark. The Busenbark family confirmed they offered the lots to the City of Burbank for free if used as a park a few years ago. The City declined the offer. Would these wetlands and rar Prairie plants be a natural Burbank Prairie Preserve today with City or Park District Planning and vision? We're baffled as to why area neighbors within 300 feet were not notified of the Busenbark gesture? A housing devopment is not a public project such as a library, nature preserve, police station, firehouse or park.

Burbank's future will benefit if officials encourage invilvement by resident like Friends of the Prairie. We care about our future and deserve say-so. We want our children to lead our future with sound ethics, and learn from examples which avoid even the appearance of conflict of interest--no matter how legal or righteous the circumstances.

No doubt, what's going on is quite legal. The media covers stories with a legal twist all the time. Example: It's quite legal for someone to tell senior homeowners they're getting too old to take care of their years. "Hmmmm....it looks as though your garage/ porch or foundation don't appear sound. Your property could be subject to condemnation." That may be quite legal, but how many of us get a tug in our heart or twitch in our gut after hearing it?

We, the People of Burbank, have the right to negotiate for what we support with a fair and reasonable chance at winning.. and want to be able to boast that top notch fiduciary conduct dominates our suburb at all levels and at all times. We feel these are reasonable demands for our fine community. Do you believe that 10% of the people can make a 90% difference? Friends of the Prairie/Open Space believes it and we're attracting new belivers who are also registered voters.

The proposed Luna development will be presented by petitioner Cathy Cainkar on Tues. April 4th at a 7:30 p.m. public hearing in Burbank.

Alert to women regarding social security information

Social Security District Manager in Evergreen Park provides information regarding women needs and to get the most out of their Social Security protection.

Women are more likely to qualify for benefits on the basis of their husband's earnings than men are to qualify for benefits on their wife's earnings.

If you chose to be a homemaker, you are covered under Social Security through your husband's work. When the family income is reduced because of his retirement, death or disability, you may qualify for Social Security Benefits at age 62, at any age if you have minor children in your care receiving benefits, or as early as age 60 as a widow, or from age 50-59 as a disabled widow. However, if you divorce after less than ten years of marriage, you may have to earn your own Social Security protecton.

If you chose a career outside the home-about 60 percent of all women do -you earn Social Security protection of your own for yourself and your family.

If you alternate between a career and homemaking, you need to be aware that you can maintain your full Social Security protection with a little attention. Any Social Security credits you earn remain on your record, and after ten years of work in which you have earned the maximum of four credits benefits. But for disability benefits, you also need to have recent work. For example, if you are over 30, you need the maximum amount of credits for file out of the last ten years (20 credits). Younger workers need less, as little as six credits for a year and a half of work under age 24.

If you qualify for benefits both as a spouse and as a worker, you get the higher of the two. That is, you get your own benefit plus the difference between the two. Whether to take a benefit on your own earnings or a spouse's benefit may be more complicated than that, however. For example, if you take a widow's benefit at the earliest possible age, age 60, it is reduced to 71.5 percent of the workers's benefit. But if you take it at age 65, you get 100 percent of the decease worker's benefit.

The important thing is that you recognize the need to stay on top of your Social Security protection.

The number is 1-800-772-1213.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Cookies the microwave way

Bar cookies are a time saver when baked in the microwave oven. Grease the dish, or line bottom with paper towel, but do not flour as a layer will bake on the bottom.

Individual cookies take about as long to bake in the microwave as in the conventional oven when making a large batch. If dough is kept in the refrigerator and a few fresh cookies are baked, then time and energy can be saved. Use wax paper as a "cookie sheet."

Fudge Nut Bars
1/3 cup shortening
1 cup (6oz.) semi-sweet chocolate chips
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup sugar
2 egg
1/2 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup pecans or walnuts, chopped

1) Combine shortening and chocolate in a 11/2 quart casserole. Microwave on high 30 to 40 seconds; stir until ingredients are just melted and smooth. (Mixture should not be hot; cool if necessary.) Stir in vanilla and sugar.

2.)Add eggs one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Stir in remaining ingredients and spread in greased 8-inch square glass baking pan.

3.)Microwave on 50% power for 10 to 12 minutes; then microwave on high for 2 to 3 minutes to finish baking. Cool on flat surface.

Yield: 24 bars

Brownies
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups brownie mix (recipe below)
2/3 cup nuts, chopped

1.)Combine all ingredients and blend together thoroughly. Pour batter in a greased 8 inch square dish.

2.)Microwave on 50% power for 7 minutes; then microwave on high for 3 to 4 minutes to finish baking brownies. Do not overbake. Let cool, covered with waxed paper, in pan on a flat surface. Delicious served with ice cream or frosted.

Yield: 16 bars

Hint: to prevent dry, overbaked corners in bars, (or foods cooked in square or oblong utensils,) use an aluminum foil "shield" over the corners during the first 1/3 to 1/2 of the baking time. This should be done only in ovens which allow limited amount of foil usage.

Brownie Mix
6 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
4 teaspoons salt
8 cups sugar
2 1/2 cups cocoa
2 cups shortening

1. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Mix together the sugar and cocoa.

2. In a large pan, mix together thoroghly the two mixtures of dry ingredients.

3. Cut the shortening into the dry ingredients. Store mix in an air tight container in the cupboard.

When ready to use, dip and level amount needed. Do not sift.

CHOCOLATE PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

1 package Chocolate Almond Snack 'n Cake
1/2 cup peanut butter (chunky is good)
3 tablespoons water
1 egg, slightly beaten

1. In mixing bowl, combine all ingredients until thoroughly mixed.

2. Roll into 1-inch balls and place in ring on waxed paper; flatten slightly.

3. Microwave 12 cookies at a time on 50% power for 4 to 5 minutes. Repeat with remaining dough.

Yield: 3 dozen

In successive bakings, time may have to be decreased because of heat build up in microwave oven. If baking less than 12 cookies, remember to decrease time accordingly.

Celebrity brunch benefits the aged

The Chicago Fund on Aging and Disability will sponsor an auction and reception for "Meals-On-Wheels" Celebrity Chef Brunch at the James R. Thompson Center, 100 W. Randolph, Sunday, April 23, beginning at 10:30 a.m. Forty-eight of the country's top chefs are joining together and sharing their talents for a reception and brunch to benefit this worthwhile organization.

The reception features the cuisine of Bossa Nova, Chef Larry Glazer; The Eccentric, Chef Jody Denton; Frontera Grill & Topolobampo, Chef Rick Bayless; Heaven on Seven, Chef Jimmy Bannos; Motorola Food Works Chef Bruce Evans; Skychef's International, Chef Gunther Kron; and Westin Hotel Chicago, Chef Johann Lustenberger.

The silent auction offers an opportunity to bid on fabulous trips, dinners prepared in your home by top name chefs, merchandise and services. There are extraordinary buys on gourmet foods, rare wines, theater outings, hotel packages, autographed cookbooks, cooking classes and much, much more.

This year's "Meals-On-Wheels" Celebrity Chef Brunch is honored by special guest, world-renowned chef, Paul Bocuse.

The Chicago Fund on Aging and Disability is a not-for-profit organization that raises money to supplement limited government funds for critical meal programs and other services for the homebound elderly and people with disabilities. Since its inception, The Chicago Fund's top priority has been to assist Chicago's Home-Delivered Meals Program, which furnishes nutritious meals to more than 4,000 homebound persons. The "Holiday Meals-On-Wheels program has enabled nearly 200,000 meals to be delivered on six major holidays throughout the year. In addition, the Chicago Fund supports home-delivered meals for seniors and persons with disabilities following a hospital stay or during emergency situations.

Operating costs for this event are underwritten by corporate contributions, which enable 100% of the ticket proceeds to be used to provide the services offered by The Chicago Fund on Aging and Disability. Consequently, if you would like to stay for the brunch, tickets must be purchased in advance for $135 per person from The Chicago fund on Aging and Disability, 510 N. Peshtigo Ct. #3A, Chicago, Il 60611 or by calling 312 744-2120. Some brunch recipes follow.

Filling:
1/2 pound washed and trimmed rhubarb, cut into 1 inch pieces
1/4 C water
1/4 C sugar
1/2 vanilla bean, split and scraped

Simmer together over low heat until rhubarb has broken down. Remove from heat, discard the vanilla bean and set aside.

Heat oven to 350. In a small bowl, mix together flour, baking powder and salt and set aside. Whip butter and sugar until fluffy; whip in egg yolks. Stir flour mixture into butter mixture. Form into two balls, wrap each in plastic film and freeze for 30 minutes. Grate a 1 inch layer of dough into a 10 by 12 baking dish. Spread rhubarb filling over the dough. Grate a 1 inch topping of dough over the filling. Bake until golden brown, about 40 min. Remove from oven and immediately dust heavily with powdered sugar. Cool. Cut. Serve with cinnamon-sweetened whipped cream.

Shortbread:
2 C butter
4 egg yolks
2 C sugar
4 C all-purpose flour
2 tsp baking powder
2 pinches salt

Chicken & Shrimp Rolls with Spicy Peanut Sauce
Serves 6

Spring Rolls:
1 3-oz. chicken breast
1/4 oz onion, chopped fine
1/2 oz garlic, chopped fine
2 chives, chopped
2 eggs
Salt & Pepper to taste
6 shrimp (16-20 per pound) peeled, tail on 6 spring-roll wrappers
1 quart vegetable oil.

Chop chicken breast in food processor. Mix with onion, garlic and chives. Add one egg and blend. Season and set aside. Beat remaining egg; set aside. Separate spring-roll skins and place equal amounts of chicken mixture on each sheet in a strip to the left of center. Place one shrimp to the right of chicken mixture, letting tail stick out of right end. Brush edges of dough with egg mixture and roll egg-roll style with tail sticking out. Heat oil and fry until golden brown.

Peanut Sauce:
1 C creamy peanut butter
1/4 tsp red chili pepper
1 tsp soy sauce
1 tsp honey
2 tsp 7 Up or Sprite

Bring ingredients to a boil in sauce pan, stirring until smooth.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Young chef measures his success through kitchen

by Anita Anderson

Imagination can best describe Chef Ron Blazek's menu at his intimate restaurant, RELISH, located at 2044 North Halsted St., in Chicago for the past three years.

The eatery is the culmination of a dream of Blazek. He served as executive chief at the well known Gordon in Chicago for two years and to enter the lofty discriminating kitchen portals of Gordan's, a chef must have more than imagination.

Blazek is a graduate in economics from the University of Michigan. He enrolled in the culinary arts program at Johnson and Wales College in Providence, Rhode Island and trained at Le-Petite France in Richmond, VA. He spent eight months traveling in France and other European countries. He also worked at Cafe Royal in Dallas, Texas for three years.

At RELISH, Blazek's mother, Dorothy, who commutes from their home in Michigan, handles the bookkeeping with verve and vitality while her son, more reserved manages the kitchen and the changing of the RELISH menu every five weeks.

Blazek tests his staff to make sure they are as familiar with the menu with its many spices and taste sensations of the dishes. Our server, Ellyn, who by the way, is also an aspiring actress, announced the day's selections with flair.

Blazek said he leans toward dishes like Tandoori Duck because of the many taste's of the dish. "I prefer the hot and coldness of the dish along with the many spices and the duck's crispness," Blazek said. It's on the menu for $14.95 and served with lentels and yogurt and orange, cucumber coleslaw.

All desserts and ice creams are made on the premises and what comes out of the kitchen could display at an art gallery. Relish features a revolving art gallery on its walls as local artists offer their work for sale.

Prices at RELISH are reasonable. Roast Pork Loin Chop with asiago mashed potato cake and garlicky spinach is $13.95; charred rib eye steak with creamy wild mushroom risotto and a red wine sauce is $16.95, while grilled salmon and leek with spicy voodoo sauce served with a crisp shrimp spring roll $15.95. This was my choice and was and can only be described as great gourmet food at a good price.

The chef tends to serve his meat and fish on the rare side so the server will ask you how you prefer your food. In my case, it was medium done on the meat and well done on the fish

Blazek's soups are worth a taste as was the homemade black bean soup with cumin and chipotle pepper puree and the corn and red pepper chowder with potato and fried celery.

Blazek also offers greens and grain dishes. Specialty side orders like scalloped potatoes with Gruyere cheese for $3.25 or roasted peppers with a shallot and fresh thyme vinaigrette, peppery green and greek olives for $5.75.

The decor of the restaurant is artsy because of all the available work on the walls, great music drifting through the place with live entertainment often, andthe general ambiance which dates back to 1865 when the building was erected. In warm weather you can drink and dine in a garden patio.

Call (312) 868-9034 for reservations.

Blazek by the way, is one of the featured chef's from Chicago who will take part in the prestigious fund raiser April 23 for the Chicago Fund on Aging and Disability "Meals on Wheels" Celebrity Chef brunch at the State of Illinois Building on West Randolph Street.

He will prepare Wild-Mushroom Strudel with Arugula Pesto.

Chocolate Banana Bread Pudding

Serves 12

Ingredients:

8 cups dried day-old bread (cubed 1/2 inch)
8 bananas (sliced)
1 cup sugar
8 whole eggs
12 egg yolks
2 tbs. vanilla extract
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. nutmeg
l cup heavy cream
7 ozs. whole milk
3 ozs. Frangelico
1 cup chopped bittersweet chocolate

In mixing bowl, whip together sugar, whole eggs and egg yolks. Add in vanilla, cinnamon and nutmeg. In cooking pot, bring milk and cream to a boil and temper into egg mixture.

Mix together Frangelico, bananas and cubes of bread with egg mixture. Place mixture in terrine mold or souffle pan and bake a 350 degrees until set in middle, about 30-40 minutes. Sprinkle chocolate on bread pudding and cook for about two minutes.

Slice bread pudding while still warm, drizzle with Frangelico and serve with vanilla ice cream.

Tomato Basil Soup

Vegetable Stock: Coarse chop and place in stock pot with water up to the top of the vegetables. Bring to boil. Strain. Fill with water to top of the now cooked vegetables. Bring to boil. Strain.

For Stock:

3 carrots
2 onions
1 bunch of celery
1 head fennel
l Jalapeno
l green pepper

Tomatoes:
Core 10 tomatoes and coarse chop. Add vegetable stock and bring to boil. Turn down heat and simmer for two hours, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat, add 4 bunches of fresh basil blended in blender and strain through food mill or sieve. Season with salt and pepper to taste.

At this point the soup can be served as a broth or can be clarified and serve as a consomme. To clarify the soup it must first be completely cooled.

Raft:
15 egg whites

Grind following in meat grinder:
2 chicken breasts
1 1/2 ribs celery
1/2 chopped onion

Add whites and meat mixture to cold soup and bring up to a simmer, stirring every five minutes untiol the raft forms. Simmer--Do not boil for 1 hour. Remove raft carefully and strain consomme through cheese cloth.

Wild-Mushroom Strudel with Arugula Pesto

Serves 4

Filling:

1 tablespoon butter
2 tbls. shallots, chopped
1/2 clove garlic
1 tbls. sun-dried tomatoes
1/2 tsp. each, chopped: basil, thyme, parsley, rosemary
Salt and pepper to taste
7 ounces each: shitake mushrooms, oyster mushrooms, lobster mushrooms, button mushrooms, portobello mushrooms

In butter, saute shallots, tomatoes, garlic, and half of each herb for 2 minutes. Add mushrooms and saute at high heat 3-4 minutes. Season to taste. Set aside, reserving remaining herbs for assembly. Allow to cool.

Arugula Pesto:

6 ounces arugula
1 ounce pine nuts, toasted
1 ounce parmesan cheese
6-7 ounces olive oil
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
In a blender, process all of the above. Set aside.

Chef Blazek

Assembly

4 tbs. butter, melted
Herbs remaining from filling
3 sheets phyllo

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Lay 1 sheet phyllo on flat surface, brush with butter, and sprinkle with herbs. Layer remaining sheets, repeating each step. Place mushrooms on phyllo and roll into a log; pinch the ends. Brush with butter and place in freezer for 5 minutes. Bake at 400 degrees until golden brown.

NEWS FOR YOUTH

Alcohol And You

(NAPS)—If you're like many teens, you have a natural curiosity about alcohol. Here are a few facts from the American Council on Alcoholism, Inc. that may help.

1. "Everybody" is not doing it. A surprisingly small number of teenagers actually drink very much. Fewer than five percent drink daily.

2. Just because you're young doesn't mean you can't have a drinking problem. Some people discover they're alcoholics with the first drink. Even teenagers who are not alcoholics may drink to excess.

3. If someone who is supposed to drive you home has had too much to drink, don't go with them. Get someone sober to take you home; or call a friend, a family member or a taxi to get you both home safely. Before you go out, determine with your parents what to do in this situation.

Free Booklet

You can learn more from a free booklet, "The Most Frequently Asked Questions About Teenage Drinking and Their Answers!" For a copy, write the American Council on Alcoholism, Inc., 2522 St. Paul St., Baltimore, MD 21218; or call 1-800-527-5344.

Enrollment highest in school's history

Chicago, St. Xavier University has reached record levels of spring enrollment with 2900 new and returning undergraduate students who are registered to 26,392 credit hours-the largest spring enrollment in the history of the university.

The number of graduate and undergraduate students on the main campus has continued to climb steadily. "This spring semester the University has surpassed budget expectations by more than five percent," said Mary Hendry, Vice President of Enrollment Management at St. Xavier University.

Maintaining a high level of enrollment, however, is not new to St. Xavier. According to the Illinois Board of Higher Education, St. Xavier University ranks third in the State of Illinois for enrollment growth over the past decade. The university is noted for exceptional traditional age student growth in a period when other institutions are experiencing declines for that age group.

St. Xavier's strong spring number are also a result of the University's national award-winning retention excellence programs. According to Steven Murphy, Vice President of Student Life Services for the University, the fall '94 to spring'95 retention rates is 91 percent, an impressive sixteen percentage points over the average national retention rate.

In addition, Joan Ehren, Director of the Career and Personal Development Center, was nationally recognized with the Outstanding Freshman Advocate Award Ehren was the only recipient selected for the honor in the states contiguous to Illinois and one of only eleven recipients in the nation.

"Our main focus is to ensure the total success of our students," said Murphy. "In recent years the University has greatly strengthened its counseling, advising, career planning, and tutoring services. We have added facitlties and programs that create new opportunities for student involvement. Coupled with our quality education programs, I believe these are the reasons why our student stay at St. Xavier to finalize their education."

These record levels of enrollment are testimony to the strength of our institution," said Dr. Richard Yanikoski, President of St. Xavier University. "Planning for the physical expansion of our main campus to meet those growing needs will be one of our main challenges

St. Xavier University, 3700 West 103rd St., Chicago, was founded in 1846 by the Sisters of Mercy. Chartered by the State of Illinois in 1847 with the power to grant academic degrees, it ranks among the first of Illinois' colleges and universities. Today, the University is a coeducational, multi-generational, and international institution serving over4,100 students in 35 majors and 27 graduate options.

In additon to its main Chicago Campus on the city's southwest side, the University operates an Orland Park Center, and two campuses in Europe-Paris, France and Milan,

STEP session

The Southside Pregnancy Center, located at 5450 W. 95th St. in Oak Lawn, will be offering a six week class on Systematic Training for Effective parenting (S.T.E.P.) beginning at 6:30 p.m., Monday, April 10, 1995. There is a commitment to attend all six classes. Created for parents of children, infant through age five, these early childhood STEP sessions will deal with basic skills of the "hows" and "ways" of parenting. Stages of social and emotional growth and a look at your own expectations as a parent for yourself and your child will be discussed. Along with how to deal with problem behavior and building self-esteem these sessions will aid in skills to approach parenthood with confidence and experience the joy of parenting.

The fee $30 per couple, with a special fee of only $10 for those parenting along. A handbook will be available for a small fee.

Opposition to legislative change

President Thomas S. Fuller, Left, and Vice President Kathleen Therese Meany, of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago, point to a map that shows the service area of the District. The commissioners called a press conference to announce their opposition to any legislative effort to change the method by which commissioners are elected to the District.

Several bills have been introduced in the Illinois State Senate and the Illinois House of Representatives in Springfield, to change the election of the commissioners to single member districts within Cook County, or a board that would be appointed by the Mayor of Chicago and the Governor of Illinois and several other bills that would be disservice to the voters of Cook County. These legislative actons are only being taken by Republican member of the House of Represetative and the Senate.

Get Your Money Back

(NAPS)—Imagine getting a percent of the take, every time you buy something. That's a deal more than 40 million people are enjoying just by using a credit card.

They do so through the Cashback bonus feature of the Discover Card. Cardmembers get back up to one percent of what they charge on the card on qualified purchases. The money earned can be taken as a check, deposited into a Discover money market savers account or donated to the Make a Wish Foundation which provides special gifts and outings to seriously ill children. Cardmembers have earned more than $500 million since the program began in 1986.

Pay Less Interest

The Discover Card also features several ways to reduce the amount of interest you pay.

• The interest rate varies so that people with good credit who use the card often enjoy a better rate.

• When eligible Cardmembers transfer an outstanding balance from another credit card to their Discover account they are charged a lower annual percentage rate for a specified time on the transferred balance. As balances can be transferred from as many accounts as you like and in any amount—up to a Cardmember's line of credit—it's a way to not only save on interest but to consolidate debt.

Using the right credit card can mean more money in your pocket.

• Interest-free cash advances are available through ATMS, participating stores and financial institutions and by writing Discover Card checks. They stay interest-free as long as the account balance is paid in full each month. There is a small transaction fee.

Many Americans may not be aware that the Discover Card is the largest single issuer of general purpose credit cards, with over 40 million cardmembers. With the unique Cashback feature plus the special interest rates, no annual fee and acceptance at millions of merchants the reasons for the card's popularity are apparent. For more information or to apply for a Discover Card call 800-DISCOVER.

What people say behind your back is your standing in the community in which you live.

SERVING OAK LAWN AND SURROUNDING SUBURBS

New development on Brandt controversy

by: Frank Soczek

Perhaps it was the post-election euphoria of victory; possibly it was the presence of a group of high school students participating in a class project; or maybe it was the return of Trustee Marjorie Joy's tiny ceramic angel serving as sentinel and sergeant-at-arms—but a fragile and tenuous calm prevailed at the Oak Lawn Village Board meeting April 11.

In a festive atmosphere filled with fresh flowers, multi-colored balloons and ebullient smiles, Trustees Cyril Holesha (District 1,) Robert Streit (District 3) and Marjorie Ann Joy (District 5) were sworn into office by Judge George Morrissey. Following a brief introduction of the newly elected trustees' families, friends and supporters, the minutes of the March 28 meeting were approved and the forum followed a brief printed agenda.

Two subjects were voted on following the Village Attorney's report: An ordinance approving an expansion of a special use (4440 W. 95th St., Christ Hospital) won unanimous approval. This issue involved a height variation request by the hospital which was not specifically required due to current Village codes allowing hospital use up to 85 feet.

An ordinance amending the zoning of Park District property for residential use was passed 4-2, with trustees Joy and Streit dissenting.

At the request of trustee Holesha, a motion to open bids for bituminous patching mixture and stone aggregate materials during the current meeting as opposed to the regularly scheduled date of April 25 was unanimously approved due to the vagaries of our Spring weather.

A contract for street lighting in the amount of three hundred four thousand dollars was awarded to L&S Construction with unanimous approval from the board. The latter bid was seventeen percent below the village engineer's estimate.

The approval of semi-monthly village disbursements in excess of one million dollars was approved by a 5 to 1 vote, with Robt. Streit dissenting. Streit requested a copy of the invoice involving a two thousand dollar expenditure to the Daily Southtown newspaper.

A resolution in support of House Bill 2205, lowering the illegal blood alcohol concentration from .10 to .08 was passed unanimously by the board. The latter bill has been endorsed by the Illinois Association of Police Chiefs.

Among the new business topics discussed by the board, C. Holesha presented a request by Rutledge Buick to erect a tent on their property for a two week period during the latter half of April; unanimous approval was granted.

Citing overwhelming voter support, Robt. Streit requested the controversial Brandt Proposal be withdrawn. "I hope the board will respect the will of the people." Streit remarked, suggesting in its place the creation of an "historic district" similar to those in Tinley Park, Lemont and other suburbs.

Referring to the designation of Minnick Avenue as "the most historic village street" by a Park District publication, Streit elaborated briefly on his hopes for historic signs, lighting and landscaping to preserve the distinctive character of the area. Streit further proposed a brief moratorium on the issuance of multi-family building permits on the 9500 to 9600 block of Minnick while the suggestion is studied.

Village Attorney Lucansky suggested that a specific time frame be considered for the proposal, expressing legal concerns about the open-ended aspect of the initial suggestion. A three month period was agreed upon by most of the board.

Trustee Ron Stancik expressed his concern over the potential violation of rights of current property owners who might stand to lose future rights to the use their property should a multi-family construction ban be enacted. Stancik suggested a sign-off petition be circulated to all residents involved in the potential re-zoning.

"We'll sign right now!" cried several voices from the audience, forcing the mayor's gavel to sound for the first time.

Trustee Keane intoned "Simply because the Park District labels something "historic" doesn't hold weight....I don't believe we can just make an area an historic district." Noting the often complex State and Federal requirements for a historic classification, Keane challenged Streit to "Do your homework and come in with specifics..."

Trustee Walsh also expressed concern with the historic district suggestion, stating "We're mixing apples and oranges; rezoning and creating an historic district is a long, complicated process." Considerations such as the restricted use of property and other limitations require investigation and Walsh suggested the Village Attorney prepare an opinion on the matter. The board then approved the three month moratorium by a five to one vote, with Keane dissenting.

Relating his own efforts in the area of historic preservation, Trustee Ron Stancik intimated his frustrations involving the Cook School restoration and the bureaucratic obstacles that ensued. Commending a "Voice of alternative as opposed to negative" Stancik "extended a hand of friendship" to Streit in a gracious gesture of reconciliation.

As the meeting concluded, Mayor Kolb recognized a request by local homeowner and businessman Roger Benson to address the board. Benson decried the lack of opportunity for citizens to discuss their concerns, urging the board to "Think about ideas before shooting them down." The mayor countered Benson's charge by noting the repetitive nature of many of the issues in question.

Benson then demanded an answer to a question he posed on January 10th—"Will you tell me Brandt is dead?" Mayor Kolb again reiterated that a meeting was scheduled for June, and for the time being, the proposal was in "limbo."

Park Library

Kennedy Park, located at 11320 S. Western Ave., is proud to announce the opening of its New Lending Library.

This will be a welcome and additional recreational service, to members of the surrounding community.

This original idea, along with the first contributions of many books, comes from Robert Workman who has offered much as a library volunteer in the past.

There will be reading material for people of all ages, but more donations of books in good condition will be greatfully accepted

If you can help, please drop off any contributions at Kennedy Park Field House.

The Proper Role For Affirmative Action

"Affirmative action" is not-so-suddenly becoming a major topic of discussion.

Affirmative action is like religion or education. A good thing, but it can be abused.

Affirmative action means opportunity and fairness. It does not mean quotas. It does not mean hiring unqualified people.

Some believe that affirmative action hurts minorities and women and those with disabilities, because when people secure jobs there will be some who say, "He (or she) only got that because of being a minority." Or a woman or being disabled. They believe that it is demeaning for people of ability.

The distinguished African American writer Shelby Steele properly suggests that we are troubled by "race fatigue" and "racial anxiety." He opposes affirmative action and wrongly - in my opinion - calls the opportunities that result "entitlements."

Affirmative action means opportunity and fairness. It does not mean quotas or hiring unqualified people.

No one is entitled to a job or an opportunity because of race or gender or ethnic background.

I accept the idea that diversity in our society needs encouragement and is good for us.

If, for example, someone employs 500 people — and they all happen to be white males — it still may not be possible to prove discrimination. One answer for that situation is to go through the lengthy legal process of proving discrimination.

A better answer is affirmative action, where that employer understands that his business should not compromise quality, but opportunity should be given to those who don't fall into the usual personnel pattern.

Employing people on the basis of ability is just good business, and affirmative action encourages good business.

My office is an example. If I were to hire everyone from Chicago or from Southern Illinois, the people of Illinois would regard that as strange. I look for diversity in geography, and it does not compromise quality. I don't lower my standards when I choose to hire someone from central Illinois.

In the same way, I have conscious made sure that in my employ there are African Americans, Latinos, Asian Americans and people with disabilities. Anyone who knows my office operation knows that we have not compromised quality to do this.

Has this harmed the people of Illinois? To the contrary, it has helped them and it has helped me.

To move away from affirmative action, back to a situation where discrimination has to be proven to bring about change, invites clogging the courts with endless litigation, and denying opportunity to many.

A federal judge in Texas ruled that the University of Texas law school can set a general goal (not a rigid quota) of admitting 10 percent Mexican Americans and 5 percent African Americans, but if the school lowers its standards to reach those goals, that is unconstitutional.

That strikes many legal scholars as sound.

Interestingly, if that same school gives preference for admission to children of alumni — who are overwhelmingly white — no one objects to that. But if steps are taken to diversify the student body, some of the same alumni object.

Complicating all of this is the fact that many Americans are out of work. The opportunity for people of limited skills to have a job is declining, and will continue to decline.

The person in that situation rarely says, "I'm not working because I don't have the skills that are needed."

It is often easier to say, "I don't have a job because a black [or a woman or a white or someone else] got the job I should have."

And so tensions rise.

The answer is not to get rid of affirmative action, but to work on jobs programs for those of limited skills, expand education opportunities for all, and increase efforts to give training (including reading and writing) to those who are unemployed.

We should diversify opportunity, and at the same time see that everyone has the basic tools to function effectively.

Letters

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to formally and publicly congratulate my opponent, Mr. Cy Holesha, on his reelection as District One Trustee of Oak Lawn, I wish Mr. Holesha every success during his upcoming term of service on the Oak Lawn Village Board.

I would also like to express my sincere gratitude to the many individuals who supported me during my campaign for election. Without their assistance, my bid for election would not have received the notice which it did. I thank these great people for each and every vote which I received.

It is with great loyalty and in a spirit of service to the people of Oak Lawn that I pledge to retain an active and vocal role in my district and in the village of Oak Lawn. There were many issues addressed during the recent campaign, and although the election results have long since been tabulated, these issues remain of paramount importance to other citizens of Oak Lawn. It is my fervent hope that Mr. Holesha will address these issues in a manner which will best serve the people.

As I have done throughout my campaign, I invite and encourage communication from my neighbors, the residents of Oak Lawn's First District. Together we can make our voice heard in village government, and together we can make a difference in our community, and bring about change which will benefit our residents.

Most sincerely,
(signed) Jerry Vahl

Hockey players receive awards

The St. Laurence hockey team concluded another successful season recently as several Viking skaters were recognized for outstanding individual performances during the year.

Oak Lawn resident Labuda, a forward, and a graduate of Simmons Junior High in Oak Lawn, tied for 6th in league scoring with Butler scoring 15 goals and adding 15 assists for a total of 30 points.

Junior Matt Kaczorowski (St Michael-Orland Park) and sophomore Kevin Staudt, (Simmons-Oak Lawn) both defensemen, were named to the Chicago Catholic League All-Star Team as honorable mention candidates.

"These players have much to be proud of," commented St. Laurence coach Tom Kurzawski, who was chosen by league coaches as the Tony Lawless Award winner as the outstanding coach in the league for the 1994-95 season. "Their dedication, outstanding play, and teamwork brought them some outstanding individual accomplishments which our team also benefitted greatly," he said.

The Lawless Award garnered by Kurzauski marks the 5th time he has been recognized as the league's outstanding coach.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Skinny grilling rakes high fat recipes

According to Barbara Grunes, of Glencoe and a cookbook author, "Grilling typically takes cooking out of the kitchen and into the fresh spring, summer or fall air.

The change of scenery helps the meal take on the flavor of a celebration," she added.

The author said eveybody enjoys the flair of grilling as the food sizzles, flashes and the aromas tease with the good flavored food that is to come.

Grunes who has written more than 35 cookbooks offers her "Skinny Grilling: over 100 easy inventive ways to cook food outdoor at a readsonable $11.95.

One chapter explains direct and indirect grilling, and identifies seven types of grills and their uses. It also defines various types of fuels, proper cooking temperatures--even grilling accessories like screen and electric starters.

The other nine chapters are arranged by category: appetizers, vegetables, seafood, poultry, meats, smoked foods, desserts--even "wok grilling."

Skinny Grilling, the thirteenth volume in Surrey Books "Skinny" series, features new techniques the enable outdoor chefs to use every coal to cook a delicious and low fat meal from appetizer to dessert--on the grill. For Grunes, "skinny grilling" means healthy grilling, and to ensure that each dish is low-fat, all recipes include complete nutritional information and follow American Heart Association guidelines of 30% or fewer calories from fat.

"Traditionally, American grilling has consisted of throwing fatty chunks of meat on the grill, maybe ladling on some high-sodium barbecue sauce, and then serving it with a charred baked potato smothered in butter and sour cream," says Grunes. "My goal was to refute this high-sodum, high-fat tradion without disparaging high taste."

Grunes accomplishes her goal with easy, low-fat saucing and marinading ideas like "brushing" where foods are gently brushed with fruit and vegetable salsas rather than soaked in them, and "dusting," which uses dried vegetables (i.e., sun-dried tomatoes, dried shitake and porcini mushrooms that are literally pureed into a powder or "dust," then mixed with reduced fat chicken stock or dissolved bouillon, and used to baste meats with a low-fat, high flavor marinade. These techniques are spotlighted in recipes like "Grilled Quesadillas with Papaya Salsa," Smoked Turkey with Sun-Dried Tomato Dust," and Smoked Southwest Back Ribs with Refried Beans."

Other high-taste, low-fat barbecuing techniques include: grilling Kabobs on heb skewers, and placing delicate foods on "beds" of sliced fruits or vegetables, as Grunes' recipe for "Sole Grilled on Orange Slices with Orange Mustard Sauce" demonstra

Grunes also relieve on "aromatic smoking," a technique that adds deep flavor and aroma to fish, turkey, chicken, and ham by using water-soaked lilac branches, plum wood, grapevines and applewood that has been dried out and them placed over hot coals to add extra flavor without fat. "Aromitc" recipes include "Greek Chicken Grilled Over Smoked Grape Vines" and Apple-Raisin Stuffed Chicken Thighs"

She will appear at Mity Nice Grill in Water Tower Place from noon to 2:00 p.m. on Thursday, April 20 on the Mezzanine Level.

Chill out with cookies and ice cream

When the temperature climbs, a frosty dessert offers welcome relief. And ice cream and cookies tops the list of the most popular chilly treats.

This proverbial summertime favorite can be as simple as a dish of ice cream accompanied by a favorite cookie. Or, you can take a walk on the wold side and duplicate cookie 'n' cream creations befitting an ice cream parlor in your own kitchen.

The two most critical ingredients are, of course, the cookie and the ice cream. First the cookie. Should it be chewy or crisp, oaty or chocolatey, peanutty or cooconutty, plain or chock-full of chips? The answer is any of the above. They're all delicious. Now, the ice cream. Choose the flavor to complement the cookie and any other ingredients such as sauces and toppings. Whether you opt for ice cream or frozen yogurt, be sure to buy top quality and keep solidly frozen until you're ready to scoop.

To provide inspiration, the Quaker Oatmeal Kitchens have created two incredibly delicious cookie and ice cream concoctions that are real attention-getters.

Colossal Brownie Ice Cream Sandwich is so big it needs to be cut into wedges and eaten with a fork. The cookie part of this sweet treat is two giant fudgy brownies

Colossal Brownie Ice Cream Sandwich

TOPPING:

- 1/3 Cup Quaker oats (qucik or old fashioned, uncooked)
- 3 tbs. all-purpose flour
- 2 tbs. firmly packed brown sugar
- 1/3 cup peanut butter
- 1 tbs. margarine or butter

BROWNIE LAYERS:

- 1 cup (6 ozs.) semisweet chocolate pieces*
- 1/1 cup (1 stick) margarine or butter
- 3/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 3/4 cup Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
- 1/2 tsp. baking powder
- 1/4 tsp. salt (optional)

FILLING:

One quart vanilla ice cream

Heat overn to 350 degrees fahrenheit. Line two 8 or 9 inch round cake pans with aluminum foil, allowing foil to extend over sides of pans. Spray with no-stick cooking spray or grease lightly. For topping, combine oats, flour and brown sugar; cu in peanut butter and margarine until muxture is crumbly and se aside.

For brownie layers, in medium saucepan over low heat, melt chocolate pieces and margarine, stirring frequently. Remove from heat; cool slightly. Stir in sugar and vanilla. Add eggs; mix well. Add combined flour, oats, baking powder and salt; mix well..

Rosemary Potato Wedges with Salsa

RED SALSA

- 1 red bell pepper, seeded, chopped
- 2 jalapeno peppers, carefully seeded, chopped
- 2 large tomatoes, seeded,chopped
- 1/2 cup minced red onion
- 1/4 cup chopped cilantro
- 3 tbsp. fresh lime juice
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1/4 tsp. salt

POTATOES

- 4 potatoes, about 5 ozs. each, scrubbed
- non-stick cooking spray
- 1 tbsp. crumbled rosemary
- 1/2 tsp. chilj powder

Red Salsa: Toss all ingredients in bowl. Taste and adjust seasonings. Cover salsa and refregerate until ready to serve. Potatoes: Partially cook potatoes in lightly salted water over medium heat until almost fork tender. Drain. When potatoes are cool enough to handle, cut into quarters lengthwise. Spray potatoes lightly with olive-oil-flavored non-stick cooking spray.

Mix rosemary and chili powder together. Rub potato wedges with seasonings.

Spray grill rack and place it on grid over ashen-hop-coals. Grill potato wedges, turning as necessary, until potatoes are crusty and cooked through.

To serve, put potatoes on individual plates, and pass salsa to spoon over them.

IOF reaches milestone

An abandoned mother selling blood to feed her baby is provided from childcare and emotional support. A 13 year old on the brink of suicide is helped by a teen hotline. Immigrants trying to break the cycle of child abuse ingrained in their culture begin a better parenting program.

These are just three examples of grants from the IOF Foresters Prevention of Child Abuse Fund at work. The fund, a public charity offering grants to fight child abuse, reached a milestone--over $1 million worth of grants donated in the United States.

Since its inception in 1975, $2 million overall has been donated in the United States. Canada and United Kingdom. Past grants have supported a variety of programs including hotlines, helplines, public awareness campaigns, parent aid programs, shelter and crises nurseries.

In conjunction with the National Child Abuse Prevention Month of April, IOF Forester' Court #1076 is participating in IOF Child Abuse Awareness Week April 16-27.

Contributions to the fund are received from individual members of the IOF Foresters, a Fraternal Benefit Society with well over oneillion members. As well as the general public and organized fund-raising events.

To request grant information or to offer a donation, call the IOF Foresters Better Parenting Info Line, at 1-800-922-4-IOF, or write Shirley Carlson, Secretary, IOF Forester Prevention of Child Abuse Fund, P>O> Box 919029, San Diego, CA. 92191.

More Good News On Silicone Breast Implants

New Scottish Study Finds No Links To Cancer Or Other Diseases

(NAPS)—A nine-year study of Scottish women with silicone breast implants has failed to find that they had any excess risk of cancer or other diseases. The study, which was announced recently in London, is the fifth long-term study in the last six months that has failed to find any link between silicone breast implants and any of the diseases they are alledged to cause.

A number of studies have found no link between silicone implants and either cancer or connective tissue diseases.

The research team, headed by Dr. Anthony Watson of St. John's Hospital in Edinburgh, compared the health of 319 women who had received silicone breast implants between 1982 and 1991 with a matched group of 291 healthy women of comparable age without implants. Approximately two-thirds of the women with implants received them for reconstructive purposes following mastectomy for breast cancer, the remainder for cosmetic purposes.

In 1992 the U.S. Food and Drug Administration banned the use of silicone gel breast implants for cosmetic purposes because of allegations that they might cause connective tissue diseases (CTD), such as rheumatoid arthritis, and cancer. Therefore, both groups of women in the Scottish study underwent thorough physical examinations for any evidence of cancer or CTD. In addition, blood samples were taken and screened for a variety of factors that might indicate the presence of CTD.

The results found no increased risk of either cancer or CTD among the women with breast implants when compared with the control group. In fact, no woman in either group had a clearly defined case of connective tissue disease, based on medical criteria developed by the American College of Rheumatology.

According to Dr. Watson, "These findings, together with recent research from North America...fail to prove any link between implants and connective tissue disease and cancer.

"This is very reassuring for patients. Our evidence shows they have nothing to worry about," he stated.

Despite the U.S. ban, silicone gel breast implants are still available in Britain for both cosmetic and reconstructive purposes. "There has never been any proof (that silicone implants cause disease). It was all blown out of proportion by some American women and lawyers," Dr. Watson said.

Dr. Watson added that he hoped the results of his study, together with other recent ones, would encourage countries that were considering banning silicone implants to think again. "We are able to reassure women who have had implants that they are at no greater risk of developing disease than they would have been had they not had them."

Other recent studies that have failed to find a link between silicone gel breast implants and disease were conducted at the Mayo Clinic, the University of Michigan, Harvard University, and a multicenter study involving the medical schools of the University of Maryland, University of Pittsburgh and the University of California at San Diego.

Little Company offers innovative cancer treatment

Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Center has acquired now technology that offers selected cancer patients the latest development in radiation therapy treatments. The first patient was treated in mid-March in the Hosptial's Radiation Oncology Department.

The Nulcetron MicroSelectron High Dose Rate afterloader (HDR) provides a type of radiation therapy known as brachytherapy. This means the radiation is placed next to or directly inside the tumor. "The therapy expands our radiation improvements in both their quality and quantity of life," said Dr. S.J. Shirazi, Director of Little Company's Regional Cancer Center.

"Typically with the HDR, the patient, under local anesthetic, has a catheter/applicator inserted into or next to the tumor. The radiation oncologist will then select the most appropriate treatment plan from one of several prepared by the medical physicist. While observing the patient on a closed-circuit monitor from outside the treatment room, the radiation oncologist initiates the treatment," explained Dr. Shirazi.

At this point, a radioactive source about the size of a grain of rice is precisely moved through the applicator delivering the radiation to a specific area. As soon as the desired dose is given, the source is removed. The treatment is completely computer controlled and closely monitored by the radiation oncologist and the medical physicist. Upon completion of the treatment, the applicator is removed and soon thereafter, with proper instructions, the patient is allowed to go home.

"There are several benefits in using the HDR afterloader for brachytherapy procedures. Because the radiation is precisely directed to the tumor, the radiation exposure of healthy tissue is greatly reduced. This allows some patients to receive higher doses of radiation than would be possible with external radiation alone. This has proven to be more effective in the treatment of some types of cancer. In most instances, the actual treatment takes less than 15 minutes. The procedures are performed on an outpatient basis. It is more cost-efffective and can be less disruptive to the patient's daily routine. A final benefit is that radiation exposure to medical personnel is significantly reduced," said Dr. Shirazi.

This form of treatment is currently being utilized to treat several types of cancer, including lung, esophagus, pancreas, prostate, cervix, uterus, breasts and brain. It can be used alone or in combination with other radiation treatment techniques, to treat not only the primary site of the cancer, but also symptons that sometimes occur as a result of cancerous involvement.

Nurses Are Essential, Studies Show

(NAPS)—If you or someone you care about will be the one American in seven who, it's estimated, is admitted to a hospital this year, there are a few facts you should know.

Hospitals are changing in the way they operate, the way care is delivered and the way their employees are utilized. More than 650 of the nation's hospitals—over ten percent—were involved in mergers or acquisitions in 1994 alone. Healthcare services are being moved into outpatient settings or consolidated as hospitals merge and close. That means people who are admitted to hospitals today tend to be sicker than hospital patients of just a few years ago.

Often, these changes result in nurse layoffs, lower staffing or a changed staff mix that can compromise the safety and quality of patient care. In many cases, licensed professional registered nurses are replaced by lower paid, lesser-skilled assistants, many of whom may have received only days or weeks of on-the-job training. They are asked to perform complicated nursing duties that may be beyond their expertise.

All this means that in many hospitals, there are smaller numbers of nurses providing more sophisticated care to larger numbers of sicker patients while overseeing the work of lesser-skilled employees. This can create great risk for patients.

Research shows that the higher the qualification of the hospital nursing staff, the better the quality of care and the lower the mortality and complication rates, and the lower the costs.

As the American Nurses Association (ANA) explains, the main reason people are in the hospital these days is to receive nursing care.

Doctors, too, support the increased use of registered nurses, so that quality of care can be assured. Says one, "Every member of the care team has to be as educated as possible. Nursing assistants do not have the same educational background as nurses, who have from two to four years of educational background that concentrate on assessment skills and the biologic sciences. You can't make a blanket statement that, to cut costs, nursing assistants can do the same kinds of things nurses do, because they can't."

To help prospective patients find out if a hospital has enough nurses, the ANA created a booklet, Every Patient Deserves A Nurse.

Hospital holds fair

Little Company of Mary Hospital in Evergreen Park will hold a preventive health care fair on April 22 from 8:00 a.m. to noon at St. Bernadette Quonset Hut, 339 South Francisco.

The adult Health Fair offers free screenings, height and weight, blood oxygen levels (oximetry), and blood pressure testing. Free Colon-rectal cancer detection kits will be available for participants to take home.

A blood test is also available at the Adult Health Fair for a minimal charge of $30. This blood chemistry test can detect kidney and liver disorders, diabetes and gout. The test also determines cholesterol levels in the blood. Those people having this test should not eat for 12 hours prior to the test and should drink only water, black coffee or clear tea. However, diabetics should not fast, and should take their insulin. Anyone taking prescribed medication should continue to take it as directed.

No pre-registration is required. For further information, please call the Health Promotion Services Department at Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers, at (708-422-6200 ext. 5830 or 5831.

Preventing Exercise Injuries

Facts from The American College of Emergency Physicians

(NAPS)—Whether you're just getting back into exercising or you already have a fitness routine, you should know how to prevent injuries associated with exercising.

The American College of Emergency Physicians offers the following tips for exercise safety.

Exercise Tips

1) Warm up! "Warming up is the most important thing you can do for yourself," says Helene Connolly, MD, FACEP, an emergency physician in Chicago. "A good 5-10 minute warm up brings the body's temperature up and makes you less prone to injury."

2) Maintain your exercise regimen. "Don't overdo it. Be sure to exercise at a level that you feel comfortable. Talk to your doctor before you begin any new exercise routines," says Dr. Connolly.

3) After exercising be sure to "cool down." This is just as important as warming up to keep muscles from being injured.

If you think you've suffered a serious injury, consult your doctor immediately.

Treating Injuries

1) If you should sprain a muscle, follow the RICE treatment:

R—Rest the involved extremity from any strenuous activity for the first 48 hours.

I—Ice the injury for 15-20 minutes, six times daily for the first 48 hours.

C—Compression bandages should be applied well above and below the injury site.

E—Elevate the extremity to 45 degrees to reduce swelling.

You should also use an antiinflammatory drug such as ibuprofen to control pain and inflammation.

2) How do you know if you need an X-ray? "There is no hard and fast rule," says Dr. Connolly, "but if you cannot bear weight on the extremity an X-ray would be wise."

3) What are shin splints and how do you treat them? "Shin splints are tiny tears of the ligament between the two bones of the shin. These are stress injuries and require rest from activity to heal," says Dr. Connolly.

Remember, if you think you've suffered a serious injury, consult your doctor immediately.

Exercise is an important part of a healthy lifestyle. Follow the tips for exercise safety.

D'Itching Hayfever

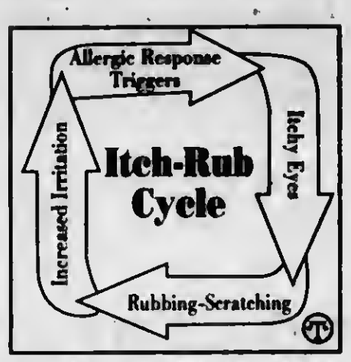
Most people associate runny noses and watery eyes with hayfever season. But what about itchy eyes? Seasonal allergic conjunctivitis—the ocular component of hayfever—affects more than 15 million Americans who suffer from hayfever each year. However, many sufferers fail to recognize their itchy eyes as a symptom of hayfever. Instead, they blame their contact lenses, too much computer work, or even a lack of sleep. This often leads to improper treatment.

"When your eyes itch, the natural response is to rub. But rubbing actually exacerbates itchiness by stimulating the release of prostaglandins, chemicals that trigger itching. This Itch-Rub cycle can result in seriously inflamed, painful eyes," explains Michael Raizman, M.D., assistant professor of ophthalmology at Tufts University School of Medicine, Boston. "Prompt treatment of itch with a topical medication can prevent the Itch-Rub cycle from turning simple seasonal allergic conjunctivitis into a more serious problem."

If you suffer from seasonal allergic conjunctivitis, here are tips to help reduce your ocular allergy symptoms:

• Avoid wearing contact lenses at the height of the hayfever season. Contact lenses can exacerbate reactions by trapping allergens close to the surface of the eye.

• Wash your face and hair regularly during pollen season (spring and fall in most parts of the country); pollen often clings to skin and hair and is easily transferred to the eyes.



Left untreated, seasonal allergic conjunctivitis leads to the Itch-Rub cycle, which can disrupt work, sleep and daily activities.

• Wear glasses or goggles to help protect your eyes when mowing the lawn, exercising and performing other outdoor activities.

• During pollen season, refrain from drying sheets, pillow cases and clothes outdoors, where pollen can accumulate on them.

• Ask your doctor about medications that specifically treat your ocular symptoms. Topical treatments provide fast-acting relief, and don't have the potential for side effects that can result from systemic medications. One medication, Acular®, is a nonsteroid anti-inflammatory drug (NSAID) indicated specifically to stop ocular itch.

If you think that you may suffer from seasonal allergic conjunctivitis, see your physician for a diagnosis and an appropriate treatment plan.

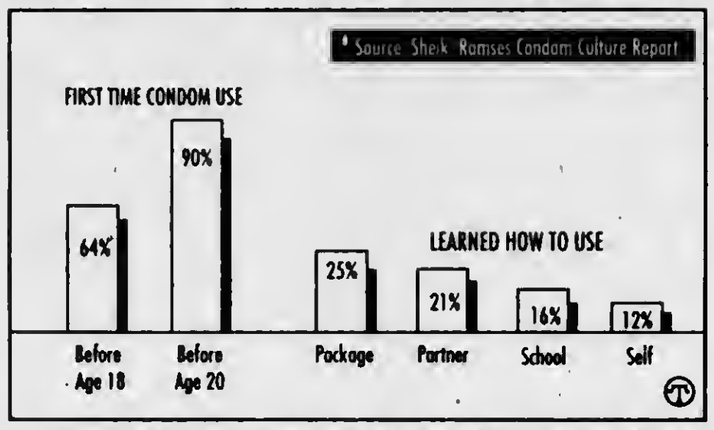
Behavioral Survey Yields Surprising Results



How often do young people use a condom? A new survey found that 45 percent of the respondents use one 100 percent of the time.

(NAPS)—The findings of a recent survey offer a revealing glimpse of the lifestyles of young Americans age 18 to 34 who use condoms. The 1995 Sheik/Ramses Condom Culture Report was conducted in each of five major U.S. cities: Atlanta, Chicago, Dallas, Los Angeles and New York. Here are some of the findings:

• Nearly two-thirds (64 percent) of respondents reported first using a condom before the age of 18. Some 90 percent of respondents used their first condom before age 20. These trends were consistent across all survey markets.

• The respondents learned how to use a condom from the package (25 percent), sex partners (21 percent), school (16 percent) and self teaching (14 percent).

• Chicagoans are most prepared, with 70 percent reporting that they usually carry two or more condoms with them. Dallas respondents (43 percent) and adults 25 to 29 (31 percent) are the least prepared by carrying no condoms.

• When asked "how many people do you date in an average month," more than half (55 percent) of respondents said "one." But 45 percent date two or more people in an average month.

• There are also dramatic differences in the frequency with which people have sex. One-third (35 percent) of the sample have sex fewer than five times per month. Forty percent have sex between five and 14 times per month. Twenty-four percent have sex more than 15 times per month.

• In terms of health and nutrition focus, condom users are moderately healthy. One-fourth of respondents agreed that they make a special effort to watch what they eat. But 36 percent said they "eat what they like."

Alternative Treatment For Herniated Discs

Chemonucleolysis has been shown to be as effective and safer than surgery in many cases of leg pain (sciatica) that are caused by a herniated disc.

(NAPS)—A thirty-year-old treatment for slipped discs, a condition doctors call herniated lumbar intervertebral disc, is receiving new attention from physicians and people with leg pain caused by a herniated or slipped disc.

The treatment, called chemonucleolysis, involves injecting a natural enzyme called chymopapain—marketed by Boots Pharmaceuticals—into the center of the herniated disc. The enzyme, which comes from the latex of the papaya plant, breaks down and partially liquifies the jelly-like material in the inner part of the disc. The disc's ability to absorb water is greatly reduced and pressure on the nerve root that is causing the pain is relieved.

A number of studies have been done on this treatment and their results show it's as effective as and safer than surgery over the short- and long-term. In a one-year follow up study published in the international medical journal "Spine," patients who received the chemonucleolysis treatment had an overall success rate of 66 percent while those who had a procedure called automated percutaneous lumbar discectomy had a success rate of only 37 percent.

Chemonucleolysis treatment of sciatica has also been shown to be cost effective in the short-term and most importantly in the long-term as it does not contribute to "failed back surgery syndrome."

A toll-free number has been set up by the International Intradiscal Therapy Society (1-800-426-4868) for patients and physicians in the U.S. and Canada who want to learn more about chemonucleolysis and about who are the most likely candidates for this treatment.

Keep Your Children "Medicine Safe"

(NAPS)—Medicine and poison.

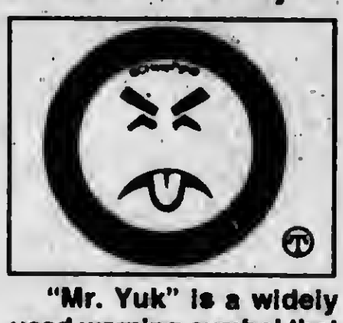
Most people never think of one in connection with the other. But more than 1,000,000 children under the age of six accidentally poison themselves every year when they swallow prescription or non-prescription medicines that aren't intended for them.

Modern medicines have an important place in most people's lives, so it's essential that precautions are taken to protect children against accidental misuse.

Edward P. Krenzelok, Pharm. D., director of the Pittsburgh Poison Center at Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh, offers these common-sense tips:

• Store all medicines out of children's reach. High shelves or locked cabinets are best. "Ideally, that means moving medicines out of the traditional bathroom medicine cabinet, which typically can't be locked and can be reached by a climbing child," says Dr. Krenzelok.

• Avoid taking medicines in front of children.



"Mr. Yuk" is a widely used warning symbol that can be used to teach children to stay away from household medicines.

"But because they sometimes will see you," Dr. Krenzelok adds, "explain that they should never take medicine unless you give it to them."

• Read and heed manufacturers' warning labels on prescription and nonprescription medicines. Then take a look at your medicines from the perspective of a child who can't read—does the package make a medicine look like food or candy?

• Samples of non-prescription medicines may be delivered in your mail. Always check your mailbox as quickly as possible for medicines that might be attractive to children.

• Be careful never to leave medicines where children might find them—on a bedside table, for example, or in a purse or briefcase.

• Keep syrup of ipecac in your home. It may be used to induce vomiting in some poisoning emergencies. "But it should only be used when recommended by your doctor or your local poison information center," Dr. Krenzelok cautions.

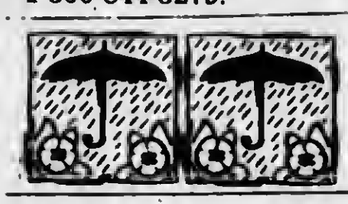
Free Medicine Safety Kit Available

The Pittsburgh Poison Center, which developed the popular Mr. Yuk national education program for children, has worked with Procter & Gamble, maker of the Vicks family of cough/cold/flu/allergy medicines and Aleve, a nonprescription pain reliever, to develop a "Household Medicines and Child Safety" information kit to help parents protect children from accidents involving medicine.

The information kit includes a parent's guide, activity book and checklist to help parents teach their children about medicine safety. These items introduce children to Mr. Yuk, a poison warning symbol that means, "No! Stay away! Ask an adult first!"

The package also lists emergency telephones of more than 40 certified regional poison information centers, and it includes Mr. Yuk stickers than can be used to keep the number of the nearest center handy for emergencies—on your telephone or in your phone book or wallet.

For a free copy of the "Household Medicine and Child Safety" package, call Procter & Gamble at 1-800-844-3279.



atrician and put on the skin one to two hours prior to the procedure at the hospital or at home. Once EMLA is applied, it is covered with an airtight bandage, numbing the skin and reducing the pain of needles. In some patients, temporary blanching or redness of the skin appears; however, this resolves itself in a few hours.

Successful Psychology

Answers To Distraction

(NAPS)—Do you or any member of your family have difficulty because of the following tendencies?

• You can't seem to get organized.

• You can't stop procrastinating.

• You can't sit still.

• You can't pay attention or finish what you've started.

Millions of children and adults are discovering that saying yes to any of the above symptoms, does not mean they lack discipline.

It does mean that they may suffer from Attention Deficit Disorder or ADD, an inborn neurological condition that can cause persistent problems at school, at work and in close relationships.

Now the authors of Driven to Distraction, their best selling study of ADD, present a new book providing information for the approximately 15 million Americans whose lives are complicated and whose self-esteem is threatened by ADD.

In Answers to Distraction, (Pantheon Books, $21) Drs. Hallowell and Ratey respond to questions their enormous and expanding audience has most often asked.

Answers to Distraction*, a new book about Attention Deficit Disorder, offers proven aids to simplify and improve the lives of those coping with ADD.

The result is a user's guide to ADD presented in a question and answer format that's ideal for even the most distractable reader.

Each chapter covers a specific element of ADD, enabling readers to quickly find the aspect of ADD that most interests them, such as ADD and women, ADD and aggression or ADD and work.

Questions range from the rudimentary—What is the best definition of ADD?—to the more advanced—What are the advantages and disadvantages of using long acting drugs like Ritalin?

The authors provide information for teachers on recognizing ADD and helping students cope with it, and in a special section, give easy-to-understand explanations for children and adolescents who have ADD.

Also included is a section of simple effective ways to make life with ADD less complicated, including 50 tips on the management of adult ADD and 25 tips on the nonmedication treatment of ADD.

The new book is available at bookstores everywhere or by calling, 1-800-793-BOOK.

Pointers For Parents

Helping Children With Pain

(NAPS)—No one likes to feel pain...especially children. In a national quest to manage pain in children, hospitals and community organizations are working together to conduct a "Hurt Alert," a day devoted to educational activities on pain and pain management.

Did you know that the best way to measure pain is to ask the child how much he or she hurts? Children under four years of age can often tell us that they are hurting. However, they cannot say how much pain they feel.

Children over four years of age can often say how they feel by using the Poker Chip method. Children are asked to say how many "pieces of hurt" they feel. One chip is "just a little hurt." The second chip is a "little more hurt." The third chip is "more hurt." The fourth chip is "the most hurt you can have."

Any time a needle pierces the skin, such as when children receive a shot or a blood test, pain results. A cream called EMLA® (lidocaine 2.5% and prilocaine 2.5%) is available in the U.S. for patients over one month old. It can be prescribed by your child's pedi-

HEPATITIS ALERT

Is It Possible To Have Hepatitis And Not Know It?

(NAPS)—Most people are shocked when they learn from their doctor or a blood bank that they have or have had hepatitis B or C, diseases which can lead to cirrhosis, permanent scarring of the liver.

"Forty percent of the people diagnosed with these viral infections have no history of exposure and don't know how they acquired them," says Thelma King Thiel, Chairman of the Hepatitis Foundation International. Unfortunately, the liver, a non-complaining organ doesn't give any warning it's in trouble until the damage is far advanced.

Hepatitis B and C can be acquired by sharing razors, toothbrushes, nail files and needles used by an infected person. Hepatitis B is frequently sexually transmitted and is 100 times easier to catch than AIDS.

A vaccine for hepatitis B can protect you from unsuspected exposure. Ask your doctor to check you for hepatitis B and C and to test your liver function.

Call the Hepatitis Foundation International at 1-800-891-0707.

SEPARATING? DIVORCING?

Your Divorce Lawyer Doesn't Want You To Read This Report

The average person is rarely placed in greater jeopardy-emotionally, financially, and legally than when going through a divorce. The reality of divorce courts is that most litigants leave the courtroom feeling as if they have just been hit by a truck! Even the appraent winner rarely feels good with the outcome.

Divorce Law attempts to fit one of the most painful of adult choices into a legal framework. Some people expect their lawyers to be confessors or even to provide psychological couseling. Others never give their lawyers a chance, regarding them as the enemy when they attempt to compromise with the other side. There are clients who are in such a hurry to conclude their divorce that they waive anything and everything to which they might have a claim.

If you want to avoid the horror stories; if your goal in divorce is a level of self-control, decorum, and reasonableness; if you appreciate your marriage is ending but your parenting will continue; if you don't want to go broke paying legal fees, then call 1-800-294-7311 for the free report.

You do have choices! You can avoid the costly trap of litigation and the problems associated with it! You can take control fo your divorce!

Bids- redevelopments-appointments were on the agenda for Oak Lawn board

by Frank Soczek

Following a moment of silence in remembrance of the Oklahoma bombing victims, as well as the thirty three Oak Lawn residents who perished during the tornado of April, 1967 the Oak Lawn Village board conducted swearing-in ceremonies of two fire fighters. Edward Folliard was promoted to the rank of Fire Engineer and Scott Ralston entered the ranks as Fire fighter.

Mary Fritz of Outdoor Expressions gave a brief presentation on some of the proposed features of the Village Green project that have been voted on and approved by the Quality Control committee.

This preliminary phase of the redevelopment of the town center will use distinctive "streetscape" design elements for lights, benches, signs, trash receptacles and other public accoutrements creating a unique and singular architectural image. Trustee Walsh noted this project is a cooperative effort of the Park District, Library, Village Board and various Veterans organizations.

Featuring a gazebo and war memorial in a park-like setting in the area now occupied by the village hall, this multi-use area would be the site of music festivals, art fairs and other special events sponsored by the Village.

Bids were opened for several vehicles required by the Village. Two 1995 Dump Trucks with snow plows and spreaders (g.w. 15,000 lbs) received five bids, ranging from $38,336.00 from Haggerty Pontiac in Oak Lawn to $43,933.50 from Northwest Ford Trucks in Franklin Park.

Seven bids were received for a 1995 Dump Truck (g.w. 35,000 lbs.) ranging from $51,422.05 from La Bow of Kankakee to $55,690.00 from Light GMC in Alsip.

Seven bids for Bituminous Surface Removal were received, ranging from $86,175.00 from Central Black Top in LaGrange to $57,450. from Adcut Co., Bartlett. The bids were accepted for review, and recommendations would be made at the next scheduled meeting.

The following consent agenda items were unanimously approved by the board: Pet. #M-95-4—Request for width and square footage variations at 9003 S. Parkside, Sandra Radomski, petitioner.
Pet. #M-95-5—Request for side yard variation at 9823 Marion, Ray Fiore, petitioner. Pet. #M95-7 Restaurant Request (Sunflower Cafe) at 6236 W. 95th St, Michelle O'Malley, petitioner and Sub. #95-10—Boyd's subdivision, 2 lots at the NE corner of 95th & Keeler Ave., Davis Boyd, petitioner.

Ord. #95-8-21—An ordinance vacating an alley (the East/West alley from Lamon to the first alley West of Cicero Ave, between 105th pl. and 106th St.

Also unanimously approved were: A resolution regarding custody of securities; a bid award for 1995 supply of bituminous patching mixture and stone; a request for two promotions in the Dept. of Public Works, Street division and renewal of leases at 5312-16 W. 95th Street.

Sub. #95-6, the Pembroke subdivision of two lots at 10621 S. Kostner was approved 4-2, with trustees Joy and Holesha dissenting; the Village Clerk's report on semi-monthly disbursements, as well as the waiver of fees for annual parish carnivals at St. Catherine of Alexandria and St. Louis De Montfort church were unanimously approved.

The Village President's report offering a resolution in support of a proposed traffic signal project at 97th and Pulaski Rd. (a joint effort by Oak Lawn and Evergreen Park, at no cost to Oak Lawn) won unanimous approval by the board.

The appointments of Joseph Faber and Diane Johnson for two year terms on the Police Pension Board were unanimously approved.

The Village Attroney's report amending the building code to provide for a 90 day moratorium on the issuance of building permits for the 9500 to 9600 block of Minnick Ave. was opposed by Trustee William Keane, who produced a letter from an attorney for several Minnick Ave. residents wishing to exercise their rights to utilize the present R-3 multi-family zoning.

Village Attorney Thomas Bayer expressed the opinion that the Minnick petitioners would no doubt prevail in a legal challenge to the proposed zoning, noting their request was duly filed prior to the enactment of the proposed moratorium.

Trustee Ron Stancik urged a house-to-house survey of the Minnick residents to determine the overall feeling toward the moratorium and proposed historic district classification. Responding to the hopes of Trustee Streit for preserving the "character of the neighborhood," Trustee Walsh inquired "How can we force a builder to make a building look nice?"

At this point, Mayor Kolb sensed the dilemma and offered to personally meet with the multi-family housing developers in the hope of reaching a Win-Win compromise earlier suggested by Ron Stancik.

Oak Lawn resident Barb Mikuta requested permission to address the board and berated Trustee Keane for what she felt was an "attack on her credibility." She expressed the concern that "block busting" was taking place in her neighborhood, relating threats that "the block will not be the same." She also noted a number of communities that achieved "historic" classification through the Illinois Historic Preservation Agency.

Of the "new business" discussed, Trustee Stancik noted a letter he received from Senator O'Malley on the subject of school funding; Trustee Joy announced a "Teen in Local Government" committee meeting and Trustee Keane noted an increased awareness of the Oak Lawn Family Services, which received fifteen requests for counseling following the publication of the Oak Lawn Clipping newsletter.

The following poem is dedicated to all Mothers for a very special day!

Mother's Day

When I was young I remember a song I had to learn in grammar school titled MOTHER.

M- IS FOR THE MILLION THINGS SHE GAVE ME.

O- MEANS ONLY THAT SHE 'S GETTING OLDER.

T- IS FOR THE TEARS SHE SHED TO SAVE ME.

H- IS FOR HER HEART OF PUREST GOLD.

E- IS FOR HER EYES THAT ARE EVER SHINNING.

R- MEANS RIGHT AND RIGHT SHE'LL ALWAYS BE.....

Put them all together, they spell Mother, a word that means the world to me!

Monday, May 1st, ROSE STELLA will be 80. Happy Birthday MOM. The following information is dedicated to you for your birthday.

MY MOTHER

REMEMBER when you brought me home from the hospital when I was born, I DO, you only told me a thousant times.

REMEMBER my first fight with the kids on the block, I DO, you told me I was wrong and to apologize.

REMEMBER the tree that got iinto my way the first time I rode a bike, I DO, you placed cold packs on my nose and said it would straighten out.

REMEMBER the hours of piano practise, recitals and lessons, I DO, you reminded me a 3 year old girl on Morris B. Sachs played better than I did!

REMEMBER the first date I had, I DO, you fixed me up with your brother's in law!

REMEMBER when I wanted go to boarding school, I DO, you said only bad girls go away to school and because I was so good I had to stay home.

REMEMBER when I didn't like school anymore and I couldn't decide to graduate, I DO, you said if I finished school that you would send me to any school I wanted.

REMEMBER when I wanted to go to College, I DO, you said why waste your money, you'll get married anyway!

REMEMBER when I got married, I DO, Beverly Woods was the elite place to have a reception, so we had an afternoon reception because you were paying for it.

REMEMBER when Michelle was only 6 months and we visted you in the hospital, I DO, you remarked she knew you better than me!

REMEMBER when Lance read JAWS at age 3, I DO, you gave him a book every week.

REMEMBER all the grandchildren's events we went to, I DO, I had to do the driving.

REMEMBER all the grandchildren that selected you to be their Confirmation sponsor (6), I DO, I wonder why!

REMEMBER all the graduations, etc. I DO, I reminded you that you made it for another year.

REMEMBER NOW that you just turned 80, I DO, you can continue to go to Bongo Johnny's as long as they keep calling you.

REMEMBER, ALSO, I STILL NEED YOU TO HELP WITH ADD FLYER DELIVERY SERVICE AND VILLAGE VIEW NEWSPAPER.GOD BLESS YOU ON YOUR 80TH BIRTHDAY AND FOREVER!

Love
Annette

P.S. Thanks to Rich at Aurello Pizza in Evergreen Park for a nice birthday party.

Pheasant Run out did their production with Fiddler on the Roof

Rockton Productions and Director, Diana L. Martinez, announced the opening of "FIDDLER ON THE ROOF" at the Pheasant Run Theatre. Promoting the theatre's largest ensemble of talented performers, "FIDDLER ON THE ROOF" will be Pheasant Run's biggest production to date.

This Tony Award winning musical brings to life the story of Tevye, a Jewish milkman, his wife Golde and their five unmarried daughters living in Czarist Russia during 1905. Based upon traditioal Jewish folklore, the universal appeal of "FIDDLER ON THE ROOF" stems from its timeless message of family, love and 'Tradition "

In an attempt to put her own personal stamp on "FIDDLER ON THE ROOF", director Diana L. Martinez departs from the traditional Jerome Robbins' staging of the musical in various areas of design and direction. Following Ms. Martinez's vision, choreographer Brenda Didier develops a unique variation of the "Little Chavela" ballet sequence and opening number for "Tradition." The creative team of lighting designer Richard Norwood, scenic artist Dean Cromwell and sound designer William T. Griffeth join forces to create the quaint atmosphere of the shtetl, Anatevka. Musical director Sean Patrick Hayes brings the music and voices of the people of Anatevka "To Life". Rounding out the production team is costume designer Matthew Guthier, who designed and constructed the neartly one hundred turn of the century garments worn by the people of Anateka.

"FIDDLER ON THE ROOF" will began weaving its timeless performances on April 7, 1995. Performance times are 7:00 p.m. on Thursdays and Firdays, 4:00 and 8:30 p.m. on Saturdays, and 1;00 and 5:45 p.m. on Sundays. Ticket prices start at $38 for dinner and show, $20 for show only. Ask about our Thursday Family Special and Smoke-Free Thursdays. Group discounts, overnight and weekend packages are also available.

For tickets, call (708) 584-MEGA or TicketMaster at (312)559-1212. For overnight or weekend packages, call (708) 584-6300.

Bridgeview responds to growing needs

By Rick Techman

A resolution creating the Combined Assistance Response Team (CART) with 15 other suburban fire departments and two ordinances supporting police and traffic improvements passed the Bridgeview Village Board April 19.

Village president John Oremus told the approximately 50 citizens in attendance and the village board that in a three to five mile radius around Bridgeview there are at least 10 different village fire departments and this duplication of service must stop.

The villlage board unanimously passed the CART proposal, tabled since the last meeting, to meet the growing needs of a combined fire protection district for the southwest suburbs.

The new suburban district will include 16 different fire departments and will save taxpayer dollars while improving 24 hour response times and fully mobilizing all fire fighting resources.

Also recognizing the needs of a growing police force, the village board voted 5-1 to increase the number of lieutenants on the Bridgeview police department to five from the present four.

Only trustee John Curry voted against the creation of a fifth position. The village board initiated the 9-1-1 system last year.

Finally, an east-west stop will be installed at the intersection of Octavia and 72nd St. to help regulate traffic flow. The motion carried unanimously.

The new village board was announced and will be sworn in at the May 3 meeting.

The fiscal year budget for May 1, 1995 to April 30, 1996 is available for public viewing at the village clerk's office during normal business hours.

Norma Jean's the place

Bob Sanfratello, former owner of Key Largo in Burbank, currently is part owner of Norma Jean's on 710 North Clark in Chicago.

Several singers including Samantha Harris who sings like the late Dinah Washington and the late and famous Billie Holiday entertained us at an opening night recently.

Norm Jean's is a medium size club decorated with pictures of Marilyn Monroe. The long narrow bar and tables where one can eat or drink leads to the dance floor and the music of The Kevin Dicosta Trio is supurb.

Jazz is the specialty of the Dicosta trio but they will play your favorite tune. On Thursdays starting May 4th at 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. Samantha Harris will be entertaining the patrons with her smooth, relaxed voice.

Spend some time after work, relax in a atmosphere of friendly people and enjoy the Piano Bar and Eatery of Norma Jean's at 710 N. Clark from 4:00 p.m. till 2:00 a.m.

The menu ranges from appetizers to sandwiches and chicken dinners. The kitchen closes at 1:00 a.m. Sunday is sihgles night at the club.

American Cancer Society South Cook office reorganizes Oak Lawn unit

The American Cancer Society South Cook area office recently announced the reorganization of its Oak Lawn Unit. A Board of directors for the unit was named and the group, in addition to planning many fund-raising activities, will meet quarterly at Christ Hospital and Medical Center.

Co-chairmen of the Oak Lawn unit's board are James Buschbach, owner of Buschbach Insurance, and Karen McGary, R.N., oncology protocol coordinator at Christ Hospital. President is Thomas Hoeltgen, M.D., an oncologist at Christ Hospital, Vice-chairman is Janis Sullivan of the Evergreen Bank Business Center. Secretary is Barbara Ralson, vice president and trust officer at Mr. Greenwood Bank.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide community-based volunteer health organization dedicated to preventing cancer and reducing its effects. The Oak Lawn Unit of the ACS is composed of volunteers working to increase the number of lives saved through prevention and early detection programs, as well as diminish the suffering from cancer through services and rehabilitation programs. There is no charge for the services and programs offered by the American Cancer Society.

The American Cancer Society Oak Lawn Unit offers area residents a variety of services, including information about cancer diagnosis and its treatment, guidance in seeking a second opinion through hospitals with cancer programs approved by the American College of Surgeons and help in locating resources to assist with financial problems.

The Oak Lawn Unit sponsors a number of fund-raisers and awareness programs that support the American Cancer Society. Upcoming events include a walk-a-thon on May 7th, free skin cancer screenings in May and a Cancer Survivor's Day ceremony on June 4th.

The American Cancer Society has reorganized its Oak Lawn Unit, which recently held its first meeting for 1995. Pictured are several of the unit's board officers and member. Seated, from left, Barbara Ralston, Mt. Women's business offers scholarships

People who are out of work and want to explore entrepreneurship instead of employment, may qualify for a scholarship to enroll in a unique course being offered in Chicago.

The Women's Business Development Center (WBDC) offers a 12-week series of workshops called The Jump Start Business Certificate Program. The course typically costs $400, but a limited number of scholarships are available to unemployed men and women who qualify. With a scholarship, a participant would only pay $40.

People who may qualify for a scholarship can attend an interview session on Thursday, May, 25, 3:00 to 6:00 p.m.; Thursday, June 1, 1:00 to 4:00 p.m; or Monday, June 5, 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. at the WBDC office, 8 S. Michigan Ave., Suitte 400, Chicago. Registration at (312) 853-3477 is required to participate in a screening session.

Sara Shifrin, director of Entrepreneurial Training Services, said the course is taught by successful business owners who share their hands-on experience and business training background. The program is co-sponsored by the Chicagoland Chamber of Commerce and DePaul University.

"People who complete the program will earn a Business Development Certificate and have the opportunity to write a business plan," Ms. Shifrin added.

The program consists of seven core classes and three elective workshops. Core workshops provide basic, comprehensive information about starting and sustaining a business, including some of the realities entrepreneurs face. Additonally, participants will analyze their business plans with a group of bankers.

Elective workshops are more specific and examine individual businesses and other pratical issues such as using computers and starting a home based business.

The Business Certificate Program begins Monday, June 12, 1995, and continues for 12 consecutive weeks. Classes are held at the Chicagoland Chamber of Commerce, One IBM Plaza, Chicago, from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. on Monday and Thrusday evenings. For more information, contact Sara Shifrin at (312) 853-3477, ext. 13.

Richards representatives collect awards

The faculty, staff, and administration of Harold L. Richard High School honor Lisa Reitz, Elizabeth Likarevic, and Jenny Lenkart as our students of the Week. Lisa, Elizbeth, and Jenny recently competed in the Area 6 competitive events of Business Professionals of America at Moraine Valley Community College and earned the right to compete in the state competition in March.

At the state competition Lisa earned first place in the Application/Interview A category, Elizabeth earn third place in the Computer Aided Graphics Category, and Jenny took fourth place in the Business Knowledge Skills Categroy. Because of their top finish, all three students qualified to compete in the national competition at the National Leadership Conference for Business Professionals of America in Nashville, Tennessee during the week of May 3rd through the 7th.

We congratulate Lisa Reitz, Elizabeth Likarevic, and Jenny Lenkart on their accomplishments and recognize them as outstanding representatives of Richards High School.

Burbank protesters still not happy

Protesters from Burbank Luna Street voiced their protests once again without property ownership rights. One person from another part of Burbank stated, you just can't fight Village politics.

The Cainkar Development has been under community protests since its 11 home subdivision request before the village board, but the development company, developer Cathy Cainkar has repeatedly addressed each problem, but not always to the liking of that of the residents on Luna Avenue.

The lastest issue is the resident whose property abuts a proposed housing development wants room for a parkway. Despite the 11 homes subdivision that is part of this development, the problem lies between the development company, the village board and the residents.

One resident stated that her property abuts the entrance to the subdivision and she was angry that her house was going to be on a street corner.

Diane Dominquez, a neighbor and member of the group Friends of the Prairie, said a parkway could be a danger to schoolchildren crossing the intersection. Opponents of the street placement said there was ample room on the lot next door to shift the street 11 feet to the east, giving Rogers more breathing room, as well as allowing a parkway.

City engineer Geary admitted the placement of the road wouldn't allow for a parkway, but he and other city officials said that the parkway and sidewalk on the other side of the street would provide adequate safety for pedestrians.

The Burbank City Council on Wednesday night unanimously approved the plans for an 11 home subdivison.

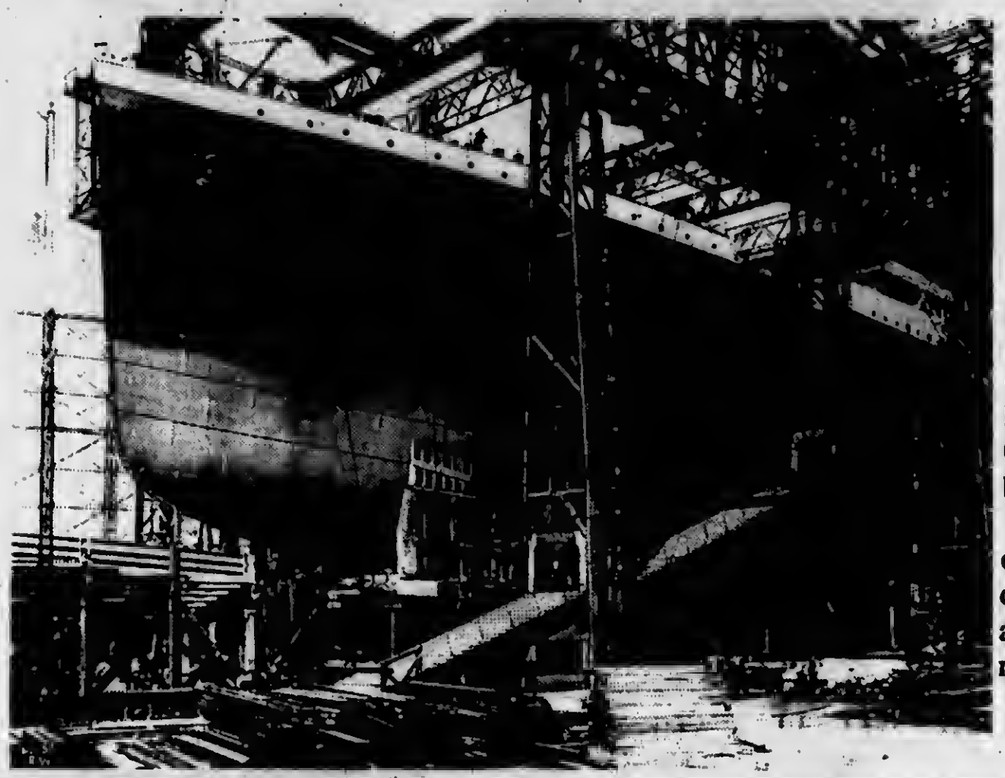
Museum of Science and Industry commemorates the 83th anniversary of the legendary wreck of the Titanic



The Museum of Science and Industry is proud to present a new evening Omnimax adventure, Titanica, a 94-minute, feature-lenght IMAX film, which takes audiences on a breathtaking voyage of discovery to the world's most famous shipwreck. "The Living Sea" continues to be shown in its regular daytime schedule at the Omnimax Theater through Octo ber 5.

Titanica will be shown in special Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening screenings at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. and Sunday evenings at 6:30 p.m.

Shot during the high-rish Canadian/American/Russian expedition to the shipwreck in 1991 by award-winning filmmaker Stephen Low, Titanica gives viewers an opportunity to experience the Titanic nearly life-size on the Museum's five-story Omnimax Screen. Low weaves a dramatic story of this modern-day expedition and the legendary Titanic, the symbol of an era. Startling, eerie images of the Titanic as she now lies on the ocean floor are contrasted with the exquisitely-preserved archival photographs of the ship in all its splendor, taken in 1912. Juxtaposed against the efforts of a team of geologists, biologists, engineers and explorers are the touching and eloquent comments of Eva Hart who, as a seven-year-old girl, survived that tragic night but lost her father.

In its day, the R.M.S. Titanic, the largest and most luxurious liner ever built, was described as unsinkable. On April 14, 1912, on its maiden voyage, it collided with an iceberg and sank; 1,502 people lost their lives.

Weekly showings of Titanica will be Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. and Sundays at 6:30 p.m. Tickets are priced at $10.00 for adults; $8.00 for seniors (65 and over) and Museum members; and $6.00 for children ages 5-12. Children under 5 are admitted free. Tickets can be purchased by phone from the Museum at (312) 684-1414 or Ticketmaster at (312) 559-1212, or in person at the Museum box office or at any Ticketmaster outlet.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Illinois beef cook-off winners announced

The 90's cook wants fast and easy recipes with a spicy, bold taste. That was evident in the 1995 Illinois Beef Cook-Off, sponsored by the Illinois Beef Council and the Illiois Cattle Women, which was held in Rockford recently.

For two consecutive contests, Diana Woodland of Chicago walked away with the winning recipe, $500 and a chance to be named one of the 15 finalists of the 1995 National Beef Cook-off. This year her first place recipe, Skewered Southwest Steak, is as simple as making a flavorful marinade, marinading the flank steak strips for 10 minutes, threading the steak on skewers and broiling for 2-4 minutes per side. By adding rice or a tortilla, a garden salad and some fruit for dessert, the meals complete.

Skewered Southwest Steak also offers flexibility in its preparation. If the cook is really in a rush, you can skip the skewers and place the meat directly under the boiler. Or you might decide to use the grill instead of the broiler. If you need to make an appetizer, just make 6-inch skewers instead of the suggested 12 inch.

Finishing in second place, Patricia Kiewiet of LaGrange, took advantage of many convenience-type of ingredients including, packaged salad mix and bottled dressing to make Grilled Steak Caesar Salad a winner. Kiewiet received $300. Fiesta Beef Potato Salad also has convenience in mind by using deli roast beef. It won third place and $200 for its creator Laura Trujillo of Oak Park.

Winning honorable mentions and $25 beef gift certificates were Mediterranean Beef Saute by Marie Sheppard of Chicago and Italian Peppered Patties with Polenta by Debbie Vanni of Libertyville.

For a free copy of the 1995 Illinois Beef Cook-Off receipes, please send a self-addressed business size envelope to the Illinois Beef Council, Department Cook-Off, 993 Clock Tower Dr., Springfield, Il. 62704.
